Roberts Sentenced To Die For Poisoning Grandchild

Judge Passes Sentence Immediately After 'Guilty As Charged' Verdict

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS SAY THEY WILL APPEAL CASE

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 10. (AP)—Houston Roberts was convicted today of poisoning his five-year-old grandchild to death for her insurance.

A circuit court jury deliberated one hour and 53 minutes before returning a verdict of "guilty as charged." He had been indicted for murder.

The verdict makes death in the electric chair mandatory.

Judge Harold Cox immediately sentenced the bearded former dairy herdsman to die on Friday, January 13. His attorneys said they would appeal.

Roberts was convicted of giving poison to five-year-old Mary Louise Hill, his daughter's child.

His attorney, Forrest B. Jackson, attempted to show during the two day trial that Roberts is not mentally sound. He introduced testimony from a psychologist that he is just a step above feeble-minded.

Hospital reports noted that Roberts was play-acting at being crazy.

Police Chief Joel Holden announced soon after Roberts' arrest that he had signed statements admitting poisoning Mary Louise and attempting to poison

EXTRADITION OF TWO MEN ASKED

District Attorney Seeking M. R. Soaife And R. H. Wynne

Monroe authorities are seeking extradition papers on two Beaumont, Tex., men wanted in Monroe for theft of $1,290, according to District Attorney Fred Fudickar.

The men identified as M. R. Scaife and R. H. Wynne are being held for Monroe officers in Beaumont pending the approval of their extradition.

District Attorney Fudickar said both men were wanted here in connection with an illegal automobile sale at a local automobile auction.

He asserted that Wynne purchased a vehicle in Beaumont, Tex., through a finance company then declared himself a resident of Lake Charles, where he bought a license. Later, Fudickar said, Wynne sold the car to Scaife and had a bill of sale executed.

Scaife in turn brought the vehicle to Monroe and sold it to F. H. Harston of Shreveport at an auction for $1,230, according to the district attorney.

The check with which Harston paid for the car was cashed in the name of a used car company in Beaumont, Fudickar said. The automobile, he added, belongs to a Beaumont finance company.

Two Injured When Auto Overturned

A 25-year-old Monroe painter and a 35-year-old woman were hospitalized in the St. Francis Sanitarium shortly after 4 a. m. Saturday when the automobile in which they were traveling turned over about a mile east of Monroe on the Winnsboro road, according to state police.

T! driver, Robert A. Keller of 112 Egan street, Monroe, is reported to be suffering from a severely lacerated nose and bruises.

Miss Alma Bassett, of 4401 South Grand street, an occupant in the vehicle, was receiving treatment for bruises.

State police said the accident occurred when Keller apparently ran off the shoulder of the highway and lost control of his automobile.

Ward's Escape Ship Is Boarded By Reds

Supervise Evacuation Of Long-Held U. S. Consulate Staff From Communist-Held Mukden; Shore Leave Denied Lakeland Crew

By Tom Lambert

ABOARD THE LAKELAND VICTORY AT TAKU BAR, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Chinese Communist officials today boarded this U. S. ship to supervise the evacuation from Red China tomorrow of the Angus Ward party.

The U. S. consul general and his staff, ordered out of Mukden by the Communists, will proceed from Tientsin down river to Taku Bar by tug.

Capt. Paul R. Sexton of the Lakeland Victory was advised from Tientsin that the party of 20 or more will board the tug at Tientsin at noon. It will take about 10 hours for the trip.

(That would put Ward aboard at about 9 a. m. Sunday eastern standard time.)

Two Communist quarantine and customs officials boarded the ship about two hours after it docked. With them were nine Russian cargo checkers and Robert Puck. Puck is the Tientsin agent of the Pacific far east line which owns the Lakeland Victory.

They are staying aboard tonight. One Communist will sleep in Sexton's quarters.

The Chinese officials' attitude toward the Russians aroused considerable attention. Most of the Russians are Soviet citizens.

The Russians, some wearing U. S. army clothing, following the Chinese aboard carrying their luggage. The officials told them to take the luggage back to the barge which brought them until arrangements were made to stay aboard tonight. They did. About 50 Chinese stevedores are unloading cargo consigned to Tientsin.

Puck said he was told Ward and his party "are in good health."

Sexton was advised that no one aboard the Lakeland would be permitted to go ashore. Maj. William E. R. Basch, Boston, an army doctor, had asked permission to go to Tientsin and meet the party.

Midcontinent Area Hit By Wide-Spread Blizzard, Cold Air Mass

(By Associated Press)

A stinging cold wave rode into the midcontinent Saturday on the coattails of a widespread blizzard.

Residents of an eight-state area—from Oklahoma to Montana—braced for the ugliest weather of the season.

Late fall exploded with wintry fury in sections from California to Maine, causing at least four deaths.

A sub-zero cold air mass chilled the northeast. Sleet or freezing rain glazed highways and communication lines across much of the midwest. A pea-soup fog enveloped Texas, grounding most air travel. Whipping winds lashed the southern California coastline and coastal shipping.

A minor earthquake that caused no damage jolted the Santa Monica bay area of California.

Ice-coated roads were a factor in three highway accident deaths in Iowa. William McLelland, a prominent rancher, was killed as his pri-

Renewal Of Old Claim Breaks In Closing Session Of Fourth U. N. Assembly

MAJORITY BLOC AMONG DELEGATES IS UNMOVED

By Francis W. Carpenter

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—An old Russian charge that the United States and Britain are preparing a "black plot" against world peace jarred the closing session of the U. N. fourth general assembly today. It was knocked down by a salvo of cheers for a western answer.

After a Malik-Cadogan exchange, Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo said in his closing speech the peoples of the world are determined that every possibility should be explored that can lead the nations out of the Russian-western deadlock.

He then declared the assembly adjourned finally at 1:21 p. m. E. S. T.

The Russians pulled the same stunt witnessed in the closing session in Paris last Dec. 12. They attacked the results of the assembly at that time. Today, Malik gained the floor during the final send-off round and said:

FIND MARSHALL PLAN POPULARITY

Average Frenchman Knows Little, Dislikes What He Does Know

By Carl Hartman

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Reports that the average Frenchman knows little about the Marshall Plan and dislikes what he knows were confirmed today in a poll organized by the Marshall Plan itself.

The Dutch and Norwegians know and like the plan better, the survey showed. Danes and Austrians also were checked, but the results of those samplings are not yet available.

This mirror of public opinion indicated that only four Frenchmen in every 100 credited the Marshall Plan as a factor in French recovery from the war and the German occupation, though the United States has given France about $1,700,000,000 in aid.

"What are the strings attached to it?" A full 37 per cent of the Frenchmen wanted to know.

Only 38 per cent of those who had heard about the plan believed it was good for France.

Thomas K. Hodges, chief of the plans' information research and analysis section here, said in an interview:

"The low percentage favoring the plan is all the more striking because, in a survey conducted approximately one year ago, the number of respondents favoring the Marshall Plan in France was 52 per cent."

Hodges explained the apparent drop by these factors, among others:

1. The Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, fresh in French minds a year ago, has been partly forgotten.

2. The Communists' anti-Marshall Plan campaign, on which one American official estimated they are spending at least $30,000,000, was not well under way a year ago.

A spokesman for the E. C. A. said it had hired Dr. Eric Stern of the New York organization called "Foreign Opinion and Market Research" to make the poll. Stern's investigators had some freedom in thinking up questions on how much Europeans know about the Marshall Plan, how they learned it, and why they do not know more. Some of their questions were:

CHIANG PULLS UP STAKES IN CHINA

Large-Scale Resistance Against Reds On Mainland Is Ending

TAIPEH, Formosa, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek flew to Formosa tonight from the chaotic mainland, where a Yunnan province revolt was stripping the Nationalists of their last major footholds.

Large-scale organized resistance on the mainland is ending. A new era of Nationalist guerrilla warfare is at hand.

Tao Hsi-Sheng, Chiang's spokesman, admitted the Yunnan situation was grave. Nationalist quarters held a faint hope that the revolt could yet localized. They have counted on that south province for a base.

(Air crews of planes reaching Hong Kong from Kunming, Yunnan province capital, said it was believed the whole province had gone over to the Communists. Turncoat Nationalists held Kunming.)

Chiang laid his plans for guerrilla warfare before he left Chengtu. The city served for 10 brief days as a refuge for the Nationalist government before its removal to this island 100 miles off the mainland.

How are you getting along with your package wrapping? Have you mailed most of your Christmas gifts? Better get them in the mail, if you want to be an on-time Santa.

Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn suggests that you have all parcel post Christmas mailings in not later than tomorrow (Monday) so that you may be sure of delivery before Christmas.

Of course, if you prefer mailing them later, you can still be safe if you use the new air parcel post service.

On the whole, people are growing more cooperative from year to year. Yuletide packages have been flooding the post office for the past week. But, even so, the present volume is only a tiny sample of what is to come. And if the mighty deluge descends now instead of later, there's the satisfaction of knowing that the recipients of all these loving gifts will be made happy on Christmas or before Christmas day, rather than belatedly.

Truck And Trailer Destroyed By Fire

A fire estimated to have cost $10,000 destroyed a four-ton Diamond T. truck and eight-ton trailer loaded with paper rolls and bags shortly after 12:30 a. m. Saturday on U. S. Highway 80 13 miles east of Monroe.

Driver of the truck, Herman Seeton of Ennis, Tex., narrowly escaped injuries, state police said.

Firemen from Companies 3, 11 and 12 were summoned to extinguish the blaze which engulfed the truck and trailer within a few seconds after the gasoline tank exploded.

The truck and trailer valued at about $7,500 belonged to Ennis Tag Co. of Ennis, Tex. State police said the vehicle was returning from West Virginia and en route to Texas when the fire occurred.

Firemen said the truck, trailer and contents were a total loss.

Monroe City Limits Include Wider Area

Large Area East, North Of Old City Limits, Including Entire Loop Road Section, Are Officially Part Of Monroe

A large area lying north and east of the old city limits officially became a part of the city of Monroe at 12:01 a. m. Saturday.

The area is bounded on the north by the Ouachita river, on the east by Bayou DeSiard, and on the south by a section south of Forsythe avenue. The entire Loop Road section is included.

The annexation became official when no court contest of a city ordinance passed by the council on November 9 was filed. More than 25 per cent of residents of the area had signed the annexation petition and the council's resolution adding the Loop Road area to the city limits was not contested, following legal publication in the Monroe News-Star, the city's official journal. The state law allows 30 days for contest of such a resolution.

Although no estimate of the number of persons residing in the newly-annexed area was advanced, action by the council and residents of that section of the city will result in a material increase in the population of the city in the 1950 census, it was pointed out.

Annexation petitions also are being circulated in the Booker T. Washington addition and among residents of the Selman Field area, and it is hoped that these areas also will be included in the city limits before the census is taken, city officials said.

Officials pointed out that a number of advantages would be gained by residents who previously had resided outside the city limits. Primarily, the

They all recite almost the same thing. Either the salaries paid are so small that families are unable to live in a proper standard of life, or and, still more often, the writers are those who receive old age or welfare checks which are so small and prices are so high for foodstuffs that the recipients are barely able to get by. First of all rent must be paid. Then medicine, and so many are sick and under treatment by physicians, must be cared for, and third, food must be obtained. When it comes to clothes there isn't a penny remaining, and only through the generosity of neighbors and friends, this want is half way met.

Then when Christmas comes, there is no money. Each and every letter recites in pitiful terms the needs of the family. Could the public read some of the letters, they would most certainly be anxious to aid. But they don't see them, unless we reproduce them all or in part in this column, so

LEAKAGE SOUGHT

Will Check All Angles To Find Where Russia Got Precious Metals

DESIRED DATA SECRET; MAY NOT BE REVEALED

By William F. Arbogast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Congressional probers disclosed today they have asked for records of the chemical warfare service as they sought to run down the whole story of how the Russians were able to get precious atomic materials during the war.

Louis J. Russell, chief investigator for the house un-American activities committee, said he sought to learn whether the Russians got any of the supplies through the chemical service. The committee has learned that shipments went to the Soviet Union in 1943 when the countries were allied against Hitler.

"We know," said Russell, "that the Russians communicated with the armed forces about uranium supplies. They might have obtained the heavy water through them."

This referred to 1,000 grams of an atomic experimental material which the committee said showed up in old lend-lease records. The shipping license was recorded in the last quarter of 1943. The committee regards this as proof the Russians got it but wants to find out for sure.

Russell said the Chemical Warfare Service records are restricted and may not be available to the committee.

The investigators plugged away at their task of determining what was back of Russia's ability to obtain such highly secret materials—and expressed belief they will come up with the answers sometime next year.

In the midst of this, they were caught in a political crossfire as a fight brewed in the committee between Democrats and Republicans. It promises to get hotter as the 1950 congressional campaign picks up.

Whether this might in some way stymie the investigators remained to be seen.

But they believed that, if given the chance, they can find out:

1. Whether anyone was tipping off the Russians on sources of uranium compounds.

2. Whether anyone was cutting around the corners to assure transmission of the material.

3. The source of maps, departmental data and other records which a witness claims was shipped to Russia.

4. How much vital atomic material the Russians actually got.

The investigators claim to have some of the answers already but need more time to document them.

That the Russians got some uranium and related atomic materials in 1943 was clearly established this week as the committee dived head first into charges aired by Radio Commentator

Parachuting Santa Claus Is Tangled Up In Power Lines

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A parachuting Santa Claus tangled with high tension wires today and was rescued as hundreds of children alternately wept and cheered.

The plan was for Santa, otherwise Robert (Jumping Jack) Niles, 22, to leap from a plane and descend to Stranahan Field in mid-city where practically the entire juvenile population for miles around awaited with parents.

There were happy outcries as Santa hit the silk, but the red-suited visitor was caught in a brisk wind and blown into wires skirting the football field.

His chute tangled with the wires, and jolly St. Nick himself whammed against a untility pole, then dangled 45 feet above the ground.

Happiness among youthful spectators quickly became consternation.

"Mommy, Santa is trapped," hundreds of young voices screamed.

"Poor Santa!"

Hurry calls went to the fire department for a ladder truck. But John W. Bell of Fort Lauderdale, a utility lineman watching the event, became a hero to every child.

With borrowed climbers, he scaled up the pole before firemen arrived, lugging a rope. He fashioned a line over crossarms and lowered the rope to Santa.

Santa, shaken up but unhurt, unfastened his parachute harnee and lowered himself to a ladder which

Boy Expected To Die Before Xmas Will See Santa Today

By Jim Holton

TARENTUM, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Little Jimmy Pochon raised his blond head in a bleak grin as the photographer prepared to take his picture.

"I've been a good boy, so Santa's going to see me before the other boys and girls," he piped.

Santa is going to visit Jimmy early—tomorrow, in fact. And Jimmy has been a good boy. But there's something else the puzzled five-year-old doesn't know.

Doctors say he'll be dead by the time Santa visits other boys and girls.

Jimmy was a normal child up to three months ago. Then he became strangely ill. Finally, the doctors made their diagnosis—cancer.

The infection is in his chest and medical experts in nearby Pittsburgh say it is of the most vicious type. Three weeks ago Jimmy was taken to the hospital. Last night his parents brough him home—to die, the experts said.

"There must be something, or someone somewhere who can save our boy," said George Pochon, the lad's father. "The Lord took our two other children from us. I just know he won't take Jimmy, too."

The two other children died in childbirth.

Jimmy was born while Pochon was overseas with an engineer battalion during the war. The father is employed as a gas engine operator at the

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butler, Sr., Sun Ray, Tex., and a sister, Mrs. Louise McKinney, Longview, Tex.

REP. THOMAS OFF TO JAIL, WIFE SEEKS HIS SEAT

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, Republican of New Jersey, leaves federal court at Washington Friday en route to jail to serve a six to 18 months sentence for padding this office payroll. The man at left was not identified. Thomas also was fined $10,000. Just after sentence was pronounced, his wife (right) announced she would seek his seat in congress. (AP Wirephotos).

CHIANG PULLS UP STAKES IN CHINA

Large-Scale Resistance Against Reds On Mainland Is Ending

TAIPEH, Formosa, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek flew to Formosa tonight from the chaotic mainland, where a Yunnan province revolt was stripping the Nationalists of their last major footholds.

Large-scale organized resistance on the mainland is ending. A new era of Nationalist guerrilla warfare is at hand.

Tao Hsi-Sheng, Chiang's spokesman, admitted the Yunnan situation was grave. Nationalist quarters held a faint hope that the revolt could yet localized. They have counted on that south province for a base.

(Air crews of planes reaching Hong Kong from Kunming, Yunnan province capital, said it was believed the whole province had gone over to the Communists. Turncoat Nationalists held Kunming.)

Chiang laid his plans for guerrilla warfare before he left Chengtu. The city served for 10 brief days as a refuge for the Nationalist government before its removal to this island 100 miles off the mainland.

The Generalissimo also made a

How are you getting along with your package wrapping? Have you mailed most of your Christmas gifts? Better get them in the mail, if you want to be an on-time Santa.

Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn suggests that you have all parcel post Christmas mailings in not later than tomorrow (Monday) so that you may be sure of delivery before Christmas.

Of course, if you prefer mailing them later, you can still be safe if you use the new air parcel post service.

On the whole, people are growing more cooperative from year to year. Yuletide packages have been flooding the post office for the past week. But, even so, the present volume is only a tiny sample of what is to come. And if the mighty deluge descends now instead of later, there's the satisfaction of knowing that the recipients of all these loving gifts will be made happy on Christmas or before Christmas day, rather than belatedly.

One reminder: Wrap your packages in heavy corrugated cardboard and place the address on a slip in-

Truck And Trailer Destroyed By Fire

A fire estimated to have cost $10,000 destroyed a four-ton Diamond T. truck and eight-ton trailer loaded with paper rolls and bags shortly after 12:30 a. m. Saturday on U. S. Highway 80 13 miles east of Monroe.

Driver of the truck, Herman Seeton of Ennis, Tex., narrowly escaped injuries, state police said.

Firemen from Companies 3, 11 and 12 were summoned to extinguish the blaze which engulfed the truck and trailer within a few seconds after the gasoline tank exploded.

The truck and trailer valued at about $7,500 belonged to Ennis Tag Co. of Ennis, Tex. State police said the vehicle was returning from West Virginia and en route to Texas when the fire occurred.

Firemen said the truck, trailer and contents were a total loss.

Monroe City Limits Include Wider Area

Large Area East, North Of Old City Limits, Including Entire Loop Road Section, Are Officially Part Of Monroe

A large area lying north and east of the old city limits officially became a part of the city of Monroe at 12:01 a. m. Saturday.

The area is bounded on the north by the Ouachita river, on the east by Bayou DeSiard, and on the south by a section south of Forsythe avenue. The entire Loop Road section is included.

The annexation became official when no court contest of a city ordinance passed by the council on November 9 was filed. More than 25 per cent of residents of the area had signed the annexation petition and the council's resolution adding the Loop Road area to the city limits was not contested, following legal publication in the Monroe News-Star, the city's official journal. The state law allows 30 days for contest of such a resolution.

Although no estimate of the number of persons residing in the newly-annexed area was advanced, action by the council and residents of that section of the city will result in a material increase in the population of the city in the 1950 census, it was pointed out.

Annexation petitions also are being circulated in the Booker T. Washington addition and among residents of the Selman Field area, and it is hoped that these areas also will be included in the city limits before the census is taken, city officials said.

Officials pointed out that a number of advantages would be gained by residents who previously had resided outside the city limits. Primarily, the

The mail sacks that are conveying the earnest pleadings for mere necessities of life are coming addressed to Good Fellows several times daily.

They all recite almost the same thing. Either the salaries paid are so small that families are unable to live in a proper standard of life, or and, still more often, the writers are those who receive old age or welfare checks which are so small and prices are so high for foodstuffs that the recipients are barely able to get by. First of all rent must be paid. Then medicine, and so many are sick and under treatment by physicians, must be cared for, and third, food must be obtained. When it comes to clothes there isn't a penny remaining, and only through the generosity of neighbors and friends, this want is half way met.

Then when Christmas comes, there is no money. Each and every letter recites in pitiful terms the needs of the family. Could the public read some of the letters, they would most certainly be anxious to aid. But they don't see them, unless we reproduce them all or in part in this column, so

Tot Fatally Burned In Refrigerator Fire

WEST POINT, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A two-year-old girl was fatally burned in an old ice box at her home here today.

Anna Carolyn Dellapenna was playing with some friends in the large abandoned refrigerator. One of the children built a fire in the six-foot square box. Some hay, which was being stored in the box, fell on the fire.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Thomas F. Dellapenna, heard the children's screams and beat out the flames. Anna died in a hospital here last night.

LEAKAGE SOUGHT

Will Check All Angles To Find Where Russia Got Precious Metals

DESIRED DATA SECRET; MAY NOT BE REVEALED

By William F. Arbogast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Congressional probers disclosed today they have asked for records of the chemical warfare service as they sought to run down the whole story of how the Russians were able to get precious atomic materials during the war.

Louis J. Russell, chief investigator for the house un-American activities committee, said he sought to learn whether the Russians got any of the supplies through the chemical service. The committee has learned that shipments went to the Soviet Union in 1943 when the countries were allied against Hitler.

"We know," said Russell, "that the Russians communicated with the armed forces about uranium supplies. They might have obtained the heavy water through them."

This referred to 1,000 grams of an atomic experimental material which the committee said showed up in old lend-lease records. The shipping license was recorded in the last quarter of 1943. The committee regards this as proof the Russians got it but wants to find out for sure.

Russell said the Chemical Warfare Service records are restricted and may not be available to the committee.

The investigators plugged away at their task of determining what was back of Russia's ability to obtain such highly secret materials—and expressed belief they will come up with the answers sometime next year.

In the midst of this, they were caught in a political crossfire as a fight brewed in the committee between Democrats and Republicans. It promises to get hotter as the 1950 congressional campaign picks up.

Whether this might in some way stymie the investigators remained to be seen.

But they believed that, if given the chance, they can find out:

1. Whether anyone was tipping off the Russians on sources of uranium compounds.

2. Whether anyone was cutting around the corners to assure transmission of the material.

3. The source of maps, departmental data and other records which a witness claims was shipped to Russia.

4. How much vital atomic material the Russians actually got.

The investigators claim to have some of the answers already but need more time to document them.

That the Russians got some uranium and related atomic materials in 1943 was clearly established this week as the committee dived head first into charges aired by Radio Commentator

Oak Grove Woman Hurt In Crash In Lincoln

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Mrs. Purvis Thomas, Oak Grove, is in the Lincoln Sanitarium here suffering from lacerations of the head sustained in an auto accident near here today.

Two other persons escaped injury. They were her husband and Rev. C. A. Martin, pastor of the Baptist Church in Oak Grove.

Hospital attendants said Mrs. Thomas' condition was fair.

Rev. Martin was driving the car. They were on their way to Natchitoches to attend a funeral. The accident occurred in heavy rain. Martin's car was demolished after trying to avoid hitting a car coming in from a side road. No identfication of the other driver could be obtained.

Parachuting Santa Claus Is Tangled Up In Power Lines

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A parachuting Santa Claus tangled with high tension wires today and was rescued as hundreds of children alternately wept and cheered.

The plan was for Santa, otherwise Robert (Jumping Jack) Niles, 22, to leap from a plane and descend to Stranahan Field in mid-city where practically the entire juvenile population for miles around awaited with parents.

There were happy outcries as Santa hit the silk, but the red-suited visitor was caught in a brisk wind and blown into wires skirting the football field.

His chute tangled with the wires, and jolly St. Nick himself whammed against a untility pole, then dangled 45 feet above the ground.

Happiness among youthful spectators quickly became consternation.

"Mommy, Santa is trapped," hundreds of young voices screamed.

"Poor Santa!"

Hurry calls went to the fire department for a ladder truck. But John W. Bell of Fort Lauderdale, a utility lineman watching the event, became a hero to every child.

With borrowed climbers, he scaled up the pole before firemen arrived, lugging a rope. He fashioned a line over crossarms and lowered the rope to Santa.

Santa, shaken up but unhurt, unfastened his parachute harnee and lowered himself to a ladder which

Boy Expected To Die Before Xmas Will See Santa Today

By Jim Holton

TARENTUM, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Little Jimmy Pochon raised his blond head in a bleak grin as the photographer prepared to take his picture.

"I've been a good boy, so Santa's going to see me before the other boys and girls," he piped.

Santa is going to visit Jimmy early—tomorrow, in fact. And Jimmy has been a good boy. But there's something else the puzzled five-year-old doesn't know.

Doctors say he'll be dead by the time Santa visits other boys and girls.

Jimmy was a normal child up to three months ago. Then he became strangely ill. Finally, the doctors made their diagnosis—cancer.

The infection is in his chest and medical experts in nearby Pittsburgh say it is of the most vicious type. Three weeks ago Jimmy was taken to the hospital. Last night his parents brough him home—to die, the experts said.

"There must be something, or someone somewhere who can save our boy," said George Pochon, the lad's father. "The Lord took our two other children from us. I just know he won't take Jimmy, too."

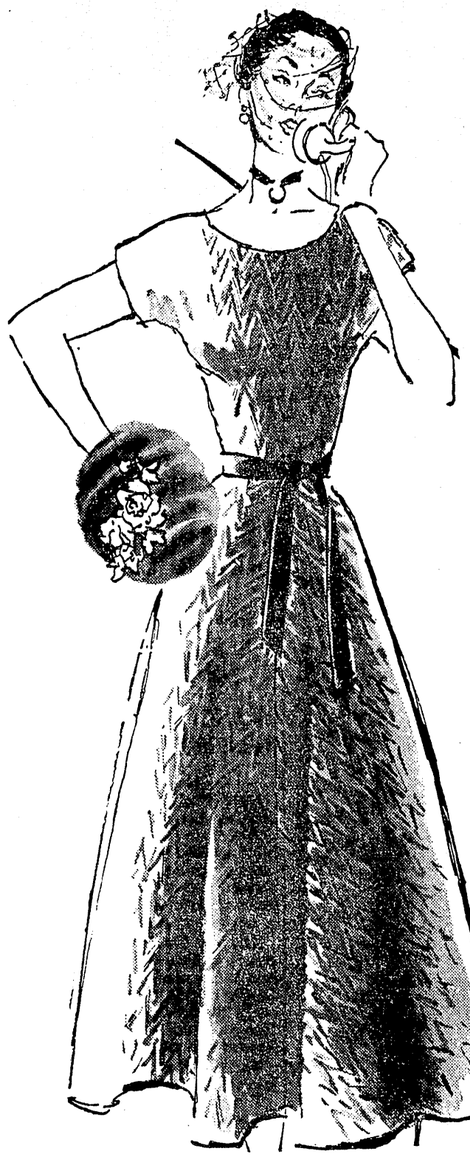

The two other children died in childbirth.

Jimmy was born while Pochon was overseas with an engineer battalion during the war. The father is employed as a gas engine operator at the

A Real Christmas

Do you want to have the best Christmas possible? Do you want to add a touch to the usual observance that will make the coming holiday so outstanding it will always be remembered? Here's all you have to do, as they say on the radio: Help a family which isn't as fortunate as you—a family which might otherwise have a dreary Christmas, or none at all.

A contribution to the Good Fellows Fund, no matter how small, will help a great deal. There is absolutely no administrative expense in the Good Fellows' operations—services of the sponsors as well as their helpers are donated, and every cent contributed to the fund goes toward making some needy family happier at Christmas time.

Don't consider this in the light of charity. Instead make it an adventure in happiness, in which you share your own good fortune with some less fortunate. Your reward will be in the laughter of happy children, the gratitude revealed in the eyes of a tired mother, who had given up all hopes for anything but a meager Christmas.

To say nothing of the glow which will be in your own heart.

Another Opportunity To Give

Accidents CAN be avoided, but they aren't. We have had a wave of serious traffic accidents in the Monroe area recently and these accidents, particularly, have seriously diminished the supply of blood available to victims through the Red Cross Blood Bank.

A few days ago Judge W. M. Harper, chairman of the Blood Bank, issued an appeal for more blood donors. Several persons have given their blood, not once or twice but four, five and six times to help their fellowmen over the hump between life and death. But more are needed.

Judge Harper's call is urgent. It is a service to humanity which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Won't you follow the example of those who have already done so much to alleviate suffering and save lives of your neighbors in the Twin Cities?

The Last Round

The reconvening of the 81st congress January 3 will signal the opening of the last round of the 63-year-old fight to eliminate discriminatory federal taxes and restrictions on the sale of yellow margarine.

Definite assurance from Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, Democratic majority leader, during the closing weeks of the last session, makes certain that the margarine tax repeal bill will be the first order of business in the senate.

Never have the nation's consumers and vegetable oil farmers been so close to attaining the goal of a free and unrestricted market for margarine. In 1949, the house voted to repeal the margarine taxes by a three-to-one margin. The senate finance committee reported the house bill favorably with one minor amendment. Now the issue is before the senate.

It is unthinkable that the senate would choose to retain on the statute books the out-moded and unjust laws which penalize margarine, the nutritious product of one group of American farmers, so that the competing product of another group of farmers may benefit.

The farmers who produce vegetable oils have no quarrel with butter as a product. No more so have the millions of housewives and American workers who have bitterly protested the federal taxes on yellow margarine.

The cotton and soybean farmers of this land simply want a fair and equal opportunity to market the product which consumes a major share of their vegetable oils. The consumers of the nation only ask for an opportunity to make their choice between butter and margarine on a freely competitive market.

We believe that our senators should allow margarine its first opportunity in more than six decades to compete for consumer markets without the trammels of federal penalties and restrictions.

Germany Grows Stronger

Grave risks attend the mounting competition for Germany between the western powers and the Soviet Union. Although still divided into eastern and western zones, Germany today is stronger than it would have been without such spirited rivalry. Tomorrow it may be far stronger if the EAST-West tug-of-war goes on.

There is bitter irony in this sitution. The Allied nations felt they had been too soft on Germany after World War I. They believed their post-war course had actually spurred the rise of nazism and opened the way to another war. And they were determined it should not happen again.

The decisions taken at Yalta and Potsdam by the Allied leaders were designed to create a post-war Germany that would be robbed forever of its war-making power. In those days there was even serious talk of reducing Germany to an agricultural nation.

What the West did not expect was Russia's uncooperative policy in Germany. This attitude quickly wrecked all hopes for smooth progress toward a peace treaty and threw East and West into a strenuous struggle for the people, the industry and the land of Germany.

Naturally this contest sharpened rather than lessened the division of its territory into two opposing camps. Each contestant made concessions to Germans under its control, not only to keep them in hand but to woo Germans from the other side.

From such competition arose the West German republic governed from Bonn and the East German republic based in Berlin. When the Russians set up their German state, they granted certain privileges they felt sure would also be attractive to Germans in the West.

Sure enough, the leaders of the Bonn republic promptly appealed for new concessions to offset those gained in the eastern section. Just a few days ago the West acceded to some of these demands and laid the groundwork for a considerably more powerful post-war Germany.

The western countries agreed to stop dismantling 23 factories making steel, oil and synthetic rubber. One plant in this list accounted for 10 per cent of Germany's pre-war steel-making capacity. Restrictions of German merchant shipbuilding were relaxed. The Bonn government will be allowed to have trade representatives overseas.

Western Germany did, of course, make certain promises in return. It acknowledged international control of the rich Ruhr industrial district. Existing limits on steel output—as contrasted with capacity—remain.

To reinforce these promises, Secretary of Defense Johnson has declared that the West has no intention of fostering a revived German army under western authority.

The idea of such a force, the idea of all these concessions, is to develop Western Germany as a strong contributor to the security of the free world against the Russian Communist threat.

The stronger Western Germany gets, the bigger prize it becomes in any bidding for its allegiance. Thus the more likely are further concessions to keep the strengthened land within the western nations' family.

The West is admittedly trapped in a difficult situation by Russia's rivalry. But that cannot minimize the fact that day by day we are yielding more and more strength to a Germany we said a few years ago should never again be powerful enough to wage war.

Monroe, La.
December 7, 1949.

To the Editor:

A significant step toward the restoration of rational economy—in the operation of our government—has been initiated by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. I sincerely hope that the program, "Operation Economy," will bring to the American public an acute awareness of the following facts:

That the only monopoly threatening the very existence of our way of life is daily evident in the results of the perpetuation of the one party form of government. Our from of government requires that we have at least a two-party representation successive in authority in all of our executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government in Washington. The big business executive has yet to be born that can wreak the damage in the capitol that an unbridled donkey is committing.

Results of the handiwork of the little animal—who is supposed to be the only positive animal in existence—is revealed in the benefits he boasts of having given us. To place one dollar of G. I. benefits in the hands of a veteran requires the maximum of duplication of effort and hundreds of useless employes in the Veterans Administration. An American can buy a new house for patients cheaper than the line on rents maintained by our salaried rent control employes. Yet, we still have them with us. With regards to the distribution of the G. I. insurance surplus. The best interests of both the veteran and the nation could have been served by applying the vets share to his insurance premiums of the future.

This could have been accomplished with the regular employes of the Veterans Administration who handle the insurance chores. But the long-eared fraternity had to hire an additional group of temporary employes to handle the big deal. The advisers failed to tell them that this would be a boost to inflation. So the temporary employes were hired. A temporary employe is an American who makes out his private life will before he embarks upon his temporary duties. He will never return to private life when he accepts a temporary job in the present one-way form of government.

All in all the donkey should not try to take over big business. The Western Union has shown him for years that a public service organization can be run privately at a profit to both the public and the owners. Yet, the United States post office department is still operated by the government at a $400,000,000 deficit. It is the American's fault. We need competent postmasters and the only way we can get them is by exercising more caution in the selection of our congressmen. We lost the atomic secret through the positive animal's failure to learn in the army that you should always credit your enemy with the possession of equal if not superior intelligence.

We must make a change in Washington. The "Veep" is the antithesis to the belief that public life is hard on Democrats. We must aid providence in making the change by voting intelligently.

It seems that the removal of the White House to Florida was just to arrange a rendezvous of Harry and his pals to discuss the battle of the "bureaucratic bulge" and little else.

Yours sincerely,
ARTHUR M. LE BLANC, JR.

The Louisiana State Organization for Public Health Nursing wishes to express its sincere appreciation for the cooperation by your newspaper in the matter, of publicity during the recent nurses' convention.

The success of the convention was in a large measure due to such friendly courtesies as were offered by your staff.

Sincerely,
ELIZABETH ENGERAN, R. N.,
Secretary Louisiana State Organization for Public Health Nursing.

MISQUOTED

Baton Rouge, La.
December 7, 1949.

To the Editor:

I would like to correct an impression which I feel was erroneously conveyed in your newspaper on November 23, 1949.

I was quoted as favoring the taxation of big oil companies, to pay for education. This is incorrect. What I actually said, was that I had supported increased severance taxes during the 1948 session of the legislature, because I felt it was the answer to our need for additional revenue for educational purposes.

I do not favor any further increase of that tax, and so far as I know, there is on move afoot in that direction.

Thank you, and with kindest regards, I remain

Sincerely,
RUSSELL B. LONG,
United States Senator.

WILL THE FUN LAST?

The great civic organization of Kiwanis International, with clubs in the United States and Canada, has been issuing monthly leaflets for the past two years, with the general title theme, "It's Fun To Live In America." The leaflets have been well-written and attractive, and have very effectively called attention to the advantages of what we have come to know in this country as "The American Way of Life."

In that respect, at least, these pamphlets have been very worthwhile. But there is an inherent danger in a glorification of the past and the present that gives no thought to the future. Perhaps Kiwanis International thought it was enough to show that the average citizen in the United States fares better than the average citizen in any other country on the face of the globe—but that is not enough. There is danger of complacency in stopping there. It is much more important to the future welfare of this nation to call the attention of this average citizen to the fact that measures are being taken in this country that will inevitably and irrevocably result in a continual lessening and lessening of his standard of living.

It is difficult to get this danger across to the average citizen. Certainly he will not be impressed with the danger if he is told it is fun to live in America—and nothing more. He will not realize it so long as political leaders tell him that all the measures being taken are for the benefit of "the little man."

It is time for this average citizen, if his responsible leaders will not give him the facts, to do a little thinking for himself. He might well remember that once upon a time "it was fun to live in Great Britain." But it is fun no longer! And yet all the measures that have been taken by the Socialist government of Great Britain since it was elected to office in 1945 have been, they claim, in the interest of this average citizen, of this "little man." But instead of an increase in their standard of living, the people of Great Britain have sunk lower and lower into degredation and frustration and austerity and despair. And it is the "average citizen" who has suffered most!

From our knowledge of past history and from viewing the current experience of Great Britain, it should be very clear why the people cannot turn over to their government all responsibility for their welfare and happiness. To do so dries up the very wellsprings of man's prosperity and progress—initiative and incentive and ingenuity. The dignity of the individual is destroyed—he becomes just one more sheep in a flock of sheep.

Former Secretary of States James F. Byrnes was not simply making an oratorical statement the other day when he said that the policies now being carried out and proposed by our present administration are "making the small man smaller day by day." He was simply recognizing the fact that a government that seizes more and more power unto itself, a government that adopts a policy of "taxing and taxing, and spending and spending," a government that ignores the fundamental principle of financial solvency of living within its income, is at the same time a government that loses sight of the "small man," is a government that cares much more about the retention of its own power than it does about the welfare of the people—regardless of its protestations to the contrary.

In a recent article, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, makes the statement that the national budget could be cut $10 billion without impairing in any way the soundness of our government. The administration, admitting we shall spend $5 or $6 billion more than our income this year, only proposes that taxes be increased to take care of the deficit. The average citizen should have no trouble deciding which procedure would be in his interest.

This same average citizen may well begin to wonder how long it will be "fun to live in America" if we continue down the road we are traveling.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

WILL LEWIS WIN?

To a very large minority of editors John L. Lewis' effort to break the ranks of the coal operators by local bargaining is an act of desperation indicating that his on-again, off-again strike strategy is definitely failing. A plurality of editors agree that the move is a strategic retreat, and question whether it will succeed; but they hesitate to count the resourceful Lewis out yet. A small minority sees Lewis' latest strategy, combined with his controlled production of coal, as a well calculated tactical move with the odds still in his favor.

St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press (Ind.): "The fact that John L. Lewis has sent his miners back to work is not so important as the decision to allow the local unions to negotiate for contracts with individual companies. The end of industry-wide bargaining holds out hope for more stability and serenity on this economic front than has been experienced in many years. Mr. Lewis' intentions on this score, however, are not clear. For one thing, he does not explain how his welfare fund, which presumably has been the heart of this long controversy, is to fare under a system of individual company contracts."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "Perhaps Mr. Lewis hopes to break down the united opposition of the operators to his demands by taking them on one at a time and inducing them to make concessions as the price of return to a full-time work week. If he succeeds in this latest effort 'to divide and conquer,' it seems virtually certain that the wage contracts negotiated with companies that capitulate will follow a set pattern that he will then try to impose on the rest of the industry. For we do not believe that Mr. Lewis has any intention of abandoning his drive for nation-wide contracts, in substance if not in form."

Cincinnati (Ohio) Times-Star (Rep.): "Lewis has suffered a major setback. . . . He has abandoned his effort toward industry-wide bargaining, and he has been forced to yield to a growing feeling of revolt among his followers who faced a payless Christmas season. . . . Lewis obviously hopes for a 'Bethlehem' break whereby an agreement with one operator will set the pattern for the whole industry. But . . . no operator as yet has given indications of breaking away from the solid front of opposition to Lewis' tactics."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "By abandoning industry-wide bargaining, the United Mine Workers will apply divide-and-conquer tactics to competing mines. . . . Possibly Lewis hopes to keep coal stocks just low enough so that heavy industry will put pressure on coal operators to sign new contracts. With a week divided between work and strike, Lewis may also be able to avoid federal intervention . . . Observers close to Lewis . . . predict that his aggressive strategy will prevail . . . Coal miners know that their average weekly wage has tripled in a decade, and appreciate this when they appraise Lewis."

Wilmington (Del.) Morning News (Ind.): "Three previous strikes in 1949 forced the miners to live on their economic fat, if they had any. Now there is no fat left. Worse still, miners working three days a week . . . don't know how soon they will be asked to walk out again . . . The time may not be ripe for a rank-and-file revolt against Lewis . . . But Lewis would be foolish not to gauge their possible reaction pretty carefully before making his next move. The operators know that, too, and it will be a miracle if John L. can wangle a new contract this time without coming down off his high horse."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Ind.): "War on the coal front has resolved itself into one of attrition, with Generalissimo John L. Lewis having the situation well in hand . . . A three-day week . . . will keep the miners in spending money and it will also serve to deplete the stock piles. And when supplies are at their lowest, the matter of contracts will assume real importance . . . Mr. Lewis can assume that operators will come to terms rather than see their plants shut down and their employes on the street."

Louisville (Ky.) Times (Ind.-Dem.): "It is extremely dangerous to underestimate Lewis' genius as a labor strategist. But this time he appears to have strolled out on a quivering limb . . . The coal operators have countered the unified labor force with a unified front of their own and all Lewis' attempts to crack it—as in Indiana and Illinois—have failed. The strategist who before always had his campaign mapped out now appears to be improvising through the three-day week in an effort to gain more time."

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

One hears talk often of "social religion," and "the social Gospel." It is understandable that such phrases, with their emphasis should come into use in protest against the idea that religion is a mainly, or purely, individual, personal matter.

But such phrases actually are redundant. Can one imagine a religion that has in it any truth or any demands of duty that is not social? And, most certainly if there were a gospel that is not social, it would not be the Christian gospel. At every point in His teaching Jesus Emphasized love and duty of man to man, and the fellowship of brotherhood, as much as man's own personal faith and his relationship to God.

The Hebrew prophets had essentially a social outlook. They thought of "Israel" as a people chosen and called of God, a nation with God-given privileges and responsibilities. To that people and nation they were supremely devoted in a loyalty that was itself a matter of religious intensity. They thought of the nation and the people as a whole, and they had much to say regarding the conditions and principles that made for national happiness, security and welfare. "Righteousness exalteth a nation." "Happy is that nation whose God is the Lord."

But with that social outlook they stressed the need and primary place of personal righteousness. A sound nation could be built only upon sound individuals. Hence every element of personal evil and unrighteousness was an offense not only against God, but an offense against the nation as well, weakening it in its inherent structure and endangering it in the facing of its enemies.

Historically, Achan and his whole family had been put to death when Achan had been found appropriating to himself silver and rich garments looted from the enemy. (Joshua 7:8-12.)

The point was that Achan was grabbing for himself what belonged to all, and in thus acting anti-socially was weakening the community. This notion of the oneness and integrity of the Jewish community persisted srongly, especially in the prophetic conception, long after the Achan incident, when society had become more highly organized. But the principle was the same. Evil, selfishness, unrighteousness in the individual was a social offense. Social religion could be strong only when personal religion was sound.

It is a principle that ought to be emphasized more in our modern democracies. Though punishments are not enforced, grabbing for one's self against the common good is as much a social offense and wrong, in our complex society, as it was in the primitive society of Achan's wrongdoing.

We think of democracy as consisting in majority rule. But the true essence of democracy, and that which alone can make democracy effective, is much deeper. It is self-rule, and the self-rule of the individuals composing the democracy. In a democracy every man is his own king, and the weakness of our democracies is that so many have abdicated.

Who can estimate the strength and power of a nation, democratically organied, in which everyl citizen was exercising his kingly right of self-government? That's an ideal for humanity.

In Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Whatever the state of the nation, the state of mind of the Democratic party is good.

Leaders of the party are as supremely confident as a Notre Dame football team.

They exuded confidence at their $100-a-plate dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York last week. They were dining to raise money for the 1950 congressional campaigns.

They raised the money, all right, along with a gregarious amount of hilarity, which seems to come so much more naturally to Democrats than Republicans.

There was no surface bickering. The internal stresses that racked the party before the 1948 elections were submerged. Nobody seemed to be made at anybody else. Issues did not interfere with digestion.

Of course, one could feel that rivalries and tensions were forming for 1952. Politicos with yet-unspoken ambitions for vice-presidential or even presidential nomination did not hesitate to make themselves as conspicuous as possible. This black-tied, cocktailed, luxury get-together offered an excellent opportunity for the ambitions to be seen, if not heard.

Vice-President Barkley did the speaking. He defended the party's welfare program, in defiance of Republican charges of "statism," and he spoke vigorously.

But the audience was more interested in his wife than his words. She got the most enthusiastic reception when introduced.

"They have made the Democratic party the party of love," said a guest. "You can't beat that."

The Southern Democrats were still jittery about civil rights. But they protested the necessity of "staying within the party and fighting out differences there."

Democrats in other parts of the country were concerned about the health program, so actively pushed by Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing. They felt that organized doctors might bring about Democratic reverses in some senate and house races next year.

But there were fringe fears: the central spirit of the occasion was aggressively cock-sure.

One cannot help drawing a comparison between the pervading spirit within the Democratic party today and the over-confidence that spelled disaster for the Republican party in 1948.

It's been said that the Republicans were not much defeated by the Democrats last year, as by themselves. Could it be that the Democrats, who now seem to have everything on their side—the men, the money, the confidence and the poll takers—are building up for a similar let-down?

Frank M. McHale, Indiana Democratic national committeemen, was sitting at a prominent table at the New York dinner when Paul V. McNutt, former governor of his state dropped by to say hello.

When the tall gray-headed, handsome McNutt had left, McHale said: "There goes a man who might have been president today.

McHale told what happened at the 1940 Democratic convention in Chicago, when McNutt succumbed to the pleadings of Franklin D. Roosevelt and gave way to Henry Wallace for the vice-presidential nomination.

Prior to the convention, McHale had personally visited 22 states to line up votes for McNutt. When the anti-Wallace southerners failed to put over the late Speaker William Bankhead, of Alabama, McNutt emerged as the strongest anti-Wallace candidate.

"We had the votes," McHale says. "What has never been told is that the Alabamans had agreed to go over to McNutt, and the other Bankhead votes from the south would have followed."

It was then that F. D. R. got McNutt on the telephone and—as McHale described it—"sweet-talked McNutt out

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK.—Oscar Odd McIntyre first suggested the idea of a newsreel theater. He enjoyed the newsreels that were parts of regular movie programs, wanted more of them, and for two years hammered away at the idea of a theater to show nothing but newsreels, with perhaps a few short subjects and funnies.

Twenty years ago the idea burst into bloom with the opening of the Embassy theater in Times Square for newsreels. It was an immediate success, and within a short time a dozen were in operation.

The newsreel theater has been dying for the last year or more. The Embassy in East 42d street, near Airlines Terminal, changed to showing rather bad English films, changing its name to Cinema at the same time. The newsreel sign was not removed for some time, however, and I was one of thousands deceived by it for a few weeks, puzzled as to why there were no newspictures in a newsreel theater. The English pictures were dark and dank, badly acted and in a language that Americans cannot understand. So the Cinema went off the visiting lists of many old patrons.

The Embassy in Times Square has now followed the lead of the one in 42d street, and will show no more newsreels. It, too, will depend mostly upon English films for a while. It may have rough going unless the quality of the pictures perks up.

The Grand Central newsreel theater used to be a favorite waiting place for commuters, since there is no place to sit down in the vast Upper Concourse and the waiting room is away downtown from the track gates.

Television is blamed by most of the newsreel men for sickness of the news theaters. This may have something to do with declining patronage, but it's my guess that steady chiseling on program quality and quantity drove the customers away. Replacing the news with third-class British films with chestnutty plots will never cure the patient.

Pre-Christmas thought: If you have children, it may be good for them to share Christmas joy to the extent of giving at least one toy to the Hilltop House Toy Roundup, to bring pleasure to some child who otherwise might have no Christmas happiness. If you have no children, such a gift will surely contribute to your peace of soul when the carols are on the air. Any member of the Lions Club in your town can tell you about the toy collection.

I had a pleasant experience today. Cleaning out a desk drawer that was piled so high that it hasn't been closed in years. I ran across an old Christmas greeting card, bearing graeious wishes and compliments from an unknown correspondent. Unknown to me except by the signature, Martha Langlois. I do not know where the lady lives or how many years ago the greeting was sent. But I hope she is well and happy, for her writing glows with charity and good will.

Now a line from Abraham Lincoln: "The people are the rightful masters of both Congress and the courts—not to overthrow the Constitution but to overthrow the men who pervert it. Legislation and adjudication must follow and conform to the progress of society."

A Real Christmas

Do you want to have the best Christmas possible? Do you want to add a touch to the usual observance that will make the coming holiday so outstanding it will always be remembered? Here's all you have to do, as they say on the radio: Help a family which isn't as fortunate as you—a family which might otherwise have a dreary Christmas, or none at all.

A contribution to the Good Fellows Fund, no matter how small, will help a great deal. There is absolutely no administrative expense in the Good Fellows' operations—services of the sponsors as well as their helpers are donated, and every cent contributed to the fund goes toward making some needy family happier at Christmas time.

Don't consider this in the light of charity. Instead make it an adventure in happiness, in which you share your own good fortune with some less fortunate. Your reward will be in the laughter of happy children, the gratitude revealed in the eyes of a tired mother, who had given up all hopes for anything but a meager Christmas.

To say nothing of the glow which will be in your own heart.

Another Opportunity To Give

Accidents CAN be avoided, but they aren't. We have had a wave of serious traffic accidents in the Monroe area recently and these accidents, particularly, have seriously diminished the supply of blood available to victims through the Red Cross Blood Bank.

A few days ago Judge W. M. Harper, chairman of the Blood Bank, issued an appeal for more blood donors. Several persons have given their blood, not once or twice but four, five and six times to help their fellowmen over the hump between life and death. But more are needed.

Judge Harper's call is urgent. It is a service to humanity which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Won't you follow the example of those who have already done so much to alleviate suffering and save lives of your neighbors in the Twin Cities?

The Last Round

The reconvening of the 81st congress January 3 will signal the opening of the last round of the 63-year-old fight to eliminate discriminatory federal taxes and restrictions on the sale of yellow margarine.

Definite assurance from Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, Democratic majority leader, during the closing weeks of the last session, makes certain that the margarine tax repeal bill will be the first order of business in the senate.

Never have the nation's consumers and vegetable oil farmers been so close to attaining the goal of a free and unrestricted market for margarine. In 1949, the house voted to repeal the margarine taxes by a three-to-one margin. The senate finance committee reported the house bill favorably with one minor amendment. Now the issue is before the senate.

It is unthinkable that the senate would choose to retain on the statute books the out-moded and unjust laws which penalize margarine, the nutritious product of one group of American farmers, so that the competing product of another group of farmers may benefit.

The farmers who produce vegetable oils have no quarrel with butter as a product. No more so have the millions of housewives and American workers who have bitterly protested the federal taxes on yellow margarine.

The cotton and soybean farmers of this land simply want a fair and equal opportunity to market the product which consumes a major share of their vegetable oils. The consumers of the nation only ask for an opportunity to make their choice between butter and margarine on a freely competitive market.

We believe that our senators should allow margarine its first opportunity in more than six decades to compete for consumer markets without the trammels of federal penalties and restrictions.

Germany Grows Stronger

Grave risks attend the mounting competition for Germany between the western powers and the Soviet Union. Although still divided into eastern and western zones, Germany today is stronger than it would have been without such spirited rivalry. Tomorrow it may be far stronger if the EAST-West tug-of-war goes on.

There is bitter irony in this situtation. The Allied nations felt they had been too soft on Germany after World War I. They believed their post-war course had actually spurred the rise of nazism and opened the way to another war. And they were determined it should not happen again.

The decisions taken at Yalta and Potsdam by the Allied leaders were designed to create a post-war Germany that would be robbed forever of its war-making power. In those days there was even serious talk of reducing Germany to an agricultural nation.

What the West did not expect was Russia's uncooperative policy in Germany. This attitude quickly wrecked all hopes for smooth progress toward a peace treaty and threw East and West into a strenuous struggle for the people, the industry and the land of Germany.

Naturally this contest sharpened rather than lessened the division of its territory into two opposing camps. Each contestant made concessions to Germans under its control, not only to keep them in hand but to woo Germans from the other side.

From such competition arose the West German republic governed from Bonn and the East German republic based in Berlin. When the Russians set up their German state, they granted certain privileges they felt sure would also be attractive to Germans in the West.

Sure enough, the leaders of the Bonn republic promptly appealed for new concessions to offset those gained in the eastern section. Just a few days ago the West acceded to some of these demands and laid the groundwork for a considerably more powerful post-war Germany.

The western countries agreed to stop dismantling 23 factories making steel, oil and synthetic rubber. One plant in this list accounted for 10 per cent of Germany's pre-war steel-making capacity. Restrictions of German merchant shipbuilding were relaxed. The Bonn government will be allowed to have trade representatives overseas.

Western Germany did, of course, make certain promises in return. It acknowledged international control of the rich Ruhr industrial district. Existing limits on steel output—as contrasted with capacity—remain.

To reinforce these promises, Secretary of Defense Johnson has declared that the West has no intention of fostering a revived German army under western authority.

The idea of such a force, the idea of all these concessions, is to develop Western Germany as a strong contributor to the security of the free world against the Russian Communist threat.

The stronger Western Germany gets, the bigger prize it becomes in any bidding for its allegiance. Thus the more likely are further concessions to keep the strengthened land within the western nations' family.

The West is admittedly trapped in a difficult situation by Russia's rivalry. But that cannot minimize the fact that day by day we are yielding more and more strength to a Germany we said a few years ago should never again be powerful enough to wage war.

Monroe, La.
December 7, 1949.

To the Editor:

A significant step toward the restoration of rational economy—in the operation of our government—has been initiated by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. I sincerely hope that the program, "Operation Economy," will bring to the American public an acute awareness of the following facts:

That the only monopoly threatening the very exisience of our way of life is daily evident in the results of the perpetuation of the one party form of government. Our from of government requires that we have at least a two-party representation successive in authority in all of our executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government in Washington. The big business executive has yet to be born that can wreak the damage in the capitol that an unbridled donkey is committing.

Results of the handiwork of the little animal—who is supposed to be the only positive animal in existence—is revealed in the benefits he boasts of having given us. To place one dollar of G. I. benefits in the hands of a veteran requires the maximum of duplication of effort and hundreds of useless employes in the Veterans Administration. An American can buy a new house for patients cheaper than the line on rents maintained by our salaried rent control employes. Yet, we still have them with us. With regards to the distribution of the G. I. insurance surplus. The best interests of both the veteran and the nation could have been served by applying the vets share to his insurance premiums of the future.

This could have been accomplished with the regular employes of the Veterans Administration who handle the insurance chores. But the long-eared fraternity had to hire an additional group of temporary employes to handle the big deal. The advisers failed to tell them that this would be a boost to inflation. So the temporary employes were hired. A temporary employe is an American who makes out his private life will before he embarks upon his temporary duties. He will never return to private life when he accepts a temporary job in the present one-way form of government.

All in all the donkey should not try to take over big business. The Western Union has shown him for years that a public service organization can be run privately at a profit to both the public and the owners. Yet, the United States post office department is still operated by the government at a $400,000,000 deficit. It is the American's fault. We need competent postmasters and the only way we can get them is by exercising more caution in the selection of our congressmen. We lost the atomic secret through the positive animal's failure to learn in the army that you should always credit your enemy with the possession of equal if not superior intelligence.

We must make a change in Washington. The "Veep" is the antithesis to the belief that public life is hard on Democrats. We must aid providence in making the change by voting intelligently.

It seems that the removal of the White House to Florida was just to arrange a rendezvous of Harry and his pals to discuss the battle of the "bureaucratic bulge" and little else.

Yours sincerely,
ARTHUR M. LE BLANC, JR.

To the Editor:

The Louisiana State Organization for Public Health Nursing wishes to express its sincere appreciation for the cooperation by your newspaper in the matter, of publicity during the recent nurses' convention.

The success of the convention was in a large measure due to such friendly courtesies as were offered by your staff.

Sincerely,
ELIZABETH ENGERAN, R. N.,
Secretary Louisiana State Organization for Public Health Nursing.

MISQUOTED

Baton Rouge, La.
December 7, 1949.

To the Editor:

I would like to correct an impression which I feel was erroneously conveyed in your newspaper on November 23, 1949.

I was quoted as favoring the taxation of big oil companies, to pay for education. This is incorrect. What I actually said, was that I had supported increased severance taxes during the 1948 session of the legislature, because I felt it was the answer to our need for additional revenue for educational purposes.

I do not favor any further increase of that tax, and so far as I know, there is on move afoot in that direction.

Thank you, and with kindest regards, I remain

Sincerely,
RUSSELL B. LONG,
United States Senator.

WILL THE FUN LAST?

The great civic organization of Kiwanis International, with clubs in the United States and Canada, has been issuing monthly leaflets for the past two years, with the general title theme, "It's Fun To Live In America." The leaflets have been well-written and attractive, and have very effectively called attention to the advantages of what we have come to know in this country as "The American Way of Life."

In that respect, at least, these pamphlets have been very worthwhile. But there is an inherent danger in a glorification of the past and the present that gives no thought to the future. Perhaps Kiwanis International thought it was enough to show that the average citizen in the United States fares better than the average citizen in any other country on the face of the globe—but that is not enough. There is danger of complacency in stopping there. It is much more important to the future welfare of this nation to call the attention of this average citizen to the fact that measures are being taken in this country that will inevitably and irrevocably result in a continual lessening and lessening of his standard of living.

It is difficult to get this danger across to the average citizen. Certainly he will not be impressed with the danger if he is told it is fun to live in America—and nothing more. He will not realize it so long as political leaders tell him that all the measures being taken are for the benefit of "the little man."

It is time for this average citizen, if his responsible leaders will not give him the facts, to do a little thinking for himself. He might well remember that once upon a time "it was fun to live in Great Britain." But it is fun no longer! And yet all the measures that have been taken by the Socialist government of Great Britain since it was elected to office in 1945 have been, they claim, in the interest of this average citizen, of this "little man." But instead of an increase in their standard of living, the people of Great Britain have sunk lower and lower into degredation and frustration and austerity and despair. And it is the "average citizen" who has suffered most!

From our knowledge of past history and from viewing the current experience of Great Britain, it should be very clear why the people cannot turn over to their government all responsibility for their welfare and happiness. To do so dries up the very wellsprings of man's prosperity and progress—initiative and incentive and ingenuity. The dignity of the individual is destroyed—he becomes just one more sheep in a flock of sheep.

Former Secretary of States James F. Byrnes was not simply making an oratorical statement the other day when he said that the policies now being carried out and proposed by our present administration are "making the small man smaller day by day." He was simply recognizing the fact that a government that seizes more and more power unto itself, a government that adopts a policy of "taxing and taxing, and spending and spending," a government that ignores the fundamental principle of financial solvency of living within its income, is at the same time a government that loses sight of the "small man," is a government that cares much more about the retention of its own power than it does about the welfare of the people—regardless of its protestations to the contrary.

In a recent article, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, makes the statement that the national budget could be cut $10 billion without impairing in any way the soundness of our government. The administration, admitting we shall spend $5 or $6 billion more than our income this year, only proposes that taxes be increased to take care of the deficit. The average citizen should have no trouble deciding which procedure would be in his interest.

This same average citizen may well begin to wonder how long it will be "fun to live in America" if we continue down the road we are traveling.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

WILL LEWIS WIN?

To a very large minority of editors John L. Lewis' effort to break the ranks of the coal operators by local bargaining is an act of desperation indicating that his on-again, off-again strike strategy is definitely failing. A plurality of editors agree that the move is a strategic retreat, and question whether it will succeed; but they hesitate to count the resourceful Lewis out yet. A small minority sees Lewis' latest strategy, combined with his controlled production of coal, as a well calculated tactical move with the odds still in his favor.

St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press (Ind.): "The fact that John L. Lewis has sent his miners back to work is not so important as the decision to allow the local unions to negotiate for contracts with individual companies. The end of industry-wide bargaining holds out hope for more stability and serenity on this economic front than has been experienced in many years. Mr. Lewis' intentions on this score, however, are not clear. For one thing, he does not explain how his welfare fund, which presumably has been the heart of this long controversy, is to fare under a system of individual company contracts."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "Perhaps Mr. Lewis hopes to break down the united opposition of the operators to his demands by taking them on one at a time and inducing them to make concessions as the price of return to a full-time work week. If he succeeds in this latest effort 'to divide and conquer,' it seems virtually certain that the wage contracts negotiated with companies that capitulate will follow a set pattern that he will then try to impose on the rest of the industry. For we do not believe that Mr. Lewis has any intention of abandoning his drive for nation-wide contracts, in substance if not in form."

Cincinnati (Ohio) Times-Star (Rep.): "Lewis has suffered a major setback. . . . He has abandoned his effort toward industry-wide bargaining, and he has been forced to yield to a growing feeling of revolt among his followers who faced a payless Christmas season. . . . Lewis obviously hopes for a 'Bethlehem' break whereby an agreement with one operator will set the pattern for the whole industry. But . . . no operator as yet has given indications of breaking away from the solid front of opposition to Lewis' tactics."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "By abandoning industry-wide bargaining, the United Mine Workers will apply divide-and-conquer tactics to competing mines. . . . Possibly Lewis hopes to keep coal stocks just low enough so that heavy industry will put pressure on coal operators to sign new contracts. With a week divided between work and strike, Lewis may also be able to avoid federal intervention . . . Observers close to Lewis . . . predict that his aggressive strategy will prevail . . . Coal miners know that their average weekly wage has tripled in a decade, and appreciate this when they appraise Lewis."

Wilmington (Del.) Morning News (Ind.): "Three previous strikes in 1949 forced the miners to live on their economic fat, if they had any. Now there is no fat left. Worse still, miners working three days a week . . . don't know how soon they will be asked to walk out again . . . The time may not be ripe for a rank-and-file revolt against Lewis . . . But Lewis would be foolish not to gauge their possible reaction pretty carefully before making his next move. The operators know that, too, and it will be a miracle if John L. can wangle a new contract this time without coming down off his high horse."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Ind.): "War on the coal front has resolved itself into one of attrition, with Generalissimo John L. Lewis having the situation well in hand . . . A three-day week . . . will keep the miners in spending money and it will also serve to deplete the stock piles. And when supplies are at their lowest, the matter of contracts will assume real importance . . . Mr. Lewis can assume that operators will come to terms rather than see their plants shut down and their employes on the street."

Louisville (Ky.) Times (Ind.-Dem.): "It is extremely dangerous to underestimate Lewis' genius as a labor strategist. But this time he appears to have strolled out on a quivering limb . . . The coal operators have countered the unified labor force with a unified front of their own and all Lewis' attempts to crack it—as in Indiana and Illinois—have failed. The strategist who before always had his campaign mapped out now appears to be improvising through the three-day week in an effort to gain more time."

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

One hears talk often of "social religion," and "the social Gospel." It is understandable that such phrases, with their emphasis should come into use in protest against the idea that religion is a mainly, or purely, individual, personal matter.

But such phrases actually are redundant. Can one imagine a religion that has in it any truth or any demands of duty that is not social? And, most certainly if there were a gospel that is not social, it would not be the Christian gospel. At every point in His teaching Jesus Emphasized love and duty of man to man, and the fellowship of brotherhood, as much as man's own personal faith and his relationship to God.

The Hebrew prophets had essentially a social outlook. They thought of "Israel" as a people chosen and called of God, a nation with God-given privileges and responsibilities. To that people and nation they were supremely devoted in a loyalty that was itself a matter of religious intensity. They thought of the nation and the people as a whole, and they had much to say regarding the conditions and principles that made for national happiness, security and welfare. "Righteousness exalteth a nation." "Happy is that nation whose God is the Lord."

But with that social outlook they stressed the need and primary place of personal righteousness. A sound nation could be built only upon sound individuals. Hence every element of personal evil and unrighteousness was an offense not only against God, but an offense against the nation as well, weakening it in its inherent structure and endangering it in the facing of its enemies.

Historically, Achan and his whole family had been put to death when Achan had been found appropriating to himself silver and rich garments looted from the enemy. (Joshua 7:8-12.)

The point was that Achan was grabbing for himself what belonged to all, and in thus acting anti-socially was weakening the community. This notion of the oneness and integrity of the Jewish community persisted srongly, especially in the prophetic conception, long after the Achan incident, when society had become more highly organized. But the principle was the same. Evil, selfishness, unrighteousness in the individual was a social offense. Social religion could be strong only when personal religion was sound.

It is a principle that ought to be emphasized more in our modern democracies. Though punishments are not enforced, grabbing for one's self against the common good is as much a social offense and wrong, in our complex society, as it was in the primitive society of Achan's wrongdoing.

We think of democracy as consisting in majority rule. But the true essence of democracy, and that which alone can make democracy effective, is much deeper. It is self-rule, and the self-rule of the individuals composing the democracy. In a democracy every man is his own king, and the weakness of our democracies is that so many have abdicated.

Who can estimate the strength and power of a nation, democratically organied, in which everyl citizen was exercising his kingly right of self-government? That's an ideal for humanity.

In Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Whatever the state of the nation, the state of mind of the Democratic party is good.

Leaders of the party are as supremely confident as a Notre Dame football team.

They exuded confidence at their $100-a-plate dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York last week. They were dining to raise money for the 1950 congressional campaigns.

They raised the money, all right, along with a gregarious amount of hilarity, which seems to come so much more naturally to Democrats than Republicans.

There was no surface bickering. The internal stresses that racked the party before the 1948 elections were submerged. Nobody seemed to be made at anybody else. Issues did not interfere with digestion.

Of course, one could feel that rivalries and tensions were forming for 1952. Politicos with yet-unspoken ambitions for vice-presidential or even presidential nomination did not hesitate to make themselves as conspicuous as possible. This black-tied, cocktailed, luxury get-together offered an excellent opportunity for the ambitions to be seen, if not heard.

Vice-President Barkley did the speaking. He defended the party's welfare program, in defiance of Republican charges of "statism," and he spoke vigorously.

But the audience was more interested in his wife than his words. She got the most enthusiastic reception when introduced.

"They have made the Democratic party the party of love," said a guest. "You can't beat that."

The Southern Democrats were still jittery about civil rights. But they protested the necessity of "staying within the party and fighting out differences there."

Democrats in other parts of the country were concerned about the health program, so actively pushed by Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing. They felt that organized doctors might bring about Democratic reverses in some senate and house races next year.

But there were fringe fears: the central spirit of the occasion was aggressively cock-sure.

One cannot help drawing a comparison between the pervading spirit within the Democratic party today and the over-confidence that spelled disaster for the Republican party in 1948.

It's been said that the Republicans were not much defeated by the Democrats last year, as by themselves. Could it be that the Democrats, who now seem to have everything on their side—the men, the money, the confidence and the poll takers—are building up for a similar let-down?

Frank M. McHale, Indiana Democratic national committeemen, was sitting at a prominent table at the New York dinner when Paul V. McNutt, former governor of his state dropped by to say hello.

When the tall gray-headed, handsome McNutt had left, McHale said: "There goes a man who might have been president today.

McHale told what happened at the 1940 Democratic convention in Chicago, when McNutt succumbed to the pleadings of Franklin D. Roosevelt and gave way to Henry Wallace for the vice-presidential nomination.

Prior to the convention, McHale had personally visited 22 states to line up votes for McNutt. When the anti-Wallace southerners failed to put over the late Speaker William Bankhead, of Alabama, McNutt emerged as the strongest anti-Wallace candidate.

"We had the votes," McHale says. "What has never been told is that the Alabamans had agreed to go over to McNutt, and the other Bankhead votes from the south would have followed."

It was then that F. D. R. got McNutt on the telephone and—as McHale described it—"sweet-talked McNutt out

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK.—Oscar Odd McIntyre first suggested the idea of a newsreel theater. He enjoyed the newsreels that were parts of regular movie programs, wanted more of them, and for two years hammered away at the idea of a theater to show nothing but newsreels, with perhaps a few short subjects and funnies.

Twenty years ago the idea burst into bloom with the opening of the Embassy theater in Times Square for newsreels. It was an immediate success, and within a short time a dozen were in operation.

The newsreel theater has been dying for the last year or more. The Embassy in East 42d street, near Airlines Terminal, changed to showing rather bad English films, changing its name to Cinema at the same time. The newsreel sign was not removed for some time, however, and I was one of thousands deceived by it for a few weeks, puzzled as to why there were no newspictures in a newsreel theater. The English pictures were dark and dank, badly acted and in a language that Americans cannot understand. So the Cinema went off the visiting lists of many old patrons.

The Embassy in Times Square has now followed the lead of the one in 42d street, and will show no more newsreels. It, too, will depend mostly upon English films for a while. It may have rough going unless the quality of the pictures perks up.

The Grand Central newsreel theater used to be a favorite waiting place for commuters, since there is no place to sit down in the vast Upper Concourse and the waiting room is away downtown from the track gates.

Television is blamed by most of the newsreel men for sickness of the news theaters. This may have something to do with declining patronage, but it's my guess that steady chiseling on program quality and quantity drove the customers away. Replacing the news with third-class British films with chestnutty plots will never cure the patient.

Pre-Christmas thought: If you have children, it may be good for them to share Christmas joy to the extent of giving at least one toy to the Hilltop House Toy Roundup, to bring pleasure to some child who otherwise might have no Christmas happiness. If you have no children, such a gift will surely contribute to your peace of soul when the carols are on the air. Any member of the Lions Club in your town can tell you about the toy collection.

I had a pleasant experience today. Cleaning out a desk drawer that was piled so high that it hasn't been closed in years. I ran across an old Christmas greeting card, bearing gracious wishes and compliments from an unknown correspondent. Unknown to me except by the signature, Martha Langlois. I do not know where the lady lives or how many years ago the greeting was sent. But I hope she is well and happy, for her writing glows with charity and good will.

Now a line from Abraham Lincoln: "The people are the rightful masters of both Congress and the courts—not to overthrow the Constitution but to overthrow the men who pervert it. Legislation and adjudication must follow and conform to the progress of society."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

MOON WITH GUITARS

Last night I got a phone call from my Aunt Frieda.

"If you can come quick," she said, "come quick. Your Uncle Charlie is in trouble."

Half an hour later I was in the flat on the lower east side where Frieda has been keeping house and health for my uncle for the past 30 years.

"What's up?" I asked.

"Charlie is hiding in Brooklyn with his brother," said Frieda.

"Hiding from what?"

"From Herman Schloomp, the butcher, who is telling how he is going to knock out your uncle's eye."

"What did Charlie do to Schloomp?"

"What didn't he do!" said Frieda. "But better I should tell it to you in sequins. . . .

"So happens last summer your uncle and me, we are one afternoon taking the air on Delancey street. On the sidewalk, like always, is all kinds chalk-marks and scratch-ups from children, which your uncle has been seeing all his life.

"'Is very touching,' says Charlie. 'Is here on the sidewalks the soul of the east side trying for some kind expression. Some day should be a real paintner to draw up the neighborhood.'

"Well, like you know, with Charlie to think is to do something crazy. The next night he is going to the settlement house and joining a art class. And in the room is sitting a fat girl in a kimona on a platform, and the scholars are holding out their thumbs and squinting with the eyes.

"'Draw exactly what you see,' says the teacher.

"Half hour later, when the teacher comes for a to-look-see what your uncle has done, he begins making noises like busting. On Charlie's drawing board is a picture of a thumbnail sitting on top a big pencil.

"'This is a class in drawing, not manicuring,' says the teacher. 'Take your business someplace else.'

"When Charlie comes home mad, I tell him, 'Let sleeping dogs stay sleeping.' But you know your uncle—next day he is going uptown to the Museum from Modern Art, and when he gets back he is all agoggle.

"'Frieda,' he says, 'to be a paintner, a man don't need perspective. What he needs is guitars. A picture can be a piece fruit or a chair with one leg—makes no difference so long as in the corner is a guitar.'

"So, for the next week he is painting guitars—Moon Over Stanton Street with Guitars, Baby on Pushcart with Guitars, and even a picture, Guitar With Guitars.

"Then, a few weeks later as the crow flies, is opening in the Metropolitan for fifty cents a show from a Frenchman—Van Glick, Van Goldberg, something—"

"Van Gogh?" I suggested.

"What's the difference so long as you're healthy," said Aunt Frieda. "When Charlie is coming from the museum he is saying, 'Today I find out something absolutely hair-racing. This Van Cook is all his life selling one picture for few measly dollars, but now when he's dead and can't eat, his paintings is worth thirty million. No wonder he is cutting off his ear and they got to drag him to a asylum.'

"Your uncle mills and mulls for a few days and then he is making a decision. 'Frieda,' he says, 'it doesn't pay a man should be like this Van Cook. Supposing I sell, maybe, one picture for five dollars during my lifetime entire, and then when I'm dead and gone the pictures is worth thirty million. By the time I am dead and gone, you will be likewise dead and gone, so who gets the thirty million? My brother. Why should that loafer get thirty million? Let him go out and make his own thirty million. From now on, I am strictly a old-stylish realist and making pictures with cash value like Grandma Moses. Which I am signing Grandpa Moishe."

"Next day Charlie is going to see our butcher. 'I am going to paint a muriel on your wall,' he says, 'a whole panorama all kinds succulent meats. Will be good for the cash register.'

"Schloomp says, 'What I got to lose,' and so Charlie paints him a muriel which he calls by name, the Spirit of Meat. When it is finished, Schloomp is saying when he sees your uncle he knocks out his eye."

"Was it that bad?" I asked.

"A man could go bankrupt from such a picture," said my Aunt Frieda. "In Herman's strictly Kosher store, your uncle is painting on the wall nice cuts Rinderbrust, chuck steaks, first-class plucked chickens. But in the middle is the Spirit of Meat holding a fifteen-pound—you should excuse the expression—Virginia ham."

A sentimental comedy-drama that will win the hearts of fans everywhere. Put it on your should-see list. . . . FAIR: Monograms' "Master Minds" (Leo Gorcey-Huntz Hall-Glenn Strange-Gabriel Dell). The "Bowery Boys" cavort again in a formula picture that's just about par for the course. . . . Universal-International's "Undertow" (Scott Brady-John Russell-Dorothy Hart). Contrived melodrama that lacks both punch and logic. . . . Film Classics' "The Pirates of Capri" (Louis Hayward-Binnie Barnes-Alan Curtis). Swashbuckling romance, made boresome by its slow tempo, over-written dialogue and predictable plot . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Richard Todd in "The Hasty Heart."

Never has the movie industry been more thoroughly "high-hatted" by a visiting celebrity than it was by His Majesty, the Shah of Persia, when he came to Los Angeles last week. My heart bleeds for the lacerated sensibilities of all the stars and studio moguls who saw their invitations flouted. But somehow, I can't help suspecting that John and Jane Public will, henceforth, cherish a high opinion of at least one Oriental potentate. Hollywood's feverish eagerness to make publicity capital of visiting royalty is so transparently inspired by self-interest and vanity that whent the visitor allows himself to be "suckered" he loses immeasurably in dignity.

Speaking of kings, I'm reminded of queens, and the recent announcement, made by the president of a national clipping bureau, that Joan Crawford is the most publicized woman in the history of the world. That I don't doubt, for Joan has been a top-flight screen star, extolled by all the immense publicity machinery of the picture industry, for nearly 25 years. But I can't help wondering whether the kind of fame engendered by such publicity has the quality of permanence. I'm thinking just now of another actress who, only 30 years ago, was one of the two greatest stars in Hollywood. She, too, received tremendous publicity. But I wonder how many of you, today, remember Marguerite Clark.

The widely-heralded personal appearance tour of the "Selznick stars"—a group headed by Louis Jourdan, Rhonda Fleming and John Agar—has been anything but a success. In fact, it flopped so dismally in its first few engagements that time-out had to be taken while writers frantically tried to revamp the entire act. It seems to me that the misadventures of the Selznick troupe should demonstrate, once and for all, the folly of sending movie stars out on theatre tours unless they are trained stage entertainers. I have nothing but sympathy for this particular group since they undertook the jaunt most unwillingly. And I hope that those audiences which were disappointed in their original act will bear that unwillngness in mind and put the blame for the fiasco where it properly belongs. Selznick, a veteran of show business, should have known better, and spared a trio of admirable youngsters a humiliation which could well be injurious to their careers.

of opposing Wallace further.

McHale says Roosevelt promised McNutt that he would be "taken care of."

McNutt therefore arose before the climactic ballot, and in a dramatic speech took himself out of the race, giving the nomination to Wallace as Roosevelt desired.

McHale was subsequently given the post of Federal Security administrator, which he held until 1945. Today he practices law.

As McHale reminisced about what-might-have-been, he pictured McNutt as winning the nomination and vice-presidency in 1940; retaining the post in 1944; taking the oath on April 12, 1945 in the place of Harry S. Truman, and winning reelection in 1948, as Truman did.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE MARROW OF FACT

During all the years of fierce propaganda to convince the American people that Soviet Russia is a good nation, that Stalin is a good dictator, that communism is becoming a good system, men and women who believed no such thing and even knew that it was all untrue, toed the mark and followed the pipers of power. Their excuse today is that they were patriotic and followed national policy. Some of them limit their parrotings to the war years and insist that they could not oppose their own government during a war. Many of them today are anxious that their records of those years should be forgotten; that what they said and wrote should not be resurrected to plague them.

On the other hand, during this same period, men and women of courage and integrity, at personal risk, insisted upon stating the truth as they could find it. To mention a few, there were Westbrook Pegler, John T. Flynn, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Isaac Don Levine, J. B. Matthews, Eugene Lyons, Ben Gitlow, who tried to warn the American people that they were being tricked and fooled. All of us—and there were more than are here noted—became unpopular; we were smeared, attacked, abused, and lied about.

For instance, J. B. Matthews told the tale of the Harold Ware espionage cell in 1939 and he was called a liar. Today, the existence and nature of that cell is being disclosed in the second Alger Hiss trial. I called constant attention in these articles to the menace of Harry Hopkins' authority over our government; today, that is being disclosed in data as diverse as Edward Stettinius' book and the charges of Major George Racey Jordan. Pegler and others disclosed the relations between the Communists and the C. I. O. and Pegler was defamed in every possible manner, but in the second Alger Hiss trial much is coming out, and more will appear in the quarrel between the C. I. O. and U. E. and other Communists unions.

An organized efforts is now being made to smear Fulton Lewis, Jr. This is nothing new. He was, for a time, nearly forced off the air by an organized and wicked campaign to paint him as an anti-semite. When Hitler was around, such a charge, true or false, was sufficient to kill off any writer and commentator. Now, he is being accused of inaccuracy. When one asks for a bill of particulars, none is offered.

Basically, the theory of the aggressive defenders of lying is to besmirch everyone who tells the truth. Lewis brought Harry Hopkins back into the news and again raised the issue of his menacing relations to our government. The defenders of Hopkins are unable to establish his purity; he is dead and cannot direct them and whatever is the record, good or bad, will show.

Harry Hopkins, like any other figure in history, will have to stand the test of time and the disclosure of records. There is nothing more he can do about it than Hitler, Mussolini, Julius Caesar, Franklin D. Roosevelt or King Tut can do about their records. No matter what documents are burned or what information is suppressed, the truth has a curious way of coming out. I know, for instance, of a research worker who, quite objectively, has been going through Dean Acheson's White Book on China, to discover from it what documents have been suppressed. It is possible from the records of the Tokyo trials of the Japanese war criminals to piece together data that is not yet available in the present published American material.

The historical researcher finds a fact here, some data there and soon enough, it all falls into place. The whole story of Yalta needs still to be told, but it is already possible to begin to correlate sketchy American, British and Russian material. Some day, Chiang Kai-Shek's archives will become available to add an index.

When all the characters involved in those years are dead. It will be easier to discover the truth. Only foolish men can believe that they know ways of suppressing the indices to the betrayal of the United States in the interest of Russia, because that betrayal did occur.

OUR CHILDREN

TRY IT

Boys and girls, when you are face to face with a job that seems too hard for you, try it. If someone else has done it, you can do it if you really want to and it is always better to add a success to your record than a failure. Try with all your might and you will succeed.

Maybe somebody said you could not make the grade. Don't take that. Try. Nobody knows what you can do, not even yourself. Your strength is within you, in the strength of your spirit, and that has not been measured by anybody, by any scale, yet. It never will be, for the strength of the spirit is beyond understanding. Keep trying.

Until you have faced the hard job and, pecking away at it, succeeded in taking it over completely, you cannot know, you can have no idea of the joy of living, of working and achieving. Doing the easy routine things and little to your spiritual height and weight. And it is the power of your spirit that is going to be the measure of your worthiness to be counted among the honored ones of your time.

Each of us faces a different task. For one it may be learning to love truth and to do battle for it. For another it may be learning to think away from self toward others. Maybe it is overcoming a bad habit like laziness, or putting off a duty, or finishing a task that is begun. Whatever it is, it is the Giant Difficulty which must be overcome to win the shining sword of the valiant in spirit. Try and try again.

Perhaps you find arithmetic difficult? The teacher dislikes you and you him. The problems he gives are too hard? Do them. They have been done before so you can do them, too. Do them and you will feel like a hero, as you are.

You find French too much for you? Laugh at yourself and remember little French children find it easy. Do that lesson first, when you are rested and your mind is refreshed. Know you can do it and you will surprise yourself and your teacher as well.

Remember that lessons are not the important thing in school. You are. The lessons, the teachers, the big school are for you because your people, all the people of this great country want to help you grow into a real person, a man of spirit, of character, of great strength. By overcoming the hard jobs you get closer to this goal.

Easy things do themselves, but they grow no wings for your spirit, the wings that will enable you to soar to heights of victory. Only the hard jobs can do that. Try, and keep trying, and you must succeed.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

MOON WITH GUITARS

Last night I got a phone call from my Aunt Frieda.

"If you can come quick," she said, "come quick. Your Uncle Charlie is in trouble."

Half an hour later I was in the flat on the lower east side where Frieda has been keeping house and health for my uncle for the past 30 years.

"What's up?" I asked.

"Charlie is hiding in Brooklyn with his brother," said Frieda.

"Hiding from what?"

"From Herman Schloomp, the butcher, who is telling how he is going to knock out your uncle's eye."

"What did Charlie do to Schloomp?"

"What didn't he do!" said Frieda. "But better I should tell it to you in sequins. . . .

"So happens last summer your uncle and me, we are one afternoon taking the air on Delancey street. On the sidewalk, like always, is all kinds chalk-marks and scratch-ups from children, which your uncle has been seeing all his life.

"'Is very touching,' says Charlie. 'Is here on the sidewalks the soul of the east side trying for some kind expression. Some day should be a real paintner to draw up the neighborhood.'

"Well, like you know, with Charlie to think is to do something crazy. The next night he is going to the settlement house and joining a art class. And in the room is sitting a fat girl in a kimona on a platform, and the scholars are holding out their thumbs and squinting with the eyes.

"'Draw exactly what you see,' says the teacher.

"Half hour later, when the teacher comes for a to-look-see what your uncle has done, he begins making noises like busting. On Charlie's drawing board is a picture of a thumbnail sitting on top a big pencil.

"'This is a class in drawing, not manicuring,' says the teacher. 'Take your business someplace else.'

"When Charlie comes home mad, I tell him, 'Let sleeping dogs stay sleeping.' But you know your uncle—next day he is going uptown to the Museum from Modern Art, and when he gets back he is all agoggle.

"'Frieda,' he says, 'to be a paintner, a man don't need perspective. What he needs is guitars. A picture can be a piece fruit or a chair with one leg—makes no difference so long as in the corner is a guitar.'

"So, for the next week he is painting guitars—Moon Over Stanton Street with Guitars, Baby on Pushcart with Guitars, and even a picture, Guitar With Guitars.

"Then, a few weeks later as the crow flies, is opening in the Metropolitan for fifty cents a show from a Frenchman—Van Glick, Van Goldberg, something—"

"Van Gogh?" I suggested.

"What's the difference so long as you're healthy," said Aunt Frieda. "When Charlie is coming from the museum he is saying, 'Today I find out something absolutely hair-racing. This Van Cook is all his life selling one picture for few measly dollars, but now when he's dead and can't eat, his paintings is worth thirty million. No wonder he is cutting off his ear and they got to drag him to a asylum.'

"Your uncle mills and mulls for a few days and then he is making a decision. 'Frieda,' he says, 'it doesn't pay a man should be like this Van Cook. Supposing I sell, maybe, one picture for five dollars during my lifetime entire, and then when I'm dead and gone the pictures is worth thirty million. By the time I am dead and gone, you will be likewise dead and gone, so who gets the thirty million? My brother. Why should that loafer get thirty million? Let him go out and make his own thirty million. From now on, I am strictly a old-stylish realist and making pictures with cash value like Grandma Moses. Which I am signing Grandpa Moishe."

"Next day Charlie is going to see our butcher. 'I am going to paint a muriel on your wall,' he says, 'a whole panorama all kinds succulent meats. Will be good for the cash register.'

"Schloomp says, 'What I got to lose,' and so Charlie paints him a muriel which he calls by name, the Spirit of Meat. When it is finished, Schloomp is saying when he sees your uncle he knocks out his eye."

"Was it that bad?" I asked.

"A man could go bankrupt from such a picture," said my Aunt Frieda. "In Herman's strictly Kosher store, your uncle is painting on the wall nice cuts Rinderbrust, chuck steaks, first-class plucked chickens. But in the middle is the Spirit of Meat holding a fifteen-pound—you should excuse the expression—Virginia ham."

ANNOUNCE HONOR ROLL AT N. J. C.

Fred W. Rogers, William B. McLemore Hold Perfect Averages

Sophomores William B. McLemore, agriculture major of Gilbert, and Fred W. Rogers, chemical engineering major of Monroe, tied for highest score on the Northeast Junior College honor roll for mid-semester ratings. They received a 3.00 or perfect average.

Second highest honors were captured by two freshmen coeds, Joan Parker, pre-law student of Monroe, and Barbara Franklin, chemistry major of West Monroe. They followed the top ranking grades with 2.95 and 2.83 scores respectively.

Others who won places on the honor roll, which requires a minimum 2.50 average, were: Gloria Dice, Barbara McIntyre, Quinn Becker, Howard Brown, Jr., Louise Guthrie, David Jones, Talmadge Foster, Emma Marx, Elizabeth Rogers, Elmer Slagle, Jr., Donald Poe, Ray Steele, Rex Pensinger, James Smith and Betty Cruthirds.

Twenty-nine students received honorable mention. The requisite score was a minimum 2.00. The list comprised: Joe Griffing, Agnes Jones, Mary Lou Applewhite, S. T. Howell, Jarrell Matkins, Jack Fecumdus, Donald Caldwell, William Hair, Wayne Franks, William Head, Claire White, Everette Johnson, Jane Birdsong, Jesse Lindow, Jeannine Watson, Jeanne Bridges, Austin Harrell, Joe Westbrook, Austin Harrell, Joan Bufkin, Vennie Ellerbe, James Holley.

James McEacharn, Louise Stone, Jesse Chase, Madeline Farnell, Douglas Head, Beth Montgomery, Kenneth Norsworthy and Margaret Pickens.

ANGLO-AMERICAN

sembly for the strengthening of peace, the Anglo-American bloc exerted all efforts toward converting it into a session to cover up aggression and the preparations for a new war. While, at the fourth session of the general assembly, the representatives of the United States and the United Kingdom exerted efforts to prevent the adoption of the Soviet Union proposal directed toward the strengthening of peace and the security of peoples, the Anglo-American imperialists and warmongers, preparing behind the back of the United Nations a black plot against peace, worked out strategic plans of aggression against peace-loving states."

He said the session had been unsatisfactory—the same verdict rendered by his chief, Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, when that chief Russian diplomat sailed for home earlier this week.

The delegates showed what they thought of the Russian charges earlier this session by snowing them under with the biggest margin of victory ever given the west in the U. N. on a major issue. By 53 votes to 5 (the Slav bloc) the assembly approved a western statement of the essentials of peace.

Final moves of the assembly today were:

1. Adoption of the 1950 U. N. budget totaling $49,641,773. This includes $8,000,000 estimated necessary at the outset for internationalization of Jerusalem. When all bookkeeping is done, the U. N. expects to ask the 59 members for $34,171,583 for 1950 ordinary expenditures, as compared to $41,617,000 for 1949. The $8,000,000 was considered here as an extraordinary expense. The U. N. will call on the members to contribute $4,000,000 at once. The internationalization scheme approved last night has been bitterly opposed by both Israel and Hashemite Jordan, the Jerusalem occupying powers. The mayor of Jewish Jerusalem said today his people would take up arms against it if necessary.

2. Election of Adrian Pelt of The Netherlands, an assistant secretary-general, as U. N. commissioner for Libia to guide that former Italian colony to sovereign independence in the next two years.

Pelt got 28 votes to 20 for Dr. Jose Arce, Argentine delegate who will leave the security council Dec. 31. Arce was put forward by several Latin American delegations in a last-minute effort to overturn the selection of Pelt by an assembly committee headed by Romulo.

The assembly dealt with 68 items since it convened Sept. 20. It held 57 full meetings and its seven main 59-nation committees had 384 meetings.

Romulo said he believed some progress is being made toward world peace. He said the results showed the steady and persistent pressure which world opinion has exerted on the great powers through the assembly to settle their disputes by peaceful means.

Romulo said he would keep in touch with Secretary-General Trygve Lie to help in carrying out the work started at this session.

Lie said also that the big powers have taken some positive steps toward settling their basic differences.

"We have moved forward," Lie said, "to a point where the world has reason to hope for a step-by-step resumption of real negotiations between both sides. This, in itself, would be a substantial improvement over the situation that has prevailed over the past three years."

John Sherman Cooper, former Republican senator from Kentucky who served on the U. S. delegation for the first time this fall, praised the work of the assembly also. He said the assembly can never cease its efforts to turn unity into unanimity.

Cooper praised Romulo for his spirit and guidance as president.

her four-year-old sister, Shirley Ann. Later the chief said Roberts had told him of poisoning two former wives but refused to sign a statement about it.

Three insurance agents testified at the trial they paid benefits to Roberts after Mary Louise died.

In his statements, Holden reported, Roberts said he and Mrs. Ruby Pace had planned to use the insurance money to run away together. Mrs. Pace, the mother of seven children, denied any part in either case. She was charged together with Roberts but the grand jury did not indict her.

SHADED LINES INDICATE NEW AREAS ADDED TO CITY BY ANNEXATION

section annexed will be provided with adequate sewers if present plans of the council are approved, they said. A reduction in fire insurance rates and charges for natural gas service also will accrue to the area annexed. All services now provided residents of the city proper, such as garbage collection, etc., will be extended to the newly-annexed properties, city offiicals announced.

Officials pointed out that the Booker T. Washington addition is badly in need of facilities now enjoyed by residents within the city limits and expressed the hope that this section will be annexed within the next two months. Many names already have been signed to the petitions affecting both the Booker T. Washington and Selman Field areas, it was said.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., and Former Air Force Major George Racey Jordan.

But who enabled the Russians to get the material remained a question mark after committee questioning of Jordan and Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, retired, wartime head of the Manhattan engineering district that developed the atom bomb.

Jordan said on a Lewis program that the late Harry Hopkins, one-time top adviser to Franklin D. Roosevelt, was the man the Russians contacted when they wanted the red tape cut and shipments to Russia expedited. Jordan told the house committee, that in 1944 Hopkins told him by telephone to expedite a shipment of uranium consigned to Russia by plane via the air force base at Great Falls, Mont., where Jordan was a liaison officer handling the movement of lend-lease supplies to Russia. Although he had never met Hopkins and didn't know him, Jordan said, he knew it was Hopkins on the other end of the line.

Lewis followed through with another broadcast asserting that Henry A. Wallace, wartime vice-president, was the man who put the pressure where it was needed to get atomic supplies for Russia.

General Groves told the committee neither Hopkins nor Wallace had pressured him.

Wallace hasn't been heard by the committee but wants a hearing. He has called Lewis' charges "sheerest fabrication."

The committee probably will give Wallace a hearing, perhaps shortly after its next meeting on December 19.

Hopkins, unable to defend himself, has not lacked a defense.

His son, David, said his father's critical illness kept him away from his office at the time he was supposed to have been talking to Major Jordan by telephone from Washington. Furthermore, young Hopkins said, his father never had his name printed on White House stationery as Jordan related. Robert E. Sherwood, author who examined Hopkins' papers after the latter's death, said he never saw any White House stationery with Hopkins' name on it.

But Jordan insisted that Hopkins' name appeared on White House stationery which Jordan said he found attached to some papers bearing secret atomic terms and shipped in a suitcase on a plane to Russia. Furthermore, Jordan said, it bore a note signed "H. M." saying "Had hell of a time getting these away from Groves."

General Groves said he didn't recall ever having met Hopkins and didn't have any dealings with him.

After hearing both Groves and Jordan, acting Committee Chairman Walter (D.-Pa.) told newsmen:

"It seems to me that anyone who heard both of these witnesses must reach the conclusion that Major Jordan's story is highly improbable."

Republican committee members, out of town at the time and unable to attend the sessions because, they said, they weren't given sufficient notice, hinted that the Democrats were trying to "whitewash" the former new deal officials.

They want Groves and Jordan recalled, but they may not get their wish.

The committee sessions had to be called hurriedly, Democrats said, because the case developed hurriedly and without warning. Anyway, they added, the Republicans set the pattern for "quickie" meetings when they controlled the committee last year and conducted the Alger Hiss investigation. Democrats complained then that they frequently had to read the newspapers to find out what the Republicans were doing and where they were having hearings.

The investigating staff say they want to question a top official of a Canadian company that supplied uranium compounds from Russia. They also want to see the company's records. Investigators went to Canada several days ago.

The probers also want to ask some questions of several men who were connected with lend-lease activities at the time the Russians were supposed to be getting uranium supplies which General Groves said he didn't want them or anyone else except the United States to have.

So far, the committee says it actually knows of only three atomic shipments to Russia, all of them in 1943. These included 420 pounds of uranium nitrate and oxide, 1,000 pounds of the same compounds, and several pounds of impure uranium metal.

The state department has disclosed that export licenses for uranium compound shipments to Russia were approved by Groves' Manhattan district in March and April, 1943.

The heavy water license was granted in November, 1943.

The Canadian government has disclosed that 1,000 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate were sold to the Russians in May, 1943, through normal trade channels. This was flown out of Great Falls.

Groves said he knew about the first shipment of 420 pounds of nitrate and oxide. He said he approved it because not to have done so might have tipped off the Russians that the United States had found a new use for the material and wanted none of it to leave this country. So far as he knew, he said, only two pounds of uranium metal got to the Russians "and that wasn't the kind we were trying to get."

The Soviets might have obtained some heavy water, he said, but he doubts it because the water just wasn't available in essential quantities.

Committee investigators don't share Groves' doubts about the water. They say they are sure the Russians got it.

And, although Groves said he doesn't see how anyone could have obtained from his office restricted data that Jordan said he found in the Russian suitcases, the investigators believe Groves might not have seen everything that was going on.

They think, too, that the Russians got some core compounds as late as the middle of 1944.

The house probers aren't alone in their search for information.

Investigators for the senate-house atomic energy committee are working on the case, too, although with less fanfare.

Heading this committee is Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) whose senate seat will be at stake in the 1950 elections and whose opponent, Capitol Hill hears, will be General Groves, a Republican.

WINTRY BLASTS

vate plane crashed in the Texas fog.

These early morning sub-zero temperatures were recorded in the northeast: Ware, Mass., -20; Massena, N. Y., -13; Concord, N. H., -13; Utica, N. Y., -6; Portland, Me., -3 and Albany, N. Y., -3.

The cold wave and blizzard hit northern Montana Saturday morning and spread rapidly south and eastward. Winds rose to 30 miles an hour, the temperature began sinking and visibility became less than a mile.

The weather bureau issued special cold wave and blizzard warnings for residents of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, eastern Montana and western Kansas. Sub-zero cold and heavy blowing snow were moving toward Minnesota and Wisconsin. The heaviest snowfall of the season was predicted for Iowa Sunday. Western Oklahoma was in the path of the advancing cold wave.

Forecasters said winds were expected to get up to 40 miles an hour in the blizzard area and that temperatures would skid to 20 below zero in the Dakotas by Sunday night.

A forecast of much colder weather was general throughout the north central states. A glaze and ice warning was issued by the weather bureau for Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and southern Wisconsin.

Snow flurries powdered southern California's mountain tops and the brisk winds stirred up ocean swells. The wind blew down trees in Hollywood. The coast guard aided five distressed vessels. Winds reached a velocity of 85 miles an hour in Bernardino county.

BOY EXPECTED

American Window Glass plant in nearby Arnold.

Meanwhile, residents of scores of towns that cluster about Tarentum were busy with plans of their own.

The local veterans of foreign wars post has helped in preparations for the Christmas party. And the Valley Daily News has offered to underwrite the expense of a trip to Chicago for treatment at the University of Illinois.

Members of the union to which Pochon belongs have also come to the assistance of Little Jimmy.

Ted Settlemeyer, an official of the C. I. O. Lead Flat Glass and Ceramic Workers' local, has agreed to underwrite the expenses of treatment at the University.

Jimmy's physician says the trip and the concentration of powerful rays from the university's betatron might be too much for the wan lad. The university has reported encouraging results in at least one cancer cure as a result of treatment by its betatron.

"The doctors give him less than two weeks," the father said. "We can't believe them, but we're taking no chances. Jimmy'll have his Christmas tomorrow."

The grief-burdened couple spent the afternoon alternately talking with Jimmy and silently trimming the Christmas tree.

Jimmy's blue eyes, long dulled by the rigors of his illness, took on a sparkle as watched the preparations. His greatest interest was in a little black and white dog which was one of his gifts.

"I couldn't very well keep it hidden," Pochon explained with a smile. "He sure did make a fuss over that dog. That's all he was asking for. He named him 'Fluffy' right off."

"Fluffy" frolicked about Jimmy's bed, a bright red ribbon gailly streaming from his collar.

The photographer packed up his gear and started to leave.

"I have bike," Jimmy whispered in great solemnity. "I didn't get much chance to ride it because I been sick. If you come to see me when I get better I'll take you for a ride."

"You bet," said the photographer. But there was no enthusiasm in his voice.

GOOD FELLOWS

the cases are passed up. Nothing is done.

We won't spoil your Sunday, dear reader, by a concrete recital of any special case today, but we do wish to impress on the public that there is more need this year than last year. The high prices have caused a serious situation in many a home where perhaps never before was there so much want. Your gift will aid. We need all the money we can raise.

side each package as well as on the wrapper, in case the outer wrapping should become torn.

After your packages are in the mail, the post master advises that you get busy immediately addressing your Christmas cards. Out-of-state greetings should be mailed by December 15, and cards for local delivery should be deposited at least the Tuesday before Christmas.

The "Misadventure of a Latin American" will be the humorous title of the Town Hall address of Carlos Fallon at Town Hall Monday at 8 p.m.

There are promised plenty of laughs afforded all who attend.

Those who have heard Fallon report that this is a "delightful after dinner lecture." There is contained plenty of "red meat" but there is permitted plenty of time and space for story telling. He will relate not noly how the Irish Fallons got in South America, but also of the motives and aspirations of the founders and settleds of other republics besides Colombia, his native land.

Romance and adventure are intermingled as scholarly adventures are related.

Members of the board of directors of Monroe Town Hall assert that the speaker this time will provide members with an ideal combination of cultural information and entertainment. It is said that the Irish and Spanish combine to produce a special type of wit which comprises possibly a mixture of the Castilian culture and the life of a sailor—but the product is such that it is highly enjoyed by all hearers.

We are informed that May Smith White, talented local writer, has just had published a second book of poetry which is entitled, "Forty Acres." It is said to be highly popular as indicated by excellent sales. The author is well known and aside from her poetic bent, she spends time in church work and in club activities.

More recognition, and unusual in this case, is coming to Nona E. Martin, who the past few months has been doubly honored. She was elected last summer as district governor of Pilot Clubs for several southern states, and this was such an honor as any woman might be pleased with. But last week still another honor came and this was still more unusual. She was elected president of the association of monument dealers of a number of southern states. This honor like the other came all unsought and it was such a one as any man would like to have conferred on him. At a tender age, Miss Martin, best known to intimates as "Dutch," went into the same calling that her father had followed all his life—that of monument selling—and her success has been probably greater than even had she been a man. A woman in this calling is such as to create quite a sensation. A young woman of rugged personality, unflinching in the performance of what she regards the right, and with it all a sense of humor that makes her a favorite among her friends, well describes this unusual woman. Now she heads the monument association, we predict mere man will have to watch his corners more than ever or "Dutch" will outclass him when it comes down to real business.

Some more birthdays:

December 11—Jerry Lee Barlow, Mrs. C. B. Flynn, Chuck Payne.

December 12—Lilian Barry, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Tommy Phillips, Billy Jean Smith, Mrs. Charles Street.

December 13—Mrs. J. L. Furey, Jimmie Huitt, Barron Powell, Mrs. L. F. Wilhite, Constance B. Yancy.

December 14—Mrs. A. H. Birmingham, E. C. Cobb, Mrs. C. J. Hill, Maurice Lindsay, Jr., Ida Kaye McDonald, Catherine Page, Joe Francis Petagna, Jamey Nay Poulan.

December 15—Mrs. Evelyn Reagan, Mrs. W. L. Stevens.

December 16—Mrs. M. B. Adams, Mrs. W. A. Brothers, Johnnie Colvin, Mrs. Clifford Dunn, Mrs. G. C. Fuller, James Mann, Shirley Stevers, Joe Street.

December 17—Mrs. C. G. Alexander, Patricia Brothers, Larry Gathright, J. W. Gathright.

All the employes of the Monroe post office are quite jubilant in that Venetian blinds are being installed in the entire building. This structure was opened, if we recall correctly, in 1934 and through the years cloth shades have hung unreplaced at the windows. The past few months they had begun to hang almost in shreds, hence the delight of the entire staff to know that Uncle Sam is bestowing a Christmas present on the institution.

The Glee Club of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home will present a program of Christmas music in the College Place Baptist Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The program is said to be exceptionally fine and the public is cordially invited to attend.

factors in French economic recovery since the war?"

"Do you know about the Marshall Plan?"

"Do you know anything about the counterpart funds?"

(The counterpart funds consist of the equivalent, in European currency, of dollar aid sent by the United States. Each benefitting government sets up such a fund for use in recovery projects that can be financed at home.)

"Is Russia in the Marshall Plan? Romania?"

"What newspapers (magazines) do you read? How often do you listen to radio news broadcasts? Go to the movies?"

The answers convinced Stern that:

13 per cent of Frenchmen never heard of the Marshall Plan.

Of those who had heard it, 38 per cent favored it.

23 per cent felt it had good and bad sides.

16 per cent called it outright bad for France.

23 per cent could not make up their minds.

Hodges said French apathy toward the Marshall Plan is due in part to the fact "French people depend on newspapers for information and news far less than people of other countries," including the Dutch and Norwegians.

"There is interest in true information," he said, "but little faith in any of the information obtained."

Here are percentage figures from The Netherlands and Norway:

Question	Dutch	Norwegians
Heard of Marshall Plan	86	94
Know Romania is not in it	69	87
Know about counterpart funds	43	35
Think plan a good thing	82	67
Bad thing	(X)	7

meantime had been placed beneath him.

Radio station WFTL-WGOR (FM), was knocked off the air while describing Santa's descent. The last words heard were "he's near the ground now—wait, wait, he's tangling up in wires . . ."

Safe on the ladder, St. Nick scrambled down into the arms of a mob of cheering youngsters.

He climbed aboard a sound truck and announced "all is well now." He handed out candy with a trembling hand.

From there the program went as scheduled by the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Niles has chuted from the Golden Gate and Bay Bridges in San Francisco and from the 225-foot George Washington Bridge in New York. He said he plans to jump from the Empire State Building next week.

Tomorrow he plans to upset a car at Fort Lauderdale airport while doing 65 miles an hour.

Labor Council Will Elect New Officials

Election of officers for 1950 will be the prime order of business of the Monroe Central Trades and Labor Council at its meeting Monday night, Secretary Ralph S. White said yesterday. They will be installed at the last December meeting.

Nominations were opened at the meeting last week and will be opened again Monday night prior to balloting. Nominations made last week include:

For president, Jiles N. Davis, incumbent, and Joe F. Killian; vice-president, R. W. Steele, incumbent, and L. D. Keltner; R. H. Chatham, financial secretary, and White, recording secretary, as yet are unopposed for re-election; and G. D. McLemore is the only nominee thus far for sergeant-at-arms. The five officers constitute the executive board of the council.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m. at the new Labor temple, 116 1/2 South Grand street, upstairs over the Bell Telephone Company office.

O. P. H. S. PLANS CHRISTMAS PLAY

Yuletide Program Under Speech Department, Choir Sponsorship

The Ouachita Parish High School speech department and choir will present a Christmas program "Christmas Now and Always" Monday, December 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The stage will be divided into two sections. For the first part of the program a pantomime entitled, "The American Family at Christmas" will be presented with Dorothy Wallace as big sister, Tommy Hines as little brother, Billy Smith as father, Mary Jo Inzina as mother, Joyce Rasberry as the old-maid aunt, Tommy Tryant as grandfather, Patsy Hayden as grandmother. The O. P. H. S. choir ensemble as Christian carollers will sing several selections including "White Christmas," "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," and "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth."

The second part of the program will be the choir's rendition of "The Story of Christmas," a Ringwald arrangement as sung by Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians. This will be illustrated by a series of tableaux with John Filhiol as narrator. The characters in the tableaux are: angel, Betty Jane Pettit; wise men, Larraine McClendon, Evelyn Royal, and Freddie Neal; shepherd, Betty Powell and Betty Williams; Virgin Mary, Joyce Rasberry; Joseph, Jimmy Smith.

Composing the advertising staff for the program are Nelda McCoy, Betty Reice, Gail Cetes, Margaret Warren, Clay DeMarchi. The stage crew includes Stage Manager Gene Lambers, Jessie Traylor, Ronald Hobbs. The property committee is Buryl Brack, Barbara Cobb, Joyce Pankey, Marjorie Haynes, Barbara Buce, Ruth Carr, Charity Barlow, and Doris Ratcliff.

CHIANG

strenuous effort to keep Yunnan loyal. He called in three Yunnan generals for conferences shortly before he left.

When Chiang left Chengtu the streets were filled with soldiers of Gen. Hu Tsung-Nan's 350,000-man army. They were withdrawing to the mountains beyond, there to take up the burden of guerrilla warfare in western China.

The headquarters for the Nationalist operation will be Stang, in mountainous Sikang province, 200 miles southwest of Chengtu.

Some of the soldiers rode in trucks, but for the rest it was a weary, plodding march. Some troops were barefooted in the bitter cold.

The Communists were behind them. The last reports to Chengtu put them still 50 miles from the city. (Press reports in Hong Kong said the Communists now were only six miles away. This might refer to guerrillas or vanguards.

(Other press accounts in Hong Kong said Communist forces in south China had begun an attack on Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi's armies on Luichow peninsula.

(The peninsula leads to Hainan island, headquarters for the Nationalists' south China command. Pai is believed to be trying to remove the bulk of his armies to Hainan.)

With Chiang's departure, all important offiicals who are not assigned to the mainland had left Chengtu.

Chiang flew to Formosa in his Skymaster. In his party was his elder son, Gen. Chiang Ching-Kuo. The plane made a fuelling stop at Hainan island.

Chiang had spent 11 feverish days in Chengtu. While there he and the cabinet abandoned a plan to make Sichang the next capital and chose Taipeh instead.

The inhabitants of Chengtu lived in fear of recurrent reports that the Nationalists might fight for the city.

Groups gathered in the streets outside closed, shuttered shops. They watched the troops move through the city to the west and north—infantry, cavalry, artillery.

It was a tragic spectacle, as all retreats are.

Against the mainland chaos, Formosa appeared peaceful.

Authorities seemed confident they could hold Formosa from three to six months without U. S. aid. After that they believe the resources and military supplies will be so heavily taxed that it will become difficult to maintain an effective defense.

PROPOSALS ARE MADE BY TEACHERS

Plans For Amendments To Retirement System Approved

Recommendations for amendments to the Louisiana Teachers Retirement System was unanimously approved by the legislative committee of the Monroe City Teachers and Classroom Teachers Associations, it was announced yesterday.

The recommendations were:

1. To allow service retirement after 30 years of service regardless of age. This has been requested by the L. E. A. many times and was put in the bill as prepared by the 1948 L. E. A. special retirement research committee.

2. To allow credit for prior service rendered out of the state; that is credit for teaching out of Louisiana before 1936. This was requested by the L. E. A. and the committee mentioned above.

3. To allow teachers who heretofore elected not to join the teachers' retirement system, the option of now joining and receiving full credit for service since 1936, by making a deposit equal to the sum of the normal contributions that would have been made had the teacher been a member, plus four percent interest compounded thereon.

4. To allow present teachers who were former members of the system, but who withdrew their full accounts from the system, the option of re-establishing their accounts and credits by depositing the full amount withdrawn plus the four percent interest compounded thereon. This applies to credit since 1936.

5. To allow those teachers mentioned in category four above the option of regaining all prior service credit (service since 1936), by complying with the conditions mentioned in number four above.

All these provisions were recommended by the 1948 special retirement research committee and the L. E. A. endorsed them at the 1948 convention.

The law enacted during the 1948 session of the legislature which prohibits state employees and those groups receiving state funds, from retiring before age 55, speficially excludes judges and teachers, so there is no opposition from that source.

The penalty of three percent in Act 496 of 1948, for those who retire before age 60, should keep the cost to the retirement system from amounting to very much.

The present retirement regulations are:

a. At age 60 with 10 years of service.
b. At age 55 with 30 years of service.

The legislative committee of the Monroe City Teachers and Classroom Teachers Associations also went on record as favoring the following resolution:

"Whereas, a recent release from the college of education, L. S. U. discloses the fact that 22 percent of the children of Louisiana attend no school, and that but 66 percent of Louisiana's children are in average daily attendance in public schools, and whereas the problem of illiteracy is, finally, the most pressing matter before us, involving, as it does, the economic as well as the cultural life of the state, and whereas it is admitted by educators throughout the state of Louisiana that the problem of illiteracy is tied up with adequate financing of the public schools. Therefore the legislative committees of the Monroe City Teachers and the Classroom Teachers Associations request of Superintendent M. Jackson, acceleration of the activity of the state committee to study the distribution of state school funds, so that this committee may offer adequate solution to the literacy problem in Louisiana, when the legislature meets in 1950."

Negro Admits Raping Youthful Baby Sitter

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A young Negro whose grandfather was lynched 26 years ago following rape of a white woman, was charged today with raping a 16-year-old baby sitter and attempting to rape a Stephens College freshman.

Prosecuting Attorney Carl Sapp said the Negro, Jake Bradford, 26, an ex-convict, had signed a written confession that he raped the baby sitter last Oct. 29 and attempted to rape the college girl, Miss Sally Johnson of Columbia, Nov. 24.

The name of the baby sitter was not made public.

Bradford's grandfather, Jess Scott, was killed by a mob here in 1926 after he was accused in a rape case. Bradford was taken to the state capital at Jefferson City last night for safe keeping. He was released from prison six months ago after serving a four year sentence for auto theft.

Bradford waived preliminary hearing on the rape charge and was ordered held without bond for trial. He pleaded innocent to the attempted rape charge and his bond fixed at $10,000 pending preliminary hearing, Dec. 20.

ANNOUNCE HONOR ROLL AT N. J. C.

Fred W. Rogers, William B. McLemore Hold Perfect Averages

Sophomores William B. McLemore, agriculture major of Gilbert, and Fred W. Rogers, chemical engineering major of Monroe, tied for highest score on the Northeast Junior College honor roll for mid-semester ratings. They received a 3.00 or perfect average.

Second highest honors were captured by two freshmen coeds, Joan Parker, pre-law student of Monroe, and Barbara Franklin, chemistry major of West Monroe. They followed the top ranking grades with 2.95 and 2.83 scores respectively.

Others who won places on the honor roll, which requires a minimum 2.50 average, were: Gloria Dice, Barbara McIntyre, Quinn Becker, Howard Brown, Jr., Louise Guthrie, David Jones, Talmadge Foster, Emma Marx, Elizabeth Rogers, Elmer Slagle, Jr., Donald Poe, Ray Steele, Rex Pennginger, James Smith and Betty Cruthirds.

Twenty-nine students received honorable mention. The requisite score was a minimum 2.00. The list comprised: Joe Griffing, Agnes Jones, Mary Lou Applewhite, S. T. Howell, Jarrell Matkins, Jack Fecumdus, Donald Caldwell, William Hair, Wayne Franks, William Head, Claire White, Everette Johnson, Jane Birdsong, Jesse Lindow, Jeannine Watson, Jeanne Bridges, Austin Harrell, Joe Westbrook, Austin Harrell, Joan Bufkin, Vennie Ellerbe, James Holley.

James McEacharn, Louise Stone, Jesse Chase, Madeline Farnell, Douglas Head, Beth Montgomery, Kenneth Norsworthy and Margaret Pickens.

ANGLO-AMERICAN

sembly for the strengthening of peace, the Anglo-American bloc exerted all efforts toward converting it into a session to cover up aggression and the preparations for a new war. While, at the fourth session of the general assembly, the representatives of the United States and the United Kingdom exerted efforts to prevent the adoption of the Soviet Union proposal directed toward the strengthening of peace and the security of peoples, the Anglo-American imperialists and warmongers, preparing behind the back of the United Nations a black plot against peace, worked out strategic plans of aggression against peace-loving states."

He said the session had been unsatisfactory—the same verdict rendered by his chief, Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, when that chief Russian diplomat sailed for home earlier this week.

The delegates showed what they thought of the Russian charges earlier this session by snowing them under with the biggest margin of victory ever given the west in the U. N. on a major issue. By 53 votes to 5 (the Slav bloc) the assembly approved a western statement of the essentials of peace.

Final moves of the assembly today were:

1. Adoption of the 1950 U. N. budget totaling $49,641,773. This includes $8,000,000 estimated necessary at the outset for internationalization of Jerusalem. When all bookkeeping is done, the U. N. expects to ask the 59 members for $34,171,583 for 1950 ordinary expenditures, as compared to $41,617,000 for 1949. The $8,000,000 was considered here as an extraordinary expense. The U. N. will call on the members to contribute $4,000,000 at once. The internationalization scheme approved last night has been bitterly opposed by both Israel and Hashemite Jordan, the Jerusalem occupying powers. The mayor of Jewish Jerusalem said today his people would take up arms against it if necessary.

2. Election of Adrian Pelt of The Netherlands, an assistant secretary-general, as U. N. commissioner for Libia to guide that former Italian colony to sovereign independence in the next two years.

Pelt got 28 votes to 20 for Dr. Jose Arce, Argentine delegate who will leave the security council Dec. 31. Arce was put forward by several Latin American delegations in a last-minute effort to overturn the selection of Pelt by an assembly committee headed by Romulo.

The assembly dealt with 68 items since it convened Sept. 20. It held 57 full meetings and its seven main 59-nation committees had 384 meetings.

Romulo said he believed some progress is being made toward world peace. He said the results showed the steady and persistent pressure which world opinion has exerted on the great powers through the assembly to settle their disputes by peaceful means.

Romulo said he would keep in touch with Secretary-General Trygve Lie to help in carrying out the work started at this session.

Lie said also that the big powers have taken some positive steps toward settling their basic differences.

"We have moved forward," Lie said, "to a point where the world has reason to hope for a step-by-step resumption of real negotiations between both sides. This, in itself, would be a substantial improvement over the situation that has prevailed over the past three years."

John Sherman Cooper, former Republican senator from Kentucky who served on the U. S. delegation for the first time this fall, praised the work of the assembly also. He said the assembly can never cease its efforts to turn unity into unanimity.

Cooper praised Romulo for his spirit and guidance as president.

her four-year-old sister, Shirley Ann. Later the chief said Roberts had told him of poisoning two former wives but refused to sign a statement about it.

Three insurance agents testified at the trial they paid benefits to Roberts after Mary Louise died.

In his statements, Holden reported, Roberts said he and Mrs. Ruby Pace had planned to use the insurance money to run away together. Mrs. Pace, the mother of seven children, denied any part in either case. She was charged together with Roberts but the grand jury did not indict her.

SHADED LINES INDICATE NEW AREAS ADDED TO CITY BY ANNEXATION

section annexed will be provided with adequate sewers if present plans of the council are approved, they said. A reduction in fire insurance rates and charges for natural gas service also will accrue to the area annexed. All services now provided residents of the city proper, such as garbage collection, etc., will be extended to the newly-annexed properties, city offiicals announced.

Officials pointed out that the Booker T. Washington addition is badly in need of facilities now enjoyed by residents within the city limits and expressed the hope that this section will be annexed within the next two months. Many names already have been signed to the petitions affecting both the Booker T. Washington and Selman Field areas, it was said.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., and Former Air Force Major George Racey Jordan.

But who enabled the Russians to get the material remained a question mark after committee questioning of Jordan and Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, retired, wartime head of the Manhattan engineering district that developed the atom bomb.

Jordan said on a Lewis program that the late Harry Hopkins, one-time top adviser to Franklin D. Roosevelt, was the man the Russians contacted when they wanted the red tape cut and shipments to Russia expedited. Jordan told the house committee, that in 1944 Hopkins told him by telephone to expedite a shipment of uranium consigned to Russia by plane via the air force base at Great Falls, Mont., where Jordan was a liaison officer handling the movement of lend-lease supplies to Russia. Although he had never met Hopkins and didn't know him, Jordan said, he knew it was Hopkins on the other end of the line.

Lewis followed through with another broadcast asserting that Henry A. Wallace, wartime vice-president, was the man who put the pressure where it was needed to get atomic supplies for Russia.

General Groves told the committee neither Hopkins nor Wallace had pressured him.

Wallace hasn't been heard by the committee but wants a hearing. He has called Lewis' charges "sheerest fabrication."

The committee probably will give Wallace a hearing, perhaps shortly after its next meeting on December 19.

Hopkins, unable to defend himself, has not lacked a defense.

His son, David, said his father's critical illness kept him away from his office at the time he was supposed to have been talking to Major Jordan by telephone from Washington. Furthermore, young Hopkins said, his father never had his name printed on White House stationery as Jordan related. Robert E. Sherwood, author who examined Hopkins' papers after t[h]e latter's death, said he never saw any White House stationery with Hopkins' name on it.

But Jordan insisted that Hopkins' name appeared on White House stationery which Jordan said he found attached to some papers bearing secret atomic terms and shipped in a suitcase on a plane to Russia. Furthermore, Jordan said, it bore a note signed "H. M." saying "Had hell of a time getting these away from Groves."

General Groves said he didn't recall ever having met Hopkins and didn't have any dealings with him.

After hearing both Groves and Jordan, acting Committee Chairman Walter (D.-Pa.) told newsmen:

"It seems to me that anyone who heard both of these witnesses must reach the conclusion that Major Jordan's story is highly improbable."

Republican committee members, out of town at the time and unable to attend the sessions because, they said, they weren't given sufficient notice, hinted that the Democrats were trying to "whitewash" the former new deal officials.

They want Groves and Jordan recalled, but they may not get their wish.

The committee sessions had to be called hurriedly, Democrats said, because the case developed hurriedly and without warning. Anyway, they added, the Republicans set the pattern for "quickie" meetings when they controlled the committee last year and conducted the Alger Hiss investigation. Democrats complained then that they frequently had to read the newspapers to find out what the Republicans were doing and where they were having hearings.

The investigating staff say they want to question a top official of a Canadian company that supplied uranium compounds from Russia. They also want to see the company's records. Investigators went to Canada several days ago.

The probers also want to ask some questions of several men who were connected with lend-lease activities at the time the Russians were supposed to be getting uranium supplies which General Groves said he didn't want them or anyone else except the United States to have.

So far, the committee says it actually knows of only three atomic shipments to Russia, all of them in 1943. These included 420 pounds of uranium nitrate and oxide, 1,000 pounds of the same compounds, and several pounds of impure uranium metal.

The state department has disclosed that export licenses for uranium compound shipments to Russia were approved by Groves' Manhattan district in March and April, 1943.

The heavy water license was granted in November, 1943.

The Canadian government has disclosed that 1,000 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate were sold to the Russians in May, 1943, through normal trade channels. This was flown out of Great Falls.

Groves said he knew about the first shipment of 420 pounds of nitrate and oxide. He said he approved it because not to have done so might have tipped off the Russians that the United States had found a new use for the material and wanted none of it to leave this country. So far as he knew, he said, only two pounds of uranium metal got to the Russians "and that wasn't the kind we were trying to get."

The Soviets might have obtained some heavy water, he said, but he doubts it because the water just wasn't available in essential quantities.

Committee investigators don't share Groves' doubts about the water. They say they are sure the Russians got it.

And, although Groves said he doesn't see how anyone could have obtained from his office restricted data that Jordan said he found in the Russian suitcases, the investigators believe Groves might not have seen everything that was going on.

They think, too, that the Russians got some core compounds as late as the middle of 1944.

The house probers aren't alone in their search for information.

Investigators for the senate-house atomic energy committee are working on the case, too, although with less fanfare.

Heading this committee is Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) whose senate seat will be at stake in the 1950 elections and whose opponent, Capitol Hill hears, will be General Groves, a Republican.

WINTRY BLASTS

vate plane crashed in the Texas fog.

These early morning sub-zero temperatures were recorded in the northeast: Ware, Mass., -20; Massena, N. Y., -13; Concord, N. H., -13; Utica, N. Y., -6; Portland, Me., -3 and Albany, N. Y., -3.

The cold wave and blizzard hit northern Montana Saturday morning and spread rapidly south and eastward. Winds rose to 30 miles an hour, the temperature began sinking and visibility became less than a mile.

The weather bureau issued special cold wave and blizzard warnings for residents of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, eastern Montana and western Kansas. Sub-zero cold and heavy blowing snow were moving toward Minnesota and Wisconsin. The heaviest snowfall of the season was predicted for Iowa Sunday. Western Oklahoma was in the path of the advancing cold wave.

Forecasters said winds were expected to get up to 40 miles an hour in the blizzard area and that temperatures would skid to 20 below zero in the Dakotas by Sunday night.

A forecast of much colder weather was general throughout the north central states. A glaze and ice warning was issued by the weather bureau for Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and southern Wisconsin.

Snow flurries powdered southern California's mountain tops and the brisk winds stirred up ocean swells. The wind blew down trees in Hollywood. The coast guard aided five distressed vessels. Winds reached a velocity of 85 miles an hour in Bernardino county.

BOY EXPECTED

American Window Glass plant in nearby Arnold.

Meanwhile, residents of scores of towns that cluster about Tarentum were busy with plans of their own.

The local veterans of foreign wars post has helped in preparations for the Christmas party. And the Valley Daily News has offered to underwrite the expense of a trip to Chicago for treatment at the University of Illinois.

Members of the union to which Pochon belongs have also come to the assistance of Little Jimmy.

Ted Settlemeyer, an official of the C. I. O. Lead Flat Glass and Ceramic Workers' local, has agreed to underwrite the expenses of treatment at the University.

Jimmy's physician says the trip and the concentration of powerful rays from the university's betatron might be too much for the wan lad. The university has reported encouraging results in at least one cancer cure as a result of treatment by its betatron.

"The doctors give him less than two weeks," the father said. "We can't believe them, but we're taking no chances. Jimmy'll have his Christmas tomorrow."

The grief-burdened couple spent the afternoon alternately talking with Jimmy and silently trimming the Christmas tree.

Jimmy's blue eyes, long dulled by the rigors of his illness, took on a sparkle as watched the preparations. His greatest interest was in a little black and white dog which was one of his gifts.

"I couldn't very well keep it hidden," Pochon explained with a smile. "He sure did make a fuss over that dog. That's all he was asking for. He named him 'Fluffy' right off."

"Fluffy" frolicked about Jimmy's bed, a bright red ribbon gaily streaming from his collar.

The photographer packed up his gear and started to leave.

"I have bike," Jimmy whispered in great solemnity. "I didn't get much chance to ride it because I been sick. If you come to see me when I get better I'll take you for a ride."

"You bet," said the photographer. But there was no enthusiasm in his voice.

GOOD FELLOWS

the cases are passed up. Nothing is done.

We won't spoil your Sunday, dear reader, by a concrete recital of any special case today, but we do wish to impress on the public that there is more need this year than last year. The high prices have caused a serious situation in many a home where perhaps never before was there so much want. Your gift will aid. We need all the money we can raise.

side each package as well as on the wrapper, in case the outer wrapping should become torn.

After your packages are in the mail, the post master advises that you get busy immediately addressing your Christmas cards. Out-of-state greetings should be mailed by December 15, and cards for local delivery should be deposited at least the Tuesday before Christmas.

The "Misadventure of a Latin American" will be the humorous title of the Town Hall address of Carlos Fallon at Town Hall Monday at 8 p.m.

There are promised plenty of laughs afforded all who attend.

Those who have heard Fallon report that this is a "delightful after dinner lecture." There is contained plenty of "red meat" but there is permitted plenty of time and space for story telling. He will relate not noly how the Irish Fallons got in South America, but also of the motives and aspirations of the founders and settleds of other republics besides Colombia, his native land.

Romance and adventure are intermingled as scholarly adventures are related.

Members of the board of directors of Monroe Town Hall assert that the speaker this time will provide members with an ideal combination of cultural information and entertainment. It is said that the Irish and Spanish combine to produce a special type of wit which comprises possibly a mixture of the Castilian culture and the life of a sailor—but the product is such that it is highly enjoyed by all hearers.

We are informed that May Smith White, talented local writer, has just had published a second book of poetry which is entitled, "Forty Acres." It is said to be highly popular as indicated by excellent sales. The author is well known and aside from her poetic bent, she spends time in church work and in club activities.

More recognition, and unusual in this case, is coming to Nona E. Martin, who the past few months has been doubly honored. She was elected last summer as district governor of Pilot Clubs for several southern states, and this was such an honor as any woman might be pleased with. But last week still another honor came and this was still more unusual. She was elected president of the association of monument dealers of a number of southern states. This honor like the other came all unsought and it was such a one as any man would like to have conferred on him. At a tender age, Miss Martin, best known to intimates as "Dutch," went into the same calling that her father had followed all his life—that of monument selling—and her success has been probably greater than even had she been a man. A woman in this calling is such as to create quite a sensation. A young woman of rugged personality, unflinching in the performance of what she regards the right, and with it all a sense of humor that makes her a favorite among her friends, well describes this unusual woman. Now she heads the monument association, we predict mere man will have to watch his corners more than ever or "Dutch" will outclass him when it comes down to real business.

Some more birthdays:

December 11—Jerry Lee Barlow, Mrs. C. B. Flynn, Chuck Payne.

December 12—Lilian Barry, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Tommy Phillips, Billy Jean Smith, Mrs. Charles Street.

December 13—Mrs. J. L. Furey, Jimmie Huitt, Barron Powell, Mrs. L. F. Wilhite, Constance B. Yancy.

December 14—Mrs. A. H. Birmingham, E. C. Cobb, Mrs. C. J. Hill, Maurice Lindsay, Jr., Ida Kaye McDonald, Catherine Page, Joe Francis Petagna, Jamey Nay Poulan.

December 15—Mrs. Evelyn Reagan, Mrs. W. L. Stevens.

December 16—Mrs. M. B. Adams, Mrs. W. A. Brothers, Johnnie Colvin, Mrs. Clifford Dunn, Mrs. G. C. Fuller, James Mann, Shirley Sievers, Joe Street.

December 17—Mrs. C. G. Alexander, Patricia Brothers, Larry Gathright, J. W. Gathright.

All the employes of the Monroe post office are quite jubilant in that Venetian blinds are being installed in the entire building. This structure was opened, if we recall correctly, in 1934 and through the years cloth shades have hung unreplaced at the windows. The past few months they had begun to hang almost in shreds, hence the delight of the entire staff to know that Uncle Sam is bestowing a Christmas present on the institution.

The Glee Club of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home will present a program of Christmas music in the College Place Baptist Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The program is said to be exceptionally fine and the public is cordially invited to attend.

factors in French economic recovery since the war?"

"Do you know about the Marshall Plan?"

"Do you know anything about the counterpart funds?"

(The counterpart funds consist of the equivalent, in European currency, of dollar aid sent by the United States. Each benefitting government sets up such a fund for use in recovery projects that can be financed at home.)

"Is Russia in the Marshall Plan? Romania?"

"What newspapers (magazines) do you read? How often do you listen to radio news broadcasts? Go to the movies?"

The answers convinced Stern that:

13 per cent of Frenchmen never heard of the Marshall Plan.

Of those who had heard it, 38 per cent favored it.

23 per cent felt it had good and bad sides.

16 per cent called it outright bad for France.

23 per cent could not make up their minds.

Hodges said French apathy toward the Marshall Plan is due in part to the fact "French people depend on newspapers for information and news far less than people of other countries," including the Dutch and Norwegians.

"There is interest in true information," he said, "but little faith in any of the information obtained."

Here are percentage figures from The Netherlands and Norway:

Question	Dutch	Norwegians
Heard of Marshall Plan	86	94
Know Romania is not in it	69	87
Know about counterpart funds	43	35
Think plan a good thing	82	67
Bad thing	(X)	7

Labor Council Will Elect New Officials

Election of officers for 1950 will be the prime order of business of the Monroe Central Trades and Labor Council at its meeting Monday night, Secretary Ralph S. White said yesterday. They will be installed at the last December meeting.

Nominations were opened at the meeting last week and will be opened again Monday night prior to balloting. Nominations made last week include:

For president, Jiles N. Davis, incumbent, and Joe F. Killian; vice-president, R. W. Steele, incumbent, and L. D. Keltner; R. H. Chatham, financial secretary, and White, recording secretary, as yet are unopposed for re-election; and G. D. McLemore is the only nominee thus far for sergeant-at-arms. The five officers constitute the executive board of the council.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m. at the new Labor temple, 116 1/2 South Grand street, upstairs over the Bell Telephone Company office.

O. P. H. S. PLANS CHRISTMAS PLAY

Yuletide Program Under Speech Department, Choir Sponsorship

The Ouachita Parish High School speech department and choir will present a Christmas program "Christmas Now and Always" Monday, December 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The stage will be divided into two sections. For the first part of the program a pantomime entitled, "The American Family at Christmas" will be presented with Dorothy Wallace as big sister, Tommy Hines as little brother, Billy Smith as father, Mary Jo Inzina as mother, Joyce Rasberry as the old-maid aunt, Tommy Tryant as grandfather, Patsy Hayden as grandmother. The O. P. H. S. choir ensemble as Christian carollers will sing several selections including "White Christmas," "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," and "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth."

The second part of the program will be the choir's rendition of "The Story of Christmas," a Ringwald arrangement as sung by Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians. This will be illustrated by a series of tableaux with John Filhiol as narrator. The characters in the tableaux are: angel, Betty Jane Pettit; wise men, Larraine McClendon, Evelyn Royal, and Freddie Neal; shepherd, Betty Powell and Betty Williams; Virgin Mary, Joyce Rasberry; Joseph, Jimmy Smith.

Composing the advertising staff for the program are Nelda McCoy, Betty Reice, Gail Cetes, Margaret Warren, Clay DeMarchi. The stage crew includes Stage Manager Gene Lambers, Jessie Traylor, Ronald Hobbs. The property committee is Buryl Brack, Barbara Cobb, Joyce Pankey, Marjorie Haynes, Barbara Buce, Ruth Carr, Charity Barlow, and Doris Ratcliff.

strenuous effort to keep Yunnan loyal. He called in three Yunnan generals for conferences shortly before he left.

When Chiang left Chengtu the streets were filled with soldiers of Gen. Hu Tsung-Nan's 350,000-man army. They were withdrawing to the mountains beyond, there to take up the burden of guerrilla warfare in western China.

The headquarters for the Nationalist operation will be Stang, in mountainous Sikang province, 200 miles southwest of Chengtu.

Some of the soldiers rode in trucks, but for the rest it was a weary, plodding march. Some troops were barefooted in the bitter cold.

The Communists were behind them. The last reports to Chengtu put them still 50 miles from the city. (Press reports in Hong Kong said the Communists now were only six miles away. This might refer to guerrillas or vanguards.

(Other press accounts in Hong Kong said Communist forces in south China had begun an attack on Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi's armies on Luichow peninsula.

(The peninsula leads to Hainan island, headquarters for the Nationalists' south China command. Pai is believed to be trying to remove the bulk of his armies to Hainan.)

With Chiang's departure, all important offiicals who are not assigned to the mainland had left Chengtu.

Chiang flew to Formosa in his Skymaster. In his party was his elder son, Gen. Chiang Ching-Kuo. The plane made a fuelling stop at Hainan island.

Chiang had spent 11 feverish days in Chengtu. While there he and the cabinet abandoned a plan to make Sichang the next capital and chose Taipeh instead.

The inhabitants of Chengtu lived in fear of recurrent reports that the Nationalists might fight for the city.

Groups gathered in the streets outside closed, shuttered shops. They watched the troops move through the city to the west and north—infantry, cavalry, artillery.

It was a tragic spectacle, as all retreats are.

Against the mainland chaos, Formosa appeared peaceful.

Authorities seemed confident they could hold Formosa from three to six months without U. S. aid. After that they believe the resources and military supplies will be so heavily taxed that it will become difficult to maintain an effective defense.

PROPOSALS ARE MADE BY TEACHERS

Plans For Amendments To Retirement System Approved

Recommendations for amendments to the Louisiana Teachers Retirement System was unanimously approved by the legislative committee of the Monroe City Teachers and Classroom Teachers Associations, it was announced yesterday.

The recommendations were:

1. To allow service retirement after 30 years of service regardless of age. This has been requested by the L. E. A. many times and was put in the bill as prepared by the 1948 L. E. A. special retirement research committee.

2. To allow credit for prior service rendered out of the state; that is credit for teaching out of Louisiana before 1936. This was requested by the L. E. A. and the committee mentioned above.

3. To allow teachers who heretofore elected not to join the teachers' retirement system, the option of now joining and receiving full credit for service since 1936, by making a deposit equal to the sum of the normal contributions that would have been made had the teacher been a member, plus four percent interest compounded thereon.

4. To allow present teachers who were former members of the system, but who withdrew their full accounts from the system, the option of re-establishing their accounts and credits by depositing the full amount withdrawn plus the four percent interest compounded thereon. This applies to credit since 1936.

5. To allow those teachers mentioned in category four above the option of regaining all prior service credit (service since 1936), by complying with the conditions mentioned in number four above.

All these provisions were recommended by the 1948 special retirement research committee and the L. E. A. endorsed them at the 1948 convention.

The law enacted during the 1948 session of the legislature which prohibits state employees and those groups receiving state funds, from retiring before age 55, speficially excludes judges and teachers, so there is no opposition from that source.

The penalty of three percent in Act 496 of 1948, for those who retire before age 60, should keep the cost to the retirement system from amounting to very much.

The present retirement regulations are:

a. At age 60 with 10 years of service.

b. At age 55 with 30 years of service.

The legislative committee of the Monroe City Teachers and Classroom Teachers Associations also went on record as favoring the following resolution:

"Whereas, a recent release from the college of education, L. S. U. discloses the fact that 22 percent of the children of Louisiana attend no school, and that but 66 percent of Louisiana's children are in average daily attendance in public schools, and whereas the problem of illiteracy is, finally, the most pressing matter before us, involving, as it does, the economic as well as the cultural life of the state, and whereas it is admitted by educators throughout the state of Louisiana that the problem of illiteracy is tied up with adequate financing of the public schools. Therefore the legislative committees of the Monroe City Teachers and the Classroom Teachers Associations request of Superintendent M. Jackson, acceleration of the activity of the state committee to study the distribution of state school funds, so that this committee may offer adequate solution to the literacy problem in Louisiana, when the legislature meets in 1950."

Negro Admits Raping Youthful Baby Sitter

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A young Negro whose grandfather was lynched 26 years ago following rape of a white woman, was charged today with raping a 16-year-old baby sitter and attempting to rape a Stephens College freshman.

Prosecuting Attorney Carl Sapp said the Negro, Jake Bradford, 26, an exconvict, had signed a written confession that he raped the baby sitter last Oct. 29 and attempted to rape the college girl, Miss Sally Johnson of Columbia, Nov. 24.

The name of the baby sitter was not made public.

Bradford's grandfather, Jess Scott, was killed by a mob here in 1926 after he was accused in a rape case. Bradford was taken to the state capital at Jefferson City last night for safe keeping. He was released from prison six months ago after serving a four year sentence for auto theft.

Bradford waived preliminary hearing on the rape charge and was ordered held without bond for trial. He pleaded innocent to the attempted rape charge and his bond fixed at $10,000 pending preliminary hearing, Dec. 20.

CUB PACK NO. 1 HOLDS SESSION

Meets In St. Matthew's School Auditorium; Parents Are Present

Cub Pack No. 1 of St. Matthew's School held its monthly pack meeting recently in the School auditorium, all cubs of the pack were present, along with many of their parents and all enjoyed an interesting program.

After the opening ceremony, the entertainment program was presented by Den No. 1, under the supervision of Mrs. Everett Burgoyne, den mother The cubs entertained with an Indian skit in which they took the parts of Indian warriors at a council meeting around the great council fire. As such they portrayed characters in a story being read to them by their den mother. Members of the den participating were Richard Burgoyne, Pat Riley, Warren Taylor, Allan Trousdale, Ron Updegraff and Don Updegraff. Larry McCarthy of Den 2 helped den 1 with the skit by acting as the Indian chief.

Several members of the pack received advancement awards and two new cubs were introduced to the pack, namely Pat Riley, den 1, and Jimmy Schroeder, den 3. Cub advancements presented to the cubs by their fathers were as follows: Den 1—advanced to Wolf rank, Warren Taylor, Allan Trousdale, Don and Ron Updegraff; den 2, advanced to Bear rank, Ray Sherman, Albert Theriot, Frankie Parrino and S. Lasuzzo; den 3, advanced to Wolf rank, Bradley Biggar, A. Elias and Joe Varino.

Plans for the December pack meeting were discussed and all present agreed that a Christmas party for the pack members would be held at the school on Monday night, December 19. The cubmaster, S. E. Burgoyne, appointed as members of the committee in charge, the den mothers of the pack, Mrs. Everett Burgoyne, Mrs. Lawrence McCarthy, Mrs. John Spatafora and Mrs. L. M. Brinson, together with the den dads of all the dens.

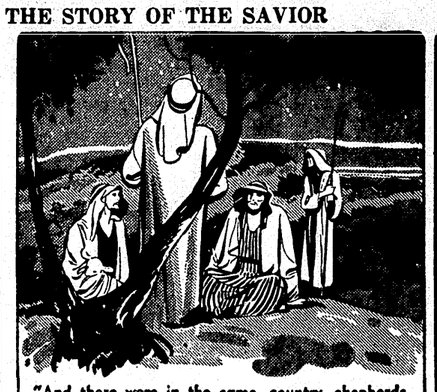

The meeting closed with a flag ceremony and the singing of America by all present, following by refreshments for the cubs of the pack.

Decisive Battle In Social Medical Plan Yet To Come

By Frank Carey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The American Medical Association was told today that its opponents in its fight against 'socialized medicine" have given ground—but that the decisive battle remains to be fought in 1950.

Dr. Elmer L. Henderson of Louisville, Ky., president-elect of the world's largest organization of doctors, said "hundreds" of non-medical groups have rallied to the A. M. A.'s banner in its struggle against President Truman's proposal for federalized compulsory sickness insurance.

To help finance the camapngn, a committee report showed, $2,250,000 has been collected in "voluntary" assessments of $25 each from 80 per cent of the A. M.'s members.

The A. M. A.'s board of trustees submitted to the policy-making house of delegates a proposal that annual dues of not more than $25 be collected from the organization's 150,000 members. No dues have been assessed in the past.

Establishment of a system of dues was approved by the house of delegates last June and the proposal was passed along to the trustees for implementation. Final action may come later in the week.

Henderson said that 'American Medicine, during 1949, became a well-organized, powerful fighting force for freedom.

'It met its enemies in spectacular contest before the people, and its enemies gave ground. At the 1949 session of congress, the fight for compulsory health insurance was abandoned, even though the White House itself had become a sounding board for the socializers."

"But we would be foolish, indeed," Henderson said, "if we assumed that the final victory had been won."

"The Battle of Armageddon—the decisive struggle which may determine not only medicine's fate but whether State Socialism is to engulf all America—is still ahead of us. 'That fight may be lost or won in next year's congress, or in the 1950 congressional elections."

He added the fight will not be completely won until we have mobilized overwhelming support from the American people—and until we have provided the vast majority of the people with sound voluntary health insurance. We have made tremendous strides toward both goals."

Henderson made the statements in a report to the A. M. A.'s clinical session. The report was that of a 12-member coordinating committee which has been conducting the A. M. A.'s "National Education Campaign to acquaint the American people with the dangers of compulsory health insurance." Henderson is chairman of the committee.

Dr. Ernest Irons of Chicago, A. L. A. president, said in an address that the Truman administration "has not yet surrendered its position on socialized medicine."

Apparently referring to the recent departure of Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing for Europe to study the working of government-sponsored prepaid health plans in England and other countries, Dr. Irons said:

"It (the Truman administration) has merely withdrawn to a rear position and is now reported to be sending a bureaucratic mission to Europe at taxpayers' expense to search for new destructive ammunition."

The delegates also heard an official announcement by the board of trustees that Dr. Morris Fishbein had retired as editor of the A. M. A. Journal.

Fishbein, who was muzzled by the A. M. A. last June and forbidden to discuss controversial matters, announced last week that he had left the job.

"It was impossible for me to continue under the circumstances," he said ."I could not produce the type of medical journal that I was accustomed to. I could not speak out freely and vigorously on issues which I felt were important."

The board of trustees said it had arranged "for adequate lifetime remuneration" for Fishbein, saying he had given 37 years of "devoted service to the American Medical Association." It did not state the amount of the remuneration.

The board announced the selection of Dr. Austin Smith as the new editor of the A. M. A. Journal. A native of Belleville, Ontario, he has been director of the division of therapy and research and secretary of the council on pharmacy and chemistry of the A. M. A.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Men, have you ever felt like telling your wife that her housekeeping is sloppy and mismanaged?

That common urge is the basis for a new film, which perhaps should rank among the "brave" films Hollywood is making. The picture is "The skipper surprised his wife," in which Navy Officer Robert Walker takes over a household after wifie (Joan Leslie) breaks her leg.

The navy man hangs a sign in the kitchen: "There is a place for everything and everything has its place." On each cupboard and drawer is a sign telling its contents: "chow locker," "China locker," etc.

Every minute of the day is regimented, from the time the two sons are awakened with a loudspeaker announcing, "man the brooms, men!" Life is so carefully scheduled that one boy moans, "how do you get out of this man's navy?"

Highlight of the film is when Walker addresses a meeting of navy wives:

"Housework need not be a burden; it is just inefficiency that makes it so.

"By adopting navy methods, you could cut your housework in half. Why, you should be able to do an entire week's shopping in 30 minutes. Just plan your menus in advance.

"Most of you who complain about your work are soap opera addicts, fence hanger-overs, salesmen encouragers, book-of-the-month clubbers or just plain lazy.

"Women who greet their husbands looking weary or unattractive just don't have the intelligence, inteigrity or gumption to work out a schedule and stick to it."

The speech ends in a riot, during which Walker is hit over the head with a microphone.

"I'm going to have all the women in America hating me," Walker told me afterwards, "but it real life, I think the plan could work. Houses can be run more efficiently."

Note: In case my wife reads this, the foregoing were the opinions of Mr. Walker and his movie writer and do not necessarily reflect those of this reporter.

HIGHEST LEVEL IN EMPLOYMENT

Ouachita Parish At Best Status For Past Twelve Months

Non-agricultural employment was estimated to be slightly higher in November than for the previous month, and the present level is the highest reached at any time during the year, according to William C. Harrison, Jr., manager of the Monroe office of the Louisiana division of employment security. The present estimate is about 3.7 per cent higher than the low point reached this year in February.

Manufacturing firms reported a loss of about 125 employes during the past 30 days, but this loss was more than offset by a gain of 150 workers in non-manufacturing establishments.

In the manufacturing group the food and paper goods industries indicated slightly higher employment due to increased business, but the lumber industry reported a loss of about 160 workers. One sawmill has closed down a night shift, and another mill has cut back production in all departments.

Employment in retail trade establishments was about 150 more than a month ago, stated Mr. Harrison. This higher employment was due to the hiring of extra sales clerks in variety and department stores to take care of increased sales during the holiday season. This fact is responsible for the 100 increase reported in female employment in the area during the past 30 days.

Many of these temporary workers are housewives that are only available for this seasonal work. After the Christmas rush is over they are not willing to accept other employment, and are not then considered a part of the active labor force.

Mr. Harrison estimated that there were 1,900 persons unemployed and seeking work in Ouachita parish in November, which is approximately 18 per cent more than for the previous month. The principal reason for this increase in job seekers was the near completion of the cotton harvest, where temporary workers engaged in picking cotton have become available for other industrial employment.

The estimate of 1,600 unemployed in October is the lowest point that unemployment has dropped to during the past two years. Only in two other months during this time has unemployment been this low. These months were September and October, 1948.

Unemployment in the area is expected to increase gradually during the next two or three months, according to Mr. Harrison. However, no drastic rise is forecast. Fluctuations have occurred in unemployment during the year, but, excluding seasonal factors affecting agricultural activities in the area, which temporarily absorbs many of the unemployed, the level maintained by unemployment has been fairly stable throughout the year.

Mr. Harrison stated that reports from local firms indicated that there will be approximately 300 fewer workers employed in January than at present. The completion of several projects and the effect of the rainy season on construction work is expected to bring a slight decline in construction employment. Peak employment in the retail trade industry is usually reached in November and December, and a lay-off of workers usually occurs after the Christmas rush. Manufacturing employment is forecast to remain fairly stable.

An increase in unemployment compensation claims activity in the local employment office has become evident due to an increase in unemployment in the area. During the month of November 654 initial claims and 1,536 continued claims were filed, compared with 554 initial claims and 1,322 continued claims filed during October. The office provides facilities for the taking of claims for unemploment compensation benefits in order to help the worker while seeking employment. These benefits are provided so that a worker who is unemployed through no fault of his own, may provide for himself and his family the necessities of life between jobs, and maintain, in so far as possible, our American standard of living.

The number of job seekers contacting the office increased from 4,158 in October to 4,268 in November. The active application for employment file expanded from 999 to 1,203 during the past 30 days. This clearly emphasizes the increase shown in area unemployment.

Mr. Harrison pointed out that 1,962 qualified persons have been placed in suitable employment in the area since July 1 of this year. November placements were approximately 9 per cent higher than those made in October.

In addition to these placements the local office has assisted over 5,000 seasonal agricultural workers in obtaining work in the cotton harvest during the past 90 days. Agricultural workers are provided with job information which prevents costly and aimless migration in the process of seeking work. The local office has assisted in the clearance of workers from other areas, when it was determined that sufficient local labor was not obtainable.

Mr. Harrison added that he has received splendid cooperation from all firms in the area, and urges employers to continue to list their job openings with the local office. It has been through this cooperation that the local office has helped in maintaining the highest levels of employment in all industries within its jurisdiction, and has aided in keeping unemployment down to a minimum. The local office hopes to continue to provide this valuable service to the community.

Fire Alarms

Firemen from companies 2 and 5 extinguished a house fire at 203 South Twenty-Second street at 10:34 a.m. Saturday. The blaze originated in the front bedroom of the dwelling, firemen said. The cause was undetermined late Saturday. Charlie Hall, Negro, was reported to have been the owner and occupant. The house was extensively damaged, firemen said.

ROTC CHANGES IN RANK ANNOUNCED

Unit At Tech Will Continue To Have Same Number Of Groups

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Changes in assignments and rank took place recently in the air force ROTC unit at Louisiana Tech as the reorganization of the cadet corps was announced by Lt. Col. William F. Curry, head of the unit at the college.

The unit will continue to consist of a group headquarters, two squadrons in the group, two flights in each squadron and three elements in each flight.

John H. Traylor of Columbia has been appointed cadet commander of the corps with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

In the group headquarters Colonel Curry also announced the following temporary assignments:

John R. McDuffie of Cullendale, Ark., executive officer with the rank of cadet major; Reber C. Dillard of Shreveport, adjutant cadet captain; and Sanders Roane of Ruston, operations and training officer with the rank of cadet captain.

Squadron "A" will have as its commanding officer, Cadet Major William C. Gaddy of Ruston. Adjutant of this squadron will be Cadet Captain James N. Kurtz of Shreveport. Cadet M/Sgt. Niles L. Ruckstuhl of Lake Charles will be the first sergeant.

First flight leader of squadron "A" will be Cadet First Lieutenant Jason W. Oberling of New Orleans. Cadet T/Sgt. Ted O. Dickson of Shreveport will serve as flight sergeant. Element leaders of this flight will be James T. Allen of Jena, Joe S. Belk of Camden, Ark., and Cris C. Kimbell of Homer. Each of the latter will hold the rank of cadet second lieutenant.

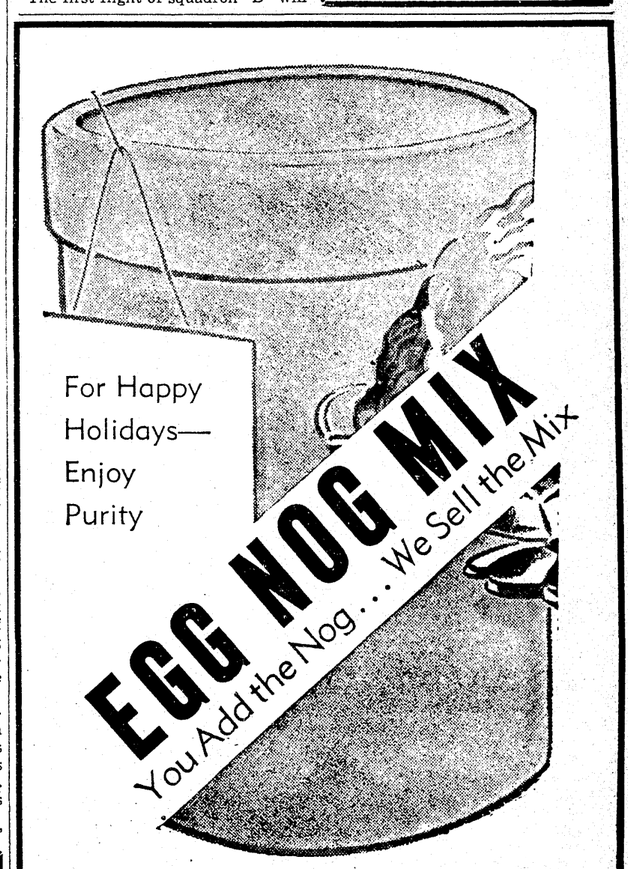

The second flight of squadron "A" will be commanded by Cadet First Lieutenant Marcus R. Chapman of Boyce. The flight sergeant will be Cadet T/Sgt. Kaye Brock of Shreveport. Element leaders of this flight who will hold the rank of cadet second lieutenants are Harry A. Busch of Columbia; Barney P. Dowden of Shreveport, and William T. Hale, also of Shreveport.

Squadron "B" will be commanded by Jewel J. Wood of Franklinton, who will hold the rank of cadet major. Adjutant of this group will be Cadet Captain Joe E. Holland of Shreveport. Cadet M/Sgt. James M. Barker of Ruston will be the first sergeant.

The first flight of squadron "B" will be commanded by Cadet First Lieutenant Bertney Landry of Lake Charles, with Cadet T/Sgt. Carl A. Noble of Shreveport as flight sergeant. Element leaders of this flight will be John B. Hicks of Winnfield, John R. Nugent of Shreveport and Jack B. Scoggins of Shreveport, all holding the rank of cadet second lieutenants.

Cadet First Lieutenant William N. Hess of Griffin, Ark., will be commander of the second flight, with Cadet T/Sgt. Edgar L. Carter of Shreveport serving as his flight sergeant. Cadet Second Lieutenants Thomas L. Stephenson of Lynchburg, Va., Joe P. Stevens of Goodpine, and John A. Townsend of Homer will be element leaders.

Decisive Battle In Social Medical Plan Yet To Come

By Frank Carey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The American Medical Association was told today that its opponents in its fight against 'socialized medicine" have given ground—but that the decisive battle remains to be fought in 1950.

Dr. Elmer L. Henderson of Louisville, Ky., president-elect of the world's largest organization of doctors, said "hundreds" of non-medical groups have rallied to the A. M. A.'s banner in its struggle against President Truman's proposal for federalized compulsory sickness insurance.

To help finance the camapngn, a committee report showed, $2,250,000 has been collected in "voluntary" assessments of $25 each from 80 per cent of the A. M.'s members.

The A. M. A.'s board of trustees submitted to the policy-making house of delegates a proposal that annual dues of not more than $25 be collected from the organization's 150,000 members. No dues have been assessed in the past.

Establishment of a system of dues was approved by the house of delegates last June and the proposal was passed along to the trustees for implementation. Final action may come later in the week.

In addition to these placements the local office has assisted over 5,000 seasonal agricultural workers in obtaining work in the cotton harvest during the past 90 days. Agricultural workers are provided with job information which prevents costly and aimless migration in the process of seeking work. The local office has assisted in the clearance of workers from other areas, when it was determined that sufficient local labor was not obtainable.

Mr. Harrison added that he has received splendid cooperation from all firms in the area, and urges employers to continue to list their job openings with the local office. It has been through this cooperation that the local office has helped in maintaining the highest levels of employment in all industries within its jurisdiction, and has aided in keeping unemployment down to a minimum. The local office hopes to continue to provide this valuable service to the community.

Fire Alarms

Firemen from companies 2 and 5 extinguished a house fire at 203 South Twenty-Second street at 10:34 a.m. Saturday. The blaze originated in the front bedroom of the dwelling, firemen said. The cause was undetermined late Saturday. Charlie Hall, Negro, was reported to be the owner and occupant. The house was extensively damaged, firemen said.

ROTC CHANGES IN RANK ANNOUNCED

Unit At Tech Will Continue To Have Same Number Of Groups

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Changes in assignments and rank took place recently in the air force ROTC unit at Louisiana Tech as the reorganization of the cadet corps was announced by Lt. Col. William F. Curry, head of the unit at the college.

The unit will continue to consist of a group headquarters, two squadrons in the group, two flights in each squadron and three elements in each flight.

John H. Traylor of Columbia has been appointed cadet commander of the corps with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

In the group headquarters Colonel Curry also announced the following temporary assignments:

John R. McDuffie of Cullendale, Ark., executive officer with the rank of cadet major; Reber C. Dillard of Shreveport, adjutant cadet captain; and Sanders Roane of Ruston, operations and training officer with the rank of cadet captain.

Squadron "A" will have as its commanding officer, Cadet Major William C. Gaddy of Ruston. Adjutant of this squadron will be Cadet Captain James N. Kurtz of Shreveport. Cadet M/Sgt. Niles L. Ruckstuhl of Lake Charles will be the first sergeant.

First flight leader of squadron "A" will be Cadet First Lieutenant Jason W. Oberling of New Orleans. Cadet T/Sgt. Ted O. Dickson of Shreveport will serve as flight sergeant. Element leaders of this flight will be James T. Allen of Jena, Joe S. Belk of Camden, Ark., and Cris C. Kimbell of Homer. Each of the latter will hold the rank of cadet second lieutenant.

The second flight of squadron "A" will be commanded by Cadet First Lieutenant Marcus R. Chapman of Boyce. The flight sergeant will be Cadet T/Sgt. Kaye Brock of Shreveport. Element leaders of this flight who will hold the rank of cadet second lieutenants are Harry A. Busch of Columbia; Barney P. Dowden of Shreveport, and William T. Hale, also of Shreveport.

Squadron "B" will be commanded by Jewel J. Wood of Franklinton, who will hold the rank of cadet major. Adjutant of this group will be Cadet Captain Joe E. Holland of Shreveport. Cadet M/Sgt. James M. Barker of Ruston will be the first sergeant.

The first flight of squadron "B" will be commanded by Cadet First Lieutenant Bertney Landry of Lake Charles, with Cadet T/Sgt. Carl A. Noble of Shreveport as flight sergeant. Element leaders of this flight will be John B. Hicks of Winnfield, John R. Nugent of Shreveport and Jack B. Scoggins of Shreveport, all holding the rank of cadet second lieutenants.

Cadet First Lieutenant William N. Hess of Griffin, Ark., will be commander of the second flight, with Cadet T/Sgt. Edgar L. Carter of Shreveport serving as his flight sergeant. Cadet Second Lieutenants Thomas L. Stephenson of Lynchburg, Va., Joe P. Stevens of Goodpine, and John A. Townsend of Homer will be element leaders.

NEGRO WHO SHOT THREE IS SOUGHT

Wife Of Deputy Sheriff Killed When Shot By Arrested Man

LUXORA, Ark., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The search for a Negro accused of killing a town marshal's wife and shooting two officers shifted today from the countryside along the Mississippi river to Memphis, Tenn., 60 miles away.

Mississippi County Sheriff William Berryman said Memphis officers had been alerted to pick up Eddie Hall. Another Negro man, he added, told of taking Hall, a woman and a boy to Memphis after the shooting last night.

A posse with bloodhounds sought Hall along the river levees throughout last night and early today.

The manhunt started soon after Mrs. Joe McDaniel, 37, was shot to death beside a cotton field. She was driving her husband, his assistant and three Negroes to the jail at nearby Osceola.

She gasped out to her husband, "Oh Joe, I'm gone," then slumped against his shoulder, dead. A split second later, McDaniel and Ralph Williamson were shot. Two of the Negroes left.

As the posse took up the hunt, Deputy Marshal Horace Lindsey said he feared a lynching because "everybody around here is roused up." Deputy Sheriff Dick Forbes said "some of them want to lynch him but I don't think they would—a lot of law-abiding people live around here."

In a Memphis hospital, where the two men were taken, Williamson said the shooting was done by a man known only as "Shorty." Berryman did not definitely identify Hall as "Shorty."

Forbes gave this account of the shootings:

McDaniel received a call from a Negro nicknamed "Son," who said "Shorty" had threatened him at a Negro night spot, an old, unpainted barn.

Mrs. McDaniel, a taxi cab firm operator, took the two marshals to the scene in a cab. "Shorty," "Son," and the wife of "Shorty" were put in the car and they all started to the jail, with the Negroes in the back seat and the others in front.

"Shorty" had been searched, but not his wife.

Then, Forbes said, came the shooting. "Son" drove the wounded to aid after "Shorty" and his wife escaped.

McDaniel was reported in critical condition with throat, shoulder and arm wounds. Relatives said his right arm probably will be useless. He lost his left arm when he was 13.

Williamson was not critically injured. He suffered a head wound.

Mrs. McDaniel frequently drove her husband on calls because of the loss of his arm.

LEADING ROLES OF 'ANGEL STREET'

The leading roles in Monroe Little Theatre's production of "Angel Street," scheduled to open at Selman Field Little Theatre play house on Monday evening, December 12 at 8:30 p. m., will be presented by reading from left to right, Jim Reynolds as Inspector Rough, Annie Laura Laymon as Bella Manningham with Director Stocker Fontelieu appearing as Mr. Manningham. The Victorian play will run for six nights with Friday being named as Rayville night.

Musical Notes From The Choral Club

By Helen V. Agnew

Final arrangements are rapidly being completed for our concert on the 20th of this month. Do you realize that is only a week from next Tuesday? Time for one more good workout next Monday night, and then comes dress rehearsal. We thought for a while we were going to be competing with the Ouachita choir, heaven forbid, but Miss Cormier, bless her heart, has set their program date up to Sunday the 18th. Thanks a million.

We have had such splendid cooperation from other organizations we would like to take this opportunity to once again thank all those music teachers, musical groups and the clubs and other organizations who have been so helpful to us. We want to say again that the primary interest of our group is to promote a greater interest in choral music, and to afford an opportunity to sing to those who like to sing. Music has so much to offer us, and it should have its own important place in the everyday lives of all of us. We would like to do our part toward emphasizing the pleasure and enjoyment which are to be had in making music, and we are always glad to work with others toward that end.

The Finlay Walkers have finally found a house, and have spent this past week getting moved and settled—not that Maxine would agree they are settled yet. I think everyone in the club was trying to find a place for them.

Don't forget the Percy Grainger concert next Thursday night. If you need a ticket, Gertrude Sandrock will be glad to sell you one or a dozen.

Did you know Walter Minniear came through Monroe Friday morning? He and his band were on their way to play for a football game in Mississippi. He sent his regards to all of us.

Got all your Christmas shopping done? I hope you have a quarter left. That's the price of the binders for the music, and they will be available at the meeting Monday night. See you then.

You May Be A 'Guinea Pig' To Test Drugs

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—You can be one of ten million guinea pigs testing the latest comomn cold remedy, the antihistamines.

There are 20 on the market. Four you can buy from drug stores, and 16 must be prescribed by doctors. Others for over-the-counter sale are expected.

These antihistamines have passed all routine common cold tests. Those include trials on hundreds of human beings.

The results have not differed greatly from numerous, previously discovered common cold remedies. Those others in small groups also gave high cure percentages, although none to reach antihistamine's highest present claim—90 per cent for one-hour-old colds.

The final test for antihistamines is its use by millions. That is the same test that all others have taken.

Hal Boyle's NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK—(AP)—If cleanliness is next to Godliness, then the average New Yorker today is a neighbor to heaven.

He's so spotless he shines. He's never been so clean before.

It's all because of the great water famine. City Hall suddenly discovered that folks were using 1,200,000,000 gallons of water a day—more than 150 a person—and metropolitan reservoirs were down to 34.7 per cent of normal capacity.

And the water level is shrinking. So Manhattan, surrounded by one ocean and three rivers, is wondering dismally if it is going to become a near-desert island.

Well, you know how it is when a thing gets in short supply.

Folks figure, "by golly, I ain't going to be cheated out of my share."

And people who once had to be driven, screaming in protest, to their weekly Saturday night scrubbing are now taking two baths a day—and slipping home at lunch for a shower.

It has been found that a faucet is only good to the last drop—and mama keeps turning the faucet on and off to be sure there are still a few drops left.

The situation has created a new medical problem—secret water drinkers. A man is afraid to leave a visitor alone in his room, for fear he will rush to the nearest tap and drink himself unconscious.

Of course, while the taps still run the shortage has its advantages. A host no longer has to worry about his scotch or rye running out. "How about a highball of straight water?" he murmurs. "The real stuff?"

Any day now I expect some character in a turned down hat and a turned up collar to slide over and whisper out of the corner of his mouth, "wanta buy some black market water, Mac? We just smuggled some in from New Jersey on a fast ferry.

An acquaintance of mine says he isn't going to miss out in the water shortage.

"Darned if I'm going to get caught in a black market in that," he grubled. "I was too late in getting into the black markets during the war, and I got stuck with five bags of sugar and three dozen white shirts."

When I asked him how he was going to avoid it, he said:

"I tied knots in my white shirts, put them in the bathtub and filled them with water. Did the same thing with my sugar sacks, too. I'm already prepared for the emergency."

A nice thing about the shortage is that they no longer bring you fingerbowls in most restaurants. As a matter of fact if you ask for a glass of water the waiter is likely to answer: "What'll you give for it—two tickets to South Pacific?"

In the midst of this aqua pura panic one gent stands undismayed. This is Johnny Bo-Bo. Johnny got his name his habit of standing at the bar in Fogarty's neighborhood saloon belting himself with straight bourbon and muttering at his reflection in the mirror—"Bo-Bo, Bo-Bo-Bo, Bo-Bo-Bo-Bo-Bo-Bo!"

"Any body wants my water can have it," says Johnny Bo-Bo. "I ain't touched the stuff since the summer of 1921. I knew sooner or later somebody would find it unpatriotic to drink it."

Betty Lou Extends Thanks For Prayers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Betty Lou Marbury has written another letter—and it's to you, you and you.

This time the plucky little 10-year-old Brownsville, Tenn., girl who tugged at the nation's heartstrings for its prayer says "thanks."

Thanks to the millions who have remembered her in their prayers, to the thousands who have written consoling letters.

"I feel with the prayers from so many that the Lord will spare my body, also my hand," she wrote in her second letter to the Memphis Commercial Appeal today.

In her first letter Betty asked everybody to pray that she wouldn't lose her right hand. Doctors say it may have to be amputated after Christmas if it doesn't respond to treatment for a highly malignant lesio. of a finger.

As a result of the plea two weeks ago, prayers were said in churches in cities and villages all over the country.

And the humble Marbury farm home was swamped with more than 6,000 letters and packages.

"Keep on praying for me and may the Lord bless each and everyone is my prayer. Go to church and Sunday School," her letter said," and have faith in God and the Lord will bless you."

Deaths

BILLY BARNHILL

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Billy Barnhill, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barnhill of Harrisonburg, died of diphtheria Wednesday at Nasif's clinic in Jonesville.

Private funeral services were conducted at Clarks.

Diphtheria has become an almost rare disease since immunization in early childhood has become widely practiced. The Barnhill child had not been given diphtheria vaccine, Dr. N. G. Nasif said.

Pallbearers were W. I. Albright, H. A. Hall, F. Y. Dresasler, O. L. Bates, R. C. Murphy, and Luther R. Reed, Sr.

LOUIS F. BROUSSARD

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Funeral services for Louis F. Broussard, 82, of Monterey were held Thursday afternoon at the Monterey church with interment following there.

Broussard died of a heart ailment on Wednesday. He had been ill for the past eight months.

A native of Avoyelles parish, he was married in 1885 to the former Ollie Crane and had lived since then in Monterey.

Broussard is survived by four daughters, Mrs. H. F. Blount and Mrs. E. L. Sturgeon of Monterey, Mrs. R. D. Hall of Fayette, Miss., and Mrs. J. M. White of Yazoo City, Miss., and three sons, A. P. Broussard and M. C. Broussard of Monterey and W. P. Broussard of Kilgore, Tex. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. S. C. Depriest of Ferriday and Mrs. Lee Lanehart of Monterey, 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were E. C. Phillips, Hartwell Bairnsfather and Raymond Crane of Monterey, Jimmy and Raymond Hall of Jena and Joe Cooper of Yazoo City, Miss.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

It is the eve of production for Little Theatre's second play of the season, Patrick Hamilton's Victorian thriller "Angel Street." After four weeks of intensive rehearsal the three-act drama is ready for the boards and you will be seeing it along about curtain time on Monday evening of the 12, which is opening night.

From A to Z, from actors to the last minute detail of the setting nothing has been overlooked to give the audience an evening of full entertainment. To give to Monroyans, in every sense the theatre as theatre that they have striven to achieve through contribution, interest, enthusiasm and support.

Now for something I've wanted to say for a long time—there are many jobs connected with theatre which are mostly work and mostly unrecognized. As a matter of fact, they are jobs which befall the fate of being taken for granted. Such is the position held by genial Gilbert Faulk, president of the board of directors, whose exacting job it is to say "No" to the many things he would love to say "Yes" to. Looking back upon one instantanious success "John Loves Mary" and forward to another auspicious occasion, the opening of "Angel Street," we can be thankful for his guiding hand.

OFF THE RECORD—Just to show what some interesting things our Little Theatre members can be found doing. On Saturday, we ran into technical director, designer, architect Lon Heuer and he wanted to sell us a Christmas tree. Lon is a member of the Y's Mens Club and his club is selling Christmas trees to raise money for a Santa Claus fund for needy families. If you need a Christmas tree and want make some poor family cheerful this holiday visit Frank Eason's lot on Jackson street for your purchase. . . . Mrs. H. C. Myrick called from Rayville and says they have 60 reservations already for Rayville night, Friday, December 16, for "Angel Street." . . . A word to the wise is sufficient, and just to show Merton Abington that we are his buddy, here's a tip for him. We know how Sue loves antiques, so Merton thinks twice before you expose her to the Victorian set of "Angel Street." We have been floating around on clouds of ecxtasy ever since we saw it first. Just think what it will do to Sue and the family budget.

CHRISTMAS STORY—Members of the committee for Monroe Day at Veterans Hospital, Alexandria on Sunday, December 18, were in constant touch with one another this week ironing out the details of their Santa Claus visit to the boys who are less fortunate than us and won't be home for Christmas.

Lucy Webster and her Gray Ladies have staffed as many gifts boxes as possible in the downtown leading stores, where one may conveniently leave their gifts and remembrances for the fellows. The Red Cross tells us that they can't account for it unless it does represent a return to normal life, but the pajama clad boys love to receive neckties. Other items listed as favorites by the fellows are fountain pens, tie clasps, socks, belts, pipes, razors, shaving lotions, cameras, shirts, pajamas, stamp books, stationaries, pajamas, stamp books, stationeries, picture frames, ash trays, pocket flash lights, small dictionaries, thermos bottles, zipper week-end bags, cigarettes, cigarette lighters, homemade candies and cookies, handkerchiefs, bedroom slippers, and books.

Members of the Monroe Little Theatre were high on the list of contributors for last year's Monroe Day, which the hospital is still talking about, and we expect to see them right our front again this time.

The Little Theatre of Monroe, also as a special contribution to Monroe Day, will take the laugh hit "John Loves Mary," down for a special showing for the patients. The riotus comedy that Director Stocker Fontelieu gave us as the opening play of this season, should be just the laugh tonic that will start them on the road to a happy, merry Christmas.

Make a casserole dish of macaroni and sliced frankfurters and canned tomato sauce; add cole slaw, bread and butter,and a ready-prepared dessert or fruit for a quick holiday supper menu.

Bake fish fillets with slices of onion and plenty of salt, pepper, and butter or margarine or a good-tasting supper dish. Add creamed potatoes and green peas to complete the main course.

MAN CHARGED IN DEATH OF MINER

Accused Man, Victim's Ex-Wife Were Flogged By Hooded Gang

JASPER, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A coal miner was shot to death last night and the husband of the dead man's former wife was charged with manslaughter. The accused man and the woman were flogged by a hooded and robed gang last April.

The dead man was Robert P. Studdard, 44, of Dora.

E Coroner M. M. Posey said Albert Sanders, also of Dora and a coal miner, was arrested and placed in the county jail.

Sanders testified two days ago at Birmingham during a flogging trial that he, Mrs. Sanders and two other persons were flogged near Pumpkin Center, Ala.

Mrs. Sanders is the former Mrs. Studdard. She was separated from Studdard before the floggings.

Coroner Posey said Sanders told him he shot Studdard four times with a .32 caliber automatic at the Sanders home.

Posey said Sanders gave this account:

Studdard, who had been drinking, came to the Sanders home about 9:30 p.m. He offered Sanders a cigarette, then followed Sanders into a bedroom and struck him in the face.

Sanders pulled the pistol from beneath a bed pillow and fired four times. All the shots struck Studdard in the chest.

Coroner Posey said Studdard had a reputation of trying to beat up people when he had been drinking.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sanders testified at the flogging trial of Coleman A. (Brownie) Lollar in October that they were whipped with two others by a gang of about 100 hooded men. All four were accused of misconduct by the mobsters. They denied it.

DeWitt Mackenzie: Mackenzie's Column

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

British socialism, having just won another parliamentary by-election to the discomfort of the hopeful conservatives, is just about set for the forthcoming general election which may eventuate by February.

This general election will determine whether the voters want to continue the experiment in socialism or to revert to conservation under the leadership of Winston Churchill. Thus it bids fair to be one of the most momentous in British history.

If the Socialists are returned to power it likely will mean, as I see it, that they will govern the country not only for the normal five year term but will remain in the saddle indefinitely. Why? Well, because in that five years they will have completed their program of nationalization and other socialization.

It wouldn't be easy to revert to the capitalist system of private enterprise once the country had been socialized.

The current by-election, which was held at South Bradford, wasn't in itself a matter of vast import. However, it was being watched intently by both leftists and rightists as the straw which would indicate which way the political wind was blowing across the country.

The Socialists, having won their 35th straight by-election in South Bradford, figure the wins isn't fair for their ship of state.

The conservatives had taken considerable hope from the recent general election in New Zealand where a labor (Socialist) government was kicked out. However, I fail to see that the two situations are analogous. Britain is a heavily overpopulated industrial nation without many natural resources, while the dominion is largely a farming country, and a rich one at that. It's easier to see red when you are getting jostled about in crowded conditions.

British socialism is giving the voters a glowing picture of achievements claimed. For example: The number of unemployed in September, 1939, was 1,407,959 and in September, 1949, was 267,866; unemployment benefits, retirement pensions and health services have been inaugurated; the average weekly wage rate has increased by about 80 per cent since 1939 and the cost of living has increased about the same, but counting overtime pay the increase in earnings has been 103 per cent.

There's a lot more to the story. However, socialist officialdom doesn't claim all the credit for these things. During virtually the whole war period the government was a coalition, with the conservatives in the majority. Furthermore the conservatives also aimed at the public benefits which have been carried out by the Socialists.

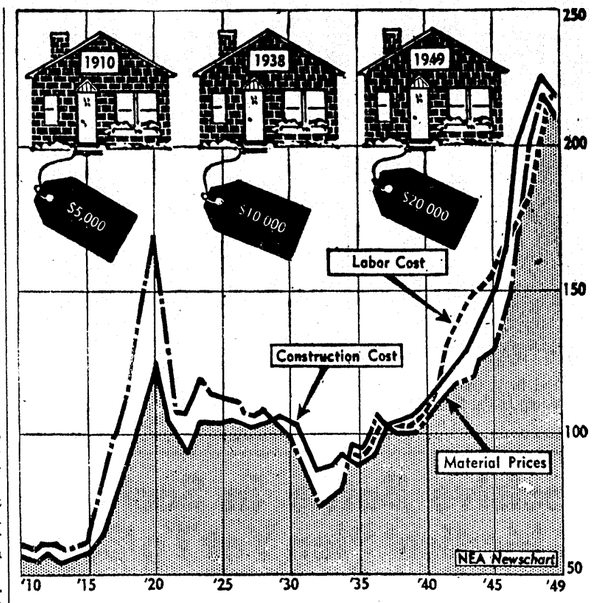

Of course there are two sides to every argument, and opposition to the Socialist program was presented yesterday by Cecil Palmer, British book publisher, in a speech before the national Association of Manufacturers in New York City. He declared the British government's nationalization of industry is the short cut to ruin what may lead his country into communism.

Mr. Palmer told his audience of 3,000 that social security is .socialism's greatest racket," adding that "it seduces the people into allowing the state to do for them th. very things they would do for themselves." He called the national health service in Britain an "integral part of the Socialist frame-up."

The Britons spoke in glowing terms of the financial aid given by America and Canada, asserting that without it "Britain surely would meet with unthir' ble disaster." He pointed out that this aid is "borrowed from hated capitalistic systems which the borrowers are so energetically trying to destroy."

And there you have it. As the feller says, "You pays your money and you takes your choice."

For Sunday night supper hollow out finger rolls and fill with salmon salad; serve with a tossed salad and plenty of sweet mixed pickles.

TRENDS IN BUILDING COSTS—Building costs have declined, but not very much, from their all-time peaks of 1948. A brick home that cost $5000 in 1910 costs four times as much to build now. The newschart above shows how the cost of building has followed right along with the cost of building materials since 1910 and construction workers' wages since 1934, the first year when comparative statistics became available. Data is from the Cleveland Trust Company and the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.— (AP) — Stocks: Steady; selective buying. Bonds: Slightly higher, trading quiet. Cotton: Irregular, deferred contracts ease.

CHICAGO—Wheat: Firm; short covering in December. Corn: Firm; cold weather expected to increase feeding. Oats: Mixed; December easy. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle: Nominally steady.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here today under week end long liquidation and hedge selling. Closing prices were steady 5 cents to 35 cents a bale lower. Trading was quiet throughout the short session and contracts were absorbed mainly by trade buying to fix prices against recent export sales. Spot cotton declined 25 cents a bale with middling 15/16 inch quoted at 29.75 cents a pound. Local sales amounted to 1,838 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady 25 cents a bale lower. Sales 1,838. Low middling 24.03. Middling 29.75. Good middling 30.55. Receipts 6,982. Stocks 511,286.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths inch cotton today at 10 designated southern spot markets was 5 cents a bale lower at 30.09 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 29.79; middling 7/8ths inch average 28.56.

New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures trading was moderately active although price changes were irregular today. Deferred contracts were under pressure of general selling which was largely influenced by uncertainties over the status of pending crop restrictions which are to be voted upon by farmers next week. Trade price fixing had a steadying influence on nearby positions where contracts were supplied by hedges. Some of the buying was believed to be covering against export sales.

Futures closed 5 to 25 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Grains climbed steadily higher on the board of trade today in a fairly active market. The December contracts, aided by a good deal of short covering, led the advance. Corn contracts came close to their seasonal highs.

Wheat closed 1/8-1 3/8 higher, December $2.21-$2.21 1/8, corn was 3/4-1 1/4 higher, December $1.30 1/4-3/8, oats were 5/8 lower to 1/8 higher, December .76 3/8, rye was unchanged to 1/4 lower, December $1.43 1/4, soybeans were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, December $2.32 1/4, and lard was unchanged to 7 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $10.12.

BUDGET DISCUSSED BY TRUMAN, PACE

Hold Informal Talks On Matter During Before-Breakfast Stroll

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—President Truman took a walk today with Budget Director Frank Pace at his side and a set of figures in his head.

They strolled for 30 minutes, their eyes on the before-breakfast sights of the naval submarine station, their thoughts on the billions it takes to keep the government going.

No matter how they summed it up, they always saw red—the red ink that reflected a deficit.

The long-legged Arkansas golfer tennis player and mathematical expert and the gray-haired ex-artillery officer from Missouri fell into an easy—for them—120-pace a minute stride.

When they returned to the temporary White House, they had concluded, in this informal way, discussions which have gone on for months on the makeup of the budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Pace is flying back to Washington tomorrow to whip the budget into shape for a final going-over there by the chief executive and the cabinet.

How much it will run has not been disclosed, but Pace did say yesterday that unless new taxes are levied, there was every prospect of a deficit next year, to be added to the estimated 5.5 billion dollar deficit for this fiscal year.

And, Mr. Truman has already let it be known that the only way he sees to wipe out a deficit is by increasing taxes.

The budget, he has said, will be a tight one which congress won't be able to cut.

Members of the congressional "economy bloc" have threatened to see what they can do about that, and even about tax cuts, and the clash will come when congress meets in January.

Mr. Truman will aim his major hopes for more revenue on corporation profits, rather than on individuals.

His "state of the union" message will be held open for final drafting upon his return to Washington, too.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said today Mr. Truman will complete the message after consultation "with all the members of the cabinet on it."

Each has contributed "written suggestions" brought here by President Assistant John R. Steelman.

The budget, Pace says, will be under $45,000,000,000, but he did not say how much under. Last year the president submitted a $41.9 billion budget, but by the time congress had adjourned this figure had been upped to an estimated $43.5 billion. Estimated reserves this year: $38 billion.

The president put aside such heavy thoughts at the end of his stroll, ate breakfast and went to the beach.

He had soft boiled eggs with his bacon. They were hen eggs, incidentally. Some one sent in some ostrich eggs to tickle the presidential palate, but the cooks haven't gotten around to preparing them.

TIDELAND RENTAL IS HELD PAYABLE

Oil Companies Must Pay Leases Though Area Ownership Disputed

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Oil companies with leases in the Louisiana tidelands must continue to pay rentals to the state while the title to the area is being settled, the state supreme court held late yesterday.

The federal government has sought to prove its right to the oil-rich submerged coastal land.

An opinion by Associate Justice E. Howard McCaleb affirmed the dismissal of 15 suits by District Judge C. Caldwell Herget. The opinion said the companies had maintained there was an implied condition in the leases which suspended payment during litigation arising by the federal government's questioning of the title of the state. The companies also contended, the opinion continued, that the payment was not to become effective until the litigation had been successfully determined in favor of the state.

"We think that it would be an obvious fallacy to conclude that the parties to the leases contemplated that, should the state's title be attacked, plaintiff's would be entitled to suspend any and all payments falling due for the period of the litigation," the supreme court said. "The obligation of the state was to deliver the thing and to cause the leases to be in peaceful possession during the continuance of the leases."

The companies were given the right of possession and had not been disturbed in that right, the opinion said.

Attempt To Solve Gang-Style Slaying

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Police poured through the records of a real estate firm today in the search for a possible motive for the gangland style slaying of a former assistant state's attorney.

The victim, Frank J. Christenson, 44, was killed in a barrage of bullets last night when he stepped from his car at his home in suburban Cicero.

The gunmen shot Christenson nine times and escaped in their car.

Christenson, one time active against gambling in the suburb, was head of the Boulevard Manor Corp., a real estate firm. He served in the Cook County (Chicago) state's attorney's office about a decade ago.

Police said they still were without a likely motive. They said the killing may have stemmed from his real estate deals, his political activities, his move to suppress gambling in the suburb in 1946, or that he might have been a victim of mistaken identity.

NEGRO WHO SHOT THREE IS SOUGHT

Wife Of Deputy Sheriff Killed When Shot By Arrested Man

LUXORA, Ark., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The search for a Negro accused of killing a town marshal's wife and shooting two officers shifted today from the countryside along the Mississippi river to Memphis, Tenn., 60 miles away.

Mississippi County Sheriff William Berryman said Memphis officers had been alerted to pick up Eddie Hall. Another Negro man, he added, told of taking Hall, a woman and a boy to Memphis after the shooting last night.

A posse with bloodhounds sought Hall along the river levees throughout last night and early today.

The manhunt started soon after Mrs. Joe McDaniel, 37, was shot to death beside a cotton field. She was driving her husband, his assistant and three Negroes to the jail at nearby Osceola.

She gasped out to her husband, "Oh Joe, I'm gone," then slumped against his shoulder, dead. A split second later, McDaniel and Ralph Williamson were shot. Two of the Negroes left.

As the posse took up the hunt, Deputy Marshal Horace Lindsey said he feared a lynching because "everybody around here is roused up." Deputy Sheriff Dick Forbes said "some of them want to lynch him but I don't think they would—a lot of law-abiding people live around here."

In a Memphis hospital, where the two men were taken, Williamson said the shooting was done by a man known only as "Shorty." Berryman did not definitely identify Hall as "Shorty."

Forbes gave this account of the shootings:

McDaniel received a call from a Negro nicknamed "Son," who said "Shorty" had threatened him at a Negro night spot, an old, unpainted barn.

Mrs. McDaniel, a taxi cab firm operator, took the two marshals to the scene in a cab. "Shorty," "Son," and the wife of "Shorty" were put in the car and they all started to the jail, with the Negroes in the back seat and the others in front.

"Shorty" had been searched, but not his wife.

Then, Forbes said, came the shooting. "Son" drove the wounded to aid after "Shorty" and his wife escaped.

McDaniel was reported in critical condition with throat, shoulder and arm wounds. Relatives said his right arm probably will be useless. He lost his left arm when he was 13.

Williamson was not critically injured. He suffered a head wound.

Mrs. McDaniel frequently drove her husband on calls because of the loss of his arm.

LEADING ROLES OF 'ANGEL STREET'

The leading roles in Monroe Little Theatre's production of "Angel Street," scheduled to open at Selman Field Little Theatre play house on Monday evening, December 12 at 8:30 p. m., will be presented by reading from left to right, Jim Reynolds as Inspector Rough, Annie Laura Laymon as Bella Manningham with Director Stocker Fontelieu appearing as Mr. Manningham. The Victorian play will run for six nights with Friday being named as Rayville night.

Musical Notes From The Choral Club

By Helen V. Agnew

Final arrangements are rapidly being completed for our concert on the 20th of this month. Do you realize that is only a week from next Tuesday? Time for one more good workout next Monday night, and then comes dress rehearsal. We thought for a while we were going to be competing with the Ouachita choir, heaven forbid, but Miss Cormier, bless her heart, has set their program date up to Sunday the 18th. Thanks a million.

We have had such splendid cooperation from other organizations we would like to take this opportunity to once again thank all those music teachers, musical groups and the clubs and other organizations who have been so helpful to us. We want to say again that the primary interest of our group is to promote a greater interest in choral music, and to afford an opportunity to sing to those who like to sing. Music has so much to offer us, and it should have its own important place in the everyday lives of all of us. We would like to do our part toward emphasizing the pleasure and enjoyment which are to be had in making music, and we are always glad to work with others toward that end.

The Finlay Walkers have finally found a house, and have spent this past week getting moved and settled—not that Maxine would agree they are settled yet. I think everyone in the club was trying to find a place for them.

Don't forget the Percy Grainger concert next Thursday night. If you need a ticket, Gertrude Sandrock will be glad to sell you one or a dozen.

Did you know Walter Minniear came through Monroe Friday morning? He and his band were on their way to play for a football game in Mississippi. He sent his regards to all of us.

Got all your Christmas shopping done? I hope you have a quarter left. That's the price of the binders for the music, and they will be available at the meeting Monday night. See you then.

You May Be A 'Guinea Pig' To Test Drugs

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—You can be one of ten million guinea pigs testing the latest comomn cold remedy, the antihistamines.

There are 20 on the market. Four you can buy from drug stores, and 16 must be prescribed by doctors. Others for over-the-counter sale are expected.

These antihistamines have passed all routine common cold tests. Those include trials on hundreds of human beings.

The results have not differed greatly from numerous, previously discovered common cold remedies. Those others in small groups also gave high cure percentages, although none to reach antihistamine's highest present claim—90 per cent for one-hour-old colds.

The final test for antihistamines is its use by millions. That is the same test that all others have taken.

Hal Boyle's NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK—(AP)—If cleanliness is next to Godliness, then the average New Yorker today is a neighbor to heaven.

He's so spotless he shines. He's never been so clean before.

It's all because of the great water famine. City Hall suddenly discovered that folks were using 1,200,000,000 gallons of water a day—more than 150 a person—and metropolitan reservoirs were down to 34.7 per cent of normal capacity.

And the water level is shrinking. So Manhattan, surrounded by one ocean and three rivers, is wondering dismally if it is going to become a near-desert island.

Well, you know how it is when a thing gets in short supply.

Folks figure, "by golly, I ain't going to be cheated out of my share."

And people who once had to be driven, screaming in protest, to their weekly Saturday night scrubbing are now taking two baths a day—and slipping home at lunch for a shower.

It has been found that a faucet is only good to the last drop—and mama keeps turning the faucet on and off to be sure there are still a few drops left.

The situation has created a new medical problem—secret water drinkers. A man is afraid to leave a visitor alone in his room, for fear he will rush to the nearest tap and drink himself unconscious.

Of course, while the taps still run the shortage has its advantages. A host no longer has to worry about his scotch or rye running out. "How about a highball of straight water?" he murmurs. "The real stuff?"

Any day now I expect some character in a turned down hat and a turned up collar to slide over and whisper out of the corner of his mouth, "wanta buy some black market water, Mac? We just smuggled some in from New Jersey on a fast ferry.

An acquaintance of mine says he isn't going to miss out in the water shortage.

"Darned if I'm going to get caught in a black market in that," he grubled. "I was too late in getting into the black markets during the war, and I got stuck with five bags of sugar and three dozen white shirts."

When I asked him how he was going to avoid it, he said:

"I tied knots in my white shirts, put them in the bathtub and filled them with water. Did the same thing with my sugar sacks, too. I'm already prepared for the emergency."

A nice thing about the shortage is that they no longer bring you fingerbowls in most restaurants. As a matter of fact if you ask for a glass of water the waiter is likely to answer: "What'll you give for it—two tickets to South Pacific?"

In the midst of this aqua pura panic one gent stands undismayed. This is Johnny Bo-Bo. Johnny got his name his habit of standing at the bar in Fogarty's neighborhood saloon belting himself with straight bourbon and muttering at his reflection in the mirror—"Bo-Bo, Bo-Bo-Bo, Bo-Bo-Bo-Bo-Bo-Bo!"

"Any body wants my water can have it," says Johnny Bo-Bo. "I ain't touched the stuff since the summer of 1921. I knew sooner or later somebody would find it unpatriotic to drink it."

Betty Lou Extends Thanks For Prayers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Betty Lou Marbury has written another letter—and it's to you, you and you.

This time the plucky little 10-year-old Brownsville, Tenn., girl who tugged at the nation's heartstrings for its prayer says "thanks."

Thanks to the millions who have remembered her in their prayers, to the thousands who have written consoling letters.

"I feel with the prayers from so many that the Lord will spare my body, also my hand," she wrote in her second letter to the Memphis Commercial Appeal today.

In her first letter Betty asked everybody to pray that she wouldn't lose her right hand. Doctors say it may have to be amputated after Christmas if it doesn't respond to treatment for a highly malignant lesion of a finger.

As a result of the plea two weeks ago, prayers were said in churches in cities and villages all over the country.

And the humble Marbury farm home was swamped with more than 6,000 letters and packages.

"Keep on praying for me and may the Lord bless each and everyone is my prayer. Go to church and Sunday School," her letter said," and have faith in God and the Lord will bless you."

Deaths

BILLY BARNHILL

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Billy Barnhill, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barnhill of Harrisonburg, died of diphtheria Wednesday at Nasif's clinic in Jonesville.

Private funeral services were conducted at Clarks.

Diphtheria has become an almost rare disease since immunization in early childhood has become widely practiced. The Barnhill child had not been given diphtheria vaccine, Dr. N. G. Nasif said.

MRS. ISABELL REIDER

FERRIDAY, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Funeral services were held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in Harrisonburg for Mrs. Isabell Reider, ninety-six-year-old resident of the Harrisonburg community, who died at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday morning after a brief illness.

Mrs. Reider spent her entire life in Catahoula parish and was held in high esteem. She was a member of the Harrisonburg Methodist Church and the last rites were held from this church with Rev. M. R. Tisate officiating.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. C. B. Brown of Harrisonburg and Mrs. Ruby Morgan of Los Angeles, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. R. E. Magee, Harrisonburg and Mrs. Martha Disch, Natchez, Miss., and two grandchildren, Charles Brown and G. B. Brown and several great-grandchildren.

The following served as pallbearers: J. L. Beasley, G. O. McGuffee, Charles Campbell, George Mageem, R. W. Bennett and J. C. Alexander.

MRS. MILLER RITES

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Miller, 81, who died here Thursday, was held in Gordon Ave. Methodist Church, Saturday at 10 a.m. Clergymen officiating were Rev. W. H. Carroll, Rev. Ira Yeager, Rev. O. B Dazer and Dr. Ernest D. Holloway.

Pallbearers were Sam Scott, Starsney Scott, Leslie Peters, E. C. Wyatt, W. D. Roark, T. A. Ward, Fred Goodwin and Ed Lohan.

Interment in charge of Peters Funeral Home, was in Rieview Burial Park.

Mrs. Miller leaves her husband, Ben H. Miller, Sr., Monroe; three daughters, Mrs. G. B. Wilson, Mrs. Fred Peters and Mrs. C. B. Parsons, Monroe; two sons, Henry Miller, Monroe and Herman Miller, Fairbanks, and 11 grandchildren.

MRS. BETTY COOK

The funeral of Mrs. Betty Cook, 72, of Fairbanks, where she died at her daughter's home Thursday, was held in the Church of Christ, Sterlington, Saturday at 3 p.m. Interment was in Union parish, conducted by Peters Funeral Home.

Mrs. Cook leaves her husband, Richard Cook; three sons, Horace and Elston Cook, Fairbanks and John Cook, Pineville; six daughters, Mrs. Lola Smith, Anderson, S. C.; Mrs. J. C. Wyatt, Spencer; Mrs. G. W. Wyatt, Monroe; Miss Sally Cook, Fairbanks; Mrs. Corie Mulhearn, West Monroe; Mrs. Edwin Strother, Perryville; a sister, Mrs. Elliott Scarborough, Farmerville and a number of grandchildren.

MRS. KATIE GREGORY

Mrs. Katie Gregory, 84, West Monroe, died at the home of her daughter in West Monroe, early Saturday afternoon.

The body will remain in the chapel of Hall Funeral Home until time for funeral services which will be held at the Assembly of God Church, West Monroe at 2:00 p.m. Monday with Rev. E. L. Tanner officiating. Interment will be in Hasley Cemetery.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Alice Cooper, West Monroe; one son, Ernest E. Boyd, Sr., West Monroe; one sister, Mrs. Mary Ford, Bastrop; 13 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Jack Joiner, Roy Byrd, Ernest Boyd, Jr., Carl Boyd, Chester Boyd, and William Boyd.

MRS. ELLA NORA LAUBE

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Nora Laube, 64, West Monroe, were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Good Hope Baptist Church with Rev. Homer Spence, pastor, officiating.

Interment was in Hasley cemetery under direction of Hall Funeral Home.

She is survived by one son, A. F. Winkler, U. S. army, in Japan; one daughter, Mrs. Lena Black, West Monroe; two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Lockett, Jena and Mrs. John Whatley, Oakdale, and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers were W. I. Albright, H. A. Hall, F. Y. Dresasler, O. L. Bates, R. C. Murphy, and Luther R. Reed, Sr.

LOUIS F. BROUSSARD

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Funeral services for Louis F. Broussard, 82, of Monterey were held Thursday afternoon at the Monterey church with interment following there.

Broussard died of a heart ailment on Wednesday. He had been ill for the past eight months.

A native of Avoyelles parish, he was married in 1885 to the former Ollie Crane and had lived since then in Monterey.

Broussard is survived by four daughters, Mrs. H. F. Blount and Mrs. E. L. Sturgeon of Monterey, Mrs. R. D. Hall of Fayette, Miss., and Mrs. J. M. White of Yazoo City, Miss., and three sons, A. P. Broussard and M. C. Broussard of Monterey and W. P. Broussard of Kilgore, Tex. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. S. C. Depriest of Ferriday and Mrs. Lee Lanehart of Monterey, 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were E. C. Phillips, Hartwell Bairnsfather and Raymond Crane of Monterey, Jimmy and Raymond Hall of Jena and Joe Cooper of Yazoo City, Miss.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

It is the eve of production for Little Theatre's second play of the season, Patrick Hamilton's Victorian thriller "Angel Street." After four weeks of intensive rehearsal the three-act drama is ready for the boards and you will be seeing it along about curtain time on Monday evening of the 12, which is opening night.

From A to Z, from actors to the last minute detail of the setting nothing has been overlooked to give the audience an evening of full entertainment. To give to Monroyans, in every sense the theatre as theatre that they have striven to achieve through contribution, interest, enthusiasm and support.

Now for something I've wanted to say for a long time—there are many jobs connected with theatre which are mostly work and mostly unrecognized. As a matter of fact, they are jobs which befall the fate of being taken for granted. Such is the position held by genial Gilbert Faulk, president of the board of directors, whose exacting job it is to say "No" to the many things he would love to say "Yes" to. Looking back upon one instantanious success "John Loves Mary" and forward to another auspicious occasion, the opening of "Angel Street," we can be thankful for his guiding hand.

OFF THE RECORD—Just to show what some interesting things our Little Theatre members can be found doing. On Saturday, we ran into technical director, designer, architect Lon Heuer and he wanted to sell us a Christmas tree. Lon is a member of the Y's Mens Club and his club is selling Christmas trees to raise money for a Santa Claus fund for needy families. If you need a Christmas tree and want make some poor family cheerful this holiday visit Frank Eason's lot on Jackson street for your purchase. . . . Mrs. H. C. Myrick called from Rayville and says they have 60 reservations already for Rayville night, Friday, December 16, for "Angel Street." . . . A word to the wise is sufficient, and just to show Merton Abington that we are his buddy, here's a tip for him. We know how Sue loves antiques, so Merton thinks twice before you expose her to the Victorian set of "Angel Street." We have been floating around on clouds of ecxtasy ever since we saw it first. Just think what it will do to Sue and the family budget.

CHRISTMAS STORY—Members of the committee for Monroe Day at Veterans Hospital, Alexandria on Sunday, December 18, were in constant touch with one another this week ironing out the details of their Santa Claus visit to the boys who are less fortunate than us and won't be home for Christmas.

Lucy Webster and her Gray Ladies have staffed as many gifts boxes as possible in the downtown leading stores, where one may conveniently leave their gifts and remembrances for the fellows. The Red Cross tells us that they can't account for it unless it does represent a return to normal life, but the pajama clad boys love to receive neckties. Other items listed as favorites by the fellows are fountain pens, tie clasps, socks, belts, pipes, razors, shaving lotions, cameras, shirts, pajamas, stamp books, stationaries, pajamas, stamp books, stationeries, picture frames, ash trays, pocket flash lights, small dictionaries, thermos bottles, zipper week-end bags, cigarettes, cigarette lighters, homemade candies and cookies, handkerchiefs, bedroom slippers, and books.

Members of the Monroe Little Theatre were high on the list of contributors for last year's Monroe Day, which the hospital is still talking about, and we expect to see them right our front again this time.

The Little Theatre of Monroe, also as a special contribution to Monroe Day, will take the laugh hit "John Loves Mary," down for a special showing for the patients. The riotus comedy that Director Stocker Fontelieu gave us as the opening play of this season, should be just the laugh tonic that will start them on the road to a happy, merry Christmas.

Make a casserole dish of macaroni and sliced frankfurters and canned tomato sauce; add cole slaw, bread and butter,and a ready-prepared dessert or fruit for a quick holiday supper menu.

Bake fish fillets with slices of onion and plenty of salt, pepper, and butter or margarine or a good-tasting supper dish. Add creamed potatoes and green peas to complete the main course.

MAN CHARGED IN DEATH OF MINER

Accused Man, Victim's Ex-Wife Were Flogged By Hooded Gang

JASPER, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A coal miner was shot to death last night and the husband of the dead man's former wife was charged with manslaughter. The accused man and the woman were flogged by a hooded and robed gang last April.

The dead man was Robert P. Studdard, 44, of Dora.

E Coroner M. M. Posey said Albert Sanders, also of Dora and a coal miner, was arrested and placed in the county jail.

Sanders testified two days ago at Birmingham during a flogging trial that he, Mrs. Sanders and two other persons were flogged near Pumpkin Center, Ala.

Mrs. Sanders is the former Mrs. Studdard. She was separated from Studdard before the floggings.

Coroner Posey said Sanders told him he shot Studdard four times with a .32 caliber automatic at the Sanders home.

Posey said Sanders gave this account:

Studdard, who had been drinking, came to the Sanders home about 9:30 p.m. He offered Sanders a cigarette, then followed Sanders into a bedroom and struck him in the face.

Sanders pulled the pistol from beneath a bed pillow and fired four times. All the shots struck Studdard in the chest.

Coroner Posey said Studdard had a reputation of trying to beat up people when he had been drinking.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sanders testified at the flogging trial of Coleman A. (Brownie) Lollar in October that they were whipped with two others by a gang of about 100 hooded men. All four were accused of misconduct by the mobsters. They denied it.

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

British socialism, having just won another parliamentary by-election to the discomfort of the hopeful conservatives, is just about set for the forthcoming general election which may eventuate by February.

This general election will determine whether the voters want to continue the experiment in socialism or to revert to conservation under the leadership of Winston Churchill. Thus it bids fair to be one of the most momentous in British history.

If the Socialists are returned to power it likely will mean, as I see it, that they will govern the country not only for the normal five year term but will remain in the saddle indefinitely. Why? Well, because in that five years they will have completed their program of nationalization and other socialization.

It wouldn't be easy to revert to the capitalist system of private enterprise once the country had been socialized.

The current by-election, which was held at South Bradford, wasn't in itself a matter of vast import. However, it was being watched intently by both leftists and rightists as the straw which would indicate which way the political wind was blowing across the country.

The Socialists, having won their 35th straight by-election in South Bradford, figure the wins isn't fair for their ship of state.

The conservatives had taken considerable hope from the recent general election in New Zealand where a labor (Socialist) government was kicked out. However, I fail to see that the two situations are analogous. Britain is a heavily overpopulated industrial nation without many natural resources, while the dominion is largely a farming country, and a rich one at that. It's easier to see red when you are getting jostled about in crowded conditions.

British socialism is giving the voters a glowing picture of achievements claimed. For example: The number of unemployed in September, 1939, was 1,407,959 and in September, 1949, was 267,866; unemployment benefits, retirement pensions and health services have been inaugurated; the average weekly wage rate has increased by about 80 per cent since 1939 and the cost of living has increased about the same, but counting overtime pay the increase in earnings has been 103 per cent.

There's a lot more to the story. However, socialist officialdom doesn't claim all the credit for these things. During virtually the whole war period the government was a coalition, with the conservatives in the majority. Furthermore the conservatives also aimed at the public benefits which have been carried out by the Socialists.

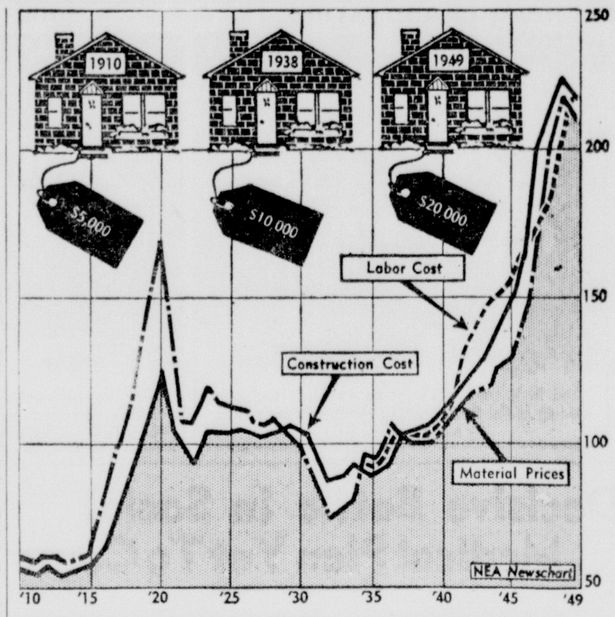

Of course there are two sides to every argument, and opposition to the Socialist program was presented yesterday by Cecil Palmer, British book publisher, in a speech before the national Association of Manufacturers in New York City. He declared the British government's nationalization of industry is the short cut to ruin what may lead his country into communism.

Mr. Palmer told his audience of 3,000 that social security is socialism's greatest racket," adding that "it seduces the people into allowing the state to do for them th very things they would do for themselves." He called the national health service in Britain an "integral part of the Socialist frame-up."

The Britons spoke in glowing terms of the financial aid given by America and Canada, asserting that without it "Britain surely would meet with unthir ble disaster." He pointed out that this aid is "borrowed from hated capitalistic systems which the borrowers are so energetically trying to destroy."

And there you have it. As the feller says, "You pays your money and you takes your choice."

For Sunday night supper hollow out finger rolls and fill with salmon salad; serve with a tossed salad and plenty of sweet mixed pickles.

TRENDS IN BUILDING COSTS—Building costs have declined, but not very much, from their all-time peaks of 1948. A brick home that cost $5000 in 1910 costs four times as much to build now. The newschart above shows how the cost of building has followed right along with the cost of building materials since 1910 and construction workers' wages since 1934, the first year when comparative statistics became available. Data is from the Cleveland Trust Company and the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.— (AP) — Stocks: Steady; selective buying. Bonds: Slightly higher, trading quiet. Cotton; Irregular, deferred contracts ease.

CHICAGO—Wheat: Firm; short covering in December. Corn: Firm; cold weather expected to increase feeding. Oats: Mixed; December easy. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle: Nominally steady.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here today under week end long liquidation and hedge selling. Closing prices were steady 5 cents to 35 cents a bale lower. Trading was quiet throughout the short session and contracts were absorbed mainly by trade buying to fix prices against recent export sales. Spot cotton declined 25 cents a bale with middling 15/16 inch quoted at 29.75 cents a pound. Local sales amounted to 1,838 bales.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths inch cotton today at 10 designated southern spot markets was 5 cents a bale lower at 30.09 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 29.79; middling 7/8ths inch average 28.56.

New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures trading was moderately active although price changes were irregular today. Deferred contracts were under pressure of general selling which was largely influenced by uncertainties over the status of pending crop restrictions which are to be voted upon by farmers next week. Trade price fixing had a steadying influence on nearby positions where contracts were supplied by hedges. Some of the buying was believed to be covering against export sales.

Futures closed 5 to 25 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Grains climbed steadily higher on the board of trade today in a fairly active market. The December contracts, aided by a good deal of short covering, led the advance. Corn contracts came close to their seasonal highs.

Wheat closed 1/8-1 3/8 higher, December $2.21-$2.21 1/8, corn was 3/4-1 1/4 higher, December $1.30 1/4-3/8, oats were 5/8 lower to 1/8 higher, December .76 3/8, rye was unchanged to 1/4 lower, December $1.43 1/4, soybeans were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, December $2.32 1/4, and lard was unchanged to 7 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $10.12.

BUDGET DISCUSSED BY TRUMAN, PACE

Hold Informal Talks On Matter During Before-Breakfast Stroll

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—President Truman took a walk today with Budget Director Frank Pace at his side and a set of figures in his head.

They strolled for 30 minutes, their eyes on the before-breakfast sights of the naval submarine station, their thoughts on the billions it takes to keep the government going.

No matter how they summed it up, they always saw red—the red ink that reflected a deficit.

The long-legged Arkansas golfer tennis player and mathematical expert and the gray-haired ex-artillery officer from Missouri fell into an easy—for them—120-pace a minute stride.

When they returned to the temporary White House, they had concluded, in this informal way, discussions which have gone on for months on the makeup of the budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Pace is flying back to Washington tomorrow to whip the budget into shape for a final going-over there by the chief executive and the cabinet.

How much it will run has not been disclosed, but Pace did say yesterday that unless new taxes are levied, there was every prospect of a deficit next year, to be added to the estimated 5.5 billion dollar deficit for this fiscal year.

And, Mr. Truman has already let it be known that the only way he sees to wipe out a deficit is by increasing taxes.

The budget, he has said, will be a tight one which congress won't be able to cut.

Members of the congressional "economy bloc" have threatened to see what they can do about that, and even about tax cuts, and the clash will come when congress meets in January.

Mr. Truman will aim his major hopes for more revenue on corporation profits, rather than on individuals.

His "state of the union" message will be held open for final drafting upon his return to Washington, too.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said today Mr. Truman will complete the message after consultation "with all the members of the cabinet on it."

Each has contributed "written suggestions" brought here by President Assistant John R. Steelman.

The budget, Pace says, will be under $45,000,000,000, but he did not say how much under. Last year the president submitted a $41.9 billion budget, but by the time congress had adjourned this figure had been upped to an estimated $43.5 billion. Estimated reserves this year: $38 billion.

The president put aside such heavy thoughts at the end of his stroll, ate breakfast and went to the beach.

He had soft boiled eggs with his bacon. They were hen eggs, incidentally. Some one sent in some ostrich eggs to tickle the presidential palate, but the cooks haven't gotten around to preparing them.

TIDELAND RENTAL IS HELD PAYABLE

Oil Companies Must Pay Leases Though Area Ownership Disputed

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Oil companies with leases in the Louisiana tidelands must continue to pay rentals to the state while the title to the area is being settled, the state supreme court held late yesterday.

The federal government has sought to prove its right to the oil-rich submerged coastal land.

An opinion by Associate Justice E. Howard McCaleb affirmed the dismissal of 15 suits by District Judge C. Caldwell Herget. The opinion said the companies had maintained there was an implied condition in the leases which suspended payment during litigation arising by the federal government's questioning of the title of the state. The companies also contended, the opinion continued, that the payment was not to become effective until the litigation had been successfully determined in favor of the state.

"We think that it would be an obvious fallacy to conclude that the parties to the leases contemplated that, should the state's title be attacked, plaintiff's would be entitled to suspend any and all payments falling due for the period of the litigation," the supreme court said. "The obligation of the state was to deliver the thing and to cause the leases to be in peaceful possession during the continuance of the leases."

The companies were given the right of possession and had not been disturbed in that right, the opinion said.

Attempt To Solve Gang-Style Slaying

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Police poured through the records of a real estate firm today in the search for a possible motive for the gangland style slaying of a former assistant state's attorney.

The victim, Frank J. Christenson, 44, was killed in a barrage of bullets last night when he stepped from his car at his home in suburban Cicero.

The gunmen shot Christenson nine times and escaped in their car.

Christenson, one time active against gambling in the suburb, was head of the Boulevard Manor Corp., a real estate firm. He served in the Cook County (Chicago) state's attorney's office about a decade ago.

Police said they still were without a likely motive. They said the killing may have stemmed from his real estate deals, his political activities, his move to suppress gambling in the suburb in 1946, or that he might have been a victim of mistaken identity.

NEW GRID CONFERENCE WILL INCLUDE N. J. C.

TEXAS, LOUISIANA JUNIOR COLLEGE LEAGUE PLANNED

Southwestern J. C. Conference Disbands As Of Next June 1

DALLAS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A new junior college conference, taking in schools from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, was formed today to replace the Southwestern Junior College Conference which dissolved at its annual winter meeting in Dallas.

Kilgore and Tyler of the defunct Southwestern Junior College Conference, Northeast Junior College of Monroe, La., and McNeese of Lake Charles, La., announced definitely they would be in the new circuit. Paris, also a member of the Southwestern circuit, expressed interest but did not make decision at this time. The Cameron Aggies of Lawton, Okla., took the same stand as Paris.

The conference will be perfected at a meeting to be held at Kilgore Dec. 19. It is not yet named but will have the same eligibility rules and rules of play as did the Southwestern Junior College Conference. It will not replace the Southwestern Junior College Conference until September. The present circuit continues through spring.

The new conference was formed at a meeting held this afternoon following the regular session of the Southwestern Junior College Conference.

Tarleton State, Arlington State, Schreiner, San Angelo and Lamar of Beaumont were other members of the Southwestern Junior College Conference although Lamar had intended to withdraw anyway since it becomes a senior college in 1951 and is eyeing the Gulf Coast and Lone Star conferences for possible membership.

Reportedly Tarleton State, Arlington State, Schreiner and San Angelo will enter a new conference that takes in west Texas colleges at Cisco, Decatur, Weatherford, Ranger and Big Spring.

The vote to dissolve the Southwestern Junior College Conference at the meeting here was unanimous but was a surprise even to those who had heard rumors of dissatisfaction in the 3 1/2-year-old circuit.

The dissolution move was announced by Conference President W. O. Archeg of Beaumont. The Lamar College official said the move was prompted by "wishes to improve the educational program and travel conditions within the conference."

He explained that member schools are so far apart that travel time takes too many hours away from classes.

This may not have been the entire reason, however. There have been reports some conference members planned to withdraw, on grounds they couldn't compete with wealthier loop members.

Until June 1 all conference activities will continue as scheduled.

Kosciusko Wins Mississippi 'A' Football Championship

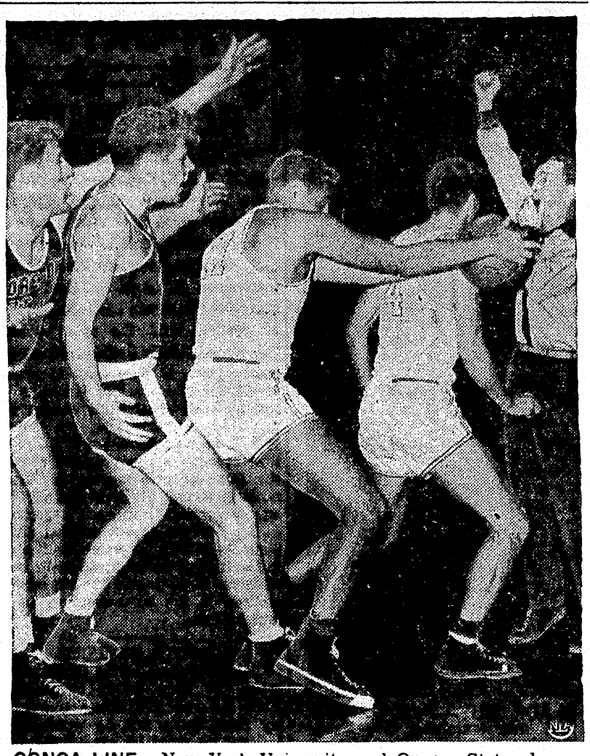

MERIDIAN, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Kosciusko High School holds the Class A football championship of Mississippi today.

Picayune went down to defeat last night 19-6.

Picayune fullback Marion Salloum ran 60 yards for the first and only touchdown for his team a few seconds after the game started.

Kosciusko scores were on a pass from Allen Ables to Horace Williams, John Ables' run around end, and recovery of a Picayune fumble in the last minute of play.

Steele, Laye In Mat Main Event At Kallio's Tuesday

CONGA LINE—New York University and Oregon State players were in this dance when the refree blew his whistle after the Violet's Abe Becker, 11, with ball, was fouled by the Beavers' Harv Watt in the second half at Madison Square Garden. Others are Len Rhinearson and Dan Quilty. Visitors edged the home guard, 49-45.

Stengel Says Bill Wilson, Chisox' $75,000 Buy, Looks Like DiMaggio

Chicago Americans Look For Big Things From Sacramento Star

By Dan Daniel

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Bill Wilson, sold by Sacramento to the White Sox for $75,000 and four players, last season was perhaps the most talked about prospect with an independent minor league club.

The Chicago Americans had to outbid most of the 15 other major league organizations.

Outfielder Wilson will report to Jack Onslow in Pasadena, Calif., in March, but it is conceded that he needs another year in Triple A. He hit no better than .246 this past season, but was hampered by a broken foot. His 1948 rating with Wenatchee, Wash., was .348.

The White Sox used the deal as a springboard to jump into a working agreement with the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League.

Casey Stengel did not cheer when he heard that the Yankees had been outbid for Wilson.

"The kid has a stance like Joe DiMaggio's, and he looks like a hitter," said the manager of the world champions.

Johnny Nee, who scouted for the Yankees until Larry MacPhail came along, has been made head of the Phillies' farm system. George Earnshaw is his assistant.

Buddy Hassett told me that Bobby Morgan, up with the Dodgers from Montreal as a shortstop, would do better at third base.

"Morgan is ready right now," he added.

Charley Keller's salary with the Yankees in each of the past three years was $27,500 a season, so King Kong, released by the Yankees the past week, hardly is as hard up as some have imagined.

Frank Shea, Yankee righthander, who has had so much trouble with his arm and shoulder for two years, is at Johns Hopkins Hospital under Dr. George E. Bennett's scrutiny. . . . The Bombers can start asking for waivers again on Jan. 1, and would like to know exactly how Spec shapes up physically before offering him a contract.

Bill DeWitt, president of the Browns, said to me: "Pay no attention to the yarn that the Athletics have offered us $300,000 for Gerald Priddy, Bob Dillinger and Dick Kokos.

"Kokos is not to be sold or traded. That isn't just poker playing. It is our determination. Ned Garver and Roy Sievers, also mentioned in trade rumors, will be with us in 1950.

"A story that Cleveland has offered $200,000 for Dillinger is not based on fact. I have not talked with Hank Greenberg about Dillinger, and have quoted no price on Bob to anybody."

Ferriday High Cagers Preparing For Season

FERRIDAY, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Daily workouts are being held by the members of both the boys and girls basketball squads of Ferriday High School and a number of games are scheduled before the Christmas holidays.

Ferriday's boys recently completed a successful football season and placed two, William Wheat, a tackle, and Charles Albert Massey, a back, on the Class B all-district team. This team was picked by the coaches of the conference.

The local lads and lassies, now working out for the cage sports, will also enter several tournaments in the state before and after the Yuletide holidays and despite losses of veterans, both teams will be well represented on the hardwood floor this season.

Southwest 'Sees' Arkansas Cagers

By Harold V. Ratliff
(AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer)

DALLAS—The Arkansas Razorbacks who tied for the Southwest Conference basketball championships last season and won a play-off to represent the area in the N. C. A. A., are general favorites to cop the 1949-50 title.

They have a new coach, Presley Askew, who keeps talking about Texas, Baylor, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, but his fellow mentors point to the veteran material and the awesome height of the Razorbacks and say "those are the boys."

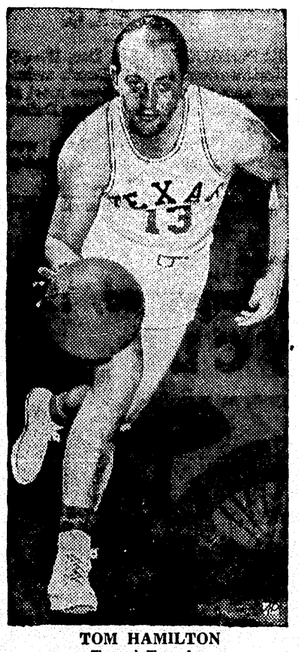

Baylor comes up with six lettermen, including All-Conference Don Heathington—all are seniors—and there are strong signs of a resurgence from Texas A. and M. and Texas Christian.

The Aggies mapped a strenuous intersectional schedule, playing such biggies as Long Island, Oklahoma A. and M. and St. Louis on tours to the east and to the west coasts. There are six lettermen at Aggieland and a couple of newcomers, Walt Davis, 6 feet-8, and Ken Sutton, 6 feet-7, make A. and M. prospects the brightest in a long time.

Arkansas also meets Oklahoma A. and M. and Kentucky, national finalists last season.

Arkansas has five lettermen including Bob Ambler, 6 feet-7; Jim Cathcart, 6 feet-4, and Norman Price, 6 feet-3. On the entire squad there is only one man under six feet. Arkansas also has some transfer players who are counted upon to give the punch lost with the departure of Ken Kearns, all-conference, and Cliff Horton and Johnny Campbell. The Razorbacks deadlocked for the conference title last season with Baylor and Rice. In order to select the southwestern representative in the National Collegiate tournament, a play-off was held with Arizona also competing. Arkansas won it and did well in the western regional N. C. A. A. tourney.

Texas Christian has only two lettermen but Buster Brannon has a bright array up from last season's undefeated

TOM HAMILTON

freshmen. Veteran of the team is Gene Schmidt, who is seeking his fifth varsity letter.

Rice has a new coach and five lettermen with better than average height. The Owls, however, lost Bill Tom, giant center and one of the finest players in the country, through graduation. Warren Switzer is the top veteran. He is after his fourth varsity numeral. Rice also has some good men up from the freshmen and J. D. White, a junior college transfer who was held out of action last year. Coach is Don Suman, a former Rice star, who succeeds Joe Davis, a football coach, who was relieved of piloting the basketball team in view of his numerous other duties.

Baylor lost James Owens, all-conference forward, to the pros but returning are Heathington, Bill Dewitt, Odell Preston, Bill Srack, Bill Hickman and Gerald Cobb. These fellows all played on a team that won one conference title and tied for another.

Texas was hardest hit by graduation of any school in the circuit. Only returning starter is Tom Hamilton, one of the top players of the conference and a leading candidate for All-America this year. Frankie Womack, a guard, and Wilson Taylor, big center, are other lettermen, and Texas has some good-looking transfers and sophomores, but the great guard combination of Al Madsen and Slater Martin is gone.

Coach E. O. (Doc) Hayes of Southern Methodist isn't enthusiastic about his prospects although he has four lettermen and other seasoned material. There are few tall men. Hayes thinks Paul Mitchell, a junior college transfer who is 6 feet-3, will help greatly. He needed a center last year and Mitchell appears to fill the bill. Jack Brown, Hal Salmon, George Owen and Charley Lutz are the other veterans. Hayes' opponents are rating his team pretty high but the S. M. U. mentor disagrees.

A schedule of 115 games not including the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City in which Baylor, Texas and Arkansas will compete, has been mapped by the seven conference members. Almost half of these games are intersectional and include not only Kentucky and Oklahoma A. and M. but Colorado, City College of New York, California, Oklahoma, Niagara, Tulane, Illinois, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Wichita, Louisiana State, Pepperdine, Missouri, Bradley and Navy.

Only Arkansas and Rice have new coaches. Bill Henderson returns to Baylor, Marty Karow to Texas A. and M., Brannon to Texas Christian, Jack Gray to Texas and Hayes to Southern Methodist.

SLEDGE PAIRED AGAINST RYAN IN SEMI-FINAL

Ex-Champions In Feature Scrap Point For Title Bout With Estes

A pair of former world's light heavyweight wrestling champions, Jack "Stinger" Steele and Charlie Laye, meet in the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night in what promises to be a rousing brawl between the super-villain Steele and the lesser-villain Laye.

Both Steele and Laye have been questing without success for a title match with Balk Estes, the Oklahoma tussler who wrested the crown from Jack Curtis a couple of months ago. But Estes has proven mighty hard to get, and the challengers apparently are just going to have to go around mauling each other until Estes makes up his mind to put his title on the line.

Steele, from Sioux City, Iowa, moved back into the southern mat circuit about three weeks ago after an absence of a couple of years. He let it be known right quick he was after Estes and got matches with him in tag team affairs, but as far as the title was concerned he got only the cold shoulder from the Oklahoma titlist.

Laye, too, has made his challenges to Estes, all going unaccepted.

So Laye and Steel seek consolation in a match with each other. Promoter Kallio is anxious to bill a title match, and it is likely that he will work toward an Estes bout for the winner Tuesday night, although he has no assurance that Estes is yet ready to risk his crown against either Steele or Laye.

The feature Tuesday will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. Bill Barney will be on hand to work as referee.

The semi-final attraction will bring together Mike "Rodeo" Ryan, the Cheyenne cowboy, and Bill Sledge, the durable Texan.

Ryan, a villainous tussler popularly known to Twin City fans as "Red." will meet Sledge over an hour time limit route with two falls to win.

Mississippi Southern Nips Louisiana College, 56-48

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mississippi Southern cagers came from behind to defeat Louisiana College of Pineville, La., 56-48, here last night.

At the half the score was 21-19 in favor of Louisiana College. Within five minutes in the second half the Southern team went ahead and built up a commanding lead.

Southern's Freshman Forward A. T. Bishop led the scoring with 26.

For Louisiana, Billie Joe Moses was high man with 15.

Pearl River Shades Lamar In Memorial

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Pearl River Junior College scored in the closing minutes of the annual Memorial Bowl football game to edge Lamar Junior College of Beaumont, Tex., 21 to 20 here last night.

With four minutes to go, the score was 20 to 14 in favor of the Lamar Cardinals when Gene Mapp caught a kickoff and raced 74 yards. Little Levon Ezelle, 150-pound Pearl River scatback, went over for a touchdown to tie up the game. J. C. Stewart converted for the winning point.

Jimmy McNeil, top scorer of the Southwest Junior College Conference, made the first Lamar score in the first period and Cowboy Hall converted. Frank Branch went seven yards for the first Pearl River touchdown and then converted to tie the score.

Ezelle ran 87 yards for a touchdown in the third period to put Pearl River ahead and then added the extra point.

Late in the same period Lamar's Billy Lierman scored a touchdown from the 20. Hall missed the conversion. Lamar went ahead in the fourth period when McNeil scored from the seven. Hall's attempt for conversion was good.

Pearl River then went ahead on Ezelle's second touchdown and Stewart's conversion.

Chairman B. E. Grantham of the Touchdown Club, sponsor of the game, said that future Memorial bowls would be between Junior Colleges. Until this year high schools have completed.

WISNER FOOTBALL PLAYERS FETED HERE

The Wisner High School football players were guests of honor at a banquet given them here Friday, shortly before they attended the Junior Sugar Bowl football game. Fulfilling a three-year-old promise, Burnice E. Glasgow, Wisner businessman, and Mrs. Glasgow were hosts to the boys and their coach, Stanley Powell, who voiced the appreciation of his boys for the dinner. The group later attended the Junior Sugar Bowl game between Wharton County Junior College of Texas and Lees-McRae College of North Carolina as guests of the Wisner Lions Club, a strong booster of football. VILLEMAIN ASKS FOR TITLE BOUT

Beats LaMotta In Non-Title Match; Wants Middle Crown For France

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Rapid Robert Villemain officially has evened his score with Jake LaMotta. Now the scrappy little Frenchman wants the middleweight champion to put his title on the line. He may get his wish.

Robert, a 5 foot, 6 1/2 inch bundle of perpetual motion, poured it on the slowed-up Bronx Bull last night to win a unanimous 10-round decision in Madison Square Garden. It was a big win for Villemain, a 3 to 1 underdog in the betting.

That squared accounts for the 25-year old Parisian who licked Jake in the Garden last March but lost the decision. The verdict, one of the rankest in years, resulted in the suspension of the two offiicals who voted for LaMotta.

"I want LaMotta to fight me for the championship now," said the smiling Villemain after his victory. "I won the last time, too, but this time I get the decision. I am very happy to win. I will bring back the championship for my country and Marcel Cerdan."

If Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, has his way, Villemain will get the next shot at LaMotta.

Before the fight, Eagan, a fluent speaker of French, told the gladiators: "This isn't a championship fight. Whether there will be a return bout for the title depends on the outcome of this fight."

And there's no doubt that Eagan feels that a Frenchman should get the first chance because of Cerdan.

It was from Cerdan that LaMotta won the crown in Detroit last June. Cerdan was to have met the stocky New Yorker for the title Dec. 2 but went to a tragic death in a plane crash while enroute to this country in October.

His June fight was the last one LaMotta had before yesterday.

Jake showed the lack of work. He was rusty with his swings, slow afoot and tired quickly.

Basketball Meeting Scheduled Tomorrow

A basketball meeting for organization of the Junior and Midget leagues here have been called for tomorrow night at the Monroe recreation center, and it was also announced that there are still openings for new teams to come into the Girls' League.

The joint meeting of representatives of the Junior and Midget circuits is scheduled for tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. All managers of registered teams and possible new entries are invited to attend the session.

The Girls' League now includes four teams, Southern Bell, Louisiana Business College, Chatham, and Calhoun. The league plans to start play January 5 with games at the Selman Field gymnasium.

16 SCHOOLS WILL SEND CAGERS TO CHOUDRANT MEET

Annual Tournament Will Open Thursday, Run Through Saturday

CHOUDRANT, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Sixteen north Louisiana high schools are entering teams in the annual Choudrant High School Invitational Basketball Tournament which opens here next Thursday afternoon and runs through Saturday night. There will be divisions for boys and girls' teams.

Several outstanding teams of this section will compete in the event, including the Farmerville High School girls, defending north Louisiana Class A champions, and the Quitman High School boys, ruling district Class B champions.

Atlanta and Quitman are also regarded as favorites in the girls' division with Ruston, Simsboro, Bernice, and Downsville seen as strong contenders.

Quitman's B champs are ruling favorites in the boys' class with Eros, Simsboro and Ouachita of Monroe highly rated. Dark horses include Calhoun, Choudrant, Dubach and Bernice.

Handling the officiating in the girls' division will be Aletha Savage and Mary Grace Bagwell. Officials for the boys' games will be Oro "Ding" Merriott and Billy Joe Bagwell.

Trophies will be awarded first, second, and third place winners in both divisions. A sportsmanship award will go to the boy and girl who, in the opinion of the referees and umpires, shows the best sportsmanship during the tournament.

NEW GRID CONFERENCE WILL INCLUDE N. J. C.

TEXAS, LOUISIANA JUNIOR COLLEGE LEAGUE PLANNED

Southwestern J. C. Conference Disbands As Of Next June 1

DALLAS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A new junior college conference, taking in schools from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, was formed today to replace the Southwestern Junior College Conference which dissolved at its annual winter meeting in Dallas.

Kilgore and Tyler of the defunct Southwestern Junior College Conference, Northeast Junior College of Monroe, La., and McNeese of Lake Charles, La., announced definitely they would be in the new circuit. Paris, also a member of the Southwestern circuit, expressed interest but did not make decision at this time. The Cameron Aggies of Lawton, Okla., took the same stand as Paris.

The conference will be perfected at a meeting to be held at Kilgore Dec. 19. It is not yet named but will have the same eligibility rules and rules of play as did the Southwestern Junior College Conference. It will not replace the Southwestern Junior College Conference until September. The present circuit continues through spring.

The new conference was formed at a meeting held this afternoon following the regular session of the Southwestern Junior College Conference.

Tarleton State, Arlington State, Schreiner, San Angelo and Lamar of Beaumont were other members of the Southwestern Junior College Conference although Lamar had intended to withdraw anyway since it becomes a senior college in 1951 and is eyeing the Gulf Coast and Lone Star conferences for possible membership.

Reportedly Tarleton State, Arlington State, Schreiner and San Angelo will enter a new conference that takes in west Texas colleges at Cisco, Decatur, Weatherford, Ranger and Big Spring.

The vote to dissolve the Southwestern Junior College Conference at the meeting here was unanimous but was a surprise even to those who had heard rumors of dissatisfaction in the 3 1/2-year-old circuit.

The dissolution move was announced by Conference President W. O. Archeg of Beaumont. The Lamar College official said the move was prompted by "wishes to improve the educational program and travel conditions within the conference."

He explained that member schools are so far apart that travel time takes too many hours away from classes.

This may not have been the entire reason, however. There have been reports some conference members planned to withdraw, on grounds they couldn't compete with wealthier loop members.

Until June 1 all conference activities will continue as scheduled.

Kosciusko Wins Mississippi 'A' Football Championship

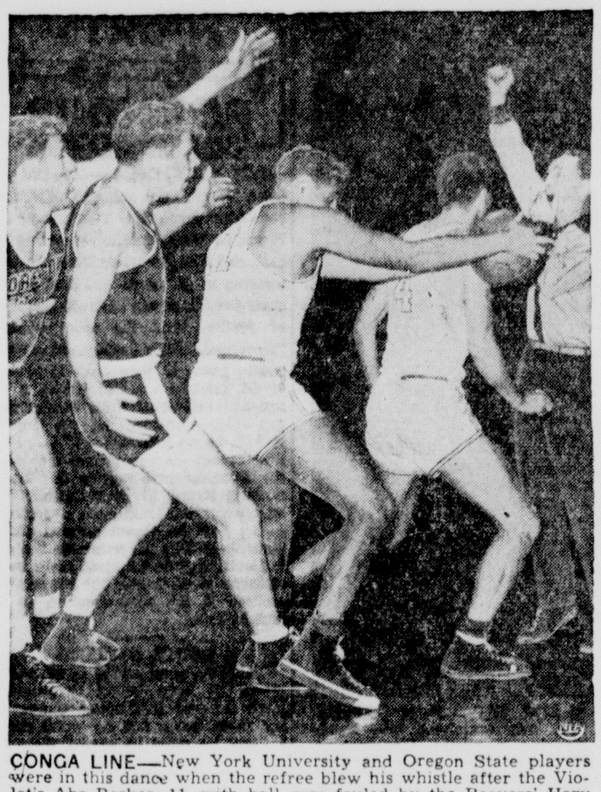

MERIDIAN, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Kosciusko High School holds the Class A football championship of Mississippi today.

Picayune went down to defeat last night 19-6.

Picayune fullback Marion Salloum ran 60 yards for the first and only touchdown for his team a few seconds after the game started.

Kosciusko scores were on a pass from Allen Ables to Horace Williams, John Ables' run around end, and recovery of a Picayune fumble in the last minute of play.

Steele, Laye In Mat Main Event At Kallio's Tuesday

Others are Len Rhinearson and Dan Quilty. Visitors edged the home guard, 49-45.

SLEDGE PAIRED AGAINST RYAN IN SEMI-FINAL

Ex-Champions In Feature Scrap Point For Title Bout With Estes

A pair of former world's light heavyweight wrestling champions, Jack "Stinger" Steele and Charlie Laye, meet in the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night in what promises to be a rousing brawl between the super-villain Steele and the lesser-villain Laye.

Both Steele and Laye have been questing without success for a title match with Balk Estes, the Oklahoma tussler who wrested the crown from Jack Curtis a couple of months ago. But Estes has proven mighty hard to get, and the challengers apparently are just going to have to go around mauling each other until Estes makes up his mind to put his title on the line.

Steele, from Sioux City, Iowa, moved back into the southern mat circuit about three weeks ago after an absence of a couple of years. He let it be known right quick he was after Estes and got matches with him in tag team affairs, but as far as the title was concerned he got only the cold shoulder from the Oklahoma titlist.

Laye, too, has made his challenges to Estes, all going unaccepted.

So Laye and Steel seek consolation in a match with each other. Promoter Kallio is anxious to bill a title match, and it is likely that he will work toward an Estes bout for the winner Tuesday night, although he has no assurance that Estes is yet ready to risk his crown against either Steele or Laye.

The feature Tuesday will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. Bill Barney will be on hand to work as referee.

The semi-final attraction will bring together Mike "Rodeo" Ryan, the Cheyenne cowboy, and Bill Sledge, the durable Texan.

Stengel Says Bill Wilson, Chisox' $75,000 Buy, Looks Like DiMaggio

Chicago Americans Look For Big Things From Sacramento Star

By Dan Daniel

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Bill Wilson, sold by Sacramento to the White Sox for $75,000 and four players, last season was perhaps the most talked about prospect with an independent minor league club.

The Chicago Americans had to outbid most of the 15 other major league organizations.

Outfielder Wilson will report to Jack Onslow in Pasadena, Calif., in March, but it is conceded that he needs another year in Triple A. He hit no better than .246 this past season, but was hampered by a broken foot. His 1948 rating with Wenatchee, Wash., was .348.

The White Sox used the deal as a springboard to jump into a working agreement with the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League.

Casey Stengel did not cheer when he heard that the Yankees had been outbid for Wilson.

"The kid has a stance like Joe DiMaggio's, and he looks like a hitter," said the manager of the world champions.

Johnny Nee, who scouted for the Yankees until Larry MacPhail came along, has been made head of the Phillies' farm system. George Earnshaw is his assistant.

Buddy Hassett told me that Bobby Morgan, up with the Dodgers from Montreal as a shortstop, would do better at third base.

"Morgan is ready right now," he added.

Charley Keller's salary with the Yankees in each of the past three years was $27,500 a season, so King Kong, released by the Yankees the past week, hardly is as hard up as some have imagined.

Frank Shea, Yankee righthander, who has had so much trouble with his arm and shoulder for two years, is at Johns Hopkins Hospital under Dr. George E. Bennett's scrutiny. . . . The Bombers can start asking for waivers again on Jan. 1, and would like to know exactly how Spec shapes up physically before offering him a contract.

Bill DeWitt, president of the Browns, said to me: "Pay no attention to the yarn that the Athletics have offered us $300,000 for Gerald Priddy, Bob Dillinger and Dick Kokos.

"Kokos is not to be sold or traded. That isn't just poker playing. It is our determination. Ned Garver and Roy Sievers, also mentioned in trade rumors, will be with us in 1950.

"A story that Cleveland has offered $200,000 for Dillinger is not based on fact. I have not talked with Hank Greenberg about Dillinger, and have quoted no price on Bob to anybody."

Ferriday High Cagers Preparing For Season

FERRIDAY, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Daily workouts are being held by the members of both the boys and girls basketball squads of Ferriday High School and a number of games are scheduled before the Christmas holidays.

Ferriday's boys recently completed a successful football season and placed two, William Wheat, a tackle, and Charles Albert Massey, a back, on the Class B all-district team. This team was picked by the coaches of the conference.

The local lads and lassies, now working out for the cage sports, will also enter several tournaments in the state before and after the Yuletide holidays and despite losses of veterans, both teams will be well represented on the hardwood floor this season.

Southwest 'Sees' Arkansas Cagers

By Harold V. Ratliff
(AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer)

DALLAS—The Arkansas Razorbacks who tied for the Southwest Conference basketball championships last season and won a play-off to represent the area in the N. C. A. A., are general favorites to cop the 1949-50 title.

They have a new coach, Presley Askew, who keeps talking about Texas, Baylor, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, but his fellow mentors point to the veteran material and the awesome height of the Razorbacks and say "those are the boys."

Baylor comes up with six lettermen, including All-Conference Don Heathington—all are seniors—and there are strong signs of a resurgence from Texas A. and M. and Texas Christian.

The Aggies mapped a strenuous intersectional schedule, playing such biggies as Long Island, Oklahoma A. and M. and St. Louis on tours to the east and to the west coasts. There are six lettermen at Aggieland and a couple of newcomers, Walt Davis, 6 feet-8, and Ken Sutton, 6 feet-7, make A. and M. prospects the brightest in a long time.

Arkansas also meets Oklahoma A. and M. and Kentucky, national finalists last season.

Arkansas has five lettermen including Bob Ambler, 6 feet-7; Jim Cathcart, 6 feet-4, and Norman Price, 6 feet-3. On the entire squad there is only one man under six feet. Arkansas also has some transfer players who are counted upon to give the punch lost with the departure of Ken Kearns, all-conference, and Cliff Horton and Johnny Campbell. The Razorbacks deadlocked for the conference title last season with Baylor and Rice. In order to select the southwestern representative in the National Collegiate tournament, a play-off was held with Arizona also competing. Arkansas won it and did well in the western regional N. C. A. A. tourney.

Texas Christian has only two lettermen but Buster Brannon has a bright array up from last season's undefeated

TOM HAMILTON

freshmen. Veteran of the team is Gene Schmidt, who is seeking his fifth varsity letter.

Rice has a new coach and five lettermen with better than average height. The Owls, however, lost Bill Tom, giant center and one of the finest players in the country, through graduation. Warren Switzer is the top veteran. He is after his fourth varsity numeral. Rice also has some good men up from the freshmen and J. D. White, a junior college transfer who was held out of action last year. Coach is Don Suman, a former Rice star, who succeeds Joe Davis, a football coach, who was relieved of piloting the basketball team in view of his numerous other duties.

Baylor lost James Owens, all-conference forward, to the pros but returning are Heathington, Bill Dewitt, Odell Preston, Bill Srack, Bill Hickman and Gerald Cobb. These fellows all played on a team that won one conference title and tied for another.

Texas was hardest hit by graduation of any school in the circuit. Only returning starter is Tom Hamilton, one of the top players of the conference and a leading candidate for All-America this year. Frankie Womack, a guard, and Wilson Taylor, big center, are other lettermen, and Texas has some good-looking transfers and sophomores, but the great guard combination of Al Madsen and Slater Martin is gone.

Coach E. O. (Doc) Hayes of Southern Methodist isn't enthusiastic about his prospects although he has four lettermen and other seasoned material. There are few tall men. Hayes thinks Paul Mitchell, a junior college transfer who is 6 feet-3, will help greatly. He needed a center last year and Mitchell appears to fill the bill. Jack Brown, Hal Salmon, George Owen and Charley Lutz are the other veterans. Hayes' opponents are rating his team pretty high but the S. M. U. mentor disagrees.

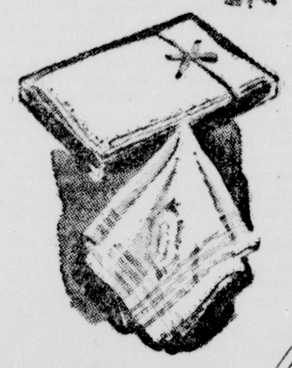

A schedule of 115 games not including the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City in which Baylor, Texas and Arkansas will compete, has been mapped by the seven conference members. Almost half of these games are intersectional and include not only Kentucky and Oklahoma A. and M. but Colorado, City College of New York, California, Oklahoma, Niagara, Tulane, Illinois, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Wichita, Louisiana State, Pepperdine, Missouri, Bradley and Navy.

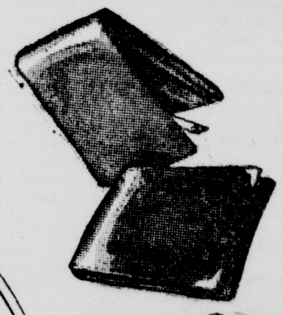

Only Arkansas and Rice have new coaches. Bill Henderson returns to Baylor, Marty Karow to Texas A. and M., Brannon to Texas Christian, Jack Gray to Texas and Hayes to Southern Methodist.

SCHEDULE N. J. C. CAGE MEET FOR FEB. 10-11

ANOTHER RECORD ENTRY OF TEAMS EXPECTED HERE

Invitations For High School Tournament Will Go Out After Christmas

Invitations will be mailed soon after the Christmas holidays to coaches of high school basketball clubs throughout this section of the state to participate in the twelfth annual Northeast Junior College Basketball Tournament here February 10-11. The announcement was made by A. S. Huffman, head of the health and physical education department of the college following receipt of a letter from W. L. Colvin, president of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association, giving approval of the annual sports feature.

The tourney is open to all high schools of northeast Louisiana, and a record number of teams is expected to enter the event, Huffman said. Last February's entry list comprised 65 teams, including 38 boys' squads and 27 girls' combinations. These represented the cream of high school talent throughout this area of the state.

Deadline for entry dates and time for drawings will be announced later. As soon as drawings are made, clubs in both divisions will be notified as to the team, time and place that they will play.

Northeast Junior College students who are majoring in physical education will be instrumental in carrying out the work connected with the project. Members of the Men's Physical Education Club and the Women's Recreation Association are planning to have a big share in the responsibility of making the event run smoothly. Student officials will work with outside officials in calling preliminary games and well qualified persons, including several coaches, will be chosen to call the semi-final and final games, Huffman said. Only nationally rated officials are to be used for girls' contests, announced Miss Ada Bess Hart, director of health and physical education for women at the local college.

Carrying out the policy of former years, the tourney will be conducted for both girls and boys under regulations of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association. Huffman is to be in charge of all the boys, and Miss Hart will direct the girls' games. A health certificate is required of all girls participating in the tourney. These will be accepted at the time of registration, Miss Hart said.

Three gymnasiums will be used for the event. Boys games will be scheduled at Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana Training Institute, with semi-final and final contests staged at N. J. C. All girls' games are to be played at the college gymnasium. Trophies are to be presented to the three leading teams in each division of the tourney this school year, according to tradition. Trophies also will be awarded by Lockhart-Blair Sports Shop of Monroe to the girl and boy representing the best sportsmanship.

Last year the Baskin High School girls won their fourth Northeast Junior College Invitational Basketball Tournament championship. It was a new champion that was crowned in the boys' division, however, when Choudrant High School claimed its first title in the eleventh annual affair.

Baskin's defending champions beat out a hard fighting Oak Grove sextet in the title finals, 50 to 35, and Choudrant made its final triumph over Central High School, 34 to 25.

Third places in the tournament went to the Fort Necessity girls, who beat out Forest, 46 to 45, in their consolation contest, and to the Quitman boys, who got a forfeit from Ruston.

Mildred Ragsdale, tall Baskin forward, was the chief contributing factor in the downfall of Oak Grove in the finals. Miss Ragsdale hit the nets in the final scrap for 17 field goals and three free tosses for 37 points. Mildred White sparked the Oak Grove offensive with 21 points on nine field baskets and a trio of gift throwers.

The Choudrant boys, who got their closest fight from the Bastrop Rams in a third round game before winning 36-35, followed the scoring lead of Alvin Rogers and Morris Frost to beat Central's high-geared quintet in the finals. Rogers hit the basket with six field shots and three pitches from the foul line for 15 points. Frost, who made only two field goals, picked up seven more points on accurate foul shooting. Eugene Ashley was Central's top scorer in the finals with eight points.

Choudrant held its best advantage at the foul line. The Aggies made only one field goal more than Central but swished the nets with 12 free tosses against five for Central.

Anne Dozier, Fort Necessity, and Henry Staggs, Quitman, were acclaimed winners of the sportsmanship trophies. Ed W. Lockhart and L. N. "Buddy" Blair awarded the trophies on judgment of tournament officials. These prizes, made a tournament feature for the first time, were given on the basis of the finest spirit and display of sportsmanship exhibited throughout the event, on and off the basketball courts. All awards were presented by members of the Women's Recreation Association before a crowd of fans that sorely taxed the N. J. C. gymnasium. Many customers had to be turned away, and even neck-craning standing room was at a premium.

Pro Football Awaits New Era; War Of Dollars Over

OFF-SEASON WOOD — Eddie Miksis, the Brooklyn Dodgers' utility infielder, keeps in condition during the off-season as a carpenter's helper in Trenton, N.J.

The SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is true that of the 33 men in the three-deep offensive squad of this fall, Notre Dame will return no more than 14.

It may also be true that the freshman squad was the poorest in quality and quantity in years, as Frank Leahy contends.

But don't let Leahy the Lachrymose catch you napping next autumn. The Master will still have Bob Williams and undoubtedly will find targets for his [illegible] passes.

Bob Higgins, Penn State's retired coach, and his old State College teammate, Casey Jones, violently disagree with Leahy at least to the extent of one of the Notre Dame freshmen.

Remember the name—Ralph Palone. "Young Palone is a bigger and faster edition of Red Sitko, whom he will replace at fullback," says Higgins.

"With New Castle High, he was the best schoolboy back in Pennsylvania, about as good as you'd find anywhere. He passes and kicks and has the speed of a prairie wind. At six feet one and 195 pounds, he is tall, dark and handsome."

Other Notre Dame freshmen moving up to the varsity next year are quarterback Bill Geaudreau, left halfback Murray Johnson, right halfbacks George Paulick and Joe O'Callahan, fullback Bob Kelly, ends Bill French and Vincent Mischievitz, tackles Jim Dunley and Tom Murphy and guards Frank Epstein, Tom Seeman and Virgil Barbash.

With his holdovers, those he has screened and these peagreens, Frank Leahy no doubt will manage to stagger along.

Capt. Tom Hamilton, who built Navy's schedule to murderous proportions, is doing the same thing at Pittsburgh. The Panthers tackle Duke, Notre Dame, Rice, Ohio State, Minnesota, Penn State and Michigan State next trip. The program will get the money, but it's tough on the young men and Mike Milligan.

Oklahoma is not quite two deep offensively. Bud Wilkinson alternates two lines. Scorning the oft-debated platoon system, each line plays on both offense and defense. Coach Wilkinson alternates them at intervals of from five to eight minutes. Their versatility is reflected in the fact that the two lines blocked the Sooners to the national leadership in rushing and tackled them to the national leadership in defense against rushing.

One offensive backfield carries 90 per cent of the load on offense, especially when the going is rough, as it is likely to be against rugged Louisiana State in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, Jan. 2.

Syracuse is quite likely to field an all-Negro backfield next season. Coming up to join Bernie Custis and Bill Haskins are a pair of Negro youths, who were the most formidable backs on a crack freshman team.

he Orange is reseeding, and with all that black magic, is sure to keep some teams in the dark.

Leon Hart, Leahy's Whipping Boy, Dreams Of Role As Backfield Star

By Joe King

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 10.—(NEA)—Leon Hart picked up the Heisman Trophy in New York, was to receive the Maxwell Trophy in Philadelphia. Then a Touchdown Club award in Washington.

Is there a Nobel Prize for football?

After that the Notre Dame glamor boy will have the professionals on his neck. He will sign a contract if the price is right.

Chances are he won't have trouble with the 123 Detroit money-bags behind Bo McMillin of the Lions, who was reported in Dallas to have Doak Walker listening attentively.

If Coach McMillin would like to know whether Hart prefers end or fullback—a role he played in spots against Southern California and Southern Methodist—here's the answer:

"Playing back is any lineman's secret ambition."

Wherever he goes the folks will like the 20-year-old, six-foot-four, 253-pound giant. He is good natured and amiable.

Hart is everybody's pal, excepting on the field.

He has been Frank Leahy's pal, too, the whipping boy every coach needs.

To hear the stories, Hart has toured Notre Dame's practice field for more laps than six-day bike rider Reggie McNamara made in Madison Square Garden.

"I never minded," Hart says. "The coach always had a reason for anything he did, and I understood why he put me on the run.

"The case that got the most publicity came in spring training, when he gave me 10 laps for missing a block on Jim Mutscheller, who bounces around like a pinball and is hard to hit. But there were a lot of freshmen looking on that day and I figured he wanted to show them there were no favorites on the team.

"But other times when Bill Wightkin would be sent on the run, the coach would just casually add: 'Leon, you follow Willie around.' That was for no reason."

The budding mechanical engineer from Turtle Creek, Pa., believes this year's team was the best of the four in the long streak.

"Because it was more of a team, without a star, that's why. You would have had to be with us to know how much we pulled for one another.

"Bob Williams was so tense he moved in jerks in that Indiana opener. We all saw that, but kept talking him up, and giving him the attaboy, and you can see how he developed into a smooth, smart player. He saw we had confidence in him, and that gav ehim confidence in us. When he began pulling that fourth down stuff, we loved it."

Hart got his big disappointment in the S. M. U. game when he flattened Kyle Rote.

"I finally did what I was supposed to do, and had tried to do, and felt that "uuhnn' of air going out of him, and then the crowd boeed me."

His great thrill came four years ago.

"I never even saw a college game before coming to Notre Dame," he reminisces, "and when the coach told me to go in my first game, against Illinois, I ran right over Bob Livingston, and knocked him down, rushing out to left end."

NATIONAL LOOP ABSORBS THREE OF ALL-AMERICA

13 Teams Will Operate In Merged National-American Circuit

By Ed Corrigan

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—With the four-year professional football war over—a conflict that took its toll in dollars and teams—the 13 surviving organizations today looked to solving the problems of a new league.

The combination of the venerable Football League and the upstart All-American Conference came with startling suddeness in Philadelphia yesterday, after a 48-hour conference.

The two loops merged into the National-American Football League. Here is how the new setup will look:

Philadelphia
Cleveland (combined with Buffalo).
Los Angeles (Los Angeles Dons and Los Angeles Rams combined).
New York Giants
New York Bulldogs (six New York Yankee players go to the Giants,, remainder to the Bulldogs).
Baltimore
San Francisco
Pittsburgh
Chicago Bears
Chicago Cardinals (Chicago Hornets eliminated)
Green Bay
Detroit
Washington

The merger is more or less a victory for the N. F. L., which for several years has refused flatly tc recognize the younger circuit. All members of the N. F. L. are in the new league. Only three teams of the A. A. C.-San Francisco, Cleveland and Baltimore—survives.

The 13 teams will be formed into American and National divisions, and by next year football will have what it lacked for the past four seasons—a real world's champion. The winners of the two divisions will meet for the title.

Bell, the N. F. L. commissioner, takes over that job in the new circuit with the A. A. C.'s chief executive, O. O. Kessing, bowing out of the picture. Emil R. Fischer of the Green Bay Packers becomes president of the National division and Daniel Sherby of the Cleveland Browns head of the American division.

The immediate problems dealt with these questions: What should be done with the players on the three teams liquidated by the move? What about the college players already chosen in the draft for next season?

No sooner was the announcement made that there would be 13 teams, than rumors began circulating that Houston, Tex., would obtain a franchise before long.

As for the surplus players, both college and pro, they all will be thrown into a giant pool. This will include the collegians already drafted by the two loops.

Draft meetings of the two leagues have been called off. The new circuit will hold a draft session probably in January, to pluck the surplus players from a giant pool.

Bell, signed to a 10-year contract as majordomo of the N. A. F. L., said that it would require approval of 11 of the 13 teams to have a player transferred to a new club. This could lead to fireworks among the owners.

It cost Ted Collins, owner of the Bulldogs, who bought out the Yankees, $1,000,000, by his own admission. He had a losing team this year, and attendance sometimes dipped below 5,000.

Knox, South Carolina Dog, Wins U. S. Open Field Trials

FLORENCE, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Knox, entered by J. E. B. Bennett, Greer, S. C., today was acclaimed new champion of the U. S. Open Field Trials, Inc., at nearby Rogersville.

Turning in a superior hunting performance, Knox climbed from a steady third place notch to victory yesterday, nosing out Pine Ridge Fred, owned by Dr. H. H. Robertson, Saulisbury, N. C., in the final scoring.

The top ten dogs included Scott Hensley, owned by John H. Allen, Iuka, Miss.

HEADED OFF — Giuseppe Moro of the Italian football team leaps high to shoot over head of Jack Rowley, English center forward, in international match at Whitehart Lane, London.

BLACK OUT—Rick Constantine was watching two deer. Hearing a rustle, Constantine turned to be faced by this 410-pound black bear. Black bears, for the greater part, are harmless, but this one—previously wounded—meant business. The Jamestown, N. Y., hunter dropped him with his first shot. It is the largest black bear taken in western New York in years.

COURT Patterns

(First of a series by famous coaches diagramed and written for NEA Service)

By Nat Holman

(City College of New York Coach)

NEW YORK. — (NEA) — Spectators come to see the players in action, and the fast break is the most colorful offense in basketball.

Nat Holman

It is enjoyable to watch what the players do from the foul line to the end line. Quick ball - handling by the attackers driving in, alertness and fine teamwork make this offense pleasing to watch. The fine St. Louis team of the past two years was immensely popular because people liked to watch their operations under the basket.

The general pattern used at City College of New York calls for three men to break down court as soon as the team gains possession of the ball. The big man does the rebounding.

Spectators are not cognizant of the trailer in teh fast break, designated by No. 4 in the accompanying diagram. Not enough emphasis is put on his importance.

The big man, 5, pitches out to 3, who goes down court along with 1 and 2. All three must be on the alert to spot pass to the trailer if they can't work the ball ahead. The passing has to be sure. Sloppy passing won't work as the defensive club will ballhawk, steal passes.

When trapped, good men will buttonhook, bring the ball back out so as to use a set maneuver off a single or double-bucket play, or work it in again preferably with a free, spontaneous attack .

Skillful ball-handling and ability to get passes off when closely guarded are the finer points of a fast break.

It is most successful when you have boys instilled with the idea of doing things on a team basis.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Did you know there's even going to be a "Soccer Bowl" game New Year's Day? . . . It will be Penn State, representing the east, and San Francisco from the west meeting in St. Louis. . . . And just to show the difference between this kind of football and the more popular "throwball," Billy Jeffrey, Penn State coach, plans to take only 14 players to St. Louis. . . . "Why take a big squad?" Bill asks. "Only eleven men can play—and barring an injury, there'll be no substitutions." . . . Further report on the proposal to shift the Poughkeepsie regatta is "there's nothing wrong at Poughkeepsie that an observation train can't overcome." . . . . For the absent minded championship of 1949 we nominate the guy in Louisiana who counterfeited a batch of Sugar Bowl tickets but left out two sections in the bowl diagram on his pasteboards.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Clair Bee, Long Island U. basketball coach: "I keep trying to persuade Herb Scherer (his tallest player) to try more shots, but he won't do it. I think he must be saving them for the pros."

SPORTSPOURRI

Freddie Hutchinson, who hails from Seattle, and Hoot Evers of Collinsville, Ill., have taken up winter residence at Bradenton, Fla., where they'll have to drive only 70 miles to start spring training with the Detroit Tigers. . . . Coach Buck Starbeck's Iowa State Teachers think they have a record of some sort in winning or sharing the North Central Conference football title seven years in a row (war years don't count). . . . Southern football followers are getting a quiet chuckle about Wyoming emissaries combing the canebrakes in Tennessee for talent. . . . That's Wyoming Coach Bowden Wyatt's home state, you know. . . . . Yankee Scout Tom Greenwade recalls that when he was working for the Dodgers he signed Bob Morgan for $500 under protest. He wasn't interested in the lad who became the International League's most valuable player but his "good" prospects, Cal McLish and Al Jarvis, insisted on a package deal.

WEAK END NOTES

The Cotton Bowl folks are accepting mail orders for programs from radio and television fans. . . . Pro golfers figure the recent realignment of prize lists for open tournaments, adding as many as 15 winning places in $15,000 events, will encourage more young players to hit the tournament trail. . . . Happiest guy after the recent minor league draft was Keith Williams of the Vicksburg, Miss., club. . . . When Rochester drafted Pitcher Joe Montalvo for $4,000, Keith exulted: "I just bought the fellow yesterday for $100." . . . . Norm Shepard, Harvard basketball coach, handled the Chinese entry in the Far Eastern Olympics a few years ago. Likely he'll find things tougher down east than in the Far East.

Loyola Wolves Tumble To Delta State, 66-49

CLEVELAND, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Delta State College won its fourth straight basketball game of the season here tonight by beating Loyola of the South, 66-49.

The victory preserved the Mississippians perfect record.

Loyola jumped to an early lead, but Delta tied the score at 7-7 after four minutes of play and led 34-18 at halftime.

Carl Medley, Delta center, was high point man with 20 points. Top scorer for Loyola was Bobby Rehm with 13 points.

Northwestern Swimmers Win Over Dallas A. A. U.

NATCHITOCHES, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Northwestern State College's swimming team won its first home meet of the season today by defeating a Dallas, Tex., A. A. U. team, 42-32.

Northwestern's Mickey Gunn won two first places and was a member of a winning relay team.

Seven Good Fives In Penn Area

By Ralph Bernstein
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

PHILADELPHIA—Seven teams loom large on the Pennsylvania basketball scene with the Iron Dukes of Duquesnes pre-season favorites to wind up competing for national honors.

Behind the veteran studded Dukes should come Villanova, LaSalle, Penn, Temple, Muhlenberg and Lafayette. In small college competition look for Pennsylvania Military College, Gettysburg and Drexel to romp in the Middle Atlantic conference with Geneva and Westminster pacing the independents.

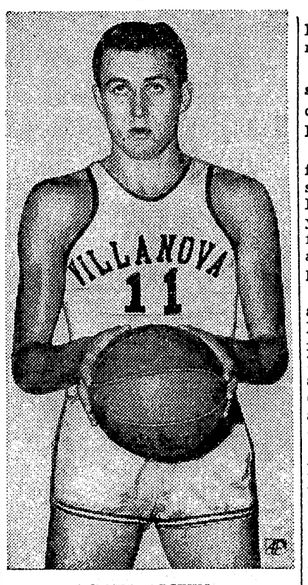

Led by 6 foot, 5 inch Charley Cooper, Duquesne should improve on its 17-5 record of last year. Coach Dudie Moore has a well balanced squad with all important height, excellent shooting ability and able ball handlers. Cooper might well qualify as the player of the year. This sharpshooting senior should place Duquesne into somebody's tournament come next March.

Coach Al Severance will start his 14th season at Villanova with the same squad that won 22 and lost seven and then bowed to Kentucky in the N. C. A. A. tourney in New York.

Severance can count on three freshmen—John Brennan, six foot, five, from Brooklyn; Joe Maguire, also of Brooklyn, and Bennie Stewart, York, Pa., shot-maker. The team will be built around lanky Paul Arizin, who scored more than 300 points for the Wildcats last season. If Villanova gets by early season Sugar Bowl assignments against Kentucky, Bradley Tech and Tulane, it'll be really tough.

La Salle has the personnel and the schedule to gain top ranking if the Explorers under new Coach Ken Loeffler have learned to penetrate a zone defense.

Veteran LaSalle is led by 6-foot, 10-inch Larry Foust, Loeffler has several excellent playmakers, a host of good outside shots and a tall squad.

PAUL ARIZEN
Villanova's Great Star

Dark horse of Pennsylvania is the tallest Temple team since the Owls won national honors in 1937. Coach Josh Cody's team averages about six feet, three inches.

Leading prospect is six foot, four inch Bill Mlkvy, who averaged 25 points a game for the frosh last season. Veterans Ike Borsavage, six, seven, and John Ballots, six, three, form the nucleus.

The most optimistic coach in the Keystone state is Penn's Howard Dallmar.

"We're good and should have a great season," says Dallmar. The former court great picks his team to win the Ivy League crown.

Seven returning lettermen and a six foot, four inch sophomore are the reasons for Dallmar's rosy outlook. Tall Herb Lyon; captain Phil Harman; last year's sophomore sensation, Hugh Jefferies, and burly Harry Wettlaufer are among the returnees. Big Paul Fitzpatrick is up from the frosh.

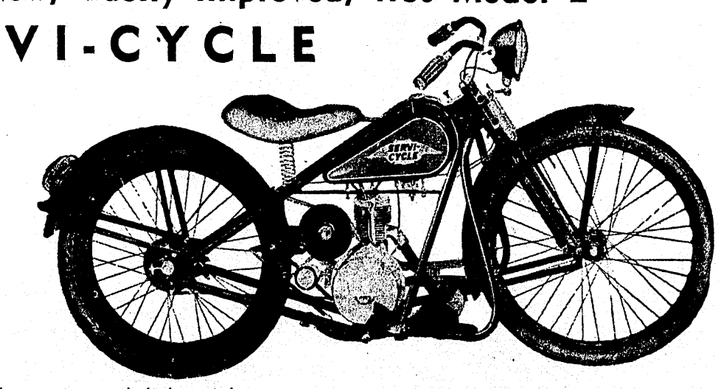

Muhlenberg lost Harry Donovan—almost a team in himself—but Coach Bud Barker still has plenty of top-flight material. Harry Mackin, who broke a leg and was out most of the season, is back. Elmo Jackson is another of Barker's fast breakers who should keep the Mules up among the east's first flight.

Lafayette probably was the hardest hit by graduation, losing Marty Zipple—1,000 point man over his varsity career—and Jack Milne. However, new Coach Ray Stanley should come up with a better than average team built around veterans Duane Warrick, Jack Fox, Barry Love and Oliver Smith.

St. Joseph's has spirit but lacks the necessary manpower and height; Pitt lost its stars Sammy David and Dodo Caterna and Doc Carlson appears in for a lean year that may find him lucky to win six games on a tough schedule; Penn State has a new coach in Elmer Gross and the most interesting thing about the Nittany Lions is Gross' promise to inject the fast break into State's famel "crawling attack."

Lehigh, Franklin and Marshall, Haverford, Swathmore, Albright and Bucknell appear headed for tough seasons.

ANOTHER RECORD ENTRY OF TEAMS EXPECTED HERE

Invitations For High School Tournament Will Go Out After Christmas

Invitations will be mailed soon after the Christmas holidays to coaches of high school basketball clubs throughout this section of the state to participate in the twelfth annual Northeast Junior College Basketball Tournament here February 10-11. The announcement was made by A. S. Huffman, head of the health and physical education department of the college following receipt of a letter from W. L. Colvin, president of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association, giving approval of the annual sports feature.

The tourney is open to all high schools of northeast Louisiana, and a record number of teams is expected to enter the event, Huffman said. Last February's entry list comprised 65 teams, including 38 boys' squads and 27 girls' combinations. These represented the cream of high school talent throughout this area of the state.

Deadline for entry dates and time for drawings will be announced later. As soon as drawings are made, clubs in both divisions will be notified as to the team, time and place that they will play.

Northeast Junior College students who are majoring in physical education will be instrumental in carrying out the work connected with the project. Members of the Men's Physical Education Club and the Women's Recreation Association are planning to have a big share in the responsibility of making the event run smoothly. Student officials will work with outside officials in calling preliminary games and well qualified persons, including several coaches, will be chosen to call the semi-final and final games, Huffman said. Only nationally rated officials are to be used for girls' contests, announced Miss Ada Bess Hart, director of health and physical education for women at the local college.

Carrying out the policy of former years, the tourney will be conducted for both girls and boys under regulations of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association. Huffman is to be in charge of all the boys, and Miss Hart will direct the girls' games. A health certificate is required of all girls participating in the tourney. These will be accepted at the time of registration, Miss Hart said.

Three gymnasiums will be used for the event. Boys games will be scheduled at Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana Training Institute, with semi-final and final contests staged at N. J. C. All girls' games are to be played at the college gymnasium. Trophies are to be presented to the three leading teams in each division of the tourney this school year, according to tradition. Trophies also will be awarded by Lockhart-Blair Sports Shop of Monroe to the girl and boy representing the best sportsmanship.

Last year the Baskin High School girls won their fourth Northeast Junior College Invitational Basketball Tournament championship. It was a new champion that was crowned in the boys' division, however, when Choudrant High School claimed its first title in the eleventh annual affair.

Baskin's defending champions beat out a hard fighting Oak Grove sextet in the title finals, 50 to 35, and Choudrant made its final triumph over Central High School, 34 to 25.

Third places in the tournament went to the Fort Necessity girls, who beat out Forest, 46 to 45, in their consolation contest, and to the Quitman boys, who got a forfeit from Ruston.

Mildred Ragsdale, tall Baskin forward, was the chief contributing factor in the downfall of Oak Grove in the finals. Miss Ragsdale hit the nets in the final scrap for 17 field goals and three free tosses for 37 points. Mildred White sparked the Oak Grove offensive with 21 points on nine field baskets and a trio of gift throwers.

The Choudrant boys, who got their closest fight from the Bastrop Rams in a third round game before winning 36-35, followed the scoring lead of Alvin Rogers and Morris Frost to beat Central's high-geared quintet in the finals. Rogers hit the basket with six field shots and three pitches from the foul line for 15 points. Frost, who made only two field goals, picked up seven more points on accurate foul shooting. Eugene Ashley was Central's top scorer in the finals with eight points.

Choudrant held its best advantage at the foul line. The Aggies made only one field goal more than Central but swished the nets with 12 free tosses against five for Central.

Anne Dozier, Fort Necessity, and Henry Staggs, Quitman, were acclaimed winners of the sportsmanship trophies. Ed W. Lockhart and L. N. "Buddy" Blair awarded the trophies on judgment of tournament officials. These prizes, made a tournament feature for the first time, were given on the basis of the finest spirit and display of sportsmanship exhibited throughout the event, on and off the basketball courts. All awards were presented by members of the Women's Recreation Association before a crowd of fans that sorely taxed the N. J. C. gymnasium. Many customers had to be turned away, and even neck-craning standing room was at a premium.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—With the four-year professional football war over—a conflict that took its toll in dollars and teams—the 13 surviving organizations today looked to solving the problems of a new league.

The combination of the venerable Football League and the upstart All-American Conference came with startling suddeness in Philadelphia yesterday, after a 48-hour conference.

The two loops merged into the National-American Football League. Here is how the new setup will look:

Philadelphia
Cleveland (combined with Buffalo).
Los Angeles (Los Angeles Dons and Los Angeles Rams combined).
New York Giants
New York Bulldogs (six New York Yankee players go to the Giants,, remainder to the Bulldogs).
Baltimore
San Francisco
Pittsburgh
Chicago Bears
Chicago Cardinals (Chicago Hornets eliminated)
Green Bay
Detroit
Washington

The merger is more or less a victory for the N. F. L., which for several years has refused flatly tc recognize the younger circuit. All members of the N. F. L. are in the new league. Only three teams of the A. A. C.-San Francisco, Cleveland and Baltimore—survives.

The 13 teams will be formed into American and National divisions, and by next year football will have what it lacked for the past four seasons—a real world's champion. The winners of the two divisions will meet for the title.

Bell, the N. F. L. commissioner, takes over that job in the new circuit with the A. A. C.'s chief executive, O. O. Kessing, bowing out of the picture. Emil R. Fischer of the Green Bay Packers becomes president of the National division and Daniel Sherby of the Cleveland Browns head of the American division.

The immediate problems dealt with these questions: What should be done with the players on the three teams liquidated by the move? What about the college players already chosen in the draft for next season?

No sooner was the announcement made that there would be 13 teams, than rumors began circulating that Houston, Tex., would obtain a franchise before long.

As for the surplus players, both college and pro, they all will be thrown into a giant pool. This will include the collegians already drafted by the two loops.

Draft meetings of the two leagues have been called off. The new circuit will hold a draft session probably in January, to pluck the surplus players from a giant pool.

Bell, signed to a 10-year contract as majordomo of the N. A. F. L., said that it would require approval of 11 of the 13 teams to have a player transferred to a new club. This could lead to fireworks among the owners.

It cost Ted Collins, owner of the Bulldogs, who bought out the Yankees, $1,000,000, by his own admission. He had a losing team this year, and attendance sometimes dipped below 5,000.

Knox, South Carolina Dog, Wins U. S. Open Field Trials

FLORENCE, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Knox, entered by J. E. B. Bennett, Greer, S. C., today was acclaimed new champion of the U. S. Open Field Trials, Inc., at nearby Rogersville.

Turning in a superior hunting performance, Knox climbed from a steady third place notch to victory yesterday, nosing out Pine Ridge Fred, owned by Dr. H. H. Robertson, Saulisbury, N. C., in the final scoring.

The top ten dogs included Scott Hensley, owned by John H. Allen, Iuka, Miss.

BLACK OUT—Rick Constantine was watching two deer. Hearing a rustle, Constantine turned to be faced by this 410-pound black bear. Black bears, for the greater part, are harmless, but this one—previously wounded—meant business. The Jamestown, N. Y., hunter dropped him with his first shot. It is the largest black bear taken in western New York in years.

COURT Patterns

(First of a series by famous coaches diagramed and written for NEA Service)

By Nat Holman

(City College of New York Coach)

NEW YORK. — (NEA) — Spectators come to see the players in action, and the fast break is the most colorful offense in basketball.

Nat Holman

It is enjoyable to watch what the players do from the foul line to the end line. Quick ball - handling by the attackers driving in, alertness and fine teamwork make this offense pleasing to watch. The fine St. Louis team of the past two years was immensely popular because people liked to watch their operations under the basket.

The general pattern used at City College of New York calls for three men to break down court as soon as the team gains possession of the ball. The big man does the rebounding.

Spectators are not cognizant of the trailer in teh fast break, designated by No. 4 in the accompanying diagram. Not enough emphasis is put on his importance.

The big man, 5, pitches out to 3, who goes down court along with 1 and 2. All three must be on the alert to spot pass to the trailer if they can't work the ball ahead. The passing has to be sure. Sloppy passing won't work as the defensive club will ballhawk, steal passes.

When trapped, good men will buttonhook, bring the ball back out so as to use a set maneuver off a single or double-bucket play, or work it in again preferably with a free, spontaneous attack .

Skillful ball-handling and ability to get passes off when closely guarded are the finer points of a fast break.

It is most successful when you have boys instilled with the idea of doing things on a team basis.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Did you know there's even going to be a "Soccer Bowl" game New Year's Day? . . . It will be Penn State, representing the east, and San Francisco from the west meeting in St. Louis. . . . And just to show the difference between this kind of football and the more popular "throwball," Billy Jeffrey, Penn State coach, plans to take only 14 players to St. Louis. . . . "Why take a big squad?" Bill asks. "Only eleven men can play—and barring an injury, there'll be no substitutions." . . . Further report on the proposal to shift the Poughkeepsie regatta is "there's nothing wrong at Poughkeepsie that an observation train can't overcome." . . . For the absent minded championship of 1949 we nominate the guy in Louisiana who counterfeited a batch of Sugar Bowl tickets but left out two sections in the bowl diagram on his pasteboards.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Clair Bee, Long Island U. basketball coach: "I keep trying to persuade Herb Scherer (his tallest player) to try more shots, but he won't do it. I think he must be saving them for the pros."

SPORTSPOURRI

Freddie Hutchinson, who hails from Seattle, and Hoot Evers of Collinsville, Ill., have taken up winter residence at Bradenton, Fla., where they'll have to drive only 70 miles to start spring training with the Detroit Tigers. . . . Coach Buck Starbeck's Iowa State Teachers think they have a record of some sort in winning or sharing the North Central Conference football title seven years in a row (war years don't count). . . . Southern football followers are getting a quiet chuckle about Wyoming emissaries combing the canebrakes in Tennessee for talent. . . . That's Wyoming Coach Bowden Wyatt's home state, you know. . . . Yankee Scout Tom Greenwade recalls that when he was working for the Dodgers he signed Bob Morgan for $500 under protest. He wasn't interested in the lad who became the International League's most valuable player but his "good" prospects, Cal McLish and Al Jarvis, insisted on a package deal.

WEAK END NOTES

The Cotton Bowl folks are accepting mail orders for programs from radio and television fans. . . . Pro golfers figure the recent realignment of prize lists for open tournaments, adding as many as 15 winning places in $15,000 events, will encourage more young players to hit the tournament trail. . . . Happiest guy after the recent minor league draft was Keith Williams of the Vicksburg, Miss., club. . . . When Rochester drafted Pitcher Joe Montalvo for $4,000, Keith exulted: "I just bought the fellow yesterday for $100." . . . . Norm Shepard, Harvard basketball coach, handled the Chinese entry in the Far Eastern Olympics a few years ago. Likely he'll find things tougher down east than in the Far East.

Loyola Wolves Tumble To Delta State, 66-49

CLEVELAND, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Delta State College won its fourth straight basketball game of the season here tonight by beating Loyola of the South, 66-49.

The victory preserved the Mississippians perfect record.

Loyola jumped to an early lead, but Delta tied the score at 7-7 after four minutes of play and led 34-18 at halftime.

Carl Medley, Delta center, was high point man with 20 points. Top scorer for Loyola was Bobby Rehm with 13 points.

Northwestern Swimmers Win Over Dallas A. A. U.

NATCHITOCHES, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Northwestern State College's swimming team won its first home meet of the season today by defeating a Dallas, Tex., A. A. U. team, 42-32.

Northwestern's Mickey Gunn won two first places and was a member of a winning relay team.

Seven Good Fives In Penn Area

By Ralph Bernstein

(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

PHILADELPHIA—Seven teams loom large on the Pennsylvania basketball scene with the Iron Dukes of Duquesnes pre-season favorites to wind up competing for national honors.

Behind the veteran studded Dukes should come Villanova, LaSalle, Penn, Temple, Muhlenberg and Lafayette. In small college competition look for Pennsylvania Military College, Gettysburg and Drexel to romp in the Middle Atlantic conference with Geneva and Westminster pacing the independents.

Led by 6 foot, 5 inch Charley Cooper, Duquesne should improve on its 17-5 record of last year. Coach Dudie Moore has a well balanced squad with all important height, excellent shooting ability and able ball handlers. Cooper might well qualify as the player of the year. This sharpshooting senior should place Duquesne into somebody's tournament come next March.

Coach Al Severance will start his 14th season at Villanova with the same squad that won 22 and lost seven and then bowed to Kentucky in the N. C. A. A. tourney in New York.

Severance can count on three freshmen—John Brennan, six foot, five, from Brooklyn; Joe Maguire, also of Brooklyn, and Bennie Stewart, York, Pa., shot-maker. The team will be built around lanky Paul Arizin, who scored more than 300 points for the Wildcats last season. If Villanova gets by early season Sugar Bowl assignments against Kentucky, Bradley Tech and Tulane, it'll be really tough.

La Salle has the personnel and the schedule to gain top ranking if the Explorers under new Coach Ken Loeffler have learned to penetrate a zone defense.

Veteran LaSalle is led by 6-foot, 10-inch Larry Foust, Loeffler has several excellent playmakers, a host of good outside shots and a tall squad.

PAUL ARIZEN
Villanova's Great Star

Dark horse of Pennsylvania is the tallest Temple team since the Owls won national honors in 1937. Coach Josh Cody's team averages about six feet, three inches.

Leading prospect is six foot, four inch Bill Mlkvy, who averaged 25 points a game for the frosh last season. Veterans Ike Borsavage, six, seven, and John Ballots, six, three, form the nucleus.

The most optimistic coach in the Keystone state is Penn's Howard Dallmar.

"We're good and should have a great season," says Dallmar. The former court great picks his team to win the Ivy League crown.

Seven returning lettermen and a six foot, four inch sophomore are the reasons for Dallmar's rosy outlook. Tall Herb Lyon; captain Phil Harman; last year's sophomore sensation, Hugh Jefferies, and burly Harry Wettlaufer are among the returnees. Big Paul Fitzpatrick is up from the frosh.

Muhlenberg lost Harry Donovan—almost a team in himself—but Coach Bud Barker still has plenty of top-flight material. Harry Mackin, who broke a leg and was out most of the season, is back. Elmo Jackson is another of Barker's fast breakers who should keep the Mules up among the east's first flight.

Lafayette probably was the hardest hit by graduation, losing Marty Zipple—1,000 point man over his varsity career—and Jack Milne. However, new Coach Ray Stanley should come up with a better than average team built around veterans Duane Warrick, Jack Fox, Barry Love and Oliver Smith.

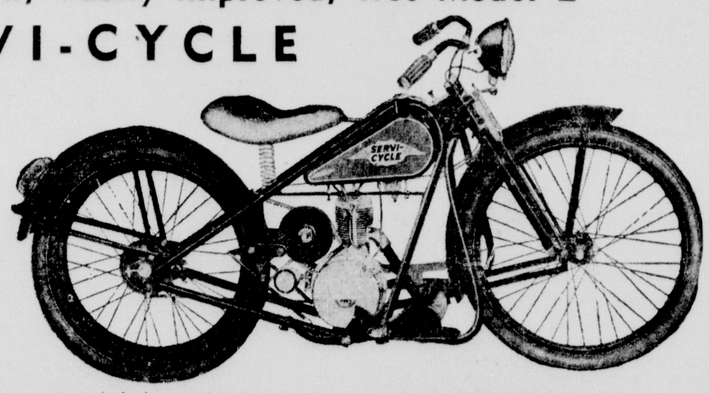

St. Joseph's has spirit but lacks the necessary manpower and height; Pitt lost its stars Sammy David and Dodo Caterna and Doc Carlson appears in for a lean year that may find him lucky to win six games on a tough schedule; Penn State has a new coach in Elmer Gross and the most interesting thing about the Nittany Lions is Gross' promise to inject the fast break into State's famel "crawling attack."

Lehigh, Franklin and Marshall, Haverford, Swathmore, Albright and Bucknell appear headed for tough seasons.

BIG 12 REPEALS RULE GOVERNING BOWL CONTESTS

Southeastern Will Ask For 'Three Meals' At N.C.A.A. Meeting

By Sterling Slappey

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Southeastern Conference meeting ended today with delegates in perfect agreement on how they will show th N. C. A. A. that Dixie members aren't professionals in amateur clothing.

There was hardly a dissenting voice at the final session on the Southeastern's idea for a three meal per day, year around training table for athletes. However, the S. E. C. earlier upset itself entirely on just what rules are best for determining bowl teams.

The meeting also declined to make room for the University of Miami, Fla., as a member.

Southeastern delegates, along with those from the Southern and Southwest Conferences, will be in New York next month at the N. C. A. A. meeting urging approval of the enlarged free meal program for athletes on scholarships.

Dixie people say that by providing athletes with all their meals sufficient time remains for the atheletes to study, play and earn money to continue college.

The N. C. A. A.'s present law accounts for only one meal per day during the season of the athlete's sport. This requires the athlete to earn about $75 per month for remaining meals and incidentals.

By giving a player all his meals he can get by earning only $35 per month. The reduced requirements will do away with many fake jobs, the Southerners claim.

Before turning to N. C. A. A. affairs. the Southeastern in effect went back to its bowl game policy of pre-war days.

Beginning with the 1950 season, any S. E. C. team can accept a bid at any time to any bowl which meets three major and several minor requirements.

Major requirements are that the bowl distribute at least 80 percent of gross receipts to competing teams, that the bowl allocate at least one-third of its seats to the two colleges, and have at least two representatives of N. C. A. A. schools on its administrative committee.

These requirements also are part of a proposed bowl amendment to the N. C. A. A. constitution.

Dr. Fred T. Mitchell of Mississippi State College, was elected president of the Southeastern Conference in the closing session. He succeeds Dr. Blake R. Van Leer of Georgia Tech.

Dr. Harold W. Stoke of Louisiana State University, an outspoken critic of bowls, was named vice-president. Dr. N. W. Doughtery of Tennessee, was re-elected secretary.

The new executive committee is made up of Dr. J. M. Gallalee of Alabama, and Dr. J. Hillis Miller of Florida.

In other actions yesterday rotating football schedules were voted down. However, beginning in 1952, every team must play at least six conference opponents. Twenty-five percent of all bowl money will go to the conference treasury for operating expenses. If any money is left over it will be divided equally among members every three years.

The conference no longer will collect one percent from all gates and three percent of bowl checks, a practice which built up a substantial surplus.

Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech has returned from a tour of 16 eastern colleges which he visited to spread the gospel of Dixie members. He reported that 14 were receptive, but that Harvard and Pennsylvania showed the least interest.

Other schools visited were Penn State, Pittsburgh, Colgate, Boston College, Syracuse, Brown, Rhode Island State, Fordham, Rutgers, Temple, Lafayette Lehigh, Franklin and Marshall and Georgetown.

Writ Of Attachment Filed Against Little Rock J. C.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce said tonight that a writ of attachment for $1,877.12 has been filed against Little Rock, Ark., Junior College's share of receipts from today's Junior Rose Bowl game.

Art Hannifin, spokesman for the Junior Chamber, said the Herald Publishing Co. of Compton, Calif., claims this amount was spent in promoting a game between Little Rock and Compton College.

The game was scheduled for Dec. 3 in the Los Angeles Coliseum and then cancelled.

Hannifin said the writ was served on him and Harrell Kloke, president of the Junior Chamber, which sponsored today's game.

Little Rock won it, 25 to 19, over Santa Ana J. C. Hannifin said each school will receive 25 per cent of the gate.

Alabama Quintet Romps Through Georgia, 53-38

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Alabama romped to its third straight basketball win tonight, whipping Georgia 53-38 in a Southeastern Conference game.

Alabama Guard Dyson Hamner flipped in a field goal in the first seconds of play and the Crimson Tiders were never headed. Georgia played a tight game through the first half and the Bulldogs were behind only eight points at intermission.

Forward Gene Palmer and Guard Dick McKenzie sparked the Tide offense with 11 points each. Three Georgia cagers, Forwards Henley and Davis and Center Schloss topped the Bulldogs with eight each.

GRAND ENTRY 1ST IN GOLFERS 'CAP AT FAIR GROUNDS

Tight Squeeze Captures De Soto Purse, Feature At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Tight Squeeze, winner of the Inaugural Handicap, made it two in a row at Tropical Park today when he easily annexed the De Soto Purse, streaking home four lengths clear of Windsor farms' Loriot.

Loriot, in turn barely saved the place from R. M. Smith's Sagittarius, the favorite, and Grandview stables' Artist Life.

Seven of the better sprinters contested the issue, with Tight Squeeze, ridden by Nick Jemas, racing as if much the best under the light impost of 108 pounds. He was teletimed in 1:10 1/5, fastest six furlongs of the meeting, and paid a liberal $8.50 straight.

A crowd of 8,953 wagered $446,297 on the program.

Fantasy farm's Grand Entry turned on the steam in the stretch to win the Golfers' Handicap at the Fair Grounds track in New Orleans.

The winner, with Darrell Madden up, beat out 2-5 favorite Thwarted in the stretch duel to win by a head. Thwarted, owned by T. P. Morgan, came in second under Don MacAndrews.

Third was Montana Sands, owned by Montana stables and ridden by Charley Bright.

Grand Entry paid $7.80 and $2.80. There was no show betting.

Five horses ran the mile and a sixteenth with 6,425 fans looking on. Betting totalled $217,294.

Rocketing to his seventh straight triumph, Blue Reading scored by a length over Competing Beau in the $100,000-added El Camino Stakes, mile and a sixteenth feature at Tanforan, San Bruno, Calif.

Top Production was third in the field of twelve two-year-olds, with Quihi fourth.

Blue Reading, a pronounced favorite, paid $3.50, $2.50 and $2.30 across the board and toured the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 1/5 on a strip labeled "good."

LITTLE ROCK J. C. WINNER OF JUNIOR ROSE BOWL GAME

Trojans Outlast California's Santa Ana To Triumph, 25 To 19

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Little Rock Junior College ended the west's domination of the Little Rose Bowl series today by handing California's Santa Ana Junior College a 25 to 19 defeat in the fourth edition of the post-season intersectional encounter.

A crowd of 33,942 sat through the action-packed contest braving cold winds that whipped through Pasadena's famed bowl.

Little Rock put together an 80-yard drive for the touchdown that broke a 19-19 deadlock with only three minutes left in the game.

Oddly enough the Trojans from the south started the day's scoring after the opening kickoff with a 78-yard parade through the stubborn but outclassed Dons from nearby Santa Ana.

The big thrill of the day was a punt return by Benny (Little Smackover) Scott, Little Rock's 127-pound safety man and brother of pro football's Clyde (Big Smackover) Scott. Benny fielded a punt on his own 25 and, like a trapped rabbit, scampered back to his 15, reversed himself three times as Santa Ana players began to decorate the turf, and finally cut loose with a run that was good for 85 yards and a touchdown that sent his mates into the fore, 19-12 at this stage.

Otherwise it was a running duel between Santa Ana's halfback, Al Carmichael, and Little Rock's Harold (Tiger) Waggoner, with the later shining the brightest.

Little Rock rolled up 433 yards total offense to 228 to Santa Ana as the Trojans dominated the contest.

The lineups:

Little Rock

Redskin Cagers Win 3rd Straight, Beat Louisiana College 'B' Team

N. J. C. Quintet Sweeps Through Pineville Rivals, 55 To 28

PINEVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—The Northeast Junior College Indians of Monroe swept through to their third straight basketball triumph in as many days here tonight as the Redskins poured on the steam to trample the Louisiana College "B" team, 55 to 28.

The N. J. C. quintet, after two wins over Francis T. Nichols Junior College at Thibodaux, jumped into an early lead tonight and was out in front, 22-12, at the half.

HOME TOMORROW

Coach Edward Payne sends his Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. quintet against the Louisiana Tech freshmen here tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at N. J. C. gymnasium.

The Tech frosh and Indians are also due for a rematch Tuesday at Ruston.

Julius Dean, N. J. C. guard, set the scoring pace as he swished the nets for 15 points on seven field goals and a foul shot. Close behind was his own teammate, Center "Snooky" Cerniglia, who hit four from the field and six from the foul line for 14 points.

Pace led Louisiana College with seven points, closely followed by Hume and Lewis with six each.

DOROTHY DIX

Tact At Home

Why Not Use Diplomacy With Family As Well As Strangers?

I OFTEN wonder why tact is a discredited domestic virtue, and why we never feel that it is necessary to use the same finesse in dealing with our own families that we do with strangers? Yet Heaven knows it is far more important to us to get along amiably and smoothly with our husbands and wives and children than it is to smooth the fur of casual acquaintances the right way.

Not long ago at dinner in a house in which I was visiting, the small son spilt soup on the tablecloth and his mother reprimanded him publicly and sharply. "You clumsy creature," she cried, "look what you've done, spotted my best cloth. You have the table manners of a pig. Why can't you learn how to eat decently?"

DOROTHY DIX

To which the little chap, hurt and humiliated, responded: "Why don't you say to me that it doesn't make a bit of difference and the tablecloth has to be washed, anyway, as you said to Mr. X. yesterday when he spilt his coffee?"

And I thought, why not, indeed? Why should she have been more tender of Mr. X.'s feelings than she was of her own little child's? Why should she treat Mr. X. with more consideration than she did the little boy she really loved?

TOO MUCH TROUBLE

And if the mother had answered the question honestly she would have been forced to reply that is was because she didn't think it was worthwhile to take the trouble even to be civil to her own child. And we all fall under the same condemnation. Why, if we said to other people the things we say to our own we wouldn't have a friend left in the world, nor ever be invited to another party.

When Mr. A. goes to dinner at Mrs. B.'s he is suavity itself. He tells her how beautiful and young she is looking, though he may be thinking quite the contrary, and when she says that she is afraid the cook has a little too much salt in the soup, he says not at all, that he likes salty soup. And if the roast is tough and stringy he gulps it down without comment.

But does he use any such tact in dealing with the wife of his bosom? I should say not. "Say, this soup is nothing but brine. It is a funny thing to me that a woman of even average intelligence can make soup every day of her life without ever finding out how much salt to put in, or how to pick out a roast that is edible instead of letting the butcher palm off on her something that would pull a bulldog's teeth out if he tried to chew it."

WIFE AT FAULT, TOO

Nor is his wife any more diplomatic in dealing with her husband. "For pity sake, Henry, are you going to tell that old story over again? Everybody has heard you tell it forty times and it wasn't funny in the first place."

Haven't you seen a man's face fall when he brought his wife home a bunch of roses and she looked at them and sniffed and said: "Oh, roses. Violets are the only flowers I care for." Or when he presented her with a box of candy and she thrust it aside without even thanks because she preferred caramels to chocolates or vice versa. Yet if any strange man had brought her flowers or candy, she would have gone into ecstasies over them, no matter what they had been.

And haven't you seen a man refuse even to taste the dessert his wife has spent an hour on a hot day in summer preparing for him? Yet he would have been touched to tears, almost, at the thought of any other woman foregoing her beauty sleep to cater to his appetite.

And who but our families are tactless enough to tell us that we are getting fat, or are looking sick, or that we are spoiling our children, or that we haven't any taste in clothes, or that we talk too much about our babies?

Curious that those who love us best should be the ones who are least considerate of our feelings. Perhaps that is the reason that there are so many divorces and why children leave home. We fly to those who use some diplomacy in dealing with us.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

BYRD, HOLY CROSS MEET FRIDAY FOR STATE 'AA' TITLE

Tigers Of New Orleans Reach Finals With 35-7 Win Over Bogalusa

BOGALUSA, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Holy Cross of New Orleans, newly-crowded south Louisiana AA high school football champion, will meet Byrd High in Shreveport next Friday night for the state title.

The Tigers won the regional championship here last night by defeating the Bogalusa Lumberjacks, 35 to 7. The game marked the inaugural of the Forest Bowl before more than 9,000 fans, largest crowd ever to see a football game here.

Holy Cross scored in every period. Joe Heap and Lloyd Bertrand each made two touchdowns for the Tigers, with the fifth by Hayden Mayeaux. Mayeaux also made two conversions while Chet Doll, Ray Heap and Gonzales each made one.

White made Bogalusa's only touchdown and Stringfield converted.

Holy Cross tallied first. After Joe Heap got two yards from the Lumberjacks' 18, Bertrand went over right tackle untouched. Mayeaux went over a line play for the extra point.

The Lumberjacks tied the score early in the second period when T. J. White took an aerial from Stringfield for the tally. Stringfield placekicked the conversion.

With the ball at the Tiger 48-yard line, Zimmerman passed 20 yards to Hall on the Bogalusa 32-yard line. On the following play, Joe Heap passed to Brother Ray Heap for nine yards. Clarence Zimmerman hit Joe Heap with a touchdown pass and then completed a pass to Doll for the extra point. The half ended with Holy Cross again ahead this time to stay.

Joe Heap was the outstanding Tiger on offense, but Bertrand and Mayeaux turned in good performances.

The Lumberjacks fought until the end. They outgained the Tigers in running, getting 195 yards via the ground to Holy Cross' 140. The Tigers were superior in the air, gaining 180 yards that route while Bogalusa got only 65 through aerials.

Kentucky Will Return To Practice Tomorrow

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Kentucky starts work Monday to put its football machine in shape for the Orange Bowl engagement with Santa Clara Jan. 2 at Miami.

The squad rested the last two weeks since beating Miami in the season finale Nov. 25 and should be in the best physical condition since the season started.

The Kentucky squad goes south Dec. 18 to set the training base at Cocoa, Fla.

It's a pretty safe bet that a big part of the drills will be aimed at polishing an offensive attack.

For one thing Kentucky's passing game should be better in the Orange Bowl than it was at the tag end of the season.

The aerial game clicked regularly at the start of the season before an assortment of injuries struck the ends, shelving one of them for the last three games. He was Benny Zaranka, a regular the last two seasons. End Nick Odlivak also was slowed by injuries.

Defensively the Kentuckians topped the south against rushing and also in total defense.

Mississippi Rebels Trip Birmingham Southern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mississippi salvaged a game from its basketball invasion of Alabama tonight by beating back a rallying Birmingham Southern team, 61-55.

Downed on successive night by Alabama and Auburn, the Rebels almost blew a big lead piled up early in the second half.

Southern cut the Reb lead to three points, 54-51, and Ole Miss called on its first string to pull the game out of danger in the final minutes.

Top-scoring honors for the evening went to George Amsden of Southern, with 20 points. Jack Marshall's deadly firing raced up 18 for Mississippi.

Shreveport Bowlers Edge Monroe Women

All-stars of the Women's Bowling League of Monroe matched talents with a similar selection of Shreveport's best in a four-game series here last night with each team winning two games although the visitors showed a 12-pin advantage for the series.

Painter, Shreveport, rolled a 712 for high series, and she had a 187 for high game. Brown led the Monroe team with a 643 series and a 181 game.

Demons Of Northwestern Win 5th Straight Victory

SHERMAN, Tex., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Northwestern Louisiana State College stepped away in the second half to whip Austin College, 67-40, here tonight in a basketball game.

The game was played in Austin's new $300,000 Hughey Memorial gymnasium. Northwestern Louisiana led at the half 26-20. Its forward, Floyd Stoutsmire, sank 25 points for game scoring honors. Jim Wilson, Austin center, led his crew, with 12 points.

It was the fifth straight victory this season for the Demons.

ARKANSAS QUINT NOSES OUT WAVE BY 42-41 MARGIN

Norman Price Fires Shot That Hands Tulane First Loss Of Season

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A free throw in the last five seconds enabled the University of Arkansas cagers to down Tulane University 42-41 in a basketball game here tonight.

It was the Tulane Greenies' first setback in six starts this season.

The winning free throw was by Razorback substitute guard Norman Price.

Inaccuracy with their free shots and failure to control the backboards proved to be the Greenies' downfall.

At halftime Tulane led 21-20 after Tulane's Tommy Bowman and Virgil Risner hit the bucket with long set shots and one-handed pushers.

The lead changed hands 21 times and the score was deadlocked seven times. The widest margin was midway of the second half when Tulane led by six points, but the Razor backs, with their slow, deliberate offense pulled abreast and finally won.

S. E. C. PROPOSES ADDITIONAL ATHLETIC AID

BIG 12 REPEALS RULE GOVERNING BOWL CONTESTS

Southeastern Will Ask For 'Three Meals' At N.C.A.A. Meeting

By Sterling Slappey

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Southeastern Conference meeting ended today with delegates in perfect agreement on how they will show th N. C. A. A. that Dixie members aren't professionals in amateur clothing.

There was hardly a dissenting voice at the final session on the Southeastern's idea for a three meal per day, year around training table for athletes. However, the S. E. C. earlier upset itself entirely on just what rules are best for determining bowl teams.

The meeting also declined to make room for the University of Miami, Fla., as a member.

Southeastern delegates, along with those from the Southern and Southwest Conferences, will be in New York next month at the N. C. A. A. meeting urging approval of the enlarged free meal program for athletes on scholarships.

Dixie people say that by providing athletes with all their meals sufficient time remains for the atheletes to study, play and earn money to continue college.

The N. C. A. A.'s present law accounts for only one meal per day during the season of the athlete's sport. This requires the athlete to earn about $75 per month for remaining meals and incidentals.

By giving a player all his meals he can get by earning only $35 per month. The reduced requirements will do away with many fake jobs, the Southerners claim.

Before turning to N. C. A. A. affairs, the Southeastern in effect went back to its bowl game policy of pre-war days.

Beginning with the 1950 season, any S. E. C. team can accept a bid at any time to any bowl which meets three major and several minor requirements.

Major requirements are that the bowl distribute at least 80 percent of gross receipts to competing teams, that the bowl allocate at least one-third of its seats to the two colleges, and have at least two representatives of N. C. A. A. schools on its administrative committee.

These requirements also are part of a proposed bowl amendment to the N. C. A. A. constitution.

Dr. Fred T. Mitchell of Mississippi State College, was elected president of the Southeastern Conference in the closing session. He succeeds Dr. Blake R. Van Leer of Georgia Tech.

Dr. Harold W. Stoke of Louisiana State University, an outspoken critic of bowls, was named vice-president. Dr. N. W. Doughtery of Tennessee, was re-elected secretary.

The new executive committee is made up of Dr. J. M. Gallalee of Alabama, and Dr. J. Hillis Miller of Florida.

In other actions yesterday rotating football schedules were voted down. However, beginning in 1952, every team must play at least six conference opponents. Twenty-five percent of all bowl money will go to the conference treasury for operating expenses. If any money is left over it will be divided equally among members every three years.

The conference no longer will collect one percent from all gates and three percent of bowl checks, a practice which built up a substantial surplus.

Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech has returned from a tour of 16 eastern colleges which he visited to spread the gospel of Dixie members. He reported that 14 were receptive, but that Harvard and Pennsylvania showed the least interest.

Other schools visited were Penn State, Pittsburgh, Colgate, Boston College, Syracuse, Brown, Rhode Island State, Fordham, Rutgers, Temple, Lafayette Lehigh, Franklin and Marshall and Georgetown.

Writ Of Attachment Filed Against Little Rock J. C.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce said tonight that a writ of attachment for $1,877.12 has been filed against Little Rock, Ark., Junior College's share of receipts from today's Junior Rose Bowl game.

Art Hannifin, spokesman for the Junior Chamber, said the Herald Publishing Co. of Compton, Calif., claims this amount was spent in promoting a game between Little Rock and Compton College.

The game was scheduled for Dec. 3 in the Los Angeles Coliseum and then cancelled.

Hannifin said the writ was served on him and Harrell Kloke, president of the Junior Chamber, which sponsored today's game.

Little Rock won it, 25 to 19, over Santa Ana J. C. Hannifin said each school will receive 25 per cent of the gate.

Alabama Quintet Romps Through Georgia, 53-38

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Alabama romped to its third straight basketball win tonight, whipping Georgia 53-38 in a Southeastern Conference game.

Alabama Guard Dyson Hamner flipped in a field goal in the first seconds of play and the Crimson Tiders were never headed. Georgia played a tight game through the first half and the Bulldogs were behind only eight points at intermission.

Forward Gene Palmer and Guard Dick McKenzie sparked the Tide offense with 11 points each. Three Georgia cagers, Forwards Henley and Davis and Center Schloss topped the Bulldogs with eight each.

Quarter-final games will be played Friday night and Saturday morning. Semi-finals are billed for Saturday afternoon, and consolations and finals will be played Saturday night.

If you have to prepare dinner quickly, cook a large cut of meat over the week-end and serve it at one meal. Then use the cooked leftover meat for weekday dinners.

GRAND ENTRY 1ST IN GOLFERS 'CAP AT FAIR GROUNDS

Tight Squeeze Captures De Soto Purse, Feature At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Tight Squeeze, winner of the Inaugural Handicap, made it two in a row at Tropical Park today when he easily annexed the De Soto Purse, streaking home four lengths clear of Windsor farms' Loriot.

Loriot, in turn barely saved the place from R. M. Smith's Sagittarius, the favorite, and Grandview stables' Artist Life.

Seven of the better sprinters contested the issue, with Tight Squeeze, ridden by Nick Jemas, racing as if much the best under the light impost of 108 pounds. He was teletimed in 1:10 1/5, fastest six furlongs of the meeting, and paid a liberal $8.50 straight.

A crowd of 8,953 wagered $446,297 on the program.

Fantasy farm's Grand Entry turned on the steam in the stretch to win the Golfers' Handicap at the Fair Grounds track in New Orleans.

The winner, with Darrell Madden up, beat out 2-5 favorite Thwarted in the stretch duel to win by a head. Thwarted, owned by T. P. Morgan, came in second under Don MacAndrews.

Third was Montana Sands, owned by Montana stables and ridden by Charley Bright.

Grand Entry paid $7.80 and $2.80. There was no show betting.

Five horses ran the mile and a sixteenth with 6,425 fans looking on. Betting totalled $217,294.

Rocketing to his seventh straight triumph, Blue Reading scored by a length over Competing Beau in the $100,000-added El Camino Stakes, mile and a sixteenth feature at Tanforan, San Bruno, Calif.

Top Production was third in the field of twelve two-year-olds, with Quihi fourth.

Blue Reading, a pronounced favorite, paid $3.50, $2.50 and $2.30 across the board and toured the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 1/5 on a strip labeled "good."

LITTLE ROCK J. C. WINNER OF JUNIOR ROSE BOWL GAME

Trojans Outlast California's Santa Ana To Triumph, 25 To 19

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Little Rock Junior College ended the west's domination of the Little Rose Bowl series today by handing California's Santa Ana Junior College a 25 to 19 defeat in the fourth edition of the post-season intersectional encounter.

A crowd of 33,942 sat through the action-packed contest braving cold winds that whipped through Pasadena's famed bowl.

Little Rock put together an 80-yard drive for the touchdown that broke a 19-19 deadlock with only three minutes left in the game.

Oddly enough the Trojans from the south started the day's scoring after the opening kickoff with a 78-yard parade through the stubborn but outclassed Dons from nearby Santa Ana.

The big thrill of the day was a punt return by Benny (Little Smackover) Scott, Little Rock's 127-pound safety man and brother of pro football's Clyde (Big Smackover) Scott. Benny fielded a punt on his own 25 and, like a trapped rabbit, scampered back to his 15, reversed himself three times as Santa Ana players began to decorate the turf, and finally cut loose with a run that was good for 85 yards and a touchdown that sent his mates into the fore, 19-12 at this stage.

Otherwise it was a running duel between Santa Ana's halfback, Al Carmichael, and Little Rock's Harold (Tiger) Waggoner, with the later shining the brightest.

Little Rock rolled up 433 yards total offense to 228 to Santa Ana as the Trojans dominated the contest.

The lineups:

Little Rock

Redskin Cagers Win 3rd Straight, Beat Louisiana College 'B' Team

N. J. C. Quintet Sweeps Through Pineville Rivals, 55 To 28

PINEVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—The Northeast Junior College Indians of Monroe swept through to their third straight basketball triumph in as many days here tonight as the Redskins poured on the steam to trample the Louisiana College "B" team, 55 to 28.

The N. J. C. quintet, after two wins over Francis T. Nichols Junior College at Thibodaux, jumped into an early lead tonight and was out in front, 22-12, at the half.

HOME TOMORROW

Coach Edward Payne sends his Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. quintet against the Louisiana Tech freshmen here tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at N. J. C. gymnasium.

The Tech frosh and Indians are also due for a rematch Tuesday at Ruston.

Julius Dean, N. J. C. guard, set the scoring pace as he swished the nets for 15 points on seven field goals and a foul shot. Close behind was his own teammate, Center "Snooky" Cerniglia, who hit four from the field and six from the foul line for 14 points.

Pace led Louisiana College with seven points, closely followed by Hume and Lewis with six each.

BYRD, HOLY CROSS MEET FRIDAY FOR STATE 'AA' TITLE

Tigers Of New Orleans Reach Finals With 35-7 Win Over Bogalusa

BOGALUSA, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Holy Cross of New Orleans, newly-crowded south Louisiana AA high school football champion, will meet Byrd High in Shreveport next Friday night for the state title.

The Tigers won the regional championship here last night by defeating the Bogalusa Lumberjacks, 35 to 7. The game marked the inaugural of the Forest Bowl before more than 9,000 fans, largest crowd ever to see a football game here.

Holy Cross scored in every period. Joe Heap and Lloyd Bertrand each made two touchdowns for the Tigers, with the fifth by Hayden Mayeaux. Mayeaux also made two conversions while Chet Doll, Ray Heap and Gonzales each made one.

White made Bogalusa's only touchdown and Stringfield converted.

Holy Cross tallied first. After Joe Heap got two yards from the Lumberjacks' 18, Bertrand went over right tackle untouched. Mayeaux went over a line play for the extra point.

The Lumberjacks tied the score early in the second period when T. J. White took an aerial from Stringfield for the tally. Stringfield placekicked the conversion.

With the ball at the Tiger 48-yard line, Zimmerman passed 20 yards to Hall on the Bogalusa 32-yard line. On the following play, Joe Heap passed to Brother Ray Heap for nine yards. Clarence Zimmerman hit Joe Heap with a touchdown pass and then completed a pass to Doll for the extra point. The half ended with Holy Cross again ahead this time to stay.

Joe Heap was the outstanding Tiger on offense, but Bertrand and Mayeaux turned in good performances.

The Lumberjacks fought until the end. They outgained the Tigers in running, getting 195 yards via the ground to Holy Cross' 140. The Tigers were superior in the air, gaining 180 yards that route while Bogalusa got only 65 through aerials.

Tact At Home

Why Not Use Diplomacy With Family As Well As Strangers?

I OFTEN wonder why tact is a discredited domestic virtue, and why we never feel that it is necessary to use the same finesse in dealing with our own families that we do with strangers? Yet Heaven knows it is far more important to us to get along amiably and smoothly with our husbands and wives and children than it is to smooth the fur of casual acquaintances the right way.

Not long ago at dinner in a house in which I was visiting, the small son spilt soup on the tablecloth and his mother reprimanded him publicly and sharply. "You clumsy creature," she cried, "look what you've done, spotted my best cloth. You have the table manners of a pig. Why can't you learn how to eat decently?"

DOROTHY DIX

To which the little chap, hurt and humiliated, responded: "Why don't you say to me that it doesn't make a bit of difference and the tablecloth has to be washed, anyway, as you said to Mr. X. yesterday when he spilt his coffee?"

And I thought, why not, indeed? Why should she have been more tender of Mr. X.'s feelings than she was of her own little child's? Why should she treat Mr. X. with more consideration than she did the little boy she really loved?

TOO MUCH TROUBLE

And if the mother had answered the question honestly she would have been forced to reply that is was because she didn't think it was worthwhile to take the trouble even to be civil to her own child. And we all fall under the same condemnation. Why, if we said to other people the things we say to our own we wouldn't have a friend left in the world, nor ever be invited to another party.

When Mr. A. goes to dinner at Mrs. B.'s he is suavity itself. He tells her how beautiful and young she is looking, though he may be thinking quite the contrary, and when she says that she is afraid the cook has a little too much salt in the soup, he says not at all, that he likes salty soup. And if the roast is tough and stringy he gulps it down without comment.

But does he use any such tact in dealing with the wife of his bosom? I should say not. "Say, this soup is nothing but brine. It is a funny thing to me that a woman of even average intelligence can make soup every day of her life without ever finding out how much salt to put in, or how to pick out a roast that is edible instead of letting the butcher palm off on her something that would pull a bulldog's teeth out if he tried to chew it."

WIFE AT FAULT, TOO

Nor is his wife any more diplomatic in dealing with her husband. "For pity sake, Henry, are you going to tell that old story over again? Everybody has heard you tell it forty times and it wasn't funny in the first place."

Haven't you seen a man's face fall when he brought his wife home a bunch of roses and she looked at them and sniffed and said: "Oh, roses. Violets are the only flowers I care for." Or when he presented her with a box of candy and she thrust it aside without even thanks because she preferred caramels to chocolates or vice versa. Yet if any strange man had brought her flowers or candy, she would have gone into ecstasies over them, no matter what they had been.

And haven't you seen a man refuse even to taste the dessert his wife has spent an hour on a hot day in summer preparing for him? Yet he would have been touched to tears, almost, at the thought of any other woman foregoing her beauty sleep to cater to his appetite.

And who but our families are tactless enough to tell us that we are getting fat, or are looking sick, or that we are spoiling our children, or that we haven't any taste in clothes, or that we talk too much about our babies?

Curious that those who love us best should be the ones who are least considerate of our feelings. Perhaps that is the reason that there are so many divorces and why children leave home. We fly to those who use some diplomacy in dealing with us.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Kentucky Will Return To Practice Tomorrow

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Kentucky starts work Monday to put its football machine in shape for the Orange Bowl engagement with Santa Clara Jan. 2 at Miami.

The squad rested the last two weeks since beating Miami in the season finale Nov. 25 and should be in the best physical condition since the season started.

The Kentucky squad goes south Dec. 18 to set the training base at Cocoa, Fla.

It's a pretty safe bet that a big part of the drills will be aimed at polishing an offensive attack.

For one thing Kentucky's passing game should be better in the Orange Bowl than it was at the tag end of the season.

The aerial game clicked regularly at the start of the season before an assortment of injuries struck the ends, shelving one of them for the last three games. He was Benny Zaranka, a regular the last two seasons. End Nick Odlivak also was slowed by injuries.

Defensively the Kentuckians topped the south against rushing and also in total defense.

Mississippi Rebels Trip Birmingham Southern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mississippi salvaged a game from its basketball invasion of Alabama tonight by beating back a rallying Birmingham Southern team, 61-55.

Downed on successive night by Alabama and Auburn, the Rebels almost blew a big lead piled up early in the second half.

Southern cut the Reb lead to three points, 54-51, and Ole Miss called on its first string to pull the game out of danger in the final minutes.

Top-scoring honors for the evening went to George Amsden of Southern, with 20 points. Jack Marshall's deadly firing raced up 18 for Mississippi.

Shreveport Bowlers Edge Monroe Women

All-stars of the Women's Bowling League of Monroe matched talents with a similar selection of Shreveport's best in a four-game series here last night with each team winning two games although the visitors showed a 12-pin advantage for the series.

Painter, Shreveport, rolled a 712 for high series, and she had a 187 for high game. Brown led the Monroe team with a 643 series and a 181 game.

Demons Of Northwestern Win 5th Straight Victory

SHERMAN, Tex., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Northwestern Louisiana State College stepped away in the second half to whip Austin College, 67-40, here tonight in a basketball game.

The game was played in Austin's new $300,000 Hughey Memorial gymnasium. Northwestern Louisiana led at the half 26-20. Its forward, Floyd Stoutsmire, sank 25 points for game scoring honors. Jim Wilson, Austin center, led his crew, with 12 points.

It was the fifth straight victory this season for the Demons.

ARKANSAS QUINT NOSES OUT WAVE BY 42-41 MARGIN

Norman Price Fires Shot That Hands Tulane First Loss Of Season

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A free throw in the last five seconds enabled the University of Arkansas cagers to down Tulane University 42-41 in a basketball game here tonight.

It was the Tulane Greenies' first setback in six starts this season.

The winning free throw was by Razorback substitute guard Norman Price.

Inaccuracy with their free shots and failure to control the backboards proved to be the Greenies' downfall.

At halftime Tulane led 21-20 after Tulane's Tommy Bowman and Virgil Risner hit the bucket with long set shots and one-handed pushers.

The lead changed hands 21 times and the score was deadlocked seven times. The widest margin was midway of the second half when Tulane led by six points, but the Razor backs, with their slow, deliberate offense pulled abreast and finally won.

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

Miss. River Bed Wildcat Is Found To Be Dry Hole

The A. B. Learned No. 1, a wildcat exploration two miles east of Roosevelt, La., in 3-18-13E of East Carroll parish, was abandoned Tuesday. It was promoted by the Petersen Drilling Company, John Cerneglia, et al.

Meanwhile drillers of the unsuccessful Learned No. 1 set a new location east of the old site and last week were preparing to penetrate the earth in still another wildcat exploration.

Oilers elsewhere in northeast Louisiana brought in three oil producers, five gas yielders and abandoned four other old wells.

Top oil producer unearthed last week was the R. A. Cambeil and Dan L. Reynolds Company's Harriess Interstate No. 1 in 18-7-10E of the Vidalia field in Concordia parish. Discovered at 6,732 feet, the new well was gauged at 136 barrels.

The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company, Inc.'s F-166 in 33-7-3E of the West Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish, was brought in with a yield of 105 barrels.

Only other oil producer for the week was identified as the L. O. Gandy, et al King Heirs No. 1 in 36-10-1E of the Tullos Urania field in LaSalle parish. It was gauged at 50 barrels.

All new gas yielders were brought in in the Monroe field of Union parish. They were listed as: the Louisiana Gas Producing Company's Rabun No. 13 in 20-20-3E, gauged at 386,000 cubic feet; the James A. Noe Company Edwards No. 1 in 18-21-3E, 2,760,000 cubic feet; the James A. Noe Company-Noe Thomas No. 1 in 29-22-3E, gauged at 2,363,000 cubic feet, and the James A. Noe Company's Noe-Thomas No. 2 in 29-22-3E, gauged at 386,000 cubic feet.

The Justiss Mears Oil Company's E. E. Allbritton Estate No. 1 in 27-10-1E of the Tullos field in Winn parish, was abandoned at 2,606 feet.

In a wildcat field in Concordia parish, the Danciger Oil and Refg. Co.-Pitts. Pit. No. 1 in 42-8-10E was abandoned at 6,913 feet.

The Pan American Producing Company and Tremont Lumber Company abandoned their No. 8 in 31-10-2E at 1,600 feet. It was located in the Tullos Urania field of LaSalle parish.

Only other well abandoned last week was the H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company, Inc.'s F-172 in 33-7-3E of the West Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish.

New Locations

LaSalle parish, wildcat field: Placid Oil Company-La. Central Lumber Company's 127 in 24-11-3E. Nebo Hemphill field: H. L. Hunt company-Nebo Oil Co., Inc. MONROE-ST. LOUIS GAS LINE LINKED

Is Second Pipeline From Louisiana To Missouri; Cost $35,000,000

The $35,000,000 second pipeline of Mississippi River Fuel Corporation bringing natural gas from Louisiana to St. Louis, was completed last week, William G. Marbury, president of the company, revealed.

The line, already in partial use, stretches 435 miles from Monroe to St. Louis and is 24 inches in diameter. It was designed to make possible the conversion of the St. Louis gas supply to straight natural gas.

The last sections of the steel pipe were welded together just north of Fredericktown, Mo.

Because of improvements, the new line will be able to withstand a pressure of 700 pounds to the square inch. The original 22-inch pipe is designed for 425 pounds of pressure.

Each of the two lines is prepared to move 133,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily, a total of 266,000,000 cubic feet.

Mississippi River Fuel has pending before the Federal Power Commission an application to increase the second line's movement to 195,000,000 cubic feet, as a first step, bring the total of the two lines to 328,000,000 cubic feet for the present. This would be done at a cost of about $3,000,000.

Estimated cost of further additions to the pumping equipment to attain ultimate capacity of the second line is $8,000,000. How soon this enlargement will be called for depends on the market.

Wildcat In Oklahoma Attracts Operators

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A rank wildcat well in Coal county, 60 miles north of Texas, set off a flurry of lease speculation and attracted the interest of Oklahoma Oil operators last week.

It was Britton Oil Co.'s No. 1 Jim Polk—SE SE SW of 23-2N-10E near the county seat of Coalgate, which is said to have flowed 115 barrels of crude on initial test from a plug-back depth of 2,661 feet.

Completions and exploration were steady, the Tulsa World reports. There were 80 finals—a drop from last week's 92—including 49 producers and 31 dry holes. No initial gas production was reported. The average daily oil output was 4,359 barrels. Footage drilled totaled 270,315.

New locations were up slightly to 98 in 25 counties. Seminole county led with 10 starts.

A flock of Oklahoma county oilers was topped by Ashland Oil and Refining Co.'s No. 1 Ivery—NW SE NE of 4-12N-2—which flowed 820 barrels of oil in 24 hours natural from 6,311 feet in the Boise D'Arc sand.

The prolific Elk City field in Beckham county popped up with a 505-barrel-a-day producer in Shell Oil Co.'s No. 1 Eiel—NW SW of 23-10N-21W—flowing 50-gravity crude from

OIL INCREASES END WITH DROP

Daily Average Drops 103,850 Barrels From Previous Week's Production

TULSA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A ten-week upward trend in the nation's crude oil production ended last week when the daily average dropped 103,850 barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

The slump lowered the total daily average to 5,060,250 barrels.

Most of the decline was the result of a drop in Texas production, which fell 82,900 barrels to 2,086,525 barrels.

Other major losses were Oklahoma, down 9,750 barrels to 416,750; Illinios, off 9,600 to 172,000; Colorado, 3,650 to 62,750; the eastern area, 3,500 to 54,200; Mississippi, 1,250 to 96,000; Indiana, 1,200 to 27,900, and California, 1,200 to 866,700.

Arkansas dropped 250 to 73,650, Florida was off 75 to 900, Michigan fell 800 to 46,100, Montana declined 200 to 26,000, New Mexico was down 475 to 132,425, and Utah dropped 200 to 3,100.

Only four states showed gains—Kansas, up 4,050 barrels to 294,200; Louisiana, 3,850 to 533,850; Wyoming, 3,150 to 139,050, and Nebraska, 150 to 1,300.

Production was unchanged in Alabama, 1,350 barrels, and Kentucky, 24,900.

Canada's crude production averaged 59,095 barrels daily, a drop of 5,915 barrels from the previous week. Alberta Province reported 56,516 barrels of the week's production.

The daily averages included:

Oil Import Opponents Add Pressure To Legislators

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A squeeze play may be shaping up to bring a temporary end to domestic problems caused by foreign crude oil.

Opponents of foreign oil imports are adding pressure to congress in their campaign for limitation legislation.

The major importers might start slashing their foreign quotas should congress give any indication the campaign is producing results.

The squeeze centers around one known fact:

These major importers are pained just as much as an independent domestic operator whenever any form of federal control of the oil industry is mentioned.

There is indication the importers would make the first move should congress begin to show strong interest in the please of the imports opponents.

These opponents, primarily, want imports limited to 5 per cent of domestic production or have the foreign oil tax jumped from 10 1/2 cents to about $1 a barrel.

Their argument has been that imports no longer are supplementing domestic production, but, insteaad, are supplanting United States crude.

Preliminary estimates on 1949 domestic production and imports present sharp contrasts when compared with 1948 figures.

Domestic crude output this year is expected to run about 500,000 barrels daily less than last year. Imports are expected to average about 160,000 barrels daily higher.

Any cutting down on imports in hopes of halting congressional action would be a postponement of the problem. But that might be all that is needed.

A few months have been found to make a lot of difference in oil industry supply and demand.

The severe winter of 1947-48 caused many congressmen to believe the United States was running out of oil.

Importers began to hike their quotas, an action they termed necessary in order to prevent being caught short during another hard winter.

Domestic production was sent into high speed and reached an all-time high in 1948.

But the 1948-49 winter fooled everyone by being abnormally mild. The nation found itself up to its ear in oil—both domestic and foreign.

Oil producing states ordered sharp cuts in domestic allowables.

Several months ago the importers said their foreign oil quotas would be reduced gradually.

Independent oilmen are not convinced this promise to being carried out.

Russell B. Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, this week said independents have abandoned practically all hope that imports will level off.

He said importers plan to bring into the United States about 850,000 barrels daily next year, compared to the current 600,000 to 700,000.

The 850,000 figure, he said, would be equivalent to about 14 per cent of domestic production.

The head of one of the importing companies this week urged that imports be reduced.

Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, called for statesmanlike action in preventing further supplanting of domestic production by foreign oil.

He made his suggestions to the importers through a statement filed in Washington with the house small business subcommittee on oil.

Wilson also expressed opposition to congressional limitation of imports.

The house committee has been investigating the imports squabble and is expected to report to congress early next year.

Domestic crude production dropped another 85,900 barrels daily last week as new December cutbacks in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas became effective.

The American Petroleum Institute placed production for the week ending December 3 at 5,105,950 barrels daily, compared to 5,665,250 a year earlier.

Another sharp drop was to be expected this week in that the December cutbacks were effective only three days last week.

City Employe's Local 825 Will Hold Meeting

A special meeting of City Employes Local 825, of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Labor temple, President J. T. Deal announced Saturday.

The members of the local, which claims jurisdiction over all city employes not affiliated with any other union, will hear a report by their committee who last week conferred with the mayor and city commissioners, Deal said.

Subjects dealing with the future welfare of the members of the union will be discussed, he said, and a full attendance is urged, including members and those eligible for membership.

The Labor temple is located at 116 1/2 South Grand street, over the Bell Telephone Company office.

N. J. C. TO BRING PERCY GRAINGER

Noted Pianist-Composer To Appear Thursday; Program Announced

December will be a busy month for the pianist-composer, Percy Grainger, whose appearance Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock in Brown Hall Auditorium is being sponsored by the Music Club of Northeast Junior College.

He has just recently completed a Canadian tour which brought enthusiastic response. A music critic of the Winnipeg Free Press declared: "Not since Paderewski last appeared here can the writer recall a more intensely exciting piano recital in Winnipeg."

Returning to the United States, the renowned musician has been scheduled for a series of concerts, including several in the south and west. He gave a performance on December 6 at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, then went to Jefferson City, Mo., for a recital on December 8. The following evening he was heard in concert at Nashville, Tenn.

Two appearances will be made in Corpus Christi, Texas on December 12 and 13, then a concert is scheduled the following night at Lafayette, La. When he appeared at Southwestern in that city two years ago Grainger drew one of the largest crowds the college has ever had, officials said.

When he is presented on the N. J. C. campus Thursday his program will comprise the following numbers, announced J. F. Monroe, head of the college music department:

Toccata and Fugue in D minor, for Organ—J. S. Bach. (German, 1685-1750).

Intermezzo, op. 117, No. 1—Brahms. (German, 1883-1897).

Rhapsody, G minor, op. 79, No. 2—Brahms.

Intermezzo, op. 119, No. 4—Brahms.

Rhapsody, E flat, op. 119, No. 4—Brahms.

Ballade, op. 24—Greig. (Norwegian, 1843-1907).

Pierrot Piece, No. 1 for Piano-Lento—Cyril Scott. (English, born 1879).

Islamey (Oriental Phantasy)—Mili Balakirev. (Russian, 1837-1910).

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

Miss. River Bed Wildcat Is Found To Be Dry Hole

The A. B. Learned No. 1, a wildcat exploration two miles east of Roosevelt, La., in 3-18-13E of East Carroll parish, was abandoned Tuesday. It was promoted by the Petersen Drilling Company, John Cerneglia, et al.

Meanwhile drillers of the unsuccessful Learned No. 1 set a new location east of the old site and last week were preparing to penetrate the earth in still another wildcat exploration.

Oilers elsewhere in northeast Louisiana brought in three oil producers, five gas yielders and abandoned four other old wells.

Top oil producer unearthed last week was the R. A. Cambell and Dan L. Reynolds Company's Harriess Interstate No. 1 in 18-7-10E of the Vidalia field in Concordia parish. Discovered at 6,732 feet, the new well was gauged at 136 barrels.

The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company, Inc.'s F-166 in 33-7-3E of the West Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish, was brought in with a yield of 105 barrels.

Only other oil producer for the week was identified as the L. O. Gandy, et al King Heirs No. 1 in 36-10-1E of the Tullos Urania field in LaSalle parish. It was gauged at 50 barrels.

All new gas yielders were brought in in the Monroe field of Union parish. They were listed as: the Louisiana Gas Producing Company's Rabun No. 13 in 20-20-3E, gauged at 386,000 cubic feet; the James A. Noe Company Edwards No. 1 in 18-21-3E, 2,760,000 cubic feet; the James A. Noe Company-Noe Thomas No. 1 in 29-22-3E, gauged at 2,363,000 cubic feet, and the James A. Noe Company's Noe-Thomas No. 2 in 29-22-3E, gauged at 386,000 cubic feet.

The Justiss Mears Oil Company's E. E. Allbritton Estate No. 1 in 27-10-1E of the Tullos field in Winn parish, was abandoned at 2,606 feet.

In a wildcat field in Concordia parish, the Danciger Oil and Refg. Co.-Pitts. Plt. No. 1 in 42-8-10E was abandoned at 6,913 feet.

The Pan American Producing Company and Tremont Lumber Company abandoned their No. 8 in 31-10-2E at 1,600 feet. It was located in the Tullos Urania field of LaSalle parish.

Only other well abandoned last week was the H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company, Inc.'s F-172 in 33-7-3E of the West Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish.

New Locations

LaSalle parish, wildcat field: Placid Oil Company-La. Central Lumber Company's 127 in 24-11-3E. Nebo Hemphill field: H. L. Hunt ompany-Nebo Oil Co., Inc. F-181 in 5-7-3E; Tullos Urania field: The Arkansas Fuel Oil Company-Tremont Lumber Company's A-21 and -38, both in 35-10-1E; the D. W. Kerr and W. M. Kay Company's Urania Lumber Company's No. 3 in 26-10-1E and the Sam Sklar Company-Louis Tullos No. 4 in 23-10-1E; West Catahoula Lake field: H. L. Hunt Company-Nebo Oil Co., Inc.'s F-180 in 35-7-3E.

Morehouse parish, Monroe field: Southern Carbon Company's Ten Delta No. B-23 in 29-23-4E.

Richland parish, Delhi field: R. J. Caraway, et al, Duckworth Estate No. 8 in 18-17-10E.

Union parish, Monroe field: Miss L. Feazel and Mrs. G. Anderson and the Monroe Drilling Company's Ward No. 1 in 18-21-3E and the James A. Noe Company's Noe-Meeks No. 1 in 32-22-3E.

MONROE-ST. LOUIS GAS LINE LINKED

Is Second Pipeline From Louisiana To Missouri; Cost $35,000,000

The $35,000,000 second pipeline of Mississippi River Fuel Corporation bringing natural gas from Louisiana to St. Louis, was completed last week, William G. Marbury, president of the company, revealed.

The line, already in partial use, stretches 435 miles from Monroe to St. Louis and is 24 inches in diameter. It was designed to make possible the conversion of the St. Louis gas supply to straight natural gas.

The last sections of the steel pipe were welded together just north of Fredericktown, Mo.

Because of improvements, the new line will be able to withstand a pressure of 700 pounds to the square inch. The original 22-inch pipe is designed for 425 pounds of pressure.

Each of the two lines is prepared to move 133,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily, a total of 266,000,000 cubic feet.

Mississippi River Fuel has pending before the Federal Power Commission an application to increase the second line's movement to 195,000,000 cubic feet, as a first step, bring the total of the two lines to 328,000,000 cubic feet for the present. This would be done at a cost of about $3,000,000.

Estimated cost of further additions to the pumping equipment to attain ultimate capacity of the second line is $8,000,000. How soon this enlargement will be called for depends on the market.

Wildcat In Oklahoma Attracts Operators

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A rank wildcat well in Coal county, 60 miles north of Texas, set off a flurry of lease speculation and attracted the interest of Oklahoma Oil operators last week.

It was Britton Oil Co.'s No. 1 Jim Polk—SE SE SW of 23-2N-10E near the county seat of Coalgate, which is said to have flowed 115 barrels of crude on initial test from a plug-back depth of 2,661 feet.

Completions and exploration were steady, the Tulsa World reports. There were 80 finals—a drop from last week's 92—including 49 producers and 31 dry holes. No initial gas production was reported. The average daily oil output was 4,359 barrels. Footage drilled totaled 270,315.

New locations were up slightly to 98 in 25 counties. Seminole county led with 10 starts.

A flock of Oklahoma county oilers was topped by Ashland Oil and Refining Co.'s No. 1 Ivery—NW SE NE of 4-12N-2—which flowed 820 barrels of oil in 34 hours natural from 6,311 feet in the Boise D'Arc sand.

The prolific Elk City field in Beckham county popped up with a 505-barrel-a-day producer in Shell Oil Co.'s No. 1 Eiel—NW SW of 23-10N-21W—flowing 50-gravity crude from

OIL INCREASES END WITH DROP

Daily Average Drops 103,850 Barrels From Previous Week's Production

TULSA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A ten-week upward trend in the nation's crude oil production ended last week when the daily average dropped 103,850 barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

The slump lowered the total daily average to 5,060,250 barrels.

Most of the decline was the result of a drop in Texas production, which fell 82,900 barrels to 2,086,525 barrels.

Other major losses were Oklahoma, down 9,750 barrels to 416,750; Illinios, off 9,600 to 172,000; Colorado, 3,650 to 62,750; the eastern area, 3,500 to 54,200; Mississippi, 1,250 to 96,000; Indiana, 1,200 to 27,900, and California, 1,200 to 866,700.

Arkansas dropped 250 to 73,650, Florida was off 75 to 900, Michigan fell 800 to 46,100, Montana declined 200 to 26,000, New Mexico was down 475 to 132,425, and Utah dropped 200 to 3,100.

Only four states showed gains—Kansas, up 4,050 barrels to 294,200; Louisiana, 3,850 to 533,850; Wyoming, 3,150 to 139,050, and Nebraska, 150 to 1,300.

Production was unchanged in Alabama, 1,350 barrels, and Kentucky, 24,900.

Canada's crude production averaged 59,095 barrels daily, a drop of 5,915 barrels from the previous week. Alberta Province reported 56,516 barrels of the week's production.

The daily averages included:

Oil Import Opponents Add Pressure To Legislators

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A squeeze play may be shaping up to bring a temporary end to domestic problems caused by foreign crude oil.

Opponents of foreign oil imports are adding pressure to congress in their campaign for limitation legislation.

The major importers might start slashing their foreign quotas should congress give any indication the campaign is producing results.

The squeeze centers around one known fact:

These major importers are pained just as much as an independent domestic operator whenever any form of federal control of the oil industry is mentioned.

There is indication the importers would make the first move should congress begin to show strong interest in the please of the imports opponents.

These opponents, primarily, want imports limited to 5 per cent of domestic production or have the foreign oil tax jumped from 10 1/2 cents to about $1 a barrel.

Their argument has been that imports no longer are supplementing domestic production, but, insteaad, are supplanting United States crude.

Preliminary estimates on 1949 domestic production and imports present sharp contrasts when compared with 1948 figures.

Domestic crude output this year is expected to run about 500,000 barrels daily less than last year. Imports are expected to average about 160,000 barrels daily higher.

Any cutting down on imports in hopes of halting congressional action would be a postponement of the problem. But that might be all that is needed.

A few months have been found to make a lot of difference in oil industry supply and demand.

The severe winter of 1947-48 caused many congressmen to believe the United States was running out of oil.

Importers began to hike their quotas, an action they termed necessary in order to prevent being caught short during another hard winter.

Domestic production was sent into high speed and reached an all-time high in 1948.

But the 1948-49 winter fooled everyone by being abnormally mild. The nation found itself up to its ear in oil—both domestic and foreign.

Oil producing states ordered sharp cuts in domestic allowables.

Several months ago the importers said their foreign oil quotas would be reduced gradually.

Independent oilmen are not convinced this promise to being carried out.

Russell B. Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, this week said independents have abandoned practically all hope that imports will level off.

He said importers plan to bring into the United States about 850,000 barrels daily next year, compared to the current 600,000 to 700,000.

The 850,000 figure, he said, would be equivalent to about 14 per cent of domestic production.

The head of one of the importing companies this week urged that imports be reduced.

Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, called for statesmanlike action in preventing further supplanting of domestic production by foreign oil.

He made his suggestions to the importers through a statement filed in Washington with the house small business subcommittee on oil.

Wilson also expressed opposition to congressional limitation of imports.

The house committee has been investigating the imports squabble and is expected to report to congress early next year.

Domestic crude production dropped another 85,900 barrels daily last week as new December cutbacks in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas became effective.

The American Petroleum Institute placed production for the week ending December 3 at 5,105,950 barrels daily, compared to 5,665,250 a year earlier.

Another sharp drop was to be expected this week in that the December cutbacks were effective only three days last week.

N. J. C. TO BRING PERCY GRAINGER

Noted Pianist-Composer To Appear Thursday; Program Announced

December will be a busy month for the pianist-composer, Percy Grainger, whose appearance Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock in Brown Hall Auditorium is being sponsored by the Music Club of Northeast Junior College.

He has just recently completed a Canadian tour which brought enthusiastic response. A music critic of the Winnipeg Free Press declared: "Not since Paderewski last appeared here can the writer recall a more intensely exciting piano recital in Winnipeg."

Returning to the United States, the renowned musician has been scheduled for a series of concerts, including several in the south and west. He gave a performance on December 6 at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, then went to Jefferson City, Mo., for a recital on December 8. The following evening he was heard in concert at Nashville, Tenn.

Two appearances will be made in Corpus Christi, Texas on December 12 and 13, then a concert is scheduled the following night at Lafayette, La. When he appeared at Southwestern in that city two years ago Grainger drew one of the largest crowds the college has ever had, officials said.

When he is presented on the N. J. C. campus Thursday his program will comprise the following numbers, announced J. F. Monroe, head of the college music department:

Toccata and Fugue in D minor, for Organ—J. S. Bach. (German, 1685-1750).

Intermezzo, op. 117, No. 1—Brahms. (German, 1883-1897).

Rhapsody, G minor, op. 79, No. 2—Brahms.

Intermezzo, op. 119, No. 4—Brahms.

Rhapsody, E flat, op. 119, No. 4—Brahms.

Ballade, op. 24—Greig. (Norwegian, 1843-1907).

Pierrot Piece, No. 1 for Piano-Lento—Cyril Scott. (English, born 1879).

Islamey (Oriental Phantasy)—Mili Balakirev. (Russian, 1837-1910).

union, will hear a report by their committee who last week conferred with the mayor and city commissioners, Deal said.

Subjects dealing with the future welfare of the members of the union will be discussed, he said, and a full attendance is urged, including members and those eligible for membership.

The Labor temple is located at 116 1/2 South Grand street, over the Bell Telephone Company office.

City Employe's Local 825 Will Hold Meeting

A special meeting of City Employes Local 825, of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Labor temple, President J. T. Deal announced Saturday.

The members of the local, which claims jurisdiction over all city employes not affiliated with any other

HOBBS AUXILIARY IN XMAS PARTY

Sponsor Holiday Event; Presents Produced For Vets Hospital

The Christmas party given by the Ladies' Auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Thursday night, December 8, at the V. F. W. clubroom was highly successful. The party was well attended by post and auxiliary members and friends who brought beautifully wrapped packages to be placed under the Christmas tree and later sent to the patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Alexandria.

Guests of honor on this occasion were Mrs. Billie Stiles, department hospital chairman, Mrs. Flora Wilson of the Johnson-Brown Auxiliary of Alexandria and Mrs. Vera E. Willensky, president of the thirteenth district, of West Monroe. True to his promise Santa Claus made his appearance and delighted the children with gifts from his pack. He also presented each grown-up with a gift. Mrs. Pauline K. Petty had planned interesting games which were enjoyed by all present.

At the conclusion of the games President Mary H. Brooks presented Mrs. Stiles who spoke of her activities as hospital chairman and explained her plans for the Christmas party at the Veterans Hospital which will be under her direction on December 22.

Commander Martin directed the singing of Christmas Carols which was enjoyed by all present.

The auxiliary members wish to express their grateful thanks to all who helped to make the party a success and those who brought gifts for the veterans at the hospital. They are especially grateful to the News-Star—World and radio station KNOE for publicity that enabled them to get their plans before the public.

AUSTRALIAN HEAD IS SERIOUS TYPE

Melbourne Lawyer Elected As Firm Believer Of Free Enterprise

SYDNEY, Sunday, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Robert Gordon Menzies, the 54-year-old Melbourne lawyer who will be Australia's next prime minister, is a fervent deliverer in the free enterprise system. He is probably Australia's sharpest debater in parliament and on the stump.

For the tall, thickset and greying politician this will be his second term as leader of the government. He was prime minister of Australia from 1939 to 1941—the youngest empire prime minister of that early war period.

Since he went out of office he has been almost continuously the leader of the opposition. For a time his closest Liberal friends despaired he ever would lead the party to victory. They said: "Bob Menzies is not clever enough to hide his own cleverineess." Another said Menzies had every good quality except as a vote-getter. Yesterday's election disproved these fears.

Menzies wants a world in which ambition is encouraged, in which there are rewards for the courageous and the enterprising; in which, as he puts it, "there is no foolish doctrine of equality between the active and the idle, intelligent and dull, frugal and improvement."

In a campaign speech in his home riding of Kooyong, he said:

"We must choose between the ancient British idea that the government is the servant of the people and the shabby, defeated continental idea that we are servants of the government."

You would think twice before jovially slapping this broad-shouldered man on the back. He commands respect, but does not invite familiarity.

His political advisors have long urged him to warm up and do more hand shaking and baby kissing. Menzies did warm up considerably in the last campaign.

He was a brilliant student as a youth. He started law practice in Melbourne at 34 and became Australia's youngest king's counsel, a British empire ranking for senior barristers.

He entered politics in 1926 and has been in the thick of practically every political fight since between free enterprise and labor forces.

He was attorney general in the federal government of Joseph A. Lyons from 1934 to 1939 and when Lyons died in 1939 Menzies assumed the premiership. He was forced to resign when he lost support of two independents who had kept him in power.

The people of Australia may never feel close to their forceful blue-eyed prime minister—but they will respect his brilliance.

Menzies is married and has two grownup sons and a daughter.

BRITISH CONSERVATIVES PROUD O AUSTRALIAN ELECTION

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—British conservatives rejoiced heartily tonight at the defeat of Australia's labor government.

Officials of Britain's labor government—from Prime Minister Clement Attlee down through the ranks—kept discreet silence.

Conservatives figured the joint victory of the liberals and the country party in Australia will give them a sort of psychological advantage in Britain's forthcoming general election. Britain's election date has not yet been set by Attlee. The voting must come by next July and can come any time before then that Attlee chooses.

"I rejoice in the wisdom of Australia," said Lord Woolton, chairman of the conservative party organization. He noted also that New Zealand recently overthrow a labor government.

"In both Australia and New Zealand, the young countries of the world, they have tried socialism aind found it out," said Lord Woolton. "They now know from experience that it just doesn't bring contentment and a higher standard of living."

Woolton forecast Britain "will come to the same conclusion * * *."

Attlee was spending the weekend at at Chequers, country home of British Prime Ministers outside London. No special arrangements were made for him to receive quick reports on the returns and no comment was issued from Chequers.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, the party's top political strategist, was adressing a London meeting of about 1,000 labor party delegates when he heard the news of labor's defeat in Australia. He declined comment.

The meeting was held in private and no statement was issued afterwards. It was assumed, however, that grassroots party leaders had been gathered to be given strategy assignments for the British election.

Labor party headquarters said "we are not issuing a statement" on the Australian election.

JUNIOR C. OF C. SEEKING LEADER

Group Desires To Find Most Outstanding Young Man In 2 Cities

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe is again seeking the most outstanding young man of the Twin City area. The man chosen will be awarded the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award, according to Herbert Land, chairman of the award committee. Recipient of this award when it was made for the first time in the Twin Cities last year was Fred Fudickar, who received the award primarily for his activities as district attorney.

The man chosen this year must be between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive, and will be judged on a basis of his contributions to the community and in accordance with progress which he has made in his own vocation. This contest is not limited to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, but is open to any young man within the age limit who lives in the Twin Cities or adjacent areas. The selection will be made by prominent business and professional leaders of the community, according to Land, all of whom will be over the contest age limit. Names of the judges will not be disclosed until after the contest has ended.

Candidates may be submitted by any individual or group. Judging will be based entirely upon the merits of the individual as submitted in the nomination and not upon the number of nominations received for a particular individual.

Although it is not imperative that official nomination blanks be used, Land said, these blanks are available at the Junior Chamber of Commerce office in the Virginia Hotel building and he urged that they be utilized in order to make the job of the judges less difficult. Nominations must include the name, address, phone number and employment of the nominee, plus a resume of his contributions to the community and in his field of employment. Deadline for entries has been set for January 5.

Roasting meats at a low temperature helps keep shrinkage down. A roast that is cooked slowly from the very beginning will provide extra servings, the meat will be more juicy and tender, and the food value will be higher.

SGT. SCRUGGS' BODY ARRIVES

Funeral Will Be Held Sunday At 3 P. M. In Mulhearn Funeral Home

The funeral of S/Sgt. H. R. Scruggs, whose body arrived Saturday from overseas where he gave his life in the war, will be held in the Mulhearn Funeral Home Sunday at 3 p. m. with Rev. Jaroy Weber officiating. Interment will be in Memorial Park Cemetery with full military honors.

Military rites will be furnished by the West Monroe members of the V. F. W. Hudson-Leehy post No. 3993.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scruggs, Sr.; three brothers, M/Sgt. James B. Scruggs, Fort Worth, Ed Scruggs and Bill Scruggs, West Monroe; a nephew, Glenn Scruggs, and two nieces, Becky and Diane Scruggs.

Pallbearers will be: R. C. Reading, T. N. Hudson, Aaron Moses, J. D. Moses, Jack Moses and B. D. Josey. Honorary pallbearers will be Jimmie Hastings, A. V. Frost, Harold Kennedy, Delva Bowlen and E. F. Hammett.

Sergeant Scruggs was killed August 14, 1943, in Germany. He was awarded the Purple Heart, the Air Medal and the Silver Star with the oak leaf cluster.

At the conclusion of the games President Mary H. Brooks presented Mrs. Stiles who spoke of her activities as hospital chairman and explained her plans for the Christmas party at the Veterans Hospital which will be under her direction on December 22.

Commander Martin directed the singing of Christmas Carols which was enjoyed by all present.

The auxiliary members wish to express their grateful thanks to all who helped to make the party a success and those who brought gifts for the veterans at the hospital. They are especially grateful to the News-Star—World and radio station KNOE for publicity that enabled them to get their plans before the public.

AUSTRALIAN HEAD IS SERIOUS TYPE

Melbourne Lawyer Elected As Firm Believer Of Free Enterprise

SYDNEY, Sunday, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Robert Gordon Menzies, the 54-year-old Melbourne lawyer who will be Australia's next prime minister, is a fervent deliverer in the free enterprise system. He is probably Australia's sharpest debater in parliament and on the stump.

For the tall, thickset and greying politician this will be his second term as leader of the government. He was prime minister of Australia from 1939 to 1941—the youngest empire prime minister of that early war period.

Since he went out of office he has been almost continuously the leader of the opposition. For a time his closest Liberal friends despaired he ever would lead the party to victory. They said: "Bob Menzies is not clever enough to hide his own cleverness." Another said Menzies had every good quality except as a vote-getter. Yesterday's election disproved these fears.

Menzies wants a world in which ambition is encouraged, in which there are rewards for the courageous and the enterprising; in which, as he puts it, "there is no foolish doctrine of equality between the active and the idle, intelligent and dull, frugal and improvement."

In a campaign speech in his home riding of Kooyong, he said:

"We must choose between the ancient British idea that the government is the servant of the people and the shabby, defeated continental idea that we are servants of the government."

You would think twice before jovially slapping this broad-shouldered man on the back. He commands respect, but does not invite familiarity.

His political advisors have long urged him to warm up and do more hand shaking and baby kissing. Menzies did warm up considerably in the last campaign.

He was a brilliant student as a youth. He started law practice in Melbourne at 34 and became Australia's youngest king's counsel, a British empire ranking for senior barristers.

He entered politics in 1926 and has been in the thick of practically every political fight since between free enterprise and labor forces.

He was attorney general in the federal government of Joseph A. Lyons from 1934 to 1939 and when Lyons died in 1939 Menzies assumed the premiership. He was forced to resign when he lost support of two independents who had kept him in power.

The people of Australia may never feel close to their forceful blue-eyed prime minister—but they will respect his brilliance.

Menzies is married and has two grownup sons and a daughter.

BRITISH CONSERVATIVES PROUD O AUSTRALIAN ELECTION

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—British conservatives rejoiced heartily tonight at the defeat of Australia's labor government.

Officials of Britain's labor government—from Prime Minister Clement Attlee down through the ranks—kept discreet silence.

Conservatives figured the joint victory of the liberals and the country party in Australia will give them a sort of psychological advantage in Britain's forthcoming general election. Britain's election date has not yet been set by Attlee. The voting must come by next July and can come any time before then that Attlee chooses.

"I rejoice in the wisdom of Australia," said Lord Woolton, chairman of the conservative party organization. He noted also that New Zealand recently overthrow a labor government.

"In both Australia and New Zealand, the young countries of the world, they have tried socialism aind found it out," said Lord Woolton. "They now know from experience that it just doesn't bring contentment and a higher standard of living."

Woolton forecast Britain "will come to the same conclusion * * *."

Attlee was spending the weekend at at Chequers, country home of British Prime Ministers outside London. No special arrangements were made for him to receive quick reports on the returns and no comment was issued from Chequers.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, the party's top political strategist, was adressing a London meeting of about 1,000 labor party delegates when he heard the news of labor's defeat in Australia. He declined comment.

The meeting was held in private and no statement was issued afterwards. It was assumed, however, that grassroots party leaders had been gathered to be given strategy assignments for the British election.

Labor party headquarters said "we are not issuing a statement" on the Australian election.

JUNIOR C. OF C. SEEKING LEADER

Group Desires To Find Most Outstanding Young Man In 2 Cities

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe is again seeking the most outstanding young man of the Twin City area. The man chosen will be awarded the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award, according to Herbert Land, chairman of the award committee. Recipient of this award when it was made for the first time in the Twin Cities last year was Fred Fudickar, who received the award primarily for his activities as district attorney.

The man chosen this year must be between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive, and will be judged on a basis of his contributions to the community and in accordance with progress which he has made in his own vocation. This contest is not limited to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, but is open to any young man within the age limit who lives in the Twin Cities or adjacent areas. The selection will be made by prominent business and professional leaders of the community, according to Land, all of whom will be over the contest age limit. Names of the judges will not be disclosed until after the contest has ended.

Candidates may be submitted by any individual or group. Judging will be based entirely upon the merits of the individual as submitted in the nomination and not upon the number of nominations received for a particular individual.

Although it is not imperative that official nomination blanks be used, Land said, these blanks are available at the Junior Chamber of Commerce office in the Virginia Hotel building and he urged that they be utilized in order to make the job of the judges less difficult. Nominations must include the name, address, phone number and employment of the nominee, plus a resume of his contributions to the community and in his field of employment. Deadline for entries has been set for January 5.

Roasting meats at a low temperature helps keep shrinkage down. A roast that is cooked slowly from the very beginning will provide extra servings, the meat will be more juicy and tender, and the food value will be higher.

SGT. SCRUGGS' BODY ARRIVES

Funeral Will Be Held Sunday At 3 P. M. In Mulhearn Funeral Home

The funeral of S/Sgt. H. R. Scruggs, whose body arrived Saturday from overseas where he gave his life in the war, will be held in the Mulhearn Funeral Home Sunday at 3 p. m. with Rev. Jaroy Weber officiating. Interment will be in Memorial Park Cemetery with full military honors.

Military rites will be furnished by the West Monroe members of the V. F. W. Hudson-Leehy post No. 3993.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scruggs, Sr.; three brothers, M/Sgt. James B. Scruggs, Fort Worth, Ed Scruggs and Bill Scruggs, West Monroe; a nephew, Glenn Scruggs, and two nieces, Becky and Diane Scruggs.

Pallbearers will be: R. C. Reading, T. N. Hudson, Aaron Moses, J. D. Moses, Jack Moses and B. D. Josey. Honorary pallbearers will be Jimmie Hastings, A. V. Frost, Harold Kennedy, Delva Bowlen and E. F. Hammett.

Sergeant Scruggs was killed August 14, 1943, in Germany. He was awarded the Purple Heart, the Air Medal and the Silver Star with the oak leaf cluster.

MRS. E. P. CUDD FETES MEMBERS OF THE REVIEW CLUB

Mrs. E. P. Cudd entertained members of the Review Club Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Loftin. Mrs. F. V. Barnett presided over the business session, featured by discussion of the Christmas activities of the club.

Mrs. W. T. Davis, American home chairman, made a brief talk on "Our Homes in December," describing the home atmosphere that would best exemplify the spirit of the celebration of Christmas. .

The subject for the afternoon's study, as explained by Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., program chairman, was "Cry Havoc" and consisted of the presentation of two forceful anti-war novels.

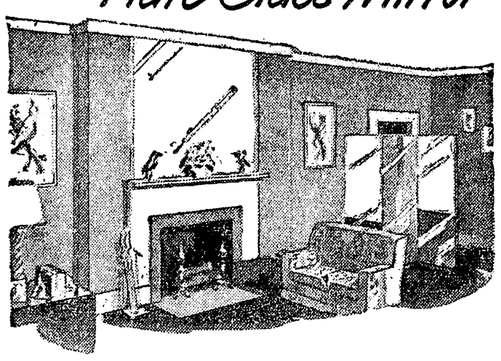

Irwin Shaw's "The Young Lions," reviewed by Mrs. Z. J. Byrd, is a history of the destruction and disintegration wrought by war. The devouring of young men by the sword of war is the theme of the story, framed so as to show the impact of the late conflict on the lives of three men, two of them American and one German.

Mrs. A. R. Holloway discussed "The Naked and the Dead," a moving account of the futility and terror of war. She declared that Norman Mailer, the author, has written passionately of the powerful effect of brute force on the men drawn into war, and the way the men as individuals, and as a group, react to these forces as the days crawl by.

A coffee hour followed the program. Mrs. Cudd was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Loftin. Those present, in addition to the hostesses, were the following members. Mesdames. W. L. Alexander, Nalda Averett, F. V. Barnett, Frank Breese, J. K. Brothers, Jr., Z. J. Byrd, W. T. Davis, A. T. Givens, C. P. Gray, Jr., DeWitt Henry, A. R. Holloway, W. L. Mitchell, Jr., J. P. Noel, Sam Smith, Lea Thompson, Corbin Turpin, and a guest, Mrs. Warren Breard.

MRS. E. P. CUDD FETES MEMBERS OF THE REVIEW CLUB

Mrs. E. P. Cudd entertained members of the Review Club Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Loftin. Mrs. F. V. Barnett presided over the business session, featured by discussion of the Christmas activities of the club.

Mrs. W. T. Davis, American home chairman, made a brief talk on "Our Homes in December," describing the home atmosphere that would best exemplify the spirit of the celebration of Christmas.

The subject for the afternoon's study, as explained by Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., program chairman, was "Cry Havoc" and consisted of the presentation of two forceful anti-war novels.

Irwin Shaw's "The Young Lions," reviewed by Mrs. Z. J. Byrd, is a history of the destruction and disintegration wrought by war. The devouring of young men by the sword of war is the theme of the story, framed so as to show the impact of the late conflict on the lives of three men, two of them American and one German.

Mrs. A. R. Holloway discussed "The Naked and the Dead," a moving account of the futility and terror of war. She declared that Norman Mailer, the author, has written passionately of the powerful effect of brute force on the men drawn into war, and the way the men as individuals, and as a group, react to these forces as the days crawl by.

A coffee hour followed the program. Mrs. Cudd was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Loftin. Those present, in addition to the hostesses, were the following members. Mesdames. W. L. Alexander, Nalda Averett, F. V. Barnett, Frank Breese, J. K. Brothers, Jr., Z. J. Byrd, W. T. Davis, A. T. Givens, C. P. Gray, Jr., DeWitt Henry, A. R. Holloway, W. L. Mitchell, Jr., J. P. Noel, Sam Smith, Lea Thompson, Corbin Turpin, and a guest, Mrs. Warren Breard.

MISS MARTHA ANN NELSON IS WED TO THOMAS D. SPILLER, III

In a candlelight ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wallace Nelson of this city, their daughter, Martha Ann, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Dupree Spiller, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Spiller, Jr., of Baton Rouge.

They exchanged nuptial vows in a double-ring service at six o'clock in the evening, with the Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbytcrian Church, officiating.

The couple stood before an improvised altar banked with white chrysanthemums. White candles gleamed from five-branched antique candelabra placed on either side of the mantel. In other parts of the reception suite chrysanthemums were artistically arranged and tapes burned from matching holders at vantage points.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. W. C. Hopkins rendered an instrumental solo, "Thine Alone," and she accompained Mr. Garland Shell, who sang "The Lord's Prayer." The pianist also played the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Joan Coppage of Baton Rouge was the bride's only attendant. She was was wearing a blue gray tailleur and small fur hat in matching shade, trimmed in pearls. Her corsage was of pink carnations that matched her blouse.

Serving as the bridegroom's best man was his father.

The bride wore a winter white suit with navy blouse and accessories of the same hue. She chose a turban of pearls, and carried a prayer book surmounted with an orchid and showered with white satin streamers.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents for members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece navy crepe and the bridegroom's mother chose a brown crepe for the occasion. Both had corsages of white carnations.

In the dining room the bride's table, covered with handsome Italian cutwork cloth, held the wedding cake surmounted by bride and groom figurines. Presiding at the table where ices and individual cakes were served was Mrs. H. W. McClary who was wearing a black crepe gown. She was assisted by Mrs. W. P. Yeager who wore a light blue tailleur. Both wore white carnation corsages.

The couple left for a motor trip through Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee. They plan to make their home in Alexandria, where Mr. Spiller is affiliated with a finance company.

Mrs. Spiller is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University. She also studied at the University of Havana, Cuba.

Mr. Spiller graduated from Gulf Park Military Academ and attended the University of Texas.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and and Mrs. C. C. Mattingly of Thibodaux, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Spiller, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Spiller, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gregg, all of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. J. H. Little of Houston, Tex.

CUT WEDDING CAKE

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Spiller, III, cut their wedding cake following their recent marriage. Mrs. Spiller is the former Miss Martha Ann Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson of this city. Mr. Spiller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Spiller, II, of Baton Rouge.

News From The Girl Scouts

From what we gather about troop activities at the moment, nearly all have begun work on their Christmas craft and to go into detail would make us very, very, unpopular because, you see, this is top secret with the girls. The results of their work will be Christmas gifts to their mothers or someone close so we are not about to give these secrets away. But do let us pass the word around that some amazingly clever and artistic gifts are in the making. Sorry we can't tell!

Troop 3, intermediate, Mrs. Harry Schroeder, leader, and Mrs. John Spatafora, assistant, met at St. Matthews School a few days ago. From there they motored to the Spatafora's camp for a hike in the woods. The girls caught insects for their insect traps and gathered specimen leaves for their nature work, while completing a five mile hike which merit scouts their foot traveler badge. The troop also visited Hide-Away Stables. Each troop member took her own lunch and all enjoyed this happy outing. The following are members of the troop: Marietta Spatafora, Barbara Schroeder, Rita Snyder, Sue Turner, Patricia Devereux, Frances Ann Brownlee, Mary Lea Scalia, Connie Ticheli, Carrie Medaries, Fay Lynn Guerriero, Mary Elaine Green, Laura Louise Bowles, Mary O'Delle Wood, Mary Elaine Greene, Mary Ann Embanato, Mary Louise Danna, Rose Mary Litsotta, Rosalind Eberts, and Angie Cappo.

Troop 20, Brownies, Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, leader, Mrs. C. D. Burkett, assisting, have been in the process of gathering many toys from home and neighbors, and recently delivered them all to Fire Station No. 4. Captain Welsh was a very cooperative host as he showed them around the station giving them information concerning the fire trucks and how they receive their calls. Mrs. James Langford, Mrs. W. F. Roberts, Mrs. W. A. Cooper and Mrs. W. E. Chitty accompanied the girls and their leaders.

Troop 39, Brownies, Mrs. J. S. Holmes, leader, Mrs. M. R. Howell, assistant, are being welcomed into our organization. This troop held it's investiture ceremony this week and there are some mighty proud second-graders wearing new uniforms and new pins. We're very proud of them, too! This is the tenth troop at Georgia Tucker to be sponsored by the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A.

Troop 18, Brownies, celebrated their birthday this month. This is a third year fourth grade troop at Georgia Tucker School. The leader of the troop is Mrs. Patricia Ryan; she is assisted by Mrs. W. R. Crow. The troop has five troop committee members—the chairman of which is Mrs. J. H. Scogin, Jr., assisted by Mrs. F. W. Dawson, Mrs. Prentice Gray, Jr., Mrs. A. M. Sharver, and Mrs. J. W. Harris.

The members of the troop are: Teri Sue Belton, Judy Bowan, Gayle Crow, Dorothy Dawson, Louise Gray, Margaret Lori Harris, Darla McCallister, Sally Jean Ryan, Gloria Lyn Sharver, Mary Lyn Scogin, and Jean Vestermark.

Lt. Jewel M. Kenny, a nurse in the army air corps, who has been stationed at Mountain Home, Idaho, has been transferred to Walker Field at Roswell, N. M.

MISS MARTHA ANN NELSON IS WED TO THOMAS D. SPILLER, III

In a candlelight ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wallace Nelson of this city, their daughter, Martha Ann, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Dupree Spiller, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Spiller, Jr., of Baton Rouge.

They exchanged nuptial vows in a double-ring service at six o'clock in the evening, with the Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating.

The couple stood before an improvised altar banked with white chrysanthemums. White candles gleamed from five-branched antique candelabra placed on either side of the mantel. In other parts of the reception suite chrysanthemums were artistically arranged and tapes burned from matching holders at vantage points.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. W. C. Hopkins rendered an instrumental solo, "Thine Alone," and she accompained Mr. Garland Shell, who sang "The Lord's Prayer." The pianist also played the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Joan Coppage of Baton Rouge was the bride's only attendant. She was was wearing a blue gray tailleur and small fur hat in matching shade, trimmed in pearls. Her corsage was of pink carnations that matched her blouse.

Serving as the bridegroom's best man was his father.

The bride wore a winter white suit with navy blouse and accessories of the same hue. She chose a turban of pearls, and carried a prayer book surmounted with an orchid and showered with white satin streamers.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents for members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece navy crepe and the bridegroom's mother chose a brown crepe for the occasion. Both had corsages of white carnations.

In the dining room the bride's table, covered with handsome Italian cutwork cloth, held the wedding cake surmounted by bride and groom figurines. Presiding at the table where ices and individual cakes were served was Mrs. H. W. McClary who was wearing a black crepe gown. She was assisted by Mrs. W. P. Yeager who wore a light blue tailleur. Both wore white carnation corsages.

The couple left for a motor trip through Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee. They plan to make their home in Alexandria, where Mr. Spiller is affiliated with a finance company.

Mrs. Spiller is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University. She also studied at the University of Havana, Cuba.

Mr. Spiller graduated from Gulf Park Military Academ and attended the University of Texas.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and and Mrs. C. C. Mattingly of Thibodaux, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Spiller, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Spiller, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gregg, all of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. J. H. Little of Houston, Tex.

CUT WEDDING CAKE

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Spiller, III, cut their wedding cake following their recent marriage. Mrs. Spiller is the former Miss Martha Ann Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson of this city. Mr. Spiller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Spiller, II, of Baton Rouge.

News From The Girl Scouts

From what we gather about troop activities at the moment, nearly all have begun work on their Christmas craft and to go into detail would make us very, very, unpopular because, you see, this is top secret with the girls. The results of their work will be Christmas gifts to their mothers or someone close so we are not about to give these secrets away. But do let us pass the word around that some amazingly clever and artistic gifts are in the making. Sorry we can't tell!

Troop 3, intermediate, Mrs. Harry Schroeder, leader, and Mrs. John Spatafora, assistant, met at St. Matthews School a few days ago. From there they motored to the Spatafora's camp for a hike in the woods. The girls caught insects for their insect traps and gathered specimen leaves for their nature work, while completing a five mile hike which merit scouts their foot traveler badge. The troop also visited Hide-Away Stables. Each troop member took her own lunch and all enjoyed this happy outing. The following are members of the troop: Marietta Spatafora, Barbara Schroeder, Rita Snyder, Sue Turner, Patricia Devereux, Frances Ann Brownlee, Mary Lea Scalia, Connie Ticheli, Carrie Medaries, Fay Lynn Guerriero, Mary Elaine Green, Laura Louise Bowles, Mary O'Delle Wood, Mary Elaine Greene, Mary Ann Embanato, Mary Louise Danna, Rose Mary Litsotta, Rosalind Eberts, and Angie Cappo.

Troop 20, Brownies, Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, leader, Mrs. C. D. Burkett, assisting, have been in the process of gathering many toys from home and neighbors, and recently delivered them all to Fire Station No. 4. Captain Welsh was a very cooperative host as he showed them around the station giving them information concerning the fire trucks and how they receive their calls. Mrs. James Langford, Mrs. W. F. Roberts, Mrs. W. A. Cooper and Mrs. W. E. Chitty accompanied the girls and their leaders.

Troop 39, Brownies, Mrs. J. S. Holmes, leader, Mrs. M. R. Howell, assistant, are being welcomed into our organization. This troop held it's investiture ceremony this week and there are some mighty proud second-graders wearing new uniforms and new pins. We're very proud of them, too! This is the tenth troop at Georgia Tucker to be sponsored by the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A.

Troop 18, Brownies, celebrated their birthday this month. This is a third year fourth grade troop at Georgia Tucker School. The leader of the troop is Mrs. Patricia Ryan; she is assisted by Mrs. W. R. Crow. The troop has five troop committee members—the chairman of which is Mrs. J. H. Scogin, Jr., assisted by Mrs. F. W. Dawson, Mrs. Prentice Gray, Jr., Mrs. A. M. Sharver, and Mrs. J. W. Harris.

The members of the troop are: Teri Sue Belton, Judy Bowan, Gayle Crow, Dorothy Dawson, Louise Gray, Margaret Lori Harris, Darla McCallister, Sally Jean Ryan, Gloria Lyn Sharver, Mary Lyn Scogin, and Jean Vestermark.

Lt. Jewel M. Kenny, a nurse in the army air corps, who has been stationed at Mountain Home, Idaho, has been transferred to Walker Field at Roswell, N. M.

GUSSIE JACOLA WEDS JOE VARINO IN RECENT CHURCH CEREMONY

Of interest in this section of the state was the recent marriage of Miss Gussie Catherine Jacola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jacola, Sr., and Marion John Varino, son of Mr. Joe Varino and the late Mrs. Varino.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marvin Bordelon at a nuptial mass at 8:30 a. m. at St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

The ceremony was performed against a background of multi-colored chrysanthemums and ferns interspersing the burning candles about the altar and filling the tall floor baskets on either side, were giant white chrysanthemums and ferns.

Mrs. Della Williamson was at the organ and rendered several pieces of nuptial music before the entrance of the bridal party, which was to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march.

During the ceremony, "Panis Angelicus" was rendered and Mendelssohn's march was played for the recessional. Leo Ticheli, cousin of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" during the ceremony.

Frank Jacola, brother of the bride and student of Maryhill Seminary, served as acolyte with Hugh Biggar and John Spatafora, Jr., also students of Maryhill Seminary at Maryhill in Alexandria, La.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory slipper satin fashioned with a tight bodice and high neckline. Embroidered seed pearls trimmed the neckline and crossed the front of the bodice and encircled the waistline. The tight bodice was fashioned with self covered buttons in the back extending to the waistline. The long sleeves ended in a point over her hands. Satin ruffles and hoop skirt were beneath the full pick-up skirt which ended in a long train. Her fingertip veil was of imported ivory illusion and fell from a tiara of seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white carnations, tube roses, white maline and tied with white satin ribbons from which extended satin streamers tied with tube roses. The bouquet was centered with a purple orchid.

Mrs. A. L. Embanato, aunt of the bride, as matron was growned in a lovely ice blue satin model with round off-the-shoulder effect. The shoulder was trimmed with appliqued lace madalia. Satin ruffles and hoop skirt were beneath the full pick-up skirt.

She carried a bouquet of rose pink carnations, candy tuft and blue maline tied with blue satin ribbons.

Miss Sue Spatafora was maid-of-honor and the Misses Kitty Jacola, Christine Jacola and Mrs. Leonard Battistone were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of ice blue satin duplicating that of the matron's and also carried bouquets of rose pink carnations tied with blue satin ribbons. A halo formed of split rose carnations was worn by each attendant.

Dr. George Varino served his brother as best man. The groomsmen were Messers. Leonard Battistone, Snooky Cerniglia, Frank Ticheli and Tony Ambanato.

Kathy Ann Jacola, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a frock similar to those worn by the attendents. She carried an identical bouquet. Master Varino, Jr., served as ring-bearer.

Mrs. Jacola wore for her daughter's wedding a lovely wine colored crepe frock with bodice trimmed with sequins and a corsage of Vanda orchids.

The Misses Christine Romano, Mary Lou Fury, Rosemary Marzula and Mrs. V. C. Spatafora, wearing attractive models and identical corsages of white chrysanthemums, assisted at the reception which was held immediately following the ceremony and nuptial mass, at the Crystal Room of the Virginia Hotel.

The bride's table was overlaid with a lovely white crocheted tablecloth and held a four-tier wedding cake. A miniature bride and groom beneath an arch topped the cake. White satin streamers extended from the center of the table and ended in clusters of pompoms at each end of the table. Tall tapers in silver candlestick holders were on each side of the wedding cake.

The bride is a graduate of St. Matthew's High School and of Monroe Commercial School and a member of the St. Matthew's Parish Sodality.

The groom was also graduated from St. Matthew's High School and attended Northeast Junior College following military service.

For their wedding trip to points of interest in Florida, the bride wore a gray swansdown tailored suit with brown accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Out-of-town guests included: Messrs. Frank Jacola, Hugh Biggar and John Spatafora, Jr., students of Maryhill Seminary at Maryhill in Alexandria, La.; Mr. and Mrs. William Garrett of Lafayette, La.; Major and Mrs. A. J. Marsala of Jackson, Miss.; Mother M. Elizabeth and Sister Joseph Marie, Daughters of the Cross, from Shreveport, La.; and Miss Sue Spatafora of New Orleans, La.

NEWCOMERS CLUB HAS A COLORFUL XMAS LUNCHEON

The Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club members met for a Christmas luncheon at a local restaurant on Wednesday.

Carrying out the Christmas theme the tables were decorated with small Christmas trees covered with gay ornaments, and candelabra of silver held tall red tapers, surrounded by small holly wreaths.

Mrs. Stanley Mintz was chosen as president during an election of officers, while other new officers will include: Mrs. J. S. Worley, vice-president; Mrs. Gaston Eikel, secretary; Mrs. Roy Kelly, treasurer; Mrs. Neill Fuquay, historian, and Mrs. Floyd Ferrell, membership chairman.

Attending the luncheon were: Mrs. J. D. Kelly, Mrs. Thomas Youngblood, Mrs. M. R. Perkins, Mrs. Vernon Grundmann, Mrs. W. E. Reed, Mrs. Richard Guilzow, Mrs. Charles Price, Mrs. J. S. Xmas Decorations Hold Attention Of College Heights Club

Christmas decorations created by two club members held the interest of the College Heights Garden Club on Thursday when it met for the December program in the home of Mrs. H. F. Shepard at 100 McGuire. Mrs. Culbert Lee served as co-hostess for the occasion.

Mantel decorations, wreaths, table centerpieces and door ornaments were discussed and displayed. Of greatest interest was a hanging mistletoe container consisting of a small cage shaped from poultry netting, then painted a shade of "shocking pink." Inside the cage hung a silver ball and on the underside of the cage bits of mistletoe were tied with pink ribbon.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was Mrs. George Pearce's report on the club project, Sherrouse Park. She announced that the planning committee has decided on the kinds of trees to be planted and landscaping is under way. The focal point of the park will be a center circle which has been planted in day lilies. Plans also include a walk leading to the circular bed, while four magnolia trees will be placed about the outside circle.

During the business session it was announced that the club's entry in the table-setting competition Dec 3, was awarded second place by popular vote. The entry consisted of a bride's refreshment table complete with linen, silver, flowers, a miniature archway, bridal path strewn with tiny rose petals, and a bridal party dressed in proper attire. Due recognition was given Mrs. W. E. Knapp and Mrs. John O. Brown for this artistic table-setting.

BRIDE OF SEASON

Mrs. Howard Houston Hawkins is the former Miss Mabel Lee Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Claude Shepard of this city.

MABEL LEE SHEPARD WEDS MAN FROM EL DORADO AT METHODIST CHURCH

The wedding of Miss Mabel Lee Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Claude Shepard, and Mr. Howard Houston Hawkins, of El Dorado, Ark., took place at an impressive ceremony on Tuesday, December 6 at the First Methodist Church with the Rev. A. M. Serex, pastor, officiating.

The church was impressively decorated with large white chrysanthemums, and smilax, while tall tapers burned in wrought iron candelabra to provide a background for the ceremony.

Mrs. Everett Zeagler, organist, accompanied Mr. E. M. Wooten, who sang, "Because and Always," prior to the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a classic wedding dress fashioned along princess lines with a veil of illusion. She wore a an heirloom diamond lavalliere.

The bride's sister, Mrs. F. D. Bachman, Jr., served as matron of honor and wore a canary yellow taffeta frock with gathered skirt and a double bertha neckline. Her bouquet was of bronze pom pom chrysanthemums, and she wore a halo of the same flowers.

Mrs. Hortense Haynes, a cousin of the bride, was the only bridesmaid. She wore a Nile green taffeta frock, made similarly to that of the maid of honor, and she carried a bouquet of the same flowers. Miss Joyce Ann Hawkins, daughter of the bridegroom, served as junior bridesmaid, in a light yellow taffeta frock. All attendants wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

Mr. F. D. Bachman, Jr. was best man and ushers were Mr. Herbert Rinehart and Mr. Harold D. Black.

Serving as candelighters were Howard Hawkins, Jr., son of the bridegroom and Sharron Haynes, cousin of the bride.

For traveling the bride wore a brown garbardine suit with a white blouse, and brown accessories.

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Harker, of West Monroe, followed the ceremony.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gruppell, Mrs. H. L. Frizzell, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Adams, Miss Ellis Jean Jolley, Johnny Davis, Miss Gladys Morgan, all of El Dorado, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Robinson, Mrs. R. M. Richmond, Mrs. Nell Ingram, the Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thomas, Mrs. Inez Higginbotham, of Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Julian, Mrs. E. R. Gaddy, of Dallas, Tex.; and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin McCown, of Longview, Tex.

Xmas Decorations Hold Attention Of College Heights Club

Christmas decorations created by two club members held the interest of the College Heights Garden Club on Thursday when it met for the December program in the home of Mrs. H. F. Shepard at 100 McGuire. Mrs. Culbert Lee served as co-hostess for the occasion.

Mantel decorations, wreaths, table centerpieces and door ornaments were discussed and displayed. Of greatest interest was a hanging mistletoe container consisting of a small cage shaped from poultry netting, then painted a shade of "shocking pink." Inside the cage hung a silver ball and on the underside of the cage bits of mistletoe were tied with pink ribbon.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was Mrs. George Pearce's report on the club project, Sherrouse Park. She announced that the planning committee has decided on the kinds of trees to be planted and landscaping is under way. The focal point of the park will be a center circle which has been planted in day lilies. Plans also include a walk leading to the circular bed, while four magnolia trees will be placed about the outside circle.

During the business session it was announced that the club's entry in the table-setting competition Dec 3, was awarded second place by popular vote. The entry consisted of a bride's refreshment table complete with linen, silver, flowers, a miniature archway, bridal path strewn with tiny rose petals, and a bridal party dressed in proper attire. Due recognition was given Mrs. W. E. Knapp and Mrs. John O. Brown for this artistic table-setting.

Present at the meeting were Mesdames John O. Brown, Faheam Cannon, R. E. Foster, Jr., J. M. Gilstrap, Culbert Lee, Raymond John, Vann Pratt, G. W. Levert, John Loftin, E. L. Mitchell, Jr., George Pearce, Jr., C. R. Peterson, H. P. Primm, E. C. Rowan, R. F. Seiler, H. F. Shepard, D. R. Smith, W. W. Stevens, J. H. Walker, W. E. Knapp and Sidney Williams.

BRIDE OF SEASON

Mrs. Howard Houston Hawkins is the former Miss Mabel Lee Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Claude Shepard of this city.

MABEL LEE SHEPARD WEDS MAN FROM EL DORADO AT METHODIST CHURCH

The wedding of Miss Mabel Lee Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Claude Shepard, and Mr. Howard Houston Hawkins, of El Dorado, Ark., took place at an impressive ceremony on Tuesday, December 6 at the First Methodist Church with the Rev. A. M. Serex, pastor, officiating.

The church was impressively decorated with large white chrysanthemums, and smilax, while tall tapers burned in wrought iron candelabra to provide a background for the ceremony.

Mrs. Everett Zeagler, organist, accompanied Mr. E. M. Wooten, who sang, "Because and Always," prior to the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a classic wedding dress fashioned along princess lines with a veil of illusion. She wore a an heirloom diamond lavalliere.

Jackson Parish Girl Awarded Free Trip To National Meeting

Miss Marlene Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elder Bond, of Jonesboro, left recently for Chicago, Ill., where she attended the twenty-eighth annual National 4-H Club Congress. The Kellogg Company award her this trip, with all expenses paid, for winning the Louisiana 4-H Health Improvement Contest.

Marlene is a senior in the Jonesboro-Hodge High School of Jonesboro and will celebrate her seventeenth birthday anniversary June 9. She has been very active in 4-H Club work for the past five years. During this time she has participated in many activities toward providing better health to her family, friends and immediate community.

During the chest X-ray drive, Marlene sent letters to every club member asking him to have an X-ray made. To this request she was given full cooperation. She has also collected to the March of Dimes, Red Cross, Christmas and Easter Sales. She has assisted at the Health Unit. One day she weighed twelve babies, filled out immunization cards and called the next ones for shots. Marlene gives much credit to Mrs. Virgie Harlow, the health nurse of Jackson parish in Jonesboro for the much help in her health work.

At the courthouse in Jonesboro, a bulletin board carries health material posted by her on "Cleanliness, Foods and Cancer." This material was obtained from the Health Unit and the American Cancer Society. Having read all available material on cancer, Marlene has become acquainted with this type of work. She assisted other 4-H members during the parish fair in distributing cancer literature. She has, through cooperation of Mrs. C. L. Cothran, head of the local Cancer Society, been able to order a film on cancer and will show it to the high school students in the near future.

With the permission of Mr. W. C. Rundell and Mr. John Haile, principals of the Hodge and Jonesboro Elementary Schools, respectively, to give talks to their school children on health habits. Marlene contacted Mr. W. G. Bailey, principal of the Jonesboro-Hodge High School, and Mr. L. V. DeCou, supervisor of the Jackson parish schools, about health films, and Miss Hazel Shively ordered the films that included: "Care of the Teeth," "Carrying the Injured," "Home Nursing and Posture." A program was written and presented to the local FHA of Jonesboro at an assembly, "The Teen-Ager and Her Health Problems." In this program Marlene stressed the importance of the diet and safety. Being health project leader in her club, she has asked everyone else to use good habits and keep a health record. Health films have been shown along this line.

She has made ten talks on 4-H Club work, written thirty news articles on 4-H, attended short course at Baton Rouge two years, attended Camp Grant Walker at Pollock one year, attended leadership camp at Pollock one year, served as president of Jonesboro-Hodge FHA this year, attended the Southern Region FHA meeting in Memphis in June, 1949, served as historian of Jonesboro-Hodge High School FHA in 1948, attended first national FHA meeting in Kansas City, Mo., in July of 1948; attended parish district and state FHA meetings. Spoke at parish and district FHA meetings, first place in biology at North Louisiana Rally in April, 1949, fourth place in home economics, II, in North Louisiana Rally, April, 1949, third place in English, I, at North Louisiana Rally April, 1948.

She is the member of the Spanish Club and served as class officer three years, has seven years of private music lessons.

Marline does baby-sitting in spare time.

When asked what her plans were after she finishes high school her quick reply was to enter Louisiana Tech and take a pre-med course, then she plans to attend L. S. U. Medical School and probably specialize in pediastrics.

Marlene, a friendly girl, is 5 feet and 6 1/2 inches tall, weights 122 pounds. Her eyes are blue and her red hair has a natural wave.

She was escorted to Ruston where she boarded the train to Jackson, Miss., by Mrs. Ines K. Bowman, acting home demonstration agent for Jackson parish. She spent Friday night at the Edwards Hotel, both to and from Chicago.

Sunday afternoon Marlene attended a get acquainted tea given in honor of the health improvement contest by the Kellogg Company Tuesday morning she attended the annual recognition breakfast for health improvement winners. Both events were held in the Havana Room of the Blackstone Hotel.

Entertainment at the meal events was a highlight for everyone as James Melton, Fred Warning and his Pennsylvanians and a galaxy of sports stars were on hand to entertain.

Tours around points of interest in Chicago including International Livestock Exposition where boys and girls were guests for the horse show in a colorful parade.

About 1,500 4-H boys and girls and leaders from 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico will headquarter in the Stevens Hotel in Chicago. Thirty-five international representatives from 15 countries were guests.

HODGE

Mrs. L. M. Bryan and daughter, Mrs. Thelma McConathy, and son, George, were guests Thanksgiving Day of Mrs. Bryan's brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Algood of Summerfield.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Cora Vail of Quitman Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith and daughter, Sandra, of Shreveport, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alexander of Mansfield, and their young daughter, Francis Kay.

Friends of Mr. Travis Hinton of Quitman are happy that his condition has sufficiently improved to allow him to return to his home. Mr. Hinton just recently underwent a major operation at a local sanitarium in Monroe. Due to complications his condition has been termed as critical for several weeks.

Making business visits to Ruston Monday were Mrs. Arlo Head of Quitman, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Jimerson of Quitman, Mrs. J. Boone of Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bond and baby, of Jonesboro, and Mrs. Katie Lou Dyce.

Dr. L. M. Bryan, Mrs. Frank Melinski, Mrs. Thelma McConathy and son, George, were business visitors in Tullos Saturday. While in Tullos they were the guests of relatives and friends there.

Mr. B. F. Jimerson and son, John, of Arcadia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Drew Jim Jimerson of Quitman Sunday night.

Mrs. Lee Wilkerson of Pumpkin Center and son, Sonnie, visited Mrs. Wilkerson's daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Simmons in Monroe several days of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker of Homer were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Quick.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Allgood, and Vernon Gibson of Palasios, Tex. spent Saturday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bryan and family of Quitman.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin G. Koonce are happy that the condition of their son's eye is much improved. Gale was rushed to the Baptist Hospital in Alexandria after having been accidentally hit in the eye with a stray shot from an air rifle. Just to what extent the injury is cannot yet be determined but latest reports that he is slowly improving and it is thought that maybe the sight will not be affected.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Black and daughter, Barbara Kay, and James Jimerson of Natchez, Miss., were guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Jimerson this week-end. They also visited little Jerry Cathey, nephew of Mr. Black, who is critically ill in the Schrumpet Sanitarium in Shreveport following a major brain operation. Jerry has been ill two weeks now and his condition is still termed critical. He is the young son, age 10, of Mr. and Mrs. Emmit Cathy of Castor.

KLEBAN-ROSENBERG

Mrs. Ida Adler Rosenberg announces the engagement of her daughter, Marilyn, to Mr. Jack Edwin Kleban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spring Kleban of Shreveport.

Miss Rosenberg is a graduate of Neville High School and of Louisiana State University. She is a past worthy advisor of the Order of Rainbow for Girls. She is a member of Sigma Delta Tau social sorority, Lamba intersorority and past president of the Purple Jackets. Miss Rosenberg also was a beauty in the L. S. U. yearbook, the Gumbo. For the past year and a half she has been a member of the faculty of Neville High School, where she heads the speech department and also serves as sponsor for the Tigerettes.

Mr. Kleban is a graduate of Byrd High School in Shreveport. Prior to his graduation from high school he played football for Byrd, where he was chosen as a candidate for all state in 1943. He also attended Tulane University. During the war, Mr. Kleban served with the United States Marine Corps, where he saw duty on the U. S. S. North Carolina in the Pacific and the U. S. S. Little Rock in Europe. At the present time Mr. Kleban is a senior at Louisiana State University, where he is majoring in petroleum engineering. He is president of Zeta Beta Tau social fraternity, a member of Samurai interfraternity, and Geological and Mining Society.

DeCou, supervisor of the Jackson parish schools, about health films, and Miss Hazel Shively ordered the films that included: "Care of the Teeth," "Carrying the Injured," "Home Nursing and Posture." A program was written and presented to the local FHA of Jonesboro at an assembly, "The Teen-Ager and Her Health Problems." In this program Marlene stressed the importance of the diet and safety. Being health project leader in her club, she has asked everyone else to use good habits and keep a health record. Health films have been shown along this line.

She has made ten talks on 4-H Club work, written thirty news articles on 4-H, attended short course at Baton Rouge two years, attended Camp Grant Walker at Pollock one year, attended leadership camp at Pollock one year, served as president of Jonesboro-Hodge FHA this year, attended the Southern Region FHA meeting in Memphis in June, 1949, served as historian of Jonesboro-Hodge High School FHA in 1948, attended first national FHA meeting in Kansas City, Mo., in July of 1948; attended parish district and state FHA meetings. Spoke at parish and district FHA meetings, first place in biology at North Louisiana Rally in April, 1949, fourth place in home economics, II, in North Louisiana Rally, April, 1949, third place in English, I, at North Louisiana Rally April, 1948.

She is the member of the Spanish Club and served as class officer three years, has seven years of private music lessons.

Marline does baby-sitting in spare time.

When asked what her plans were after she finishes high school her quick reply was to enter Louisiana Tech and take a pre-med course, then she plans to attend L. S. U. Medical School and probably specialize in pediastrics.

Marlene, a friendly girl, is 5 feet and 6 1/2 inches tall, weights 122 pounds. Her eyes are blue and her red hair has a natural wave.

She was escorted to Ruston where she boarded the train to Jackson, Miss., by Mrs. Ines K. Bowman, acting home demonstration agent for Jackson parish. She spent Friday night at the Edwards Hotel, both to and from Chicago.

Sunday afternoon Marlene attended a get acquainted tea given in honor of the health improvement contest by the Kellogg Company Tuesday morning she attended the annual recognition breakfast for health improvement winners. Both events were held in the Havana Room of the Blackstone Hotel.

Entertainment at the meal events was a highlight for everyone as James Melton, Fred Warning and his Pennsylvanians and a galaxy of sports stars were on hand to entertain.

Tours around points of interest in Chicago including International Livestock Exposition where boys and girls were guests for the horse show in a colorful parade.

About 1,500 4-H boys and girls and leaders from 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico will headquarter in the Stevens Hotel in Chicago. Thirty-five international representatives from 15 countries were guests.

HODGE

Mrs. L. M. Bryan and daughter, Mrs. Thelma McConathy, and son, George, were guests Thanksgiving Day of Mrs. Bryan's brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Algood of Summerfield.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Cora Vail of Quitman Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith and daughter, Sandra, of Shreveport, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alexander of Mansfield, and their young daughter, Francis Kay.

Friends of Mr. Travis Hinton of Quitman are happy that his condition has sufficiently improved to allow him to return to his home. Mr. Hinton just recently underwent a major operation at a local sanitarium in Monroe. Due to complications his condition has been termed as critical for several weeks.

Making business visits to Ruston Monday were Mrs. Arlo Head of Quitman, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Jimerson of Quitman, Mrs. J. Boone of Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bond and baby, of Jonesboro, and Mrs. Katie Lou Dyce.

Dr. L. M. Bryan, Mrs. Frank Melinski, Mrs. Thelma McConathy and son, George, were business visitors in Tullos Saturday. While in Tullos they were the guests of relatives and friends there.

Mr. B. F. Jimerson and son, John, of Arcadia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Drew Jim Jimerson of Quitman Sunday night.

Mrs. Lee Wilkerson of Pumpkin Center and son, Sonnie, visited Mrs. Wilkerson's daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Simmons in Monroe several days of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker of Homer were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Quick.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Allgood, and Vernon Gibson of Palasios, Tex. spent Saturday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bryan and family of Quitman.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin G. Koonce are happy that the condition of their son's eye is much improved. Gale was rushed to the Baptist Hospital in Alexandria after having been accidentally hit in the eye with a stray shot from an air rifle. Just to what extent the injury is cannot yet be determined but latest reports that he is slowly improving and it is thought that maybe the sight will not be affected.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Black and daughter, Barbara Kay, and James Jimerson of Natchez, Miss., were guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Jimerson this week-end. They also visited little Jerry Cathey, nephew of Mr. Black, who is critically ill in the Schrumpet Sanitarium in Shreveport following a major brain operation. Jerry has been ill two weeks now and his condition is still termed critical. He is the young son, age 10, of Mr. and Mrs. Emmit Cathy of Castor.

KLEBAN-ROSENBERG

Mrs. Ida Adler Rosenberg announces the engagement of her daughter, Marilyn, to Mr. Jack Edwin Kleban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spring Kleban of Shreveport.

Miss Rosenberg is a graduate of Neville High School and of Louisiana State University. She is a past worthy advisor of the Order of Rainbow for Girls. She is a member of Sigma Delta Tau social sorority, Lamba intersorority and past president of the Purple Jackets. Miss Rosenberg also was a beauty in the L. S. U. yearbook, the Gumbo. For the past year and a half she has been a member of the faculty of Neville High School, where she heads the speech department and also serves as sponsor for the Tigerettes.

Mr. Kleban is a graduate of Byrd High School in Shreveport. Prior to his graduation from high school he played football for Byrd, where he was chosen as a candidate for all state in 1943. He also attended Tulane University. During the war, Mr. Kleban served with the United States Marine Corps, where he saw duty on the U. S. S. North Carolina in the Pacific and the U. S. S. Little Rock in Europe. At the present time Mr. Kleban is a senior at Louisiana State University, where he is majoring in petroleum engineering. He is president of Zeta Beta Tau social fraternity, a member of Samurai interfraternity, and Geological and Mining Society.

Has trouble come into your home?

If things are somehow taking a turn for the worse . . . if worry and unhappiness have replaced the peace of mind you used to know . . . think of this: Maybe what makes it seem so hard to handle is not the trouble itself, but the way you face up to it!

For whittling a worry down to size calls for a certain kind of strength, a certain point of view. The kind you get from church.

Nothing can take the place of church in your life—in anyone's life.

By turning to religion, by reaffirming their faith, new thousands every day are gathering new strength, new hope, new courage.

Families, finding themselves through faith, are being brought closer . . . becoming real families, strong against the world, happier, more tolerant among themselves.

Young folk, finding themselves through faith, are learning the true values that make them want to spurn the false.

Men and women of the workaday world are gaining a new sense of "the balance of things" . . . the inner security that brings success to work as well as to life . . . by finding themselves through faith.

Can you honestly say that things have been better for you, going it alone? Or wouldn't you rather join these neighbors . . . and find a happier, more successful life—through faith!

Mary Margaret McBride: "I want to make a plea for neglected children. I mean the boys and girls growing up without religious teaching, without knowing that happiness and goodness are related. They will thank you always for taking them to church now."

Find yourself through faith—come to church this week

J. H. Doolittle: "Religion, to me, is recognition of the existence of God and the conduct of life in accordance with His precepts. It requires adherence to the Golden Rule and eschews the law of expediency ("that the end justifies the means"). It is exemplified in the worship of God, in kindness, unselfishness, honesty, decency, morality and purity."

Warren R. Austin

"I believe in the near presence of God and that if human beings try hard enough He will always lend a hand."

LIBRARY CONTINUES TO HAVE CALLS FOR ITS CEILING PROJECTOR

One of the services which the Ouachita parish public library offers to the people of this parish is the loan of ceiling projectors to people who are ill and are unable to use an ordinary book. The parish library received its first projector in January of this year. It was a gift from the North Monroe Lions Club. Since that time four other projectors have been given to the library. Mr. William Norris gave one projector in memory of his wife. The Monroe Lions Club gave one projector and the West Monroe Lions Club gave two projectors. With five projectors the Ouachita parish public library has more machines than any library in the state. The projector works on the same principle as a moving picture projector, except that the picture of the book is flashed on the ceiling. The books have been photographed on microfilm to use with this projector. The library has 192 such books. There are books dealing with a variety of subjects and books to appeal to every type reader.

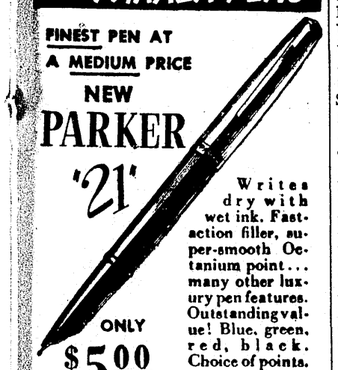

Since the service was inaugurated 22 people have used the ceiling projectors and 280 books have been borrowed. The largest number of books read by one patron was 54. Michael Dean, who was seriously injured in an automobile wreck early in the summer read these 54 books.

There are still many people in Ouachita parish who do not know to ask for one of the ceiling projectors for their sick or injured relatives. At the present time all of the projectors are in use, but if you know a person who needs one, be sure to call the library and ask about a projector, one may have been returned by that time. Using the projectors at the present time are: Neal Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds of 1007 Trenton street, West Monroe; Miss Lena Strong of 106 Filer street, Monroe; Nila Bloomer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bloomer, Jr., who live at 2904 Gordon avenue; Bobbie Sullivan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sullivan, who live in Ward 7 and Kenny Wagoner, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wagoner of Ward 9. All of these users report that they are getting a great deal of pleasure from the use of the ceiling projector. If you or any of your family are not able to use an ordinary book, please call the Ouachita parish public library and ask about a ceiling projector.

MEDICAL AUXILIARY HAS A LUNCHEON ON THURSDAY AT HOTEL

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Auxiliary held their annual Christmas luncheon on the roof of a local hotel on Thursday, Dec. 8, with Mrs. R. M. Simonton presiding.

The Yuletide spirit pervaded the atmosphere as each person present saw the beautifully decorated luncheon table. In the center were two miniature sleighs, drawn by tiny reindeer and driven by Santa. Between the two sleighs were large sticks of artificial peppermint candy. White candelabra with tapering red candles, sprigs of holly and red berries also carried out the Christmas theme.

The Ouachita Parish High School ensemble sang Christmas songs during the luncheon. Immediately following the business meeting, Mrs. C. U. Johnson presented a review of "The Doctor Wears Three Faces" by Mary Bard.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. William Bendel, Mrs. Charles Wilds and Mrs. James Kelly. Mrs. Carroll Summer had charge of the program and Mrs. D. I. Hersh was responsible for the decorations.

Members present were: Mrs. Clifton Flinn, Mrs. Felix Willey, Jr., Mrs. Henry Guerriero, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. Prentice Gray, Jr., Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, Mrs. James Schonlau, Mrs. C. M. Lobrano, Mrs. Harrell Webster, Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. P. L. Perot, and Mrs. E. G. Calvert.

Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Mrs. Carroll Summer, Mrs. C. L. Anderson, Mrs. Morgan Simonton, Mrs. A. Scott Hamilton, and Mrs. B. J. Lacour.

Mrs. Ralph Talbot, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. F. E. Polen, Mrs. James D. Kelly, Mrs. R. T. Armstrong, Mrs. Geo. Varino, Mrs. W. L. Bendel, Mrs. W. C. Cookston, Jr., Mrs. Frank P. Rizzo, Mrs. Fahean Cannon, Mrs. Jack Rawls and Mrs. J. A. Michaud of Bastrop.

Guests present were Mrs. Corbin Turpin and Mrs. Guy Williams and Mrs. Bernard Soto of Mer Rouge.

NOLAN-EZELL

Of interest is the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Betty Ezell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Ezell, formerly of Pine Bluff and Memphis and now of Monroe.

Miss Ezell was graduated from Southwestern in 1945, did graduate work at Duke University and is now YWCA director of student activities at the University of Oklahoma.

The bridegroom-elect is Mr. William Nolan, son of Mrs. Mary Nolan and the late Mr. Nolan of Norman, Okla. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, did graduate work at the same university and at Harvard. He served eighteen months with the armed forces overseas and is now teaching in Ruidoso, New Mexico.

LIBRARY CONTINUES TO HAVE CALLS FOR ITS CEILING PROJECTOR

One of the services which the Ouachita parish public library offers to the people of this parish is the loan of ceiling projectors to people who are ill and are unable to use an ordinary book. The parish library received its first projector in January of thsi year. It was a gift from the North Monroe Lions Club. Since that time four other projectors have been given to the library. Mr. William Norris gave one projector in memory of his wife. The Monroe Lions Club gave one projector and the West Monroe Lions Club gave two projectors. With five projectors the Ouachita parish public library has more machines than any library in the state. The projector works on the same principle as a moving picture projector, except that the picture of the book is flashed on the ceiling. The books have been photographed on microfilm to use with this projector. The library has 192 such books. There are books dealing with a variety of subjects and books to appeal to every type reader.

Since the service was inaugurated 22 people have used the ceiling projectors and 280 books have been borrowed. The largest number of books read by one patron was 54. Michael Dean, who was seriously injured in an automobile wreck early in the summer read these 54 books.

There are still many people in Ouachita parish who do not know to ask for one of the ceiling projectors for their sick or injured relatives. At the present time all of the projectors are in use, but if you know a person who needs one, be sure to call the library and ask about a projector, one may have been returned by that time. Using the projectors at the present time are: Neal Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds of 1007 Trenton street, West Monroe; Miss Lena Strong of 106 Filer street, Monroe; Nila Bloomer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bloomer, Jr., who live at 2904 Gordon avenue; Bobbie Sullivan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sullivan, who live in Ward 7 and Kenny Wagoner, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wagoner of Ward 9. All of these users report that they are getting a great deal of pleasure from the use of the ceiling projector. If you or any of your family are not able to use an ordinary book, please call the Ouachita parish public library and ask about a ceiling projector.

LEA FAMILY IS GIVEN HONORS

Two Coveted Scouter Training Awards Are Conferred On Couple

A Monroe Scouter and his wife had the distinction last week of earning two highly coveted Scouter training awards for one family for the first time in the history of the Ouachita Valley Council.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lea, Cub leaders of pack 34, sponsored by the First Methodist Church, Monroe, received the Scouter's Key and Scouter's Award, respectively, for outstanding accomplishments in the field of training for Scout leaders. These awards were presented by Mr. Kirk Henry, deputy regional executive of region five, Boy Scouts of America, at the council's annual recognition banquet held at the Hotel Virginia, Monroe, Monday night. Mr. Henry stated that Mrs. Lea was the first den mother in region five to receive this distinct honor.

Mr. Henry also presented additional training awards, including the Scouter's Key to A. J. Ensminger, of Wisner, Scout's Award to Sam Hartman, Jr., Scoutmaster, of Farmerville, and the Arrow Head Award to Scoutmaster Lloyd F. Love, of Ferriday. Among the difficult requirements these leaders had to meet were service, training, and performance features. Each of the leaders had to serve as a registered unit leader for a period of at least three years, demonstrating outstanding performances in their service. They also had to participate in many different training courses, as well as conduct training courses for other leaders. Their applications were approved by the Ouachita Valley Council training committee and submitted to the National Boy Scout Council, where they were also approved because of the high proficiency of work performed.

The council was also commended by the deputy regional executive for the progress made in the training of leaders in 1949. Six hundred twenty-five training certificates have been issued to date in thirty courses. Additional courses presently being conducted will make this total much higher. Courses conducted during the year included get acquainted with Scouting conference, pack organization training, district committee training, basic Scoutmasters course, advanced Scoutmasters course, basic Cub leaders course, Merit Badge counselors course.

The Ouachita Valley Council also obtained additional training aids in 1949 in order to make the work of all district leadership training committees more effective. Plans in 1950 called for the continuance of emphasis in all phases of training. The council will endeavor to obtain additional visual aids and promote an improved training program for leaders, as well as training in all new Scouting organizations.

JAP COMPETITION WILL BE STUDIED

American, British Textile Men Outline Program At Conference

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—British and American textile men are planning a joint study of the problems of Japanese competition.

The program was lined up during private session of the Anglo- American textile conference last week.

It was announced by Robert Stevens, chairman of J. P. Stevens and Co., and head of the American delegation.

The conference decided such a study was desirable in view of the importance of Japanese goods in world trade in textiles and in view of a recent lifting of restrictions on Japanese exports.

The plans call for a mission to Japan made up of four members of the British Cotte · Board and a like number of members of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute.

The joint mission would cease to function once the members returned to their homelands and submitted reports to their groups.

The conference will ask authorities in Washington, London and Tokyo to facilitate an early visit to Japan by the joint British-American mission.

The industry organizations in both countries, however, must ratify the proposal before the official steps are taken, Stevens said.

Stevens said the study would do no more than secure information so that the entire situation involving Japanese competition can be evaluated by the British and American industries and governments.

Concerning other problems discussed at last week's meeting, Stevens said the British delegates assured American cotton textile men they will not use currency difficulties to create unnecessary barriers for the benefit of British textile exporters.

"The British industry, he said, is ready to participate in world textile trade in competition with the United States industry."

"When and as improvement in the world monetary situation makes freer conditions possible," Stevens added, "the British side will do all in its power to further these developments."

Stevens said the American delegates reiterated their position that th industry in this country must continue its efforts in further expansion of world markets for its products to maintain maximum and stable operation and employment in its plants.

The American also emphasized the tremendous stake which the American cotton farmer has in stable operations on the part of both the British and United States industries.

Mitchell P.-T. A. Plans Yule Event

The W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A. will have its annual Christmas party at the community center in West Monroe on Monday night, December 12, at 8 o'clock. All mothers and fathers are cordially invited to this gala affair by Mrs. Rex Hymer, president. Mrs. Hymer asks that food and other Christmas delicacies be brought to make up boxes for the needy families in Mitchell School.

Mrs. E. H. Scott, program chairman, has arranged for Miss Lea Joiner, associate pastor of the First Methodist church in Monroe, to be guest speaker.

Membership is lagging this year, so states Mrs. L. G. Cook, membership chairman. Please bring your dues to the Christmas party in order that we may submit all our dues by the deadline date which is December 15.

OPTIMISTS LOOK TOWARD DANCE

At their regular business meeting at Hotel Frances, the Optimists became very Optimistic over the dance that they are sponsoring December 30. The Optimist Club was very fortunate in booking Jerry Lane who has a fine orchestra.

Sylvian Masur is chairman of the dance committee and reports that all the various committees are working and doing an excellent job. The advance sale of tickets is well under way and from all indications there will be a record crowd for the dance. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Optimist Club for $1.25 per person. All proceeds from this dance will be used to carry on the Boys Work Program which is the major project of the Optimist Club.

Optimist Gochenour had another fine entertainment program for the club members. He introduced Reev. E. W. Caughron who made a short talk. Rev. Caughron is pastor of the United Pentecostal Church. He in turn introduced Misses Ann and Lyndal Kraus, two evangelistic singers who gave a program of religious songs. These two singers were well received by the club members.

Optimist Fife from Houston, Tex. was present for the luncheon. made a short talk concerning his c in Houston.

VETS SOON WILL GET DIVIDENDS

May Run Twice As High As $250 Bonus Payment In Some Cases

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—In a few weeks the veterans administration will turn the spigot to start another golden stream flowing into the pockets of former servicemen in Louisiana, as elsewhere.

It is the national service life insurance dividend. Nobody knows now what Louisiana veterans' share will be. But Director J. L. Golsan of the state department of veterans affairs thinks that it will amount to more than the Louisiana state bonus. He thinks, too, there's a good chance that more of it will be invested, or spent on non-perishables, than was the case with the bonus money.

It will be some time before the books are closed on the state bonus payment, although the deadline for applying has passed. Golsan thinks the total bonus cost, including administrative expenses, will run within a million of the $60,000,000 authorized by the bonus amendment.

That figure was pulled out of the air when the bonus was planned early in 1948. There were only general statistics available as to the total number of Louisiana veterans and casualties and even vaguer information as to average length of service, proportion of servicemen who saw overseas duty and other factors that affected the amounts paid.

But the guess is proving remarkably accurate, the director said.

He estimated the total administrative expenses in the neighborhood of $300,000—about 1/2 of 1 per cent of the amount paid out.

The highest individual bonus payment to a living veteran is $250. The insurance dividend may run twice that amount in some cases.

It's difficult, with information available, to compare the average payments in each case, but Golsan thinks they will run higher.

That would mean that something more than $60,000,000 will be poured into Louisiana during the 15-week period beginning in January set aside for payment of the insurance dividend.

Such a concentrated dose of money should be a powerful antidote to the recurrent after-Christmas business slump. There isn't buch doubt that the bonus payment this year, stretched over a longer period, was a shot in the arm to Louisiana economic activity. The state business indices studied by Louisiana State University began to point upward when the bonus checks began going out, while other economic reports showed that, nationally, business was off, or at least not up to the same extent.

The veterans' affairs department is making some studies hoping to determine in general how Louisiana veterans used their bonuses. There's much compiling of reports still to be done.

However, Golsan, making a tentative estimate from a small sample, said he thought probably $20,000,000, or a third of the total, was "invested". He explained that he was using the word broadly, to include such expenditures as down payments on houses as well as investments in securities or businesses.

It does not follow that all of the remaining $40,000,000 was frittered away. Much of it no doubt went to pay debts and for such things as furniture and household equipment—sober expenditures, though not exactly investments.

The veterans who get the insurance payment will be a year older and will be living in times not quite so flush, perhaps, as they were earlier this year. By this time, too, more of their demand for gadgets and one more good time have already been satisfied.

At least, that is what the director, with his background of observing veterans' needs and habits, thinks.

VETS SOON WILL GET DIVIDENDS

May Run Twice As High As $250 Bonus Payment In Some Cases

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—In a few weeks the veterans administration will turn the spigot to start another golden stream flowing into the pockets of former servicemen in Louisiana, as elsewhere.

It is the national service life insurance dividend. Nobody knows now what Louisiana veterans' share will be. But Director J. L. Golsan of the state department of veterans affairs thinks that it will amount to more than the Louisiana state bonus. He thinks, too, there's a good chance that more of it will be invested, or spent on non-perishables, than was the case with the bonus money.

It will be some time before the books are closed on the state bonus payment, although the deadline for applying has passed. Golsan thinks the total bonus cost, including administrative expenses, will run within a million of the $60,000,000 authorized by the bonus amendment.

That figure was pulled out of the air when the bonus was planned early in 1948. There were only general statistics available as to the total number of Louisiana veterans and casualties and even vaguer information as to average length of service, proportion of servicemen who saw overseas duty and other factors that affected the amounts paid.

But the guess is proving remarkably accurate, the director said.

He estimated the total administrative expenses in the neighborhood of $300,000—about 1/2 of 1 per cent of the amount paid out.

The highest individual bonus payment to a living veteran is $250. The insurance dividend may run twice that amount in some cases.

It's difficult, with information available, to compare the average payments in each case, but Golsan thinks they will run higher.

That would mean that something more than $60,000,000 will be poured into Louisiana during the 15-week period beginning in January set aside for payment of the insurance dividend.

Such a concentrated dose of money should be a powerful antidote to the recurrent after-Christmas business slump. There isn't buch doubt that the bonus payment this year, stretched over a longer period, was a shot in the arm to Louisiana economic activity. The state business indices studied by Louisiana State University began to point upward when the bonus checks began going out, while other economic reports showed that, nationally, business was off, or at least not up to the same extent.

The veterans' affairs department is making some studies hoping to determine in general how Louisiana veterans used their bonuses. There's much compiling of reports still to be done.

However, Golsan, making a tentative estimate from a small sample, said he thought probably $20,000,000, or a third of the total, was "invested". He explained that he was using the word broadly, to include such expenditures as down payments on houses as well as investments in securities or businesses.

BOMBED INGOLSTADT STRIVES FOR RECOGNITION

Advocates World Friendship

Local Veteran Writes Friends At Ingolstadt

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

R. C. White, Jr., believes that letters to Germans and other Europeans can go a long way in promoting international friendship and world peace, and at the same time, rip apart much of the advances of communism.

In the past year this local, 29-year-old World War II veteran (and prisoner of the Germans for a year) has cultivated good will with many of his former captors.

How? Simply by writing letters. He has filed away at home, 503 Speed avenue, Monroe, over 550 addresses of Germans indexed as to age, sex and occupation.

R. C. believes that his plan of international correspondence can best be carried on between persons of common interests.

He got the idea from a national magazine which told of other cities in the United States that had "adopted" a German city of about their size. And through correspondence, the cities were chained together by a steady flow of letters.

So last year, R. C. put his plan into effect. He wrote the mayor of Ingolstadt, Germany (Dr. George Weber) for names of Germans in his community who wanted to correspond with residents of Monroe. Here is what Weber wrote in reply:

"I am very consented to your proposal because it is my opinion too that the wonderful idea of a feeling of brotherhood between America and Germany is the best way of understanding. To propagate and spread this sense for it is the best opportunity to carry on a correspondence as you proposed it. In the annex you would find a list of people from different occupations and ages. This people are mostly learning English in the Evening-Schools or they are the readers of the American Reading Room which was recently opened here."

But why did R. C. choose the people of Ingolstadt? That's another story, but briefly:

You see R. C. was taken prisoner by the Germans in Italy, May, 1944. He was transferred to Schubin, Poland, 120 miles east of Warsaw. General Patton's Third army liberated him in April, 1945. On the way back home, he spent a night in Ingolstadt. This bombed city appealed to him. He remembered its name and when it came time for him to choose a Germany city for Monroe, he naturally chose Ingolstadt.

R. C. presently corresponds with about five people of Ingolstadt, but says he's received over fifty letters since he's written to the "oberburgermeister."

Last year he solicited letter-writers from schools and various civic organizations to help him connect Monroe with Ingolstadt. At that time over three hundred Monroyans were writing to their pen pals in the German city, but now R. C. doubts if a hundred are continuing the correspondence.

As the result of his local accomplishments in attempting to join the American and German cities together in friendship, R. C. has been selected a member of the national advisory board of "Operation Democracy, Inc." a national organization advocating international correspondence.

At present, R. C. is planning a file and display at the public library for those persons wanting to write Germans at Ingolstadt. The Germans are from all walks of life, such as housewives, radio mechanics, teachers, clerks, civil engineers and secretaries. If you have an occupation, R. C. has a German who is in some way involved in the same trade. Ask him and find out for yourself.

Last week, both Monroe Mayor John Coon and C. C. Bell, Jr., mayor of West Monroe, agreed to send Christmas greetings across the Atlantic to the oberburgermeister (mayor) of Ingolstadt.

If you want to know more about the city, here's the way it was described to R. C. in the letter written to him by Dr. Weber:

"As you have written, you have spent a night in our city so you hardly would remember or you may have only dusky remembrance of a half destroyed town as it was on the end of war. But the origins of our town are going back to the times of Romans when it was a 'castrum' and it is mentioned firstly about 800 A. D. Later in the 14th century it belonged to the Duke of Wittelsbach under whose rule the rights of the city were settled and from this time we have the first list of the city councillors as the first proof of a democratic government of our town. Through the centuries the town was a center of trade and industry, although it had, after hard times, to avoid the difficulties of wars. But even the Sedish King Gustav Adolph could not conquer this fortress in the thirty-years-war. It was a centre of culture and science, since 1472 there had been a university in the town which was only dissolved in 1800 and moved to Munich. The students all over from Europe came to study here and this was the most important task and most glorious time of our city until it was degraded to a garrison in the 19th century.

"It meant the end of his glory to be a centre of knowledge but we hope again to fulfil this task after the barracks and walls are destroyed and the city demilitarized. We have now important high schools here and we hope to be again a cultural centre of Middle-Bavaria at this important thoroughfare of the Danube. Although in the last war the city was gravely destroyed but all over the city you may see the new buildings as a sign of the will of restoration. Ingolstadt should have again a harbour on the Danube as in ancient times, because the newly founded industry-plans and factories need it. Thus the population is again growing it has almost 50,000 inhabitants (10 years ago they were only 34,000). With new hopes and new beliefs we begin the work after this terrible war."

Many agree with R. C. that at this stage of diplomatic turmoil, international friendship is all important, even with our former enemies. The war with Germany is over. Perhaps the war was caused somewhat by the lack of understanding among Germans and Americans. Perhaps another war could be prevented. Perhaps an important ally could be obtained! Let's be friends, for the Germans are much like Americans.

Don't Imitate Santa If You Lack His Form

By Cynthia Lowry

There are more people around today doing bad imitations of Santa Claus than there are people doing bad imitations of Hildegarde, Al Jolson and Bette Davis.

This is a very serious situation, as can easily be seen, which is making it difficult even for adults to believe in Santa Claus.

Personally, through long practice, I am able to spot a phony Santa Claus from a distance of two blocks or the length of a department store. But even before I was an expert in the field, I was never taken in by skinny characters in dirty cotton beards and outside suits soliciting Christmas alms on street corners. The tip-off, of course, is that they stand on pieces of board or wear regulation galoshes. Santa Claus wears boots and his feet never get cold. I have known people, however, who believed anyone in a red suit trimmed with fur was Santa, no matter what he was doing.

Of course, I have met the good Saint Nick in stores many times, but I have also encountered some bad actors pretending they were Santa. Imposters usually can be detected by a bored attitude and a certain lack of interest in the whole subject of toys.

Some people are even making a profitable business out of imitating Santa, which is pretty reprehensible when you realize that this is his busy season and he can't take time out to protect himself.

One man has opened a school to train people to become better imitation Santa Clauses. He has classes on how to paste a beard on properly, and how to stroke it thoughtfully without its becoming loose. He warns them not to smoke anything but a hookah because of the fire hazard. He teaches them to laugh so their abdomens "shake like a bowl full of jelly," but what's more important he teaches them how to counterfeit Santa's laugh. The proper guffaw, as I understand it, is "Ho-ho-ho-ha-ha." Seems untrained Santas are apt to go just "Ha-ha-ha-ha."

I'm against this trend. But I'm more opposed to the way certain enterprises are implying that Santa Claus has changed his traditional methods of operation. Santa Claus has made no changes these many years except that in cities he will enter apartment dwellings without fireplaces by coming in a handy door or window. I also understand he had a bad time recently by landing in the middle of an oil burner, and is being a bit more careful about all types of chimneys these days.

Any time you see a purported picture of Santa riding in an airplane or automobile of any type, it is an unauthorized portrait and the central figure probably is one of the Santa imitators.

Santa Claus is an ageless, good-humored man who wears an unusual costume, lives at the North Pole, travels by sled and reindeer through the skies and brings toys on Christmas eve to good children.

Catahoula Police Jury Giving Aid

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—First steps towards making the Catahoula parish library a permanent institution were taken this week by the Catahoula police jury.

At its December meeting, the jury authorized Wedon Smith, secretary, to ask permission of the state bond and tax board to call a special election for a library maintenance tax.

The proposed tax is for three and one-half mills for a five year period, beginning next year and running through 1954. Smith said that the election will probably be called by the police jury at its January meeting.

The Catahoula parish library is presently being operated as a "demonstration" by the state library, with approximately one-tenth of the cost contributed from local sources. State support will continue through July of 1950, or one year after the opening of the library and its branches.

The state will leave more than $30,000 investment including the bookmobile and approximately 12,000 volumes, in Catahoula when parish support of the library begins. Costs of complete operation by the parish have been estimated at $12,000 annually.

Television For Monroe Is Still Not Practical

By Bert Hatten
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Television, with all its laurels of modern entertainment, is far from being in common use in the Twin Cities. That is the general opinion given by local enthusiasts and mechanics of electronics.

Though TV reception is not entirely an impossibility in this area, it is not practical now. The cost of installing television receiving equipment in Monroe would deal a serious blow to the savings of the ordinary man, according to persons who know the situation.

Such sets in Monroe and West Monroe, which total about three or four in number, usually bring programs from either New Orleans or Memphis. These two stations are nearest to Monroe.

In order to get reception from these stations, powerful boosters and other extra facilities are required. That's where the unbearable expense for the ordinary man comes in. Overall installation costs of these units run slightly less than $1,000, it is said by local radiomen.

Persons owning sets in Monroe, which operate off the distant stations, report that the quality of reception depends on atmospheric conditions. Sometimes a televised program can be seen very clearly and at other times the screen projects a "fuzzy" performance. On an average, according to one local owner, reception is good approximately one-half the time.

Television comes less expensive in areas where transmission is made from a shorter distance, thus eliminating the need for booster equipment. For instance, in the surrounding areas of Memphis and New Orleans adequate receiver equipment can be purchased for as little as the more expensive ordinary radio sets.

In an interview yesterday, Howard Griffith, one of the most capable electronic mechanics locally, stated that a television channel had been allocated for Monroe, but due to the nature of the channel assigned, a station would serve a limited area, inadequate to support the expense.

However, he said another vacant channel, which has been allocated for Alexandria, could probably be reassigned for use at points in north Louisiana. He feels that with proper application before the communications commission the better channel could be obtained for north Louisiana.

Coaxial cable service, necessary for transmitting television from across the country to TV outlet stations, is available here.

This seems to justify the often heard question "Why don't we have television in Monroe and West Monroe?"

To nutshell the answer to that question is easy. The expense of such a station is so great that no business man or corporation will make the venture.

The cost of installation and operating is estimated to be much higher than could be expected in return for the investment. Well informed sources report that to set up such a station would involve between $250,000 and $300,000. After spending a quarter of a million dollars to set up the station, the operating cost would be staggering discouragement.

The management of a TV station must pay for "canned" films, cost of numerous operating and service engineers, services of direct transmission over coaxial cable from program origination and many other services not required in ordinary radio stations. For producing television of local scenes, a station would need to organize a small-scale moving picture studio, another great expense.

In a direct broadcast from a distant point a television transmitter must be serviced with the equivalent of 3,000 telephone circuits. The cost of broadcasting a 15-minute televised program direct from New York might be compared with the cost of 3,000 long distance telephone conversations to the same point for 15 minutes. That's the way Griffith puts it.

The expense of a television station in Monroe is just more than advertisers can be expected to pay. Our Twin Cities aren't big enough.

Griffith says Shreveport is the most practical location for a television station—which would serve Monroe. He bases his theory on the fact that Shreveport is the center of population within a reasonable radius. Therefore, it would afford TV for the largest number of people and as a result be more vital to television advertisers.

Mechanically speaking television is a success, according to the experts, but from the economical standpoint many wrinkles are yet to be ironed out.

Thus far the most practical and improved radio entertainment in this area is FM broadcast, which, according to periodical surveys, is growing in popularity for its clearness of tone, local proprietors say. Though television is not yet at our fingertips at a reasonable cost, static-free reception of oral broadcast is here at a moderately low cost.

Celebrate Christmas Parties In Safe Way

This is the season for parties. At home and in school eager groups of children will gather to celebrate Christmas and the New Year. Costumes will be worn, decorations hung and games played.

And, timely indeed is the warning issued to parents and teachers by the National Safety Council. In its December issue of Safety Education, it points out how likely accidents are to occur when costumes are worn at parties.

Children should be discouraged from wearing costumes that are gauzy or filmy or made of paper, says the council. If they are worn, they should be made flame-resistant. With the gauzy or filmy type, this can be done by saturating them in a solution composed of nine ounces of borax, four ounces of boric acid and one gallon water. After the material is thoroughly saturated, it should be wrung out by hand and hung to dry. This process will not take away flexibility or softness of the material. It does insure a measure of safety.

Again, the council warns against wearing costumes too long or too loose. They may cause tripping accidents, particularly while going up or down stairs or through hallways.

Costumes which "require" guns or any other type of play-weapon should be checked to see that no real guns and knives are brought to the party as part of the costume.

If masks are worn, they should fit well so that vision is not limited—either straight ahead or from side to side. Also, the eye holes must be large enough and with smooth edges so that there is no possibility of cutting or otherwise injuring the eyes. Also, warns the council, masks must be removed before eating. Trying to eat through a mask may cause a child to choke.

Part of the planning for any costume party is to impress those wearing costumes that they must not be worn to and from the school or home where the party is to be held and should never be worn while riding a bicycle.

Decorations for the party are also a hazard if the wrong kinds are used. For example, says the council, jack-o-lanterns should never contain lighted candles. Fire danger is too great. A small flashlight will be safer.

Never cover light bulbs with paper or any other kind of flammable material. Colored, gelatin type fireproof coverings are sold for this purpose. All paper used for decorations should be made fire-resistant in the same way as are costumes.

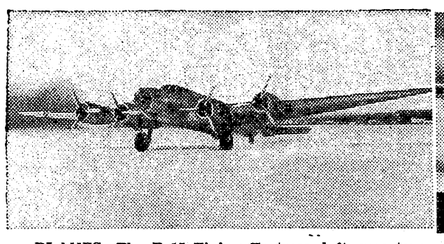

Christmas trees and decorations should never block stairs or other exits. A tree should be fresh with its base resting firmly in a container filled with water. Check carefully, the trees lights and wires, making sure they are not frayed or worn. NEVER use candles on a tree. Ornaments should be non-flammable and preferably made of glass or metal.

Games played at parties should be carefully supervised. This is needed especially where blindfold games are played. Parties often excite young children to the point where they may become a little "wild" and careless. It is on such occasions that they must be watched carefully and warned against slamming doors on each other or racing up and down halls and the party room. Horseplay or scuffling should be discouraged.

Modern War Weapons Sees Improvement

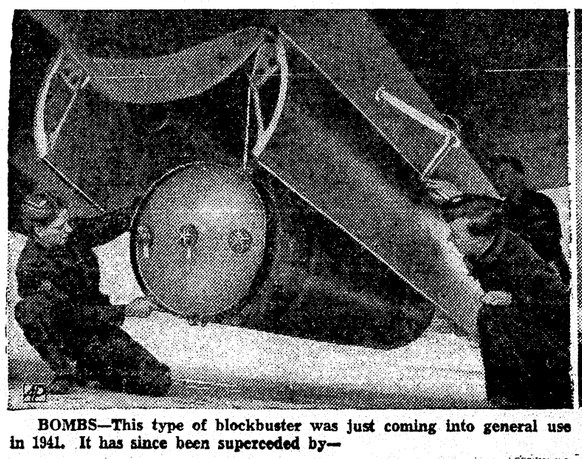

(AP Newsfeatures)

If the world ever sees another Pearl Harbor, the results may dwarf those of the "day that will live in infamy" eight years ago. World War II stimulated development of methods and materials for war. That development is still going on. Here are two big examples:

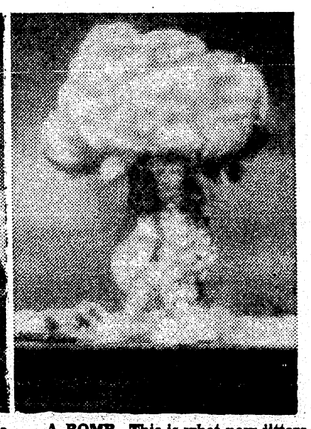

PLANES—The B-17 Flying Fortress, left, was tops in the bomber field in 1941. It proved itself in the tough campaigns in Europe, Asia and the Pacific. But there have been many bomber developments since. Just now the B-36, right, is top bomber of the U. S.

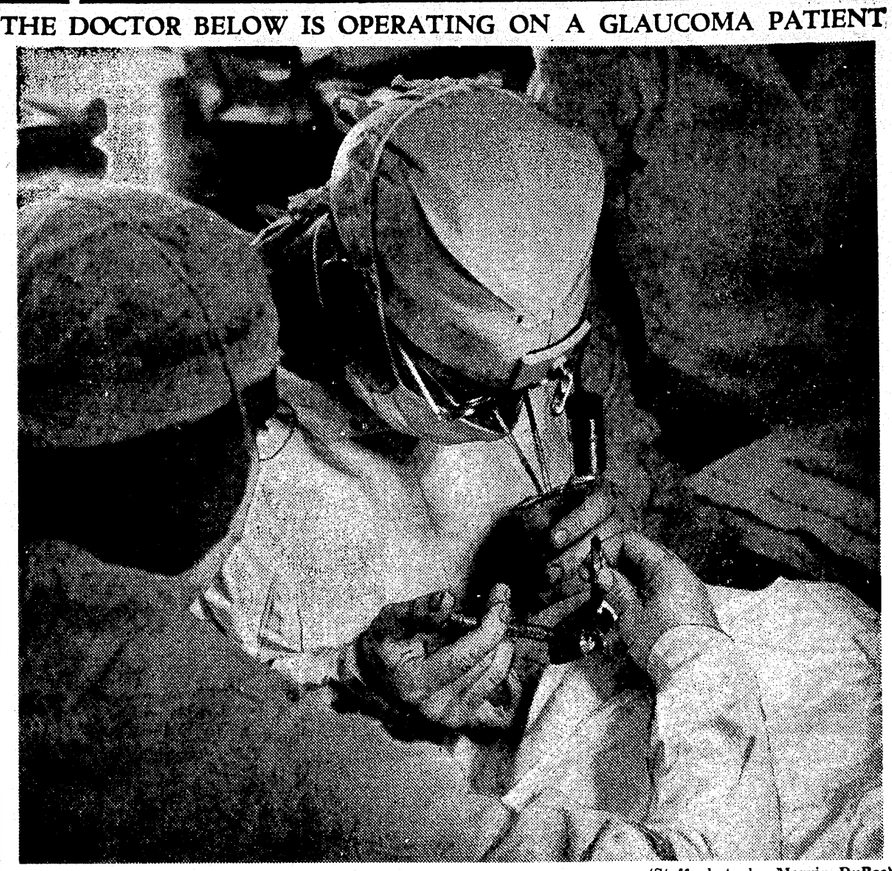

BOMBS—This type of blockbuster was just coming into general use in 1941. It has since been superceded by—

Local Doc Gives Sight, Happiness To Blind And Partially Blind At Room 3

By Oland Silk
(Of The Morning World Staff)

The tragedy of being blind can only be equalled in contrast to the happiness of those whose sight has been restored.

Within the confines of room III in the department of surgery at the Charity Hospital, persistent efforts have been made and are being made to correct eye deficiencies and restore sight to those partially and completely blind. The work is done by a doctor whose ethical standards require anolymity, but whose vigilance has met with exemplary success as month after month persons afflicted with sight-obliterating cataracts, both senile and traumatic, glaucoma and other afflictions, file into the office for treatment.

Some of the patients have been dramatically returned to vision following an interim of blindness spending from five to twenty years.

The work is considered an integral part of the Charity Hospital.

Most of the patients that come to room III are suffering from cataracts. A cataract is a hardening of the crystalline lens of the eye, in some cases turning black, in others merely hard and obstructive. When taken out it is about the size of a navy bean.

These operations are carried on each Wednesday. During that day each week room III can be designated as the department of opthalmology—the technical name for an appreciable technical profession.

The doctor will tell you that in the case of cataract operations, the amount of dammage done by the cataract to the lens of the eye has to be duplicated in the form of correction in glasses for the patient. And that means magnified lens'—to whatever extent correction is needed. All cataract patients have to be fitted with glasses.

Most of the persons who come to room III are elderly. They are the ones afflicted with the senile type of cataracts. Very seldom do the traumatic show up because that type is specifically due to injury to the eyes.

The patient in the picture above is suffering from glaucoma. For eye trouble, glaucoma is the most serious. Before the doctor started work he said that glaucoma is a swelling of the balls of the eye. Pressure from some unknown source forces the ball into expansion. He explained that he was going to make an artificial drainage channel in the eyeball. Glaucoma can kill the nerves and also cause cataracts.

A great many of the doctor's patients are from out of Monroe, but these few were located. They were asked to simply tell about their condition before and after.

Mrs. C. G. Murphy, 1811 Trenton street, West Monroe, 67, operated on five times in 1931 in New Orleans, blind for 20 years: There was only a tiny bit of sight in one of my eyes, the other was already out. In 1931 I couldn't see and I went to New Orleans. A few weeks later I became totally blind. I had read or written nothing for that many years until recently. I had to be led around wherever I went. Now I can read and write and am doing fine. The doctor did wonders for me. I could never express my appreciation for what he has done. I went to him to see if he could fix glasses for me. He said he could fix my eyes. Four hours after the operation I could see the light through the bandage, the movement of the doctor's hands back and forth. I have 90 per cent vision.

Fanny Sillers, Negro, 59, 909 Pine street, Monroe: I had a cataract in my right eye and had lost vision in my left one. I couldn't see my hand in front of me. (She was grey and wore dark green shades and had a scarf around her head.) He gave me encouragement and I did whatever they told me to do. Now I can read and get around fine.

Mrs. Nita Stewart, 58, 3015 Lee avenue, Monroe: For five years I was blind. On the 28th of September he removed a cataract and I read for the first time. For nine years I could only see light and that was about all. The operation was just a few days before my 58th birthday. That was the happiest birthday of my life.

Mrs. Minnie Lewis, 51, 1309 North Fifth street, Monroe: For three weeks there was something wrong with my sight. Everything was foggy—sort of white and I couldn't make out any objects. I had to be led into the office at the hospital. (She suffered from glaucoma.) He made sight good again. I can't say in words how I feel.

The number of patients who come and go through operations in room III are to lengthy to continue here. The four above are merely a few who will perhaps remain forever able to see, forever grateful.

Rebekah Lodge's Election Held

Monroe Rebekah Lodge No. 66 held their regular meeting and election of officers in Woodman hall the past week.

Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held in December. Clyde Pohl will act as Santa Claus at the party, it was announced. It was also announced that the Christmas party in the Odd Fellows home in Crowley will be held December 18.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Mrs. Opal Thompson, noble grand; Mrs. Madelene Hegwood, vice-grand; Mr.. Tempie Hegwood, recording secretary; Mrs. Mildred Batten, financial secretary; Mrs. Edith Karr, treasurer; Mrs. Nancy Neyland, district deputy president; Mrs. Edna Collie, degree captain; Mrs. Tempie Hegwood, drill captain; Mrs. Mattie Edney and Mrs. Annie Krepps, representatives to the Rebekah assembly of Louisiana. Mrs. Beatrice Worley and Mrs. Velma Lou Hibbard, alternates.

There will be a joint installation of officers with Ouachita Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F., on the night of January 6.

EDUCATORS HOLD MEETING

TALLULAH, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—A meeting of parish superintendents of education, supervisors and principals from East Carroll, West Carroll, Madison and Tensas parishes was held at the Tallulah High School on Thursday in the interest of the proposed plan for state certification of administrative supervisory and teaching personnel. J. E. Williams, state supervisor of teacher education and certification, led the discussions.

Scouts Add Hope To Jap Recovery Ideas And Plans

SPOKANE, Wash.—George Imai, national field secretary for the Boy Scouts of Japan, has enrolled at Whitworth College as a freshman in social work. This is the second time that Imai has been a college freshman but today he's a lot more optimistic about his own and his country's future than he was when he first tried college six years ago.

He was in his second month at a Tokyo university in 1943 when the Japanese draft swept him into a naval officers training school. BOMBED INGOLSTADT STRIVES FOR RECOGNITION

Advocates World Friendship

Local Veteran Writes Friends At Ingolstadt

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

R. C. White, Jr., believes that letters to Germans and other Europeans can go a long way in promoting international friendship and world peace, and at the same time, rip apart much of the advances of communism.

In the past year this local, 29-year-old World War II veteran (and prisoner of the Germans for a year) has cultivated good will with many of his former captors.

How? Simply by writing letters. He has filed away at home, 508 Speed avenue, Monroe, over 550 addresses of Germans indexed as to age, sex and occupation.

R. C. believes that his plan of international correspondence can best be carried on between persons of common interests.

He got the idea from a national magazine which told of other cities in the United States that had "adopted" a German city of about their size. And through correspondence, the cities were chained together by a steady flow of letters.

So last year, R. C. put his plan into effect. He wrote the mayor of Ingolstadt, Germany (Dr. George Weber) for names of Germans in his community who wanted to correspond with residents of Monroe. Here is what Weber wrote in reply:

"I am very consented to your proposal because it is my opinion too that the wonderful idea of a feeling of brotherhood between America and Germany is the best way of understanding. To propagate and spread this sense for it is the best opportunity to carry on a correspondence as you proposed it. In the annex you would find a list of people from different occupations and ages. This people are mostly learning English in the Evening-Schools or they are the readers of the American Reading Room which was recently opened here."

But why did R. C. choose the people of Ingolstadt? That's another story, but briefly:

You see R. C. was taken prisoner by the Germans in Italy, May, 1944. He was transferred to Schubin, Poland, 120 miles east of Warsaw. General Patton's Third army liberated him in April, 1945. On the way back home, he spent a night in Ingolstadt. This bombed city appealed to him. He remembered its name and when it came time for him to choose a Germany city for Monroe, he naturally chose Ingolstadt.

R. C. presently corresponds with about five people of Ingolstadt, but says he's received over fifty letters since he's written to the "oberburgermeister."

Last year he solicited letter-writers from schools and various civic organizations to help him connect Monroe with Ingolstadt. At that time over three hundred Monroyans were writing to their pen pals in the German city, but now R. C. doubts if a hundred are continuing the correspondence.

As the result of his local accomplishments in attempting to join the American and German cities together in friendship, R. C. has been selected a member of the national advisory board of "Operation Democracy, Inc." a national organization advocating international correspondence.

At present, R. C. is planning a file and display at the public library for those persons wanting to write Germans at Ingolstadt. The Germans are from all walks of life, such as housewives, radio mechanics, teachers, clerks, civil engineers and secretaries. If you have an occupation, R. C. has a German who is in some way involved in the same trade. Ask him and find out for yourself.

Last week, both Monroe Mayor John Coon and C. C. Bell, Jr., mayor of West Monroe, agreed to send Christmas greetings across the Atlantic to the oberburgermeister (mayor) of Ingolstadt.

If you want to know more about the city, here's the way it was described to R. C. in the letter written to him by Dr. Weber:

"As you have written, you have spent a night in our city so you hardly would remember or you may have only dusky remembrance of a half destroyed town as it was on the end of war. But the origins of our town are going back to the times of Romans when it was a 'castrum' and it is mentioned firstly about 800 A. D. Later in the 14th century it belonged to the Duke of Wittelsbach under whose rule the rights of the city were settled and from this time we have the first list of the city councillors as the first proof of a democratic government of our town. Through the centuries the town was a center of trade and industry, although it had, after hard times, to avoid the difficulties of wars. But even the Sedish King Gustav Adolph could not conquer this fortress in the thirty-years-war. It was a centre of culture and science, since 1472 there had been a university in the town which was only dissolved in 1800 and moved to Munich. The students all over from Europe came to study here and this was the most important task and most glorious time of our city until it was degraded to a garrison in the 19th century.

"It meant the end of his glory to be a centre of knowledge but we hope again to fulfil this task after the barracks and walls are destroyed and the city demilitarized. We have now important high schools here and we hope to be again a cultural centre of Middle-Bavaria at this important thoroughfare of the Danube. Although in the last war the city was gravely destroyed but all over the city you may see the new buildings as a sign of the will of restoration. Ingolstadt should have again a harbour on the Danube as in ancient times, because the newly founded industry-plans and factories need it. Thus the population is again growing it has almost 50,000 inhabitants (10 years ago they were only 34,000). With new hopes and new beliefs we begin the work after this terrible war."

Many agree with R. C. that at this stage of diplomatic turmoil, international friendship is all important, even with our former enemies. The war with Germany is over. Perhaps the war was caused somewhat by the lack of understanding among Germans and Americans. Perhaps another war could be prevented. Perhaps an important ally could be obtained! Let's be friends, for the Germans are much like Americans.

Don't Imitate Santa If You Lack His Form

By Cynthia Lowry

There are more people around today doing bad imitations of Santa Claus than there are people doing bad imitations of Hildegarde, Al Jolson and Bette Davis.

This is a very serious situation, as can easily be seen, which is making it difficult even for adults to believe in Santa Claus.

Personally, through long practice, I am able to spot a phony Santa Claus from a distance of two blocks or the length of a department store. But even before I was an expert in the field, I was never taken in by skinny characters in dirty cotton beards and outside suits soliciting Christmas alms on street corners. The tip-off, of course, is that they stand on pieces of board or wear regulation galoshes. Santa Claus wears boots and his feet never get cold. I have known people, however, who believed anyone in a red suit trimmed with fur was Santa, no matter what he was doing.

Of course, I have met the good Saint Nick in stores many times, but I have also encountered some bad actors pretending they were Santa. Imposters usually can be detected by a bored attitude and a certain lack of interest in the whole subject of toys.

Some people are even making a profitable business out of imitating Santa, which is pretty reprehensible when you realize that this is his busy season and he can't take time out to protect himself.

One man has opened a school to train people to become better imitation Santa Clauses. He has classes on how to paste a beard on properly, and how to stroke it thoughtfully without its becoming loose. He warns them not to smoke anything but a hookah because of the fire hazard. He teaches them to laugh so their abdomens "shake like a bowl full of jelly," but what's more important he teaches them how to counterfeit Santa's laugh. The proper guffaw, as I understand it, is "Ho-ho-ho-ha-ha." Seems untrained Santas are apt to go just "Ha-ha-ha-ha."

I'm against this trend. But I'm more opposed to the way certain enterprises are implying that Santa Claus has changed his traditional methods of operation. Santa Claus has made no changes these many years except that in cities he will enter apartment dwellings without fireplaces by coming in a handy door or window. I also understand he had a bad time recently by landing in the middle of an oil burner, and is being a bit more careful about all types of chimneys these days.

Any time you see a purported picture of Santa riding in an airplane or automobile of any type, it is an unauthorized portrait and the central figure probably is one of the Santa imitators.

Santa Claus is an ageless, good-humored man who wears an unusual costume, lives at the North Pole, travels by sled and reindeer through the skies and brings toys on Christmas eve to good children.

Catahoula Police Jury Giving Aid

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—First steps towards making the Catahoula parish library a permanent institution were taken this week by the Catahoula police jury.

At its December meeting, the jury authorized Wedon Smith, secretary, to ask permission of the state bond and tax board to call a special election for a library maintenance tax.

The proposed tax is for three and one-half mills for a five year period, beginning next year and running through 1954. Smith said that the election will probably be called by the police jury at its January meeting.

The Catahoula parish library is presently being operated as a "demonstration" by the state library, with approximately one-tenth of the cost contributed from local sources. State support will continue through July of 1950, or one year after the opening of the library and its branches.

The state will leave more than $30,000 investment including the bookmobile and approximately 12,000 volumes, in Catahoula when parish support of the library begins. Costs of complete operation by the parish have been estimated at $12,000 annually.

Television For Monroe Is Still Not Practical

By Bert Hatten
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Television, with all its laurels of modern entertainment, is far from being in common use in the Twin Cities. That is the general opinion given by local enthusiasts and mechanics of electronics.

Though TV reception is not entirely an impossibility in this area, it is not practical now. The cost of installing television receiving equipment in Monroe would deal a serious blow to the savings of the ordinary man, according to persons who know the situation.

Such sets in Monroe and West Monroe, which total about three or four in number, usually bring programs from either New Orleans or Memphis. These two stations are nearest to Monroe.

In order to get reception from these stations, powerful boosters and other extra facilities are required. That's where the unbearable expense for the ordinary man comes in. Overall installation costs of these units run slightly less than $1,000, it is said by local radiomen.

Persons owning sets in Monroe, which operate off the distant stations, report that the quality of reception depends on atmospheric conditions. Sometimes a televised program can be seen very clearly and at other times the screen projects a "fuzzy" performance. On an average, according to one local owner, reception is good approximately one-half the time.

Television comes less expensive in areas where transmission is made from a shorter distance, thus eliminating the need for booster equipment. For instance, in the surrounding areas of Memphis and New Orleans adequate receiver equipment can be purchased for as little as the more expensive ordinary radio sets.

In an interview yesterday, Howard Griffith, one of the most capable electronic mechanics locally, stated that a television channel had been allocated for Monroe, but due to the nature of the channel assigned, a station would serve a limited area, inadequate to support the expense.

However, he said another vacant channel, which has been allocated for Alexandria, could probably be reassigned for use at points in north Louisiana. He feels that with proper application before the communications commission the better channel could be obtained for north Louisiana.

Coaxial cable service, necessary for transmitting television from across the country to TV outlet stations, is available here.

This seems to justify the often heard question "Why don't we have television in Monroe and West Monroe?"

To nutshell the answer to that question is easy. The expense of such a station is so great that no business man or corporation will make the venture.

The cost of installation and operating is estimated to be much higher than could be expected in return for the investment. Well informed sources report that to set up such a station would involve between $250,000 and $300,000. After spending a quarter of a million dollars to set up the station, the operating cost would be staggering discouragement.

The management of a TV station must pay for "canned" films, cost of numerous operating and service engineers, services of direct transmission over coaxial cable from program origination and many other services not required in ordinary radio stations. For producing television of local scenes, a station would need to organize a small-scale moving picture studio, another great expense.

In a direct broadcast from a distant point a television transmitter must be serviced with the equivalent of 3,000 telephone circuits. The cost of broadcasting a 15-minute televised program direct from New York might be compared with the cost of 3,000 long distance telephone conversations to the same point for 15 minutes. That's the way Griffith puts it.

The expense of a television station in Monroe is just more than advertisers can be expected to pay. Our Twin Cities aren't big enough.

Griffith says Shreveport is the most practical location for a television station—which would serve Monroe. He bases his theory on the fact that Shreveport is the center of population within a reasonable radius. Therefore, it would afford TV for the largest number of people and as a result be more vital to television advertisers.

Mechanically speaking television is a success, according to the experts, but from the economical standpoint many wrinkles are yet to be ironed out.

Thus far the most practical and improved radio entertainment in this area is FM broadcast, which, according to periodical surveys, is growing in popularity for its clearness of tone, local proprietors say. Though television is not yet at our fingertips at a reasonable cost, static-free reception of oral broadcast is here at a moderately low cost.

Celebrate Christmas Parties In Safe Way

This is the season for parties. At home and in school eager groups of children will gather to celebrate Christmas and the New Year. Costumes will be worn, decorations hung and games played.

And, timely indeed is the warning issued to parents and teachers by the National Safety Council. In its December issue of Safety Education, it points out how likely accidents are to occur when costumes are worn at parties.

Children should be discouraged from wearing costumes that are gauzy or filmy or made of paper, says the council. If they are worn, they should be made flame-resistant. With the gauzy or filmy type, this can be done by saturating them in a solution composed of nine ounces of borax, four ounces of boric acid and one gallon water. After the material is thoroughly saturated, it should be wrung out by hand and hung to dry. This process will not take away flexibility or softness of the material. It does insure a measure of safety.

Again, the council warns against wearing costumes too long or too loose. They may cause tripping accidents, particularly while going up or down stairs or through hallways.

Costumes which "require" guns or any other type of play-weapon should be checked to see that no real guns and knives are brought to the party as part of the costume.

If masks are worn, they should fit well so that vision is not limited—either straight ahead or from side to side. Also, the eye holes must be large enough and with smooth edges so that there is no possibility of cutting or otherwise injuring the eyes. Also, warns the council, masks must be removed before eating. Trying to eat through a mask may cause a child to choke.

Part of the planning for any costume party is to impress those wearing costumes that they must not be worn to and from the school or home where the party is to be held and should never be worn while riding a bicycle.

Decorations for the party are also a hazard if the wrong kinds are used. For example, says the council, jack-o-lanterns should never contain lighted candles. Fire danger is too great. A small flashlight will be safer.

Never cover light bulbs with paper or any other kind of flammable material. Colored, gelatin type fireproof coverings are sold for this purpose. All paper used for decorations should be made fire-resistant in the same way as are costumes.

Christmas trees and decorations should never block stairs or other exits. A tree should be fresh with its base resting firmly in a container filled with water. Check carefully, the trees lights and wires, making sure they are not frayed or worn. NEVER use candles on a tree. Ornaments should be non-flammable and preferably made of glass or metal.

Games played at parties should be carefully supervised. This is needed especially where blindfold games are played. Parties often excite young children to the point where they may become a little "wild" and careless. It is on such occasions that they must be watched carefully and warned against slamming doors on each other or racing up and down halls and the party room. Horseplay or scuffling should be discouraged.

Local Doc Gives Sight, Happiness To Blind And Partially Blind At Room 3

By Oland Silk
(Of The Morning World Staff)

The tragedy of being blind can only be equalled in contrast to the happiness of those whose sight has been restored.

Within the confines of room III in the department of surgery at the Charity Hospital, persistent efforts have been made and are being made to correct eye deficiencies and restore sight to those partially and completely blind. The work is done by a doctor whose ethical standards require anolymity, but whose vigilance has met with exemplary success as month after month persons afflicted with sight-obliterating cataracts, both senile and traumatic, glaucoma and other afflictions, file into the office for treatment.

Some of the patients have been dramatically returned to vision following an interim of blindness spending from five to twenty years.

The work is considered an integral part of the Charity Hospital.

Most of the patients that come to room III are suffering from cataracts. A cataract is a hardening of the crystalline lens of the eye, in some cases turning black, in others merely hard and obstructive. When taken out it is about the size of a navy bean.

These operations are carried on each Wednesday. During that day each week room III can be designated as the department of opthalmology—the technical name for an appreciable technical profession.

The doctor will tell you that in the case of cataract operations, the amount of dammage done by the cataract to the lens of the eye has to be duplicated in the form of correction in glasses for the patient. And that means magnified lens'—to whatever extent correction is needed. All cataract patients have to be fitted with glasses.

Most of the persons who come to room III are elderly. They are the ones afflicted with the senile type of cataracts. Very seldom do the traumatic show up because that type is specifically due to injury to the eyes.

The patient in the picture above is suffering from glaucoma. For eye trouble, glaucoma is the most serious. Before the doctor started work he said that glaucoma is a swelling of the balls of the eye. Pressure from some unknown source forces the ball into expansion. He explained that he was going to make an artificial drainage channel in the eyeball. Glaucoma can kill the nerves and also cause cataracts.

A great many of the doctor's patients are from out of Monroe, but these few were located. They were asked to simply tell about their condition before and after.

Mrs. C. G. Murphy, 1811 Trenton street, West Monroe, 67, operated on five times in 1931 in New Orleans, blind for 20 years: There was only a tiny bit of sight in one of my eyes, the other was already out. In 1931 I couldn't see and I went to New Orleans. A few weeks later I became totally blind. I had read or written nothing for that many years until recently. I had to be led around wherever I went. Now I can read and write and am doing fine. The doctor did wonders for me. I could never express my appreciation for what he has done. I went to him to see if he could fix glasses for me. He said he could fix my eyes. Four hours after the operation I could see the light through the bandage, the movement of the doctor's hands back and forth. I have 90 per cent vision.

Fanny Sillers, Negro, 59, 909 Pine street, Monroe: I had a cataract in my right eye and had lost vision in my left one. I couldn't see my hand in front of me. (She was grey and wore dark green shades and had a scarf around her head.) He gave me encouragement and I did whatever they told me to do. Now I can read and get around fine.

Mrs. Nita Stewart, 58, 3015 Lee avenue, Monroe: For five years I was blind. On the 28th of September he removed a cataract and I read for the first time. For nine years I could only see light and that was about all. The operation was just a few days before my 58th birthday. That was the happiest birthday of my life.

Mrs. Minnie Lewis, 51, 1309 North Fifth street, Monroe: For three weeks there was something wrong with my sight. Everything was foggy—sort of white and I couldn't make out any objects. I had to be led into the office at the hospital. (She suffered from glaucoma.) He made sight good again. I can't say in words how I feel.

The number of patients who come and go through operations in room III are to lengthy to continue here. The four above are merely a few who will perhaps remain forever able to see, forever grateful.

Rebekah Lodge's Election Held

Monroe Rebekah Lodge No. 66 held their regular meeting and election of officers in Woodman hall the past week.

Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held in December. Clyde Pohl will act as Santa Claus at the party, it was announced. It was also announced that the Christmas party in the Odd Fellows home in Crowley will be held December 18.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Mrs. Opal Thompson, noble grand; Mrs. Madelene Hegwood, vice-grand; Mr.. Tempie Hegwood, recording secretary; Mrs. Mildred Batten, financial secretary; Mrs. Edith Karr, treasurer; Mrs. Nancy Neyland, district deputy president; Mrs. Edna Collie, degree captain; Mrs. Tempie Hegwood, drill captain; Mrs. Mattie Edney and Mrs. Annie Krepps, representatives to the Rebekah assembly of Louisiana. Mrs. Beatrice Worley and Mrs. Velma Lou Hibbard, alternates.

There will be a joint installation of officers with Ouachita Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F., on the night of January 6.

EDUCATORS HOLD MEETING

TALLULAH, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—A meeting of parish superintendents of education, supervisors and principals from East Carroll, West Carroll, Madison and Tensas parishes was held at the Tallulah High School on Thursday in the interest of the proposed plan for state certification of administrative supervisory and teaching personnel. Modern War Weapons Sees Improvement

(AP Newsfeatures)

If the world ever sees another Pearl Harbor, the results may dwarf those of the "day that will live in infamy" eight years ago. World War II stimulated development of methods and materials for war. That development is still going on. Here are two big examples:

PLANES—The B-17 Flying Fortress, left, was tops in the bomber field in 1941. It proved itself in the tough campaigns in Europe, Asia and the Pacific. But there have been many bomber developments since. Just now the B-36, right, is top bomber of the U. S.

BOMBS—This type of blockbuster was just coming into general use in 1941. It has since been superceded by—

A-BOMB—This is what now jitters the world.

RALLY TO FOLLOW STATE'S CLASSES

Several Other Changes From Past Tournaments Also Are Voted

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Effective with the 1950 spring semester, state classification divisions will be followed in all the high school literary and major athletic rally events held at Louisiana Tech, Coach Joe Aillet, general secretary of the North Louisiana Rally Committee, has announced.

This decision and several other changes from past tournament practices were voted recently when the rally committee met at the college.

Previously, only basketball tournaments have featured separate competition for AA, A, B and C schools.

The committee elected to conduct minor sports on a two-division basis, rating high schools with more than 150 students in Class A and those with 150 students or less in Class B.

A new feature added to rally activities by the committee was a public speaking contest, which is to be held at the time of the tennis and volleyball tournaments.

It was voted also that third-term algebra and commercial geography would be eliminated from the north Louisiana rally schedules.

The Association Basketball Rally is set for February 24 and 25 at Louisiana Tech, Coach Aillet said.

Members of the rally committee include:

M. J. Haynes, Lisbon, president; M. D. Hall, Bernice, vice-president; Joe Aillet, secretary; W. G. Bailey, Jonesboro-Hodge; E. R. Hester, Arcadia; R. W. Knight, McDade; H. E. Townsend, Ruston; H. G. Robinson, Homer; Glen Crawford, Plain Dealing; and F. G. Phillips, Plain Dealing, who serves as an honorary member of the group.

'Don't Let Santa Be Fireman', Urges Fire Chief H. L. Hales

"Don't let Santa be a fireman."

Keep Christmas merry by preventing fire in your home.

Follow these safety rules:

1. Never use candles to decorate Christmas trees. Use electric lights.

2. See that lighting sets and cords are in good condition. Look for U. L. label on lighting sets.

3. Never use cotton or other flammable decorations on or around tree.

4. Place tree in coolest part of room; never near fireplace or heaters.

Remember, Christmas trees are flammable!

"Now is the time to make certain that your Christmas holidays are not marred by fires or other accidents resulting from defective Christmas lighting equipment," warns Chief H. L. Hales of the Monroe fire department.

"You need have no fear," Chief Hales said, "of fires being caused by well made Christmas lighting sets, provided they are not too old and are in good condition. Many people do not realize how long their light strings have been in use." A high percentage are 10 to 20 years old, and defects of one sort or another are bound to be present. It is folly to take chances waiting until the night before Christmas. "Get out your lights now," the chief advises, "and inspect them carefully. Lay out each string and go over them looking for the following defects:

1. "Is the attachment plug cracked or broken? Are the parts of the plug held together securely? Pull gently on the wires where they enter the plug to see that the connections are not broken.

2. "Bend the wire at close intervals to see if the insulation has hardened and is in danger of breaking off. Frayed insulation indicates a condition that can be dangerous. If the bare metal wires are exposed at any point, short circuiting may occur which are sure fire hazards, and the string should be thrown away.

3. "Inspect each lamp socket for cracks or loose parts. If the inner metal screw shell is loose in the insulated outer shell, the string should be discarded. Pull gently on the wires entering each socket to be sure they are secure.

4. "Keeping the string away from any flammable material, screw lamps in firmly, and plug in the string. Hold each socket firmly and twist the wires slightly to be sure there is no loose connection that will cause a short circuit or spark when the lights are on the tree. If any sparking occurs, the string should not be used under any circumstances."

"If the string is found to be in good condition," says Chief Hales, "it is ready to put on the tree, and there is a recommended way to do that, even. Put the string on the tree (with lamps inserted) before adding any other decorations. This is easier than putting the decorations on first, and eliminates the chance of metal foil getting into lamp sockets. This could cause a short and result in fire."

Chief Hales pointed out with emphasis that house lighting circuits should have proper size fuses of correct current rating, and that, if in doube, the company furnishing power should be consulted. Over-size fuses may result in the wiring getting hot enough to start a fire, and usually just where it cannot be noticed until the fire is well under way. "Be sure to be safe," says the chief.

He also stressed one precautionary measure with respect to lighting strings that are actually discarded. They should be cut up so that children who find them will not be tempted to rescue them and put them back in service. "Cut off the sockets," he suggests, "so that it will be impossible for anyone to make use of it."

These are sound words of advice coming from one who knows the potential hazards that do exist where proper precautions are not followed. "I hope every person in this city has a very merry Christmas," the chief said, "but more than that, I hope they have a safe one so they will be around to enjoy many more."

Razing Gin For New Levee Site

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—The Three Rivers cotton gin on the bank of Black river at Jonesville is being torn down to make way for one of the last dirt stretches of the new ring levee.

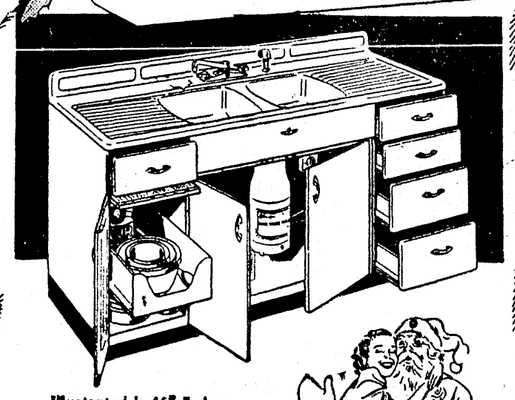

The gin is owned by Red River Cotton Oil Company. According to Henry Taliaferro, gin manager, a new gin will be built on a nearby site but plans have not yet been completed.

The present location of Three Rivers gin has been a gin site for many years, since the days when steamboats plied the river and took Catahoula cotton to markets in New Orleans. The gin is one of five in Catahoula parish.

Make sure that your toddler is comfortable when he is eating. Are his chair and table the right height for him? Does he have eating utensils that are the right size for him to manage? A small squat glass for milk or orange juice is better for a preschooler than a heavy tall glass.

RALLY TO FOLLOW STATE'S CLASSES

Several Other Changes From Past Tournaments Also Are Voted

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Effective with the 1950 spring semester, state classification divisions will be followed in all the high school literary and major athletic rally events held at Louisiana Tech, Coach Joe Aillet, general secretary of the North Louisiana Rally Committee, has announced.

This decision and several other changes from past tournament practices were voted recently when the rally committee met at the college.

Previously, only basketball tournaments have featured separate competition for AA, A, B and C schools.

The committee elected to conduct minor sports on a two-division basis, rating high schools with more than 150 students in Class A and those with 150 students or less in Class B.

A new feature added to rally activities by the committee was a public speaking contest, which is to be held at the time of the tennis and volleyball tournaments.

It was voted also that third-term algebra and commercial geography would be eliminated from the north Louisiana rally schedules.

The Association Basketball Rally is set for February 24 and 25 at Louisiana Tech, Coach Aillet said.

Members of the rally committee include:

M. J. Haynes, Lisbon, president; M. D. Hall, Bernice, vice-president; Joe Aillet, secretary; W. G. Bailey, Jonesboro-Hodge; E. R. Hester, Arcadia; R. W. Knight, McDade; H. E. Townsend, Ruston; H. G. Robinson, Homer; Glen Crawford, Plain Dealing; and F. G. Phillips, Plain Dealing, who serves as an honorary member of the group.

'Don't Let Santa Be Fireman', Urges Fire Chief H. L. Hales

"Don't let Santa be a fireman."

Keep Christmas merry by preventing fire in your home.

Follow these safety rules:

1. Never use candles to decorate Christmas trees. Use electric lights.

2. See that lighting sets and cords are in good condition. Look for U. L. label on lighting sets.

3. Never use cotton or other flammable decorations on or around tree.

4. Place tree in coolest part of room; never near fireplace or heaters.

Remember, Christmas trees are flammable!

"Now is the time to make certain that your Christmas holidays are not marred by fires or other accidents resulting from defective Christmas lighting equipment," warns Chief H. L. Hales of the Monroe fire department.

"You need have no fear," Chief Hales said, "of fires being caused by well made Christmas lighting sets, provided they are not too old and are in good condition. Many people do not realize how long their light strings have been in use." A high percentage are 10 to 20 years old, and defects of one sort or another are bound to be present. It is folly to take chances waiting until the night before Christmas. "Get out your lights now," the chief advises, "and inspect them carefully. Lay out each string and go over them looking for the following defects:

1. "Is the attachment plug cracked or broken? Are the parts of the plug held together securely? Pull gently on the wires where they enter the plug to see that the connections are not broken.

2. "Bend the wire at close intervals to see if the insulation has hardened and is in danger of breaking off. Frayed insulation indicates a condition that can be dangerous. If the bare metal wires are exposed at any point, short circuiting may occur which are sure fire hazards, and the string should be thrown away.

3. "Inspect each lamp socket for cracks or loose parts. If the inner metal screw shell is loose in the insulated outer shell, the string should be discarded. Pull gently on the wires entering each socket to be sure they are secure.

4. "Keeping the string away from any flammable material, screw lamps in firmly, and plug in the string. Hold each socket firmly and twist the wires slightly to be sure there is no loose connection that will cause a short circuit or spark when the lights are on the tree. If any sparking occurs, the string should not be used under any circumstances."

"If the string is found to be in good condition," says Chief Hales, "it is ready to put on the tree, and there is a recommended way to do that, even. Put the string on the tree (with lamps inserted) before adding any other decorations. This is easier than putting the decorations on first, and eliminates the chance of metal foil getting into lamp sockets. This could cause a short and result in fire."

Chief Hales pointed out with emphasis that house lighting circuits should have proper size fuses of correct current rating, and that, if in doube, the company furnishing power should be consulted. Over-size fuses may result in the wiring getting hot enough to start a fire, and usually just where it cannot be noticed until the fire is well under way. "Be sure to be safe," says the chief.

He also stressed one precautionary measure with respect to lighting strings that are actually discarded. They should be cut up so that children who find them will not be tempted to rescue them and put them back in service. "Cut off the sockets," he suggests, "so that it will be impossible for anyone to make use of it."

These are sound words of advice coming from one who knows the potential hazards that do exist where proper precautions are not followed. "I hope every person in this city has a very merry Christmas," the chief said, "but more than that, I hope they have a safe one so they will be around to enjoy many more."

CARLOS FALLON TO SPEAK HERE

Retired South American Naval Commander To Address Town Hall

Members of the Monroe Town Hall will have the unique experience of hearing a retired navy commander of a foreign country and a former captain of the United States air force, all in one, in the personage of Carlos Fallon, the evening of December 12. H. G. Bailey, Jr., president of Town Hall, said that the affair will be held at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

After attaining a top rank in the Colombian navy, South America, Fallon retired in 1941 and settled in the United States for the purpose of educating his children. There were no political implications in his retirement for his relations with his native country have always been entirely friendly.

Because of the interest Americans have for their Latin-American neighbors and the ability of Fallon to interpret the psychology of Latin-Americans, he became popular as a lecturer. When other speaker were making capital of sensational headlines which inferred that South American countries would succumb to nazism, Fallon was proving that the southern nations would overcome the temptations of the enemy. It was evident then as it is now that a man of his background could penetrate the causes where other observers judged only from the outward appearances.

After World War II, the former officer entered the field of South American Export Trade. He completed a four-months trip in the southern continent in 1947, when he investigated markets and general conditions. His first-hand discoveries comprise much of his lecture material.

Two Ouachita Road Projects Finished

Two highway projects for Ouachita parish were completed this week, according to R. B. Richardson, director of state highways.

The projects consisted of a bituminous surfacing treatment of 1.1 miles of the Sicard-Start highway and widening concrete bridges on the Chatham-Monroe route.

Work on the projects was done by maintenance forces.

DANCE DIRECTOR OF STATE NAMED

Miss Anne Ingram, Of Tech, To Have Charge Of Line In Colleges, High Schools

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Miss Anne Ingram, instructor in the physical education department at Louisiana Tech, has been appointed dance director of Louisiana for colleges and high schools throughout the state, it has been announced.

Miss Ingram was appointed by Miss Cora A. Miller, dance chairman of the southern district of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

As state director, Miss Ingram will undertake to encourage and direct more and better work in the field of modern dance in the colleges and secondary schools. A preliminary survey is scheduled soon to determine the extent of the dance program in the field of physical education in this state. The information received will be compiled in the form of a news letter which will be distributed in the spring.

Miss Ingram has also made tentative plans for a dance day on the campus of Louisiana Tech with schools from this section of the state participating in the program. High school groups will be invited to show the progress that has been made in this field of instruction and to see demonstrations of technique and composition by the Louisiana Tech group.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina and the University of Georgia, Miss Ingram joined the Louisiana Tech faculty this semester.

Christmas To Be Celebrated

To be sure that the true spirit and meaning of Christmas will prevail, pupils of the Barkdull Faulk School will present their annual Christmas program Thursday, December 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the monthly P.-T. A. meeting.

The traditional Bible stories of the birth of Jesus will be enacted by the students, posing as the characters in each story. The school chorus will be heard in carols, directed by Miss Geneve Castles, accompanies by Mrs. Ruth Dufresne.

The following parts will be portrayed by the children as named:

Madonna, Alice Jean Beacham; Joseph, John Colvin; Young Shepherd, Harvey Holdiness; Old Shepherd, Arnold Rowell; Second Shephard, Rudolph Murphy; First Wise Man, Jimmy McMullen; Second Wise Man, Tom Causey; Third Wise Man, Larry Stephens.

Scripture will be read by Margaret Varnado.

FARM MEETINGS TO BE CONDUCTED

Detailed Explanation Of Marketing Quotas Will Be Given

WINNSBORO, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Farm meetings will be held in Franklin parish Monday through Wednesday, to explain in detail the provisions of the cotton marketing quotas.

According to G. A. Luno, parish farm agent, pasture development and problems on cotton production and other row crops will also be discussed. Edward F. LaForge, P. M. A. administrator, will attend the meetings to give cotton growers a better understanding of what they are voting for.

The meetings will be held at: Wisner School, December 12, 10 a. m.; Gilbert School, December 12, 2 p. m.; Fort Necessity School, December 12, 7 p. m.; P. M. A. office, Winnsboro, December 13, 10 a. m.; Baskin School, December 13, 2 p. m.; Ogden School, December 13, 7 p. m.; Central School, December 14, 2 p. m... and Crowville School, December 14, 7 p. m.

The national marketing quota referendum will be held Thursday. All cotton growers are eligible to vote in this referendum.

Growers are classified as farmers who produced cotton last year as an owner, sharecropper or tenant. A two-thirds majority by cotton farmers throughout the United States is necessary to approve the cotton quota program for the coming year.

If the quota is approved it will mean that the cotton acreage in Franklin parish will be reduced from 75,000 acres to about 56,000 acres. This will be a reduction of approximately 19,000 acres.

Voting will take place in Franklin parish at the following places: Ward 1, Wisner town hall; ward 2, Gilbert town hall; ward 3, Lone Pine Community center; ward 4, Crowville American Legion hall; ward 5, Central High School; ward 6, L. B. Mock's store at Baskin; ward 7, P. M. A. office, Winnsboro; ward 8, W. E. Williams' store at Liddiville; ward 9, Fort Necessity High School.

SEEK RIVER CUT-OFF

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—The Catahoula parish police jury and the Jonesville town council at meetings this week passed resolutions asking for Black river cut-offs at Smithland and Calhoun bends below Jonesville. Similar resolutions have already been passed by the Concordia police jury and the Tensas basin levee board.

Retired South American Naval Commander To Address Town Hall

Members of the Monroe Town Hall will have the unique experience of hearing a retired navy commander of a foreign country and a former captain of the United States air force, all in one, in the personage of Carlos Fallon, the evening of December 12. H. G. Bailey, Jr., president of Town Hall, said that the affair will be held at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

After attaining a top rank in the Colombian navy, South America, Fallon retired in 1941 and settled in the United States for the purpose of educating his children. There were no political implications in his retirement for his relations with his native country have always been entirely friendly.

Because of the interest Americans have for their Latin-American neighbors and the ability of Fallon to interpret the psychology of Latin-Americans, he became popular as a lecturer. When other speaker were making capital of sensational headlines which inferred that South American countries would succumb to nazism, Fallon was proving that the southern nations would overcome the temptations of the enemy. It was evident then as it is now that a man of his background could penetrate the causes where other observers judged only from the outward appearances.

After World War II, the former officer entered the field of South American Export Trade. He completed a four-months trip in the southern continent in 1947, when he investigated markets and general conditions. His first-hand discoveries comprise much of his lecture material.

Two Ouachita Road Projects Finished

Two highway projects for Ouachita parish were completed this week, according to R. B. Richardson, director of state highways.

The projects consisted of a bituminous surfacing treatment of 1.1 miles of the Sicard-Start highway and widening concrete bridges on the Chatham-Monroe route.

Work on the projects was done by maintenance forces.

DANCE DIRECTOR OF STATE NAMED

Miss Anne Ingram, Of Tech, To Have Charge Of Line In Colleges, High Schools

RUSTON, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Miss Anne Ingram, instructor in the physical education department at Louisiana Tech, has been appointed dance director of Louisiana for colleges and high schools throughout the state, it has been announced.

Miss Ingram was appointed by Miss Cora A. Miller, dance chairman of the southern district of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

As state director, Miss Ingram will undertake to encourage and direct more and better work in the field of modern dance in the colleges and secondary schools. A preliminary survey is scheduled soon to determine the extent of the dance program in the field of physical education in this state. The information received will be compiled in the form of a news letter which will be distributed in the spring.

Miss Ingram has also made tentative plans for a dance day on the campus of Louisiana Tech with schools from this section of the state participating in the program. High school groups will be invited to show the progress that has been made in this field of instruction and to see demonstrations of technique and composition by the Louisiana Tech group.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina and the University of Georgia, Miss Ingram joined the Louisiana Tech faculty this semester.

Christmas To Be Celebrated

To be sure that the true spirit and meaning of Christmas will prevail, pupils of the Barkdull Faulk School will present their annual Christmas program Thursday, December 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the monthly P.-T. A. meeting.

The traditional Bible stories of the birth of Jesus will be enacted by the students, posing as the characters in each story. The school chorus will be heard in carols, directed by Miss Geneve Castles, accompanies by Mrs. Ruth Dufresne.

The following parts will be portrayed by the children as named: Madonna, Alice Jean Beacham; Joseph, John Colvin; Young Shepherd, Harvey Holdiness; Old Shepherd, Arnold Rowell; Second Shephard, Rudolph Murphy; First Wise Man, Jimmy McMullen; Second Wise Man, Tom Causey; Third Wise Man, Larry Stephens.

Scripture will be read by Margaret Varnado.

FARM MEETINGS TO BE CONDUCTED

Detailed Explanation Of Marketing Quotas Will Be Given

WINNSBORO, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Farm meetings will be held in Franklin parish Monday through Wednesday, to explain in detail the provisions of the cotton marketing quotas.

According to G. A. Luno, parish farm agent, pasture development and problems on cotton production and other row crops will also be discussed. Edward F. LaForge, P. M. A. administrator, will attend the meetings to give cotton growers a better understanding of what they are voting for.

The meetings will be held at: Wisner School, December 12, 10 a. m.; Gilbert School, December 12, 2 p. m.; Fort Necessity School, December 12, 7 p. m.; P. M. A. office, Winnsboro, December 13, 10 a. m.; Baskin School, December 13, 2 p. m.; Ogden School, December 13, 7 p. m.; Central School, December 14, 2 p. m... and Crowville School, December 14, 7 p. m.

The national marketing quota referendum will be held Thursday. All cotton growers are eligible to vote in this referendum.

Growers are classified as farmers who produced cotton last year as an owner, sharecropper or tenant. A two-thirds majority by cotton farmers throughout the United States is necessary to approve the cotton quota program for the coming year.

If the quota is approved it will mean that the cotton acreage in Franklin parish will be reduced from 75,000 acres to about 56,000 acres. This will be a reduction of approximately 19,000 acres.

Voting will take place in Franklin parish at the following places: Ward 1, Wisner town hall; ward 2, Gilbert town hall; ward 3, Lone Pine Community center; ward 4, Crowville American Legion hall; ward 5, Central High School; ward 6, L. B. Mock's store at Baskin; ward 7, P. M. A. office, Winnsboro; ward 8, W. E. Williams' store at Liddiville; ward 9, Fort Necessity High School.

SEEK RIVER CUT-OFF

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—The Catahoula parish police jury and the Jonesville town council at meetings this week passed resolutions asking for Black river cut-offs at Smithland and Calhoun bends below Jonesville. Similar resolutions have already been passed by the Concordia police jury and the Tensas basin levee board.

Marriage Licenses

Issac L. Luffey, 36, and Etta Irene Duke, 33, both of Monroe.

Architect Land To Talk Projects

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—H. H. Land, of Monroe, architect for the Catahoula parish school board, will visit Catahoula next week to confer on several construction projects.

Included will be an auditorium, cafeteria and meat curing plant for Harrisonburg and a gymnasium at Central School in the Larto lake area. No definite plans have been made yet for any of the structures, according to Aubrey Brooks, school superintendent.

Plans for the food preservation center at Harrisonburg have been completed and the school board is now advertising for bids on building materials and supplies.

ICE BOX SOLEN

Monroe police said Saturday an ice box valued at $94 had been reported stolen from the Amvet's boat docked near the old traffic bridge. Gilbert Lee, of 500 Winnsboro road, reported the theft and asserted that the box was stolen between 7 p.m. on December 8 and 4 p.m. December 9.

Central America Theme Of Address

James V. Reid, evangelist-missionary in Central American countries, will occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist Church here Sunday at 7:30 p. m. and will present a lecture with motion pictures on his 13th missionary journey.

He has been here before and was accorded a hearty reception. Now he will have many more experiences to relate as he is on the eve of his fourteenth trip through Latin-America, sailing near the end of this month from New Orleans to Central America.

Catahoula Out To Get Mad Dogs

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—An emergency anti-rabies campaign got underway this week in the Sicily Island area after a "mad" dog bit two women and several other dogs.

Sheriff Fred Fairbanks has notified dog-owners to "tie up" their animals. Those found roaming the community are subject to being killed, he said.

Large-scale vaccinations got underway Thursday by Dr. J. E. Blunschi, veterinarian of Ferriday.

On Monday of last week, Mrs. Johnny Daniels of Sicily Island was bitten by the dog known to have been rabid and two days later a colored cook was bitten by the same dog. It was later found dead and a state department of health examination of its head proved it rabid.

Liquor Elections Set For January

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Prohibition elections for wards 2 and 2 of Catahoula parish have been called by the police jury for Tuesday, January 24.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Lee Bayou for ward 1 voters and at Sicily Island for ward 2 voters.

The prohibition election recently became confused with an effort to incorporate Sicily Island and many members of the prohibition faction protested that the petition for incorporation should be held up until after the "whiskey election."

It is generally agreed that the prohibitionists will probably carry the election in both wards.

Architect Land To Talk Projects

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—H. H. Land, of Monroe, architect for the Catahoula parish school board, will visit Catahoula next week to confer on several construction projects.

Included will be an auditorium, cafeteria and meat curing plant for Harrisonburg and a gymnasium at Central School in the Larto lake area. No definite plans have been made yet for any of the structures, according to Aubrey Brooks, school superintendent.

Plans for the food preservation center at Harrisonburg have been completed and the school board is now advertising for bids on building materials and supplies.

ICE BOX SOLEN

Monroe police said Saturday an ice box valued at $94 had been reported stolen from the Amvet's boat docked near the old traffic bridge. Gilbert Lee, of 500 Winnsboro road, reported the theft and asserted that the box was stolen between 7 p.m. on December 8 and 4 p.m. December 9.

Central America Theme Of Address

James V. Reid, evangelist-missionary in Central American countries, will occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist Church here Sunday at 7:30 p. m. and will present a lecture with motion pictures on his 13th missionary journey.

He has been here before and was accorded a hearty reception. Now he will have many more experiences to relate as he is on the eve of his fourteenth trip through Latin-America, sailing near the end of this month from New Orleans to Central America.

Catahoula Out To Get Mad Dogs

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—An emergency anti-rabies campaign got underway this week in the Sicily Island area after a "mad" dog bit two women and several other dogs.

Sheriff Fred Fairbanks has notified dog-owners to "tie up" their animals. Those found roaming the community are subject to being killed, he said.

Large-scale vaccinations got underway Thursday by Dr. J. E. Blunschi, veterinarian of Ferriday.

On Monday of last week, Mrs. Johnny Daniels of Sicily Island was bitten by the dog known to have been rabid and two days later a colored cook was bitten by the same dog. It was later found dead and a state department of health examination of its head proved it rabid.

Liquor Elections Set For January

JONESVILLE, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Prohibition elections for wards 2 and 2 of Catahoula parish have been called by the police jury for Tuesday, January 24.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Lee Bayou for ward 1 voters and at Sicily Island for ward 2 voters.

The prohibition election recently became confused with an effort to incorporate Sicily Island and many members of the prohibition faction protested that the petition for incorporation should be held up until after the "whiskey election."

It is generally agreed that the prohibitionists will probably carry the election in both wards.

Forgotten Hero Of Old South Is Paid Belated Tribute

By Harnett T. Kane

After nearly 70 years, New Orleans is beginning to rediscover a debt to an all-but-forgotten man, a hero of peace as well as war.

He is Colonel F. R. Southmayd, who won fame in the Confederate army, then went on to greater achievement in the years after the war—and then, apparently because he was a bit ahead of his times, disappeared from the city's view.

Many Orleanians remember the official beginning of the New Orleans chapter of the American Red Cross organized in 1916. But now a few "old-timers" recall that the chapter was founded only a year after Clara Barton organized the national group in Washington. The time was 1882, the leading figure, Colonel F. R. Southmayd. He enlisted in the Confederate army as a private; he rose to be a colonel and lost his right arm in the Battle of Shiloh.

Then, coming back to New Orleans after the war, Colonel Southmayd went to work to cope with the burden of grief and suffering that he found in the south. He established the only Red Cross branch in the south; for five years he directed it, as it was called upon almost annually to handle disasters that piled on the lowered resistance of the defeated states.

The one-armed colonel had shared the accomplishments of the old Howard Association, that organization of generous-spirited New Orleanians who had nursed the sick in the hideous yellow fever epidemics. He understood how they had served in the days when whole families were dying in their homes, cemeteries were so clogged that caskets lay in long files at the entranceways.

And now, in these post-war days, Colonel Southmayd put these same interests, these skills to service. In 1882 the Mississippi burst its banks, and as special Red Cross agent for the south, the colonel supervised the disaster service. The year 1883 brought the devastating cyclone. As Clara Barton described it in her memoirs, "cut a swath clear of all standing objects for 30 miles in width and several miles in length, running southeast from the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico."

As a result of Colonel Southmayd's labors, Miss Barton declared, "the Red Cross was hailed as a benediction wherever he passed." New organizations came into existence in his wake; the Red Cross won wider repute.

In 1884 the Mississippi rose again, and the problem brought Miss Barton to Louisiana on the Red Cross ship, Josh V. Throop. The small, stalwart vessel navigated the river at flood time all the way from the Ohio's mouth.

At points where government vessels could not penetrate the debris-choked tributaries of the Mississippi, the Red Cross ship ventured, to distribute relief supplies and other aid. The Red Cross ship pushed even to False river, in the vicinity of New Roads, and left a storehouse full of supplies for the marooned inhabitants of the section. Captain and Mrs. Trudeau, of a family still known in the vicinity, helped in the work. Again Colonel Southmayd and his association had done yeoman labor.

In 1885 Clara Barton for the first time visited New Orleans "without disaster preceding her." After a reunion with the local association, and with the many who had helped her during the floods, she took over the foreign exhibition of the New Orleans International Exposition that year. And again Colonel Southmayd received a tribute for his work.

Then, in 1888 the Red Cross was called on again. A grim yellow-fever epidemic had broken out in Florida. That area was then under New Orleans chapter guidance. Miss Barton rushed orders to the colonel to leave at once with a body of trained nurses who had been exposed to the fever.

The colonel recruited 30 nurses. Ever a thorough man, he took men and women, white and Negro—the only criterion was experience. They left that night for Jacksonville. But on the way they heard of a small town, MacClenny, that had been struck with fever. An armed quarantine had been placed around it; men had orders to shoot down anyone who tried to leave.

The colonel listened as the situation was outlined to him. Trains were not to stop or even to slow down, near the beleaguered town. Supplies had been completely cut off. The colonel nodded briskly, then called for first volunteers.

Ten nurses responded as one. An excuse was made to slow the train outside the town, and they scrambled off to walk to MacClenny. For more than two months they remained in the plague area, sealed off from the world, until the epidemic had been halted. Then they came back to New Orleans. Resentments had arisen. Colonel Southmayd had been too forthright; he had "made enemies." His nurses were criticized; women weren't supposed to venture out so "boldly." Though Miss Barton's sympathies were apparently with him, he was called to Washington, "to keep peace." He never returned to New Orleans again. From then until 1916 the New Orleans Red Cross was only a skeleton organization, with a state board of volunteer directors.

The colonel's work was largely forgotten. Then in December, 1916, the New Orleans chapter of the American Red Cross was started on a new basis. In her memoirs Clara Barton gives a hint of the difficulty. She calls Southmayd a "man of quick impulse and intense feelings . . . warm with the love of humanity and the sense of justice," and she adds that he "resented the injustice that he felt . . . his chosen . . . were receiving, and naturally became involved in an unfortunate altercation with his superiors."

The chapter is making further inquiries into the colonel's history, and considering means of honoring him. After 70 years, it thinks it has something of an obligation to him.

TALLULAH, La., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Dr. Ernest D. Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Tallulah Parent-Teachers Association held in the high school auditorium Thursday night. He delivered an inspiring address on "Character Education." Musical numbers were rendered by members of the high school Glee Club under the direction of Miss Rowena Taliaferro.

Mrs. Harold Smith's first grade room received the prize for the highest percentage of parents present.

PFC. LAPIETRA RITES MONDAY

Requiem Mass To Be Held In St. Matthew's Monday At 9 A. M.

The body of Pfc. Anthony LaPietra will arrive in Monroe Sunday morning.

There will be a requiem mass at St. Matthew's Catholic Church at 9 a. m. Monday morning with Msgr. J. C. Marsh officiating. Burial will be in St. Matthew's Cemetery with the Rodney J. Hobbs Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars furnishing the military rites at the grave. All members of the post are requested to meet at the post home at 9 a. m. Monday morning.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe LaPietra of Monroe; three brothers and five sisters, Rocco LaPietra of Kansas City, Jimmie LaPietra and Joe LaPietra, Jr., both of Monroe; Mrs. R. B. Hair, Mrs. C. C. Bruno, Mrs. Mary Ballance, Miss Josephine LaPietra and Miss Rose Marie LaPietra, all of Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Nick DeCorte, Jack Galien, Sam LaDart, J. D. LaDart, Joe Battaglia and Jack Battaglia. Honorary pallbearers will be all friends of the family.

Pfc. LaPietra attended Neville High School. He enlisted on April 3, 1942. He received his training in Battery F602CAAA at Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., and also in Co. F 398th Inf. at Fort Bragg, N. C. He had been overseas five months when he met his death in action on January 9, 1945. The Purple Heart and a citation were awarded to him.

Girls' Glee Club To Give Program

The Girls' Glee Club from the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home will be presented at College Place Baptist Church tonight at 7:30 p.m.

A fine program of Christmas music will be presented and the public is cordially invited to attend this service.

Rail Motor Car And Auto Crash

A Monroe Negro, Henry Ellis Bynum, 27, of 2405 Breard street, narrowly escaped injury when an A. and L. M. motor car collided with his automobile shortly after 7 a.m. Saturday at the North Twenty-Fourth street crossing.

Monroe police investigating the accident said, Bynum was traveling east on North Twenty-Fourth street and the motor car operated by Richard Robinson, 55, Negro, was headed south.

Both escaped injuries, officers said.

You can tend furnace with one finger!
With a
TEMCO Gas FLOOR FURNACE
10 SECONDS IS ALL IT TAKES
Just start your TEMCO floor furnace in the fall, then forget about it until warm weather next Spring. Ten seconds is all it takes to tend furnace all winter long!
Completely Automatic
No more fires to build, no more ashes to carry out. Just set the thermostat and forget about it.
Lifetime Porcelain Enamel Heat Chamber
Heat chamber finished in "Lifetime" Porcelain Enamel of the type developed by the National Bureau of Standards for use on aircraft engine exhausts. Won't burn out, won't rust, stays new-looking.
New Shallow Construction
The new Temco shallow construction (only 25½" total depth) means easier, cheaper, installation. No basement is required with a Temco and the new shallow model, in most cases, eliminates the necessity of costly excavation.
For Use Anywhere
Temco Floor Furnaces operate equally well on natural, manufactured, Butane or Propane gas. That means you can enjoy automatic gas heat WHEREVER you live.

It's ALL BUICK—

and only $1961

ON some cars, it might not be such standout news.

But when you read the price tags on this smart and sizable Buick SPECIAL of 1950—

When you listen to the throaty baritone of the big Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine that fills its bonnet—

When you feel its lift and surge on the road, sample the soft smoothness that's yours with coil springs on all four wheels (and wide Safety-Ride rims as well)—

When you see how neatly this beauty slips into pocket-size parking places, avoids "locked-horn" tangles, and threads its way through traffic—

When you take in its roominess, see its wide outlook, picture yourself traveling in the sleek, taper-fender styling that calls the turn on the smartest fashions for 1950—

When you hear some of the miles-per-gallon figures happy owners of this beauty are reporting—

Man alive, this stands out as a bargain that says "Grab me quick!"

Actually, dealers have trouble keeping this particular model of the 1950 SPECIAL on hand. Quick action may be able to nail one for you — or a six-passenger model in 2-door or 4-door body-type.

Why not see your dealer now—and start the New Year as a Buick owner at a cost that's less than for some sixes?

This stunning, fresh-lined 3-passenger 1950 SPECIAL Coupe delivers as shown for $1961.00

State and local taxes extra. Prices subject to change without notice. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities due to shipping charges.

DYNAFLOW PRICE REDUCED $40.00

All 1950 Buick SPECIALS are available with Dynaflow Drive as optional equipment, at a price now $40.00 lower. This price reduction also applies on SUPER models delivered after December 1, 1949.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

GEORGE WUNDER

GIG, DARLING! WHAT'S HAPPENING? I HEAR SHOTS AND YELLS—SOUNDS LIKE A SMALL WAR.

NO SENSE IN LYING TO YOU, DARLING... THE PEOPLE WHO HELD YOU POSTED A BOUNTY FOR THE RETURN OF ESCAPED POLITICAL PRISONERS... A GANG OF LOCAL HILL-BANDITS IS TRYING TO COLLECT.

A PARTY OF THEM ATTACKED THE INN SUDDENLY, IN THE DARK. SMASHED THE GATE IN WITH GRENADES AND GOT INSIDE BEFORE THE DRAGON LADY'S MEN COULD RALLY. THE MAIN FORCE WILL FOLLOW THEM IN... OH, GARY! I'M AFRAID...

MEANWHILE

TERRY, YOU SPLENDID, RECKLESS FOOL! WHO ELSE WOULD HAVE THOUGHT TO RUN MY CAR INTO THE GATEWAY—AND SET IT AFIRE.

YOU RIFLEMEN! GIVE HIM COVERING FIRE!

ATTA GIRL, D. L.! THESE JOCKOES WERE BREATHING DOWN MY NECK.

THE ASSAULT GROUP, SUDDENLY ISOLATED IN THE COURTYARD, MILLS ABOUT IN CONFUSION.

WHILE THE DRAGON LADY'S MEN, HEARTENED BY THE QUICK CHANGE OF ADVANTAGE, SNIPE EXPERTLY FROM WALLS AND BUILDINGS.

OUTSIDE, THE BANDITS' MAIN FORCE, UNABLE TO RUSH THE FLAMING ENTRANCE AND HARASSED BY SNIPING FIRE FROM A SMALL GROUP OF DEFENDERS ON THE WALL, LOSES HEART.

THE SOUNDS FROM WITHIN SLACKEN, MASTER.

ORDER THE RETREAT.

AND A SHORT TIME LATER... 12-11

HERE, YOU MEN! SET UP YOUR WEAPON. WE SEE WHO WINS THE FINAL DICE CAST.

AND WHERE YOU DON'T HAVE TO WASH YOUR HANDS BEFORE YOU EAT DINNER.

PERHAPS, ALICE, IF YOU'D HAVE YOUR CABIN PRESSURIZED YOU WOULDN'T GET SO OUT OF BREATH!

WE TRIED TO TELL YOU, SLUG, BUT WE COULDN'T SAY ANYTHING 'CAUSE THEY'D START SHOOTING.

THAT'S THE GANG THEY'RE LOOKING FOR ALL OVER-AND THERE'S A MILLION DOLLARS REWARD FOR 'EM!

AND THEY JUST STUCK UP THE BANK DOWN AT THE CORNER!

AND YOU LET 'EM GO!

NOW WE'VE GOT TO RUN AWAY-IT ITHN'T THAFE TO THTAY HERE.

AND THAT WAS A STOLEN CAR THEY WERE DRIVING!

AND WE TRIED TO TELL YOU.

'CAUSE IT WAS YOUR CAR!

YEH! YOU THINK ANYBODY'S NICE THAT PATS YOU ON THE HEAD.

HE SEEMED LIKE SUCH A NICE MAN.

WHATTA YA MEAN I'M GETTIN' DUMBER AND DUMBER? I RUN A NICKEL UP TO THIRTY CENTS MATCHIN' PENNIES TODAY WHATTA YA MEAN I'M DUMB?

I MEAN IN SCHOOL.

WELL, THAT WAS IN SCHOOL!

PROF. SMART-YOU'RE JUST THE MAN I'M LOOKING FOR---- KAYO IS SIMPLY CRAZY ABOUT GAMBLING AND I DON'T KNOW HOW WE'RE GOING TO BREAK HIM OF IT.

HE WANTS TO BET ON EVERY-THING.

I HAVE ALWAYS PRIDED MYSELF ON MY INFLUENCE WITH THE YOUNG LET ME HAVE A HEART TO HEART TALK WITH THE LAD.

LOOK, PROFESSOR. I BETCHA 30¢ YOU CAN'T JUMP FROM THERE TO THERE IN YER SOCK FEET.

PSST! PROFESSOR STEP IN HERE A MINUTE, PLEASE.

ME BET HIM? WHY, MRS. MULLINS.

SURE YOU CAN'T LOSE. I COULD JUMP THAT FAR MYSELF AND WHEN HE LOSES HIS 30¢ IT'LL LEARN HIM A LESSON NOT TO GAMBLE ANY MORE.

KAYO, I AM GOING TO TAKE YOUR BET.

SWELL, NOW REMEMBER I SAID "IN YER SOCK FEET."

12-11

HA! HA!

YOU WIN! HERE'S YER THIRTY CENTS.

I DON'T LIKE TO TAKE THIS, KAYO, BUT I AM, JUST TO TEACH YOU GAMBLING IS ALL WRONG. NOW SIT DOWN- I WANT TO TALK TO YOU.

ALL RIGHT- I'LL BE BACK IN A FEW MINUTES.

WAIT! YOU'VE GOT MY SHOES.

I KNOW IT, BUT I BET BENNY BUBBLEGUM SIXTY CENTS YOU HAD A HOLE IN YER SOCKS AND I DON'T WANT YOU TO LEAVE TILL I SHOW HIM AND COLLECT.

FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY and DON MOORE ®

"NOW UNFREEZE FLASH AS YOU PROMISED", DALE DEMANDS. POLON MOCKS: "NOT TILL YOU'RE MY BRIDE. YOU WILL HAVE TO TRUST ME AND TAKE YOUR CHANCES."

DALE SOBS. "I'VE BETRAYED FLASH AND MONGO'S CITIZENS FOR NOTHING. I KNOW POLON WON'T LET FLASH LIVE." ZARKOV PLEDGES GRIMLY: "HE WON'T GET AWAY WITH IT."

"OH, YES, I CAN," DR. RANTA BOASTS. AND AS FLASH STIRS UNDER RANTA'S HEAT RAYS, ZARKOV GRABS THE GUARD'S ICE-GAS GUN, GROWLING: "TRY YOUR OWN MEDICINE, DOCTOR!"

THOUGH COLD AND STIFFENED, FLASH IS MORE THAN A MATCH FOR THE STARTLED GUARD.

"WE'LL LEAVE DR. RANTA FROZEN," FLASH SAYS. "IN ONE OF HIS LABORATORY OUTFITS, I'LL HAVE A CHANCE TO GET CLOSE TO POLON. HE'LL MARRY DEATH INSTEAD OF DALE!"
